INTRODUCTION

[1] The Debtors have filed proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act ("CCAA").¹ They owe substantial liabilities under two pension plans, including special payments, catch-up special payments and wind-up deficiencies. The Monitor filed a motion for directions with respect to the priority of the various components of the pension claims and the applicability and scope of the deemed trusts created under the relevant pension legislation.

CONTEXT

[2] On May 19, 2015, the Petitioners Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc. and the Mises-en-cause Wabush Mines (a joint venture of Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources), Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited (together the "Wabush CCAA Parties") filed a motion for the issuance of an initial order under the CCAA which was granted the following day by the court.

[3] Prior to the filing of the CCAA motion, Wabush Mines operated (1) the iron ore mine and processing facility located near the Town of Wabush and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador and (2) the Pointe-Noire port facilities and pellet production facility in Sept-Îles, Québec. Arnaud Railway and Wabush Lake Railway are both federally regulated railways that transported iron ore concentrate from the Wabush mine to the Pointe-Noire port. The operations had been discontinued and the employees terminated or laid off prior to the filing of the CCAA motion.

[4] The Wabush CCAA Parties had two pension plans for their employees which include defined benefits:

- A pension plan for unionized hourly employees at the Wabush mine and Pointe-Noire port, known as the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway

Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited (the "Union Plan")² and

- A hybrid pension plan for salaried employees at the Wabush mine and the Pointe-Noire port hired before January 1, 2013 known as the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited (the "Salaried Plan").³

[5] Wabush Mines was the administrator of both Plans.

[6] The majority of the employees covered by the Plans reported for work at the Wabush mine in Newfoundland and Labrador while many reported for work at the Pointe-Nord facility in Québec. In fact, on the current numbers, a slight majority of the Salaried Plan members reported for work in Québec. Moreover, some of the employees worked for Arnaud Railway and Wabush Lake Railway which are federally regulated railways. The current breakdown is as follows:

	Union Plan	Salaried Plan	TOTAL
Newfoundland & Labrador	1,005	313	1,318
Québec	661	329	990
Federal	66	14	80
TOTAL	1,732	656	2,388

[7] Both Plans provide that they are to be interpreted pursuant to the laws applicable in the province of Newfoundland.⁴ Both Plans are registered with the provincial regulator in Newfoundland and Labrador, the Superintendent of Pensions (the "NL Superintendent") pursuant to the Newfoundland and Labrador Pension Benefits Act, 1997 ("NLPBA").⁵ The federal pension regulator, the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions ("OSFI") has also exercised some regulatory oversight, in particular with respect to the Union Plan,⁶ pursuant to the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act ("PBSA").⁷ The Québec regulator, Retraite Québec, has not played an active role in the regulation of the Plans, but it asserts that the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act ("SPPA")⁸ is applicable to the employees who reported for work in Québec.

[8] On June 26, 2015, in the context of approving the interim financing of the Debtors, the Court issued the Suspension Order whereby it ordered the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of the monthly amortization payments and the annual lump sum "catch-up" payments coming due under the Plans, and confirmed the priority of the Interim Lender Charge over the deemed trusts with respect to the pension liabilities. The Court also ordered the suspension of payment of other post-retirement benefits, including life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan.⁹

[9] On December 16, 2015, the NL Superintendent terminated both Plans effective immediately on the bases that (1) the Plans failed to meet the solvency requirements under the regulations, (2) the employer has discontinued all of its business operations and (3) it was highly unlikely that any potential buyer of the assets would agree to assume the assets and liabilities of the Plans.¹⁰ On the same date, OSFI terminated the Union Plan effective immediately for the same reasons.¹¹

[10] Both the NL Superintendent and OSFI reminded the Wabush CCAA Parties of the employer's obligation upon termination of a pension plan to pay into the pension fund all amounts that would be required to meet the solvency requirements and the amount necessary to fund the benefits under the plan. They also referred to the rules with respect to deemed trusts.¹²

[11] On January 26, 2016, the salaried retirees received a letter from Wabush Mines notifying them that the NL Superintendent had directed Wabush Mines to reduce the amount of monthly pension benefits of the members by 25%.¹³ Retirees under the Union Plan had their benefits reduced by 21% on March 1, 2016.¹⁴

[12] On March 30, 2016, the NL Superintendent and OSFI appointed Morneau Shepell Ltd as replacement administrator for the Plans.¹⁵

[13] The Wabush CCAA Parties paid the monthly normal cost payments for both Plans up to the termination of the Plans on December 16, 2015. As a result, the monthly normal cost payments for the Union Plan were fully paid up to December 16,

2015.¹⁶ The monthly normal cost payments for the Salaried Plan had been overpaid in the amount of $169,961 as of December 16, 2015.¹⁷

[14] The Wabush CCAA Parties also generally paid the special payments, until their obligation to make the special payments was suspended in June 2015 by the Court.

[15] With respect to the Union Plan, the status of the special payments is as follows:

- a) The special payments required to be paid prior to the date of the Wabush Initial Order were underpaid in the amount of $146,776;
- b) One special payment in the amount of $393,337 was paid after the date of the Wabush Initial Order and before the Suspension Order, which payment constituted an overpayment of $16,308; and
- c) The special payments after the date of the Suspension Order were not paid and amount to $3,016,232.¹⁸

[16] With respect to the Salaried Plan, the status of the special payments is as follows:

- a) The special payments required to be paid prior to the date of the Wabush Initial Order were paid in full except for $3;
- b) One special payment in the amount of $273,218 was paid after the date of the Wabush Initial Order and before the Suspension Order, which payment constituted an underpayment of $1; and
- c) The special payments after the date of the Suspension Order were not paid and amount to $2,185,752.¹⁹

[17] Further, the Wabush CCAA Parties did not make the lump sum "catch-up" special payments that came due after June 2015. The amount payable with respect to the Union Plan is $3,525,125.²⁰ There are no "catch-up" special payments due with respect to the Salaried Plan.

[18] Finally, the Plans are underfunded.

[19] In December 2016, the actuary filed a report that concludes that the unfunded wind-up liability for the Union Plan as at December 16, 2015 was $27,486,548.²¹

¹⁶ Exhibit R-17. There is a debate as to whether the Wabush CCAA Parties were required to pay the full monthly payment for December 2015 or only a pro-rated portion. The amount at issue for the period from December 17 to 31, 2015 is $21,462 according to one calculation or $22,893 according to another.

¹⁹ Exhibit R-16.

²⁰ Exhibit R-17. The Union argues that $1,175,040 relates to the pre-filing period.

[20] Further, the Plan Administrator filed a wind-up actuarial valuation for the Salaried Plan that estimates the wind-up shortfall as at December 16, 2015 to be approximately $27,450,000.²²

[21] Both wind-up reports remain subject to review and approval by the pension regulators.

[22] Subject to the comments set out above, the Monitor provides the following summary of the amounts owing to the two Plans:

	Union Plan	Salaried Plan
Normal Cost Payments
Pre-filing	$0	$0
Special Payments
Pre-filing	$146,776	$3
Post-filing	$2,999,924	$2,185,753
Total	$3,146,700	$2,185,756
Catch-up Special Payments
Pre-filing	$0	$0
Post-filing	$3,525,120	$0
Total	$3,525,120	$0
Estimated Wind-Up Deficiency	$27,486,548	$27,450,000

[23] Wabush Mines, as plan administrator, filed a proof of claim in respect of the Union Plan that includes a secured claim in the amount of $29 million and a restructuring claim in the amount of $6,059,238,²³ and a proof of claim with respect to the Salaried Plan that includes a secured claim in the amount of $24 million and a restructuring claim in the amount of $1,932,940.²⁴

[24] The differences in the numbers are not important at this stage. The numbers will be finalized in due course. It is sufficient to note that there are very large claims and that the plan administrator claims the status of a secured creditor with respect to a substantial part of the claims.

[25] It is also important to note that the Wabush CCAA Parties held assets both in Newfoundland and Labrador and in Québec. All or substantially all of the assets have been sold and have generated substantial proceeds currently held by the Monitor.

[26] Of particular relevance given the intervention of the Ville de Sept-Îles, are two transactions approved by the Court on February 1, 2016 that included the sale of immovable property in the Ville de Sept-Îles with respect to which the Ville de Sept-Îles claims unpaid taxes.²⁵ In both instances, the approval and vesting order issued by the Court provided for the vesting of the assets on a free and clear basis, with the net proceeds from both transactions standing in the place and stead of the purchased assets. The result is that the Ville de Sept-Îles claims priority with respect to those proceeds.

[27] In order to determine the priorities of the various claims, the Monitor applies to the Court for an order declaring that:

- a) normal costs and special payments outstanding as at the date of the Wabush Initial Order are subject to a limited deemed trust;
- b) normal costs and special payments payable after the date of the Wabush Initial Order, including additional special payments and catch up payments established on the basis of actuarial reports issued after the Wabush Initial Order, constitute unsecured claims;
- c) the wind-up deficiencies constitute unsecured claims; and
- d) any deemed trust created pursuant to the NLPBA may only charge property in Newfoundland and Labrador.

[28] The Monitor is supported by the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Ville de Sept-Îles. The Monitor's motion is opposed by the Representative Employees, the Union, the Replacement Plan Administrator, Retraite Québec, OSFI and the NL Superintendent (the "Pension Parties").

[29] A preliminary issue arose as to whether the Court should request the aid of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador with respect to the interpretation of the NLPBA, and in particular the scope and priority of the deemed trust and the lien created by the NLPBA and whether the deemed trust and the lien extend to assets located outside of Newfoundland and Labrador. On January 30, 2017, the Court decided that it had jurisdiction to deal with those issues and that it would not refer the issues to the Newfoundland and Labrador Supreme Court.²⁶ There was no appeal from that decision.

²⁶ 2017 QCCS 284.

[30] Subsequent to the judgment, on March 27, 2017, the government of Newfoundland and Labrador referred a number of questions to the Newfoundland and Labrador Court of Appeal ("NLCA").²⁷

[31] The hearing before the NLCA is scheduled for September 21 and 22, 2017.

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

1. Monitor

[32] The Monitor's position can be summarized as follows:

- The Court should deal with all of the issues now, without waiting for the judgment of the NLCA;
- The SPPA applies to the Québec members of the Plans, the PBSA applies to the federal members, and the NLPBA applies to the Newfoundland and Labrador members;
- The deemed trusts under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA and the lien and charge under the NLPBA are limited to normal, special and catch-up payments and do not extend to the wind-up deficiency;
- The deemed trust and the lien and charge under the NLPBA do not extend to assets outside Newfoundland and Labrador;
- The SPPA does not create a deemed trust;
- The deemed trusts under the PBSA and the NLPBA were not triggered because there was no "liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy" of the employer;
- In any event, the deemed trusts under the SPPA, PBSA or NLPBA and the lien and charge under the NLPBA, if they exist, are not effective in proceedings under the CCAA;

2. Wabush CCAA Parties

[33] The positions taken by the Wabush CCAA Parties were largely consistent with the positions taken by the Monitor.

3. Ville de Sept-Îles

[34] The Ville de Sept-Îles was in general agreement with the position of the Monitor and the Wabush CCAA Parties. In addition, it argued that its prior claim against the proceeds of the sale of immovable properties in the Ville de Sept-Îles with respect to unpaid property and water taxes on those properties ranks ahead of the deemed trusts for pension claims.

4. Representative Employees

²⁷ Order-in-Council 2017-103, dated March 27, 2017.

[35] The Representative Employees argue that the NLPBA deemed trust covers the normal payments, the special payments and the wind-up deficit and that the NLPBA, and its deemed trust provisions, apply to all members of the Salaried Plan (and by extension the Union Plan), including those who reported for work in Québec and those who worked on the railways.²⁸

[36] They also argue that there was a liquidation in the course of the present CCAA proceedings and that the NLPBA deemed trusts are fully operative in the context of CCAA proceedings.

5. Union

[37] The Union generally supports the arguments put forward by the Representative Employees and the NL Superintendent, and it supports the regulators for the interpretation of their statutes.

[38] The Union submits that all three statutes create deemed trusts but that only the NLPBA deemed trust covers the wind-up deficit. It argues that the three statutes establish minimum standards and that the Court should apply the most advantageous deemed trust provisions under the three pension statutes, which will benefit all members of the Union Plan (and by extension the Salaried Plan). It also argues that the deemed trust under the NLPBA should extend to all assets of the employer, wherever located.

6. Replacement Pension Administrator

[39] The Replacement Plan Administrator adopts the arguments put forward by the Representative Employees, the Union and the NL Superintendent, and it defers to Retraite Québec and OSFI for the interpretation and application of their statutes.

7. Retraite Québec

[40] Retraite Québec suggests that the Court should answer all of the questions without waiting for the judgment of the NLCA.

[41] It argues that the SPPA applies and regulates the rights of the Québec members of the Pension Plans.

[42] It argues that the protection afforded by the deemed trust under Section 49 SPPA and the unseizability under Section 264 SPPA are limited to unpaid contributions, which include current service contributions, amortization payments and special payments, and do not extend to the solvency deficit on termination of the Plans.

[43] Further, it argues that the deemed trust and unseizability under the SPPA create a priority over all secured and unsecured creditors of the employer, and are valid in the context of CCAA proceedings.

²⁸ They advanced in their argumentation outline a constitutional argument to the effect that the NLPBA had paramouncy over the PBSA under Section 94A of the Constitution Act, but they abandoned that argument at the hearing.

8. OSFI

[44] OSFI argues that the PBSA applies in respect of the Plans for the employees who worked on the railways. It argues that the PBSA does not cover the wind-up deficit but it does cover the normal cost payments, the special payments and the special catch-up payments. OSFI argues that the PBSA continues to apply in CCAA proceedings where the debtors have liquidated their assets and do not submit a plan to their creditors.

9. NL Superintendent

[45] The NL Superintendent generally supports the submissions of the Representative Employees, the Union and the Replacement Plan Administrator, although he does not plead that the NLPBA applies to all of the Plan members. He defers to Retraite Québec and to OSFI on any interpretive issues regarding the SPPA and the PBSA respectively.

[46] The NL Superintendent pleads that the Wabush CCAA proceedings are in fact liquidation proceedings and that these liquidation proceedings trigger the deemed trust under the NLPBA. He also pleads that the deemed trust under the NLPBA covers at least part of the wind-up deficiency and that it can attach to the proceeds of property formerly located in Québec.

ISSUES

[47] The Court will deal with the following issues:

1. Should it wait for the judgment of the NLCA on the Reference before rendering its judgment?
2. Which pension statutes apply to which members?
3. What is the proper scope of the protection afforded by the pension statutes?
 - a. Do the pension statutes create a valid deemed trust or other valid charges?
 - b. What is the priority of the deemed trusts and other charges in relation to secured creditors?
 - c. Which amounts owing to the pension fund are covered by the deemed trusts or other charges?
 - d. Do the deemed trusts or other charges created by the NLPBA extend to assets in Québec?
4. Has there been a "liquidation" that triggers the deemed trusts under the PBSA and the NLPBA?
5. Are the deemed trusts and other charges valid in CCAA proceedings?
6. In light of the answers to the preceding questions, what conclusions are appropriate?

ANALYSIS1. Timing of this judgment in relation to the NLCA Reference [48] The first issue for the Court is whether it should delay its judgment until it has the benefit of the judgment of the NLCA on the Reference, or whether it should render its judgment now, without waiting for the NLCA judgment on the Reference. The hearing before the NLCA is scheduled for September 21 and 22, 2017.

[49] In the context of the Monitor's Motion for Directions, a preliminary issue arose as to whether the Court should request the aid of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador with respect to the interpretation of the NLPBA, and in particular the scope and priority of the deemed trust and the lien created by the NLPBA and whether the deemed trust and the lien created by the NLPBA extend to assets located outside of Newfoundland and Labrador. On January 30, 2017, the Court decided that it had jurisdiction to deal with those issues and that it would not refer the issues to the Newfoundland and Labrador Supreme Court.²⁹ There was no appeal from that decision.

[50] Instead, on March 27, 2017, the government of Newfoundland and Labrador referred the following questions to the NLCA:

- 1) The Supreme Court of Canada has confirmed in Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, that, subject only to the doctrine of paramountcy, provincial laws apply in proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985 c.C-36. What is the scope of section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL1996 cP-4.01 deemed trusts in respect of:
 - a) unpaid current service costs;
 - b) unpaid special payments; and
 - c) unpaid wind-up deficits?
- 2) The Salaried Plan is registered in Newfoundland and Labrador and regulated by the Pension Benefits Act, 1997.
 - a) (i) Does the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act, R.S.C. 1985, c-32 deemed trust also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who worked on the railway (i.e., a federal undertaking)?
 - (ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 and Pension Benefits Standards Act? If so, how is the conflict resolved?
 - b) (i) Does the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, CQLR, c. R-15.1 also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who reported for work in Quebec?
 - (ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 and the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act? If so, how is the conflict resolved?

²⁹ Supra note 26.

(iii) Do the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act deemed trusts also apply to Quebec Salaried Plan members?

- 3) Is the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 lien and charge in favour of the pension plan administrator in section 32(4) of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator? If yes, what amounts does this secured claim encompass?³⁰

[51] These are the questions that the Representative Employees proposed that the Court should resolve in the present judgment.³¹

[52] If the questions submitted to the NLCA dealt only with issues of Newfoundland and Labrador law, the Court would consider waiting for the decision of the NLCA.

[53] The first and third questions deal with the interpretation of the NLPBA, but the preamble to the first question clearly places the questions in the context of CCAA proceedings. The second question relates to the interpretation of federal and Québec law, the potential conflict between federal law and Québec law on the one hand and the NLPBA on the other, and how those conflicts are to be resolved. Moreover, with its references to the Salaried Plan and employees who worked on the railway or who reported for work in Québec, it is clear that the second question relates specifically to this matter. The NLCA has said that the circumstances of the present matter will provide the context within which the questions will be considered.

[54] These questions are within the jurisdiction of the Court and they are relevant to the judgment that this Court is rendering. The questions put to the NLCA therefore create a risk of contradictory judgments. The situation is unfortunate, but it is not one for which the NLCA or the Court is responsible.

[55] The NLCA has been made aware of the Court's concerns in relation to the scope of the questions that it is being asked to answer. While the NLCA is sensitive to the issue of potential overlap, it has decided for now not to restrict the scope of the questions:

[1] Having heard the submissions of counsel, we are satisfied that the questions set out in the reference put by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council in Order-in-Council 2017-103, should be considered at the hearing in the language stipulated in the Order-in-Council. Whilst we are mindful of the importance of promoting judicial efficiency, we do not consider ourselves to be in a position today to determine the extent to which, if at all, we should decline to answer one or more of the questions posed or to interpret their scope.

[2] That said, we are cognizant of the concerns of some of the participants that the questions may invite the Court to opine in such a way as to impact the decisions of the Quebec CCAA Court that will determine the rights of the parties. Generally speaking, we subscribe to the view that questions posed on a reference should be treated as raising hypothetical questions and not directed at determining parties' rights.

³⁰ Order-in-Council 2017-103, dated March 27, 2017.

³¹ This may explain why the questions refer to the Salaried Plan and not the Union Plan.

[3] As recognized in case law, a reference is an advisory opinion provided by the Court at the request of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The CCAA Court in determining the matter before it may or may not advert to or apply the opinion provided by this Court. That said, the context of a reference is important. Accordingly, hypotheticals are useful to provide a context within which the questions can be considered. The record on the reference, therefore, should be limited to providing that context.

[4] The parties may, of course, make submissions as to whether the Court should decline to answer a question or part thereof, or narrow the scope of a question as part of the submissions made for purposes of the reference hearing.³²

[56] In the circumstances, the Court is left with three options, none of which is particularly good:

- It can proceed to render judgment on all of the issues, without the benefit of the judgment of the NLCA, and thereby run the risk of being contradicted by the NLCA;
- It can wait for the judgment of the NLCA, which might extend to issues which are more properly within the jurisdiction of the Court and place the Court in the position of having some of its issues prejudged by the court of appeal of another province and potentially having to contradict that judgment; or
- It can render judgment on all issues other than the interpretation of the NLPBA.

[57] The Monitor, the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Ville de Sept-Îles plead that the Court should adopt the first position. The Pension Parties generally suggest that the Court should wait.

[58] In these circumstances, and with some hesitation, the Court has decided to adopt the third approach. It will render its judgment first, without waiting for the NLCA. However, it will not decide on the interpretation of the NLPBA, but rather will make certain assumptions:

- Where the NLPBA is identical to the PBSA, the Court will assume that the NLPBA is interpreted in the same way as the PBSA; and
- Where the NLPBA is different from the PBSA, the Court will adopt the interpretation put forward by the NL Superintendent.

[59] The Court will reserve the rights of the parties to ask the Court to revise the conclusions of the present judgment if: (1) the NLCA decides that the interpretation of the NLPBA is different from the interpretation that the Court assumed, and (2) that difference is material to the Court's conclusions.

[60] The Court will not revise its conclusions if the NLCA disagrees with the Court on any issue other than the interpretation of the NLPBA. That will be a matter that the parties can raise on appeal.

2. Application of the three pension statutes

[61] The scope of application of each of the three pension statutes is made clear by each pension statute:

- The SPPA applies to “pension plans provided for ... employees who report for work at an establishment of their employer located in Québec”.³³
- The PBSA applies to “a superannuation or other plan organized and administered to provide pension benefits to employees employed in included employment (and former employees)”.³⁴ The notion of “included employment” includes railways³⁵ and “any work, undertaking or business ... declared by the Parliament of Canada to be for the general advantage of Canada or for the advantage of two or more provinces”.³⁶ The Arnaud Rail and Wabush Lake Rail are both railways and both were declared to be works for the general advantage of Canada.³⁷
- The NLPBA applies to “all pension plans for persons employed in the province, except those pension plans to which an Act of the Parliament of Canada applies”.³⁸

[Emphasis added]

[62] To the extent that this raises a question of the interpretation of the NLPBA, the Court notes that the language is clear and that the NL Superintendent states only that the NLPBA “would apply, at the very least, to the benefit of all of the employees who reported for work in the province (s. 5 PBA)”.³⁹

[63] As a result, on the face of the legislation, the Plans are governed by the PBSA with respect to the rail employees, by the SPPA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and by the NLPBA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland and Labrador.

[64] Professor Goldstein writes in favour of this multiplicity of governing statutes:

³⁵ PBSA, s. 4(4)(b).

³⁶ PBSA, s. 4(4)(h).

³⁷ An Act respecting Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited and Arnaud Railway Company, (1960) 8-9 Eliz. II, ch. 63, s. 3.

³⁹ Outline of Argument of the NL Superintendent, May 19, 2017, par. 98.

Plusieurs lois pourraient donc potentiellement s'appliquer au même régime. En principe, il n'y a pas de conflit dans la mesure où chaque loi ne s'applique effectivement et distributivement qu'au profit de chaque catégorie de salariés selon son lieu de travail ou de paiement. Par exemple, si, sur 100 salariés participants au même régime, 60 sont employés en Ontario, 30 au Québec et 10 en Alberta, on considère que l'autorité ontarienne doit veiller à l'application distributive des lois ontarienne, québécoise et albertaine.⁴⁰

[65] Moreover, this multiplicity of governing statutes does not present any particular practical problem. The wind-up reports prepared in relation to the Plans conclude that the Plans are governed by the PBSA for the railway employees, by the SPPA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and by the NLPBA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in NL and they calculate the benefits according to the three statutes.⁴¹

[66] The Representative Employees, the Replacement Plan Administrator and the Union contest this conclusion. They argue that the NLPBA should apply to all members under both Plans.

[67] The Representative Employees argue that the Memorandum of Reciprocal Agreement signed by the Quebec Pension Board (the predecessor of Retraite Québec) in 1968 and by the NL Superintendent in 1986⁴² makes the NLPBA applicable to the Plans.

[68] The Court notes at the outset that the Memorandum was signed by representatives of nine provinces, but was not signed by a representative of the federal government. It therefore does not bind the federal government and cannot affect the application of the PBSA.

[69] Moreover, the scope of the Memorandum is limited. It recognizes that a pension plan may be regulated by several statutes. It provides that amongst the various pension regulatory authorities having jurisdiction in relation to a pension plan, the authority of the province where the plurality of the members are employed is the "major authority" and the others are "minor authorities". It provides that a plan need only be registered in the jurisdiction of the major authority. The Pension Parties pleaded that there had been until recently a plurality of members of both Plans in Newfoundland and Labrador. This would explain why both Plans were registered in Newfoundland and Labrador.

2. The major authority for each plan shall exercise both its own statutory functions and powers and the statutory functions and powers of each minor authority for such plan.

[71] In other words, the Memorandum operates merely as a delegation of powers from the minor authorities to the major authority. It does not in any way affect the application of the relevant statutes:

The major authority is charged with administering the laws of the other province. What this means is that while a multi-jurisdictional pension plan need only be registered in one province, it does not necessarily mean that the laws of the other province do not apply in respect of employees working in that other province. For example, when a multi-jurisdictional pension plan is being wound up, the administrator is required to allocate and account for the assets and benefits by province.⁴³

[72] This is consistent with Section 74 of the previous version of the SPPA⁴⁴ which was in force when the Memorandum was signed by Québec, which provides for reciprocal registration and inspection, delegation of functions and powers, and carrying out duties on behalf of the Board, but not the exclusion of Québec law. Agreements entered into under Section 74 of the former SPPA remain effective under the new SPPA.⁴⁵

[73] This is to be contrasted with Section 249 of the current SPPA, which allows Retraite Québec to enter into agreements with other provincial authorities or the federal authority to determine to what extent each pension act applies to a plan. Similar provisions are found in Section 6.1 of the PBSA and Sections 8(2) and 8.2(2) of the NLPBA.

[74] Pursuant to these new powers, the federal authority and various provincial authorities entered into Agreements Respecting Multi-jurisdictional Pension Plans in 2011 and 2016. The 2011 and 2016 Agreements expressly provide that in certain circumstances, one pension act applies to the exclusion of the others. However, while Quebec and the federal government are parties to the 2011 and 2016 Agreements, Newfoundland and Labrador is not a party. As a result, the Agreements have no application to the Plans, and they cannot exclude the SPPA and the PBSA and make the NLPBA applicable to the Québec and federal members of the Plans.

[75] The Representative Employees also argue that the Applicable Law clause found at Section 12.06 in both Plans makes the NLPBA applicable to both Plans:

The Plan shall be interpreted pursuant to the laws applicable in the province of Newfoundland.

[76] The Court notes that, notwithstanding this provision, there are specific provisions in both Plans applicable to employees who report for work in Québec in order to comply with the SPPA.⁴⁶

[77] In any event, the parties to a pension plan cannot pick and choose which pension laws apply to them and which do not. The legislation clearly provides to whom it applies. It leaves no room for the choice of the parties. Article 3118 C.C.Q. provides that a choice of law clause cannot deprive an employee of the protection afforded by the mandatory rules of the state where the employee habitually carries out his work. As a result, this contractual provision cannot be sufficient to set aside the clear language of the three statutes. Moreover, Section 12.06 provides only for the interpretation of the Plans. It does not provide that the Plans are governed by the NLPBA and does not incorporate by reference the provisions of the NLPBA.

[78] Finally, the Union recognizes that the three statutes apply and that the only effect of the Memorandum is to centralize the regulatory functions in one regulator. However, the Union argues that pension legislation enacts only minimum standards. As the three statutes apply to the Plans and each creates a deemed trust that covers certain contributions, the Court should apply the deemed trust that covers the greatest amount.

[79] This argument is based on the assumption that each contribution payable by the employer (whether normal cost payments, special payments, catch-up special payments or wind-up deficits) is a single amount in respect of the whole Plan. This is wrong. As is readily apparent from the detailed calculations included in the Salaried Plan wind-up valuation, the calculation of the contributions is done on a member-by-member basis.⁴⁷ As a result, it is not a single contribution governed by three statutes, but rather the contribution can be divided into three portions each of which is governed by a different statute.

[80] As a result, the Court concludes that the Plans are governed by the PBSA with respect to the railway employees, by the SPPA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and by the NLPBA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in NL.

[81] None of the three regulators, Retraite Québec, OSFI and the NL Superintendent, contested this conclusion.

i. PBSA

⁴⁶ Section 14 of each Plan.

⁴⁷ Exhibit R-25, p. 27-47.

[82] Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA provide in part as follows:

8 (1) An employer shall ensure, with respect to its pension plan, that the following amounts are kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys, and the employer is deemed to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members of the pension plan, former members, and any other persons entitled to pension benefits under the plan:

(2) In the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that by subsection (1) is deemed to be held in trust shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

[83] The deemed trust mechanism found in Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA has been used by the federal Parliament and by provincial legislatures to give a special priority to certain claims. It has principally been used in taxation and other statutes, to protect Crown claims. As stated by Justice Gonthier in Sparrow Electric:

Namely, such deemed trusts or liens are devices which legislators often employ in order to recover moneys which ought to have lawfully been paid to them but have been unlawfully misappropriated by a debtor who subsequently encounters financial difficulty and is forced into winding up its business.⁴⁸

[84] The deemed trust under the PBSA operate in the following way:

- The employer is required to hold the amounts separate and apart and is considered to hold them in trust (Section 8(1) PBSA); and
- In the event of the employer's liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, an amount equal to those amounts is deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate (Section 8(2) PBSA).

[85] The Supreme Court explained the operation of similar provisions (Section 227(4) and (5) of the Income Tax Act, relating to unremitted payroll deductions) as follows in Sparrow Electric:

31 In the present case, I find the language in s. 227(5) to be clear and unambiguous, especially when viewed as a provision directly following s. 227(4), which renders amounts unremitted as held in trust for Her Majesty. In my view, this section is designed to, upon liquidation, assignment, receivership or bankruptcy, seek out and attach Her Majesty's beneficial interest to property of the debtor which at that time is in existence. The trust is not in truth a real one, as the subject matter of the trust cannot be identified from the date of creation of the trust: D. W. M. Waters, Law of Trusts in Canada (2nd ed. 1984), at p. 117. However, s. 227(5) has the effect of revitalizing the trust whose subject matter has lost all identity. This identification of the subject matter of the trust therefore occurs ex post facto. In this respect, I agree with the conclusion of Twaddle J.A. in Roynat, supra, where he states the effect of s. 227(5) as follows, at p. 647: "Her Majesty has a statutory right of access to whatever assets the employer then has, out of which to realize the original trust debt due to Her".⁴⁹

[Emphasis added]

[86] In other words, it is not enough for Parliament to simply declare that the debtor is deemed to hold the amounts in trust. The deemed trust under Section 8(1) PBSA is only effective if the property is identified and kept separate and apart. If the property is not identified and kept separate and apart, it is necessary to also have Section 8(2) PBSA, which causes the property to be identified on liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy and deems it to be kept separate and apart even if it is not.

[87] Justice Schragar, then of this court, concluded in Aveos that, whether at common law or under Article 1260 C.C.Q., the language of Section 8(1) PBSA was not sufficient for a valid deemed trust and that the language of Section 8(2) PBSA was necessary to the validity of the deemed trust:

[58] Clearly, then, either at common law or in virtue of Article 1260 of the Civil Code of Québec ("C.C.Q."), no real trust exists in the present case since the property subject to the trust is not readily identifiable as funds were not segregated as required by Article 8(1) P.B.S.A., but rather, commingled. This situation is common; thus, the need for the legislator to create the deemed trust in Section 8(2) P.B.S.A. to protect sums due to pension plans.⁵⁰

[Emphasis added]

[88] The Court concludes that the combined effect of Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA is sufficient to create a deemed trust in the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of the employer.

ii. SPPA

[89] Section 49 SPPA is very succinct:

49. Until contributions and accrued interest are paid into the pension fund or to the insurer, they are deemed to be held in trust by the employer, whether or not the latter has kept them separate from his property.

[Emphasis added]

[90] Section 49 SPPA simply deems "contributions" to be held in trust, whether or not they have been kept separate from the employer's other property. It includes the ⁴⁹ Id., par. 31.

⁵⁰ Aveos Fleet Performance Inc./Aveos Performance aéronautique inc. (Arrangement relatif à), 2013 QCCS 5762, par. 58.

deemed trust language from Section 8(1) PBSA and the “whether or not the latter has kept them separate from his property” language from Section 8(2) PBSA, but it does not include the following key language found in Section 8(2) PBSA:

In the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that by subsection (1) is deemed to be held in trust is deemed to be held in trust, shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy...

[92] Under Sparrow Electric, merely declaring that amounts are deemed to be held in trust is not effective if the property is not identified. It is clear that no property is identified by Section 49 SPPA. It provides only that “contributions” are deemed to be held in trust. A contribution is an obligation and not specific property. Sparrow Electric provides that the deemed trust is “revitalized” by providing that, upon a triggering event, an amount equal to the amount that is supposed to be held in trust is carved out of the estate. Without the carve-out on a triggering event, the deemed trust is not effective.

[93] The same principles apply in Québec. In Sécurité Saglac and Nolisair,⁵¹ the provision at issue was the deemed trust under Section 20 of the Ministry of Revenue Act, which read as follows at the relevant time:

20. Every person who deducts, withholds or collects any amount under a fiscal law is deemed to hold it in trust for Her Majesty in right of Québec.

Any such amount must be kept by the person who deducted, withheld or collected it, distinctly and separately from his own funds and, in the event of a winding-up, assignment or bankruptcy, an amount equal to the amount thus deducted, withheld or collected must be considered to form a separate fund not forming part of the property subject to the winding-up, assignment or bankruptcy.

[94] The words “, whether or not the amount has in fact been held separately from the patrimony of that person or from his own funds” were added at the end of the second paragraph in 1993, after the events giving rise to the litigation but before the judgments of the Court of Appeal.

[95] The Court of Appeal decided, with Justice Fish dissenting, that the pre-1993 Section 20 MRA created a valid deemed trust. The Supreme Court reversed the Court of Appeal, essentially for the reasons given by Justice Fish.

⁵¹ Quebec (Deputy Minister of Revenue) v. Nolisair International Inc. (Trustee of); Sécurité Saglac (1992) inc. (Trustee of) v. Quebec (Deputy Minister of Revenue), [1999] 1 S.C.R. 759, reversing Sécurité Saglac (1992) Inc. (Syndic de), [1997] R.J.Q. 2448 (C.A.) and Nolisair International Inc. (Syndic de), [1997] R.J.Q. 2433 (C.A.).

[96] Justice Fish held that the omission of the words “whether or not the amount has in fact been held separately from the patrimony of that person or from his own funds” was fatal to the deemed trust. Those words are present in Section 49 SPPA.

[97] However, Justice Chamberland (for the majority in the Court of Appeal overturned by the Supreme Court) analyzed the pre-1993 provision as follows:

Le premier paragraphe est identique; le législateur y prévoit expressément, en utilisant les mots «est réputée», qu'une personne qui a déduit, retenu ou perçu un montant en vertu d'une loi fiscale détient ce montant en fiducie et que Sa Majesté aux droits du Québec est la bénéficiaire de cette fiducie. Le début du deuxième paragraphe est également identique; le législateur y crée l'obligation pour la personne visée de tenir le montant ainsi déduit, retenu ou perçu «distinctement et séparément de ses propres fonds». Si tel est le cas, il y a fiducie réelle et, advenant faillite, ces montants constituent des «biens détenus par le failli en fiducie pour toute autre personne», au sens de l'alinéa 67(1)(a) de la Loi FI, et ils ne sont pas compris dans les biens du failli.

La seconde partie du deuxième paragraphe a été modifiée par l'ajout des mots «un montant égal au montant ainsi déduit, retenu ou perçu [...]». L'ajout de ces mots ne s'explique, à mon avis, que par la volonté du législateur de créer une fiducie réputée et de la distinguer de la fiducie réelle en éliminant expressément la nécessité de respecter la troisième des conditions essentielles à l'existence d'une fiducie, soit le fait pour le fiduciaire de conserver les biens affectés à la fiducie séparément et distinctement de son patrimoine. En effet, les mots «un montant égal au montant ainsi déduit, retenu ou perçu» sont inutiles dans le contexte où le failli tient un compte distinct et séparé de ses propres fonds pour les montants déduits, retenus ou perçus; les mots n'ont de sens que si le failli ne tient pas un tel compte distinct et séparé. Dans le contexte, ces mots suffisaient pour conclure à la création d'une fiducie réputée; le premier paragraphe de l'article 20 et le début du second visaient la fiducie réelle alors que le premier paragraphe et la fin du second visaient la fiducie réputée.

D'où, à mon avis, la conclusion que le législateur a ainsi créé une fiducie réputée même s'il n'a pas repris tous les mots du législateur fédéral au paragraphe 5 de l'article 227. L'utilisation des mots «un montant égal au montant ainsi déduit, retenu ou perçu» rendait, à mon avis, inutile l'utilisation des mots «que ce montant ait été ou non, en fait, tenu séparé des propres fonds de la personne».⁵²

[98] The Supreme Court's reversal of the Court of Appeal does not mean that the language identifying the property covered on a triggering event is unnecessary. It means only that the words “whether or not the amount has in fact been held separately from the patrimony of that person or from his own funds” are necessary.

⁵² Sécurité Saglac (C.A.), supra note 51, p.2458.

[99] The Court concludes that the language identifying the property covered on a triggering event is necessary, for the reasons given by the Supreme Court in Sparrow Electric and by Justice Schragar in Aveos.

[100] Section 49 SPPA does not include this language. The consequence is that the deemed trust under Section 49 SPPA is not effective. As stated by Justice Mayrand in AbitibiBowater.

[34] Avec égards, que ce soit en vertu de la LACC ou de l'article 49 de la Loi sur les régimes complémentaires de retraite (LRRCR), les créances en cause sont des créances ordinaires, que le législateur n'a pas choisi de protéger dans le contexte de la présente restructuration. Le libellé de l'article 49 LRRCR n'est pas suffisant en soi pour conclure à l'établissement d'une véritable fiducie devant avoir priorité sur les autres créanciers. D'ailleurs, la Cour d'appel de l'Ontario, dans l'affaire Ivaco, alors qu'elle décide de la portée de l'article 57(3) du Pension Benefit Act (dont les termes sont au même effet que ceux de l'article 49 LRRCR), mentionne ce qui suit à l'égard des fiducies présumées (Deemed Trust) :

*[...] This Legislative designation by itself does not create a true trust. If the province wants to require an employer to keep its unpaid contributions to a pension plan in a separate account, it must legislate that separation. It has not done so*⁵³

[101] Justice Mongeon came to the same conclusion in White Birch:

[Emphasis added]

[102] Justice Mongeon came to the opposite conclusion in Timminco. After citing the extract from the Court of Appeal in Sécurité Sagalac set out above, he concluded:

⁵⁴ White Birch Paper Holding Company (Arrangement relatif à), 2012 QCCS 1679, par. 188-189, 193,

[96] Cette longue citation indique la manière retenue alors par la Cour d'appel pour conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée en se basant sur les mots retenus par le législateur. En appliquant ce genre d'analyse à l'article 49 LRCR, on doit d'abord se poser la question à savoir si le texte de cet article est suffisamment clair et complet pour conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée. Un tel exercice convainc le Tribunal que l'on doit répondre affirmativement à cette question surtout lorsque l'on constate que l'article 49 LRCR reprend les mots alors présumés manquants à l'article 20 LMRQ et qui, plus tard, feront en sorte que l'article 20 LMRQ crée effectivement une fiducie réputée.⁵⁵

[Emphasis added]

[103] With respect, the key language according to that judgment in Sécurité Saglac is not "whether or not the amount has in fact been held separately from the patrimony of that person or from his own funds". That language was not part of Section 20 LMRQ at the relevant time. Rather, the key language was [...] in the event of a winding-up, assignment or bankruptcy, an amount equal to the amount thus deducted, withheld or collected must be considered to form a separate fund not forming part of the property subject to the winding-up, assignment or bankruptcy.

[104] That language is missing from Section 49 SPPA and its absence is fatal to the deemed trust.

[105] Retraite Québec and other Pension Parties argued that Section 264 SPPA completes Section 49 SPPA by rendering these same amounts unassignable and unseizable:

264. Unless otherwise provided by law, the following amounts or contributions are unassignable and unseizable:

- (1) all contributions paid or payable into the pension fund or to the insurer, with accrued interest;
- (2) all amounts refunded or pension benefits paid under a pension plan or this Act;
- (3) all amounts awarded to the spouse of a member following partition or any other transfer of benefits effected pursuant to Chapter VIII, with accrued interest, and the benefits deriving from such amounts.

Except as far as they derive from additional voluntary contributions or represent a portion of the surplus assets allocated after termination of the plan, any of the above-mentioned amounts that have been transferred to a pension plan contemplated by section 98, with accrued interest, any refunds of and benefits resulting from such amounts, and any pension or payment having replaced a pension pursuant to section 92 are also unassignable and unseizable.

[106] Justice Mongeon accepted this argument in Timminco:

[147] Le soussigné est d'avis qu'effectivement, les articles 49 et 264 LRCR doivent être lus et interprétés dans le même contexte.

[107] The Court does not agree.

[108] First, Section 264 SPPA is found in the final chapter of the SPPA entitled "Miscellaneous and Transitional Provisions". It would be an odd place to put a provision that deals with the same amounts already covered by Section 49 SPPA.

[109] Further, the enumeration of amounts or contributions in Section 264 SPPA appears to be a list of amounts payable by or to the member of the pension fund and not amounts payable by the employer. It appears that Section 264 protects the members of the plan by providing that they cannot assign these amounts and their creditors cannot seize them. Section 49, on the other hand, is intended to protect pension plans from the creditors of the employer.⁵⁷

[110] Also, if Section 264 SPPA covers the same amounts as Section 49 SPPA, then the overlap between them is problematic. Why is it necessary to have both provisions protecting the same amounts? If the amounts are already covered by a deemed trust, then they are also unassignable and unseizable without the need for Section 264 SPPA. If they are unassignable under Section 264 SPPA, then how can they be transferred to the deemed trust?

[111] Finally and in any event, even if Section 264 SPPA applied to the amounts held by the employer to be paid into the pension plan, it is not clear how that would fix the deemed trust under Section 49 SPPA. Simply declaring amounts to be unassignable and unseizable does not make them any more identifiable. There is still no triggering event. Justice Mongeon suggests that the sums are identifiable under Section 49 SPPA, but the Court has already rejected that argument as a result of Sparrow Electric.

[112] The Court therefore concludes that the deemed trust under Section 49 SPPA and the unseizability under Section 264 SPPA are not effective and do not create a property or security interest.

iii. NLPBA

[113] The NLPBA includes in Section 32(1) and (2) language very similar to Section 8(1) and (2) of the PBSA:

32. (1) An employer or a participating employer in a multi-employer plan shall ensure, with respect to a pension plan, that are kept separate and apart from the employer's own money, and shall be considered to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members, former members, and other persons with an entitlement under the plan.

(2) In the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that under subsection (1) is considered to be held in trust shall be considered to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own money or from the assets of the estate.

[114] The Court will assume for the purposes of the present judgment that Section 32(1) and (2) NLPBA create a valid deemed trust under the laws of Newfoundland and Labrador that operates in the same way as its counterpart in Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA.

[115] The NLPBA also includes in Section 32(3) a further trust in the event of termination of the plan.

(3) Where a pension plan is terminated in whole or in part, an employer who is required to pay contributions to the pension fund shall hold in trust for the member or former member or other person with an entitlement under the plan an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination.

[Emphasis added]

[116] However, this is simply an obligation to hold an amount of money in trust and not a deemed trust. Under Sparrow Electric, if the amounts are not actually held in trust, and in the present matter they are not, this provision does not create a trust. In any event, the Court is assuming that Section 32(1) and (2) NLPBA create a valid deemed trust and, as set out below, the Court gives that deemed trust a broad interpretation. In those circumstances, Section 32(3) NLPBA does not add anything.

500-11-048114-157

[117] Finally, in addition to the deemed trust, Section 32(4) NLPBA creates a lien and charge:

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

[118] The Court will also assume that Section 32(4) NLPBA creates a valid lien and charge under the laws of Newfoundland and Labrador.

b. Priority

[119] In First Vancouver, the Supreme Court characterized the deemed trust as a floating charge over all of the assets of the debtor.⁵⁸

[120] With respect to the priority between the deemed trust and the claims of secured creditors, the Supreme Court concluded as follows in Sparrow Electric:

34 It is to be observed that in addition to attaching Her Majesty's interest to the debtor's property upon the triggering of any of the events mentioned in s. 227(5), the deemed trust operates to the benefit of Her Majesty in a secondary manner. Namely, s. 227(5) permits Her Majesty's interest to attach to collateral which is subject to a fixed charge if the deductions giving rise to Her Majesty's claim arose before that charge attached to that collateral.

Thus, s. 227(5) alternatively permits Her Majesty's interest to attach retroactively to the disputed collateral if the competing security interest has attached after the deductions giving rise to Her Majesty's claim in fact occurred. Conceptually, the s. 227(5) deemed trust allows Her Majesty's claim to go back in time and attach its outstanding s. 227(4) interest to the collateral before that collateral became subject to a fixed charge.⁵⁹

[121] In Aveos, Justice Schragger came to a similar conclusion under Québec law:

[66] In the present case, when the deemed trust for the special payments arose, the property of Aveos was encumbered by fixed charges in favour of the Secured Lenders. Those fixed charges were created in 2010, except for the security in the Northwest Territories which was perfected in 2011. The deemed trust arose either upon the liquidation of Aveos (which would not have been before the C.C.A.A. filing on March 19, 2012) or at the earliest when a special payment became due following the actuarial valuation report filed in June 2011. Even if the obligation to make the special payments was somehow retroactive to December 31, 2010 (which was not argued by the Superintendent), the fixed charges in favour of the Secured Lenders were already perfected at such date.

⁵⁹ Sparrow Electric, supra note 48, par. 34.

Moreover, Aveos made the special payments up to and including January 2012 so it is difficult to deem the trust prior to any payments being in default.

[67] Consequently, this Court agrees with the Secured Lenders first position that their security was created before any deemed trust for the $2.8 million could have existed. Since the assets were already charged, any deemed trust under Section (8)(2) P.B.S.A. is at best subordinate to the security of the Secured Lenders.⁶⁰

[Emphasis added]

[122] As a result, when one of the triggering events in Section 8(2) PBSA occurs, the deemed trust attaches to the debtor's current property, with effect retroactive to the date that the contributions became due. However, it attaches subject to other security which attached to the assets before the contributions were due.⁶¹

[123] Finally, the Supreme Court in Sparrow Electric emphasized that it was open to Parliament to give absolute priority to the deemed trust through appropriate language:

112 Finally, I wish to emphasize that it is open to Parliament to step in and assign absolute priority to the deemed trust. A clear illustration of how this might be done is afforded by s. 224(1.2) ITA, which vests certain moneys in the Crown "notwithstanding any security interest in those moneys" and provides that they "shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to any such security interest". All that is needed to effect the desired result is clear language of that kind. In the absence of such clear language, judicial innovation is undesirable, both because the issue is policy charged and because a legislative mandate is apt to be clearer than a rule whose precise bounds will become fixed only as a result of expensive and lengthy litigation.

[124] The so-called Sparrow Electric language was not added to Section 8 PBSA, with the result that it does not have priority over pre-existing secured creditors with a fixed charge.⁶²

[125] The Court assumes that these priority rules also apply to the deemed trust under Section 32(2) NLPBA.

[126] As for the lien and charge under Section 32(4) NLPBA, the Court assumes that it is a valid fixed charge under the law of Newfoundland and Labrador. Its priority relative to other secured claims is not clear because it is not registered and because nothing in the NLPBA or the Newfoundland and Labrador *Personal Property Security Act*⁶³ provides for its priority.

[127] The Ville de Sept-Îles argues that its claim for property and water taxes predates the liquidation of the Wabush CCAA Parties and any default in payment of the contributions, and therefore takes priority even if the deemed trust is valid.

[128] However, for the reasons set out below, it is not necessary for the Court to decide those priority issues.

c. Liabilities covered

i. SPPA⁶⁴

[129] The liabilities covered by Section 49 SPPA are limited:

49. Until contributions and accrued interest are paid into the pension fund or to the insurer, they are deemed to be held in trust by the employer, whether or not the latter has kept them separate from his property.

[Emphasis added]

[130] It covers only “contributions” and “accrued interest”. In the ordinary course, “contributions” would include regular and special contributions, but not the wind-up deficit. The wind-up deficit is dealt with in Sections 228-229 SPPA, where it is a debt of the employer. There is no deemed trust language in Sections 228-229 SPPA.

[131] The Court therefore concludes that the Québec deemed trust, if it is effective, covers only the regular payments, special payments and catch-up special payments, to the extent that they relate to non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec.

ii. PBSA

[132] There is not much dispute as to the scope of the protection afforded by the PBSA.

[133] Subsection 8(1) PBSA provides that the employer is deemed to hold the following amounts in trust:

- (a) the moneys in the pension fund,
- (b) an amount equal to the aggregate of the following payments that have accrued to date:
 - (i) the prescribed payments, and
 - (ii) the payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement; and
- (c) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund:
 - (i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and
 - (ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer, including any amounts that are required to be paid under subsection 9.14(2) or 29(6).

⁶⁴ The Court has already concluded that Section 49 SPPA does not create a valid deemed trust and therefore this analysis is not necessary. It is included for the benefit of the parties in the event of an appeal.

[134] Section 9.14(2) PBSA deals with the situation where the employer has given a letter of credit to guarantee certain pension related obligations and is not relevant here.

[135] Subsection 29(6) PBSA deals with the obligations of the employer on termination of a pension plan:

29 (6) If the whole of a pension plan is terminated, the employer shall, without delay, pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the prescribed tests and standards for solvency referred to in subsection 9(1) and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the employer shall pay into the pension fund

(a) an amount equal to the normal cost that has accrued to the date of the termination;

(b) the amounts of any prescribed special payments that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(c) the amounts of payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(d) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of the termination:

(i) the amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer; and

(e) the amounts of all of the payments that are required to be made under subsection 9.14(2).

[136] The language of Section 29(6.4) and (6.5) PBSA expressly provides that the deemed trust does not extend to the solvency deficit on termination of the plan:

(6.4) On the winding-up of the pension plan or the liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of the employer, the amount required to permit the plan to satisfy any obligations with respect to pension benefits as they are determined on the date of termination is payable immediately.

(6.5) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of the amount that the employer is required to pay into the pension fund under subsection (6.4). However, it applies in respect of any payments that have accrued before the date of the winding-up, liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy and that have not been remitted to the fund in accordance with the regulations made for the purposes of subsection (6.1).

500-11-048114-157

[137] The combined effect of these provisions is that the deemed trust under the PBSA covers the following amounts:

- The moneys in the pension fund;
- The normal cost that has accrued to the date of termination;
- The prescribed special payments that are due on termination or before the end of the plan year;
- The payments under a workout agreement that are due on termination or before the end of the plan year; and
- The unremitted deductions at source.

[138] There is no issue in the present matter with respect to the pension fund itself. It is clear that it is held separate and apart from the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

[139] Further, there do not appear to be any accrued normal costs or unremitted deductions.

[140] There are special payments and catch-up special payments owing, some pre-filing but mostly post-filing because the Court suspended the Wabush CCAA Parties' obligation to make the special payments on June 26, 2015. To the extent that the special payments and catch-up special payments relate to federal employees or retirees, they are in principle protected by the federal deemed trust.

iii. NLPBA

[141] Essentially, Section 32(1) and (2) NLPBA are very similar to Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA. However, there is no equivalent in the PBSA to Section 32(4) NLPBA, and Section 61 NLPBA does not include the equivalent to Section 29(6.5) PBSA.

[142] The NL Superintendent pleads that the deemed trust and the lien and charge under the NLPBA cover the wind-up deficit.

[143] For the reasons described above, the Court will assume for the purposes of the present decision that the deemed trust and the lien and charge under the NLPBA cover the wind-up deficit.

d. Property covered

[144] The issue is whether the deemed trust and the lien and charge under the NLPBA extend to assets beyond the province. More specifically, there are significant proceeds held by the Monitor resulting from the sale of assets in Québec which the Pension Parties argue should be subject to the deemed trust and lien and charge under the NLPBA.

[145] The Court will assume that the NLPBA, as a matter of Newfoundland and Labrador law, extends to assets outside the province. The issue is whether Québec law recognizes the deemed trust and the lien and charge created by Newfoundland and Labrador law as applying to assets in Québec.

[146] The Pension Parties argue that the deemed trust created under the NLPBA is a trust established by law, and that as a result it is a valid trust in Québec under Article 1262 C.C.Q. This is not a proper analysis under principles of private international law. It assumes that “created by law” in Article 1262 C.C.Q. includes foreign laws. Followed to its logical conclusion, it would mean that any trust created by law anywhere in the world can validly charge assets in Québec and that the Québec courts must recognize any such trust. The Court does not agree. Rather, the Court reads Article 1262 C.C.Q. as being limited to trusts created under Québec law.⁶⁵ A trust created under a foreign law will only be recognized in Québec under the relevant rules of private international law.

[147] There are several ways to characterize the issue under the rules of private international law in Québec.

[148] If it is viewed as a property issue, the rules of private international law in Québec provide that matters of real rights and their publication are governed by the law of the place where the property concerned is situated (Article 3097 C.C.Q.). This suggests that, if the province of Newfoundland and Labrador seeks to create a deemed trust over property in Québec, Québec will not recognize that the deemed trust extends to property in Québec.

[149] Similarly, the rules on movable securities provide that the validity of a movable security is governed by the law of the state in which the property charged with it is situated at the time of creation of the security (Article 3102 C.C.Q.).

[150] Finally, if it is viewed as a matter of employment law, Article 3118 C.C.Q. provides that the law of the state where the worker habitually carries out his work applies to the contract of employment.

[151] The Pension Parties invoke Article 3079 C.C.Q.:

3079. Where legitimate and manifestly preponderant interests so require, effect may be given to a mandatory provision of the law of another State with which the situation is closely connected.

In deciding whether to do so, consideration is given to the purpose of the provision and the consequences of its application.

[152] They argue that the NLPBA is such a mandatory law, and that the Québec courts should therefore give effect to it.

[153] However, the NLPBA only applies to the workers who report to work in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador, while the SPPA applies to workers who report for work in the province of Québec. If the NLPBA extended to property in Québec, this would be to the prejudice of the Québec workers who would see a deemed trust for the benefit of their co-workers applied to the assets to which the Québec workers report for work. The Court cannot conclude in these circumstances that the interests of the foreign workers are “manifestly preponderant” over the interests of the Québec workers.

[154] As a result, the Court concludes that the deemed trust under the NLPBA does not apply to assets within the province of Québec.

4. Has there been a “liquidation” to trigger the deemed trusts under the PBSA and the NLPBA ?

[155] The deemed trust under Section 8(2) of the PBSA becomes effective only “[i]n the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy” of the employer. The exact same language is found in Section 32(2) NLPBA and the Court assumes that the words are to be interpreted in the same way.

[156] The key issue here is whether the CCAA proceedings themselves, or some event within the CCAA proceedings, constitute a “liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy” of the employer.

[157] The term “bankruptcy” is the clearest. It must mean a formal bankruptcy under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act,⁶⁶ following an assignment in bankruptcy by the debtor or a bankruptcy order issued by the court following a petition in bankruptcy by a creditor. There are also deemed assignments in bankruptcy on the failure to file a proposal within the delays or the refusal of a proposal. It is clear in the present matter that there has not been a bankruptcy in any of these senses.

[158] The term “assignment” likely refers to an assignment in bankruptcy, even though that creates an overlap between “bankruptcy” and “assignment”. The alternative is to read “assignment” more broadly to refer to any assignment of property by the employer. However, Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA go on to refer to “the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy”, which suggests that all of the employer’s property has been assigned to a third party and is being administered by the third party. This brings us back to the notion of an assignment in bankruptcy as opposed to contractual assignments of property by the employer. Further, how could the deemed trust attach each time the employer assigns any property? Or if the deemed trust attaches only once, which assignment of property causes it to attach?

[159] That leaves the third term, “liquidation”. The Monitor, the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Ville de Sept-Îles argue that the term “liquidation” should be limited to formal liquidation proceedings under a statute such Part XVIII of the Canada Business Corporations Act.⁶⁷ The Pension Parties invite the Court not to give the term

⁶⁷ R.S.C. 1985, c. C-44.

“liquidation” the narrow technical sense of a formal liquidation. Rather, they suggest that in the present matter, the Wabush CCAA Parties used the CCAA process in order to liquidate their assets and that this should be sufficient to trigger the deemed trust provisions. They argue that this liberal interpretation is in accordance with the presumed intention of the legislator to protect pension plans and in accordance with a functional analysis since there has clearly been a liquidation in the present matter.

[160] It is clear in the present matter that the Wabush CCAA parties have liquidated their assets. With the sale of the Wabush mine in June, the Wabush CCAA parties have now sold all or substantially all of their assets. However, they did not institute formal liquidation proceedings. They proceeded instead under the CCAA with what has come to be known as a “liquidating CCAA”:

Liquidating CCAA: As discussed above, this is a relatively new type of proceeding in which the debtor’s assets are sold either piecemeal or on a going concern basis under the CCAA court’s supervision. The sales may occur pursuant to a plan that has been approved by the creditors, or they may occur in the absence of a plan. Notably, many recent CCAA proceedings have been liquidating CCAAs from the outset. That is, the debtor never intended to present a reorganization plan to its creditors, and merely applied for CCAA protection so that it could begin a marketing process to sell substantially all of its assets. In such cases, the debtor might present a post-sale plan to its creditors that is essentially a plan of distribution of the sale proceeds, or the debtor may simply enter bankruptcy proceedings. For reasons that will be discussed further below, liquidating CCAAs are controversial and may not be consistent with the corporate rescue purpose of the CCAA.⁶⁸

[161] The Court agrees that it is not relevant that the liquidation was done outside the BIA and the CBCA.

[162] First, the Court notes that the liquidation regime under Part XVIII of the CBCA is only available to corporations that are solvent (Section 208 CBCA). As a result, liquidation under the CBCA was never an option for the Wabush CCAA Parties. Moreover, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and the NLPBA are of limited value in the case when the employer is solvent.

[163] Further, although the debtor in a CCAA proceeding remains in possession of his assets, there is a court-appointed monitor and the process is under the supervision of the court. This is sufficient to meet the requirement of “the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy”.

[164] Finally, the conclusion that the deemed trust is triggered by a liquidation under the BIA but not a liquidation under the CCAA seems to run counter to the idea that creditors should have analogous entitlements under the CCAA and the BIA.⁶⁹ It would also allow the employer to avoid the deemed trust by choosing to proceed under the CCAA rather than the BIA. The Supreme Court addressed a similar concern in different circumstances in Indalex in the following way:

[47] The Court of Appeal declined to decide whether a deemed trust arose in relation to the Executive Plan, stating that it was unnecessary to decide this issue. However, the court expressed concern that a reasoning that deprived the Executive Plan's members of the benefit of a deemed trust would mean that a company under CCAA protection could avoid the priority of the PBA deemed trust simply by not winding up an underfunded pension plan. The fear was that Indalex could have relied on its own inaction to avoid the consequences that flow from a wind up. I am not convinced that the Court of Appeal's concern has any impact on the question whether a deemed trust exists, and I doubt that an employer could avoid the consequences of such a security interest simply by refusing to wind up a pension plan. The Superintendent may take a number of steps, including ordering the wind up of a pension plan under s. 69(1) of the PBA in a variety of circumstances (see s. 69(1)(d) PBA). The Superintendent did not choose to order that the plan be wound up in this case.⁷⁰

[Emphasis added]

[165] Similarly, the employer should not be allowed to avoid the priority of the deemed trust by choosing to liquidate under the CCAA rather than the BIA.

[166] The Court therefore concludes that there has been a liquidation in the present matter triggering the application of the deemed trusts under the PBSA and the NLPBA.⁷¹

[167] The next question is when did it occur? Because the deemed trust attaches to the employer's assets at the time of the triggering event, it is important to know exactly when it occurred. It cannot be a vague date or a range of dates.

[168] In moving away from requiring a filing under the BIA or the CBCA to taking a more practical view, the Court recognizes that the date of the liquidation may prove to be a difficult determination and may inject some uncertainty into the process. However, the Court considers that some uncertainty is a small price to pay for greater protection of the rights of the pensioners.

[169] In the present matter, the date that the liquidation began is fairly clear.

[170] The Wabush CCAA Parties initiated proceedings under the CCAA on May 19, 2015. Prior to the filing of the CCAA motion, operations at the Wabush Mine had been permanently shut down. The employees had been terminated or laid off. The Wabush CCAA Parties had tried unsuccessfully to find buyers and/or investors for the Wabush mine operations and/or assets.

[171] Moreover, when the Wabush CCAA proceedings were initiated, the Bloom Lake parties were already subject to CCAA proceedings and they had obtained an order approving a sale and investor solicitation process ("SISP") for their assets. The SISP already covered the Wabush mine assets and included the possibility of soliciting "liquidation proposals".

[172] With the benefit of hindsight, the Court notes that the Wabush CCAA Parties did not receive any proposals for investments but only offers to purchase assets. Ultimately, the Wabush CCAA Parties sold off all or essentially all of their assets in piecemeal fashion. That was always the likely outcome of the CCAA process.

[173] In these circumstances, the Court concludes that this was a liquidating CCAA from the outset. The Court therefore concludes that the liquidation started on May 19, 2015 and that the deemed trusts under Section 8(2) PBSA and Section 32(2) NLPBA came into effect on that date.

[174] The Court notes that there is nothing in any way pejorative about qualifying the CCAA as a liquidating CCAA. That is a legitimate and increasingly frequent use of CCAA proceedings. However, a liquidating CCAA should be more analogous to a BIA proceeding. One of the consequences is that the deemed trusts should be triggered.

[175] Because the Court has concluded that the triggering event occurred when the CCAA motion was filed, the Court need not decide whether the triggering event must occur prior to the initial CCAA order, or whether it can occur after the initial CCAA order but prior to the sale of the assets.⁷²

5. Are the deemed trusts and other charges valid in the CCAA context?

[176] Given that the PBSA and the NLPBA operate in much the same manner, the analysis of whether they are applicable in the CCAA context is quite similar. However, there is one very important distinction: the PBSA is federal legislation and the NLPBA is provincial legislation. Because both the PBSA and the CCAA are federal legislation, the issue of how they operate together is a matter of determining Parliament's intent. With respect to a provincial deemed trust, the Supreme Court in Indalex stated that:

The provincial deemed trust under the PBA continues to apply in CCAA proceedings, subject to the doctrine of federal paramountcy.⁷³

a. the NLPBA and the doctrine of federal paramountcy

[177] The Court will consider first the operation of the NLPBA and the doctrine of federal paramountcy.

⁷² In Indalex, supra note 69, Justice Deschamps seems to suggest that the triggering event must occur before the sale (par. 46) while Justices Cromwell (par. 92 and 118) and LeBel (par. 265) state that the triggering event must occur prior to the CCAA filing. See also Grant Forest Products Inc. (Re), 2013 ONSC 5933, par. 25 and 71, appeal dismissed 2015 ONCA 570, par. 130.

⁷³ Indalex, supra note 69, par. 52.

[178] The Supreme Court recently summarized the doctrine of federal paramountcy in Lemare Lake.⁷⁴

- A provincial law will be deemed to be inoperative to the extent that it conflicts with or is inconsistent with a federal law;
- The first step in the analysis is to determine whether the federal and provincial laws are validly enacted;
- The second step requires consideration of whether any overlap between the two laws constitutes a conflict sufficient to render the provincial law inoperative;
- Two kinds of conflict are at play: (1) an operational conflict, where compliance with both the federal and provincial law is impossible; and (2) frustration of purpose, where the provincial law thwarts the purpose of the federal law;
- Operational conflict arises where one enactment says “yes” and the other says “no”, such that compliance with one is defiance of the other;
- To prove that provincial legislation frustrates the purpose of a federal enactment, the party relying on the doctrine must first establish the purpose of the relevant federal statute, and then prove that the provincial legislation is incompatible with this purpose;
- Paramountcy must be narrowly construed: when a federal statute can be properly interpreted so as not to interfere with a provincial statute, such an interpretation is to be applied in preference to another applicable construction which would bring about a conflict between the two statutes.

[179] In Indalex, the Supreme Court held that the charge in favour of the interim lender superseded the provincial deemed trust because of the doctrine of federal paramountcy. The Supreme Court used the language of operational conflict:

[60] In this case, compliance with the provincial law necessarily entails defiance of the order made under federal law. On the one hand, s. 30(7) of the PPSA required a part of the proceeds from the sale related to assets described in the provincial statute to be paid to the plan's administrator before other secured creditors were paid. On the other hand, the Amended Initial Order provided that the DIP charge ranked in priority to “all other security interests, trusts, liens, charges and encumbrances, statutory or otherwise” (para. 45). Granting priority to the DIP lenders subordinates the claims of other stakeholders, including the Plan Members. This court-ordered priority based on the CCAA has the same effect as a statutory priority. The federal and provincial laws are inconsistent, as they give rise to different, and conflicting, orders of priority. As a result of the application of the doctrine of federal paramountcy, the DIP charge supersedes the deemed trust.⁷⁵

[180] The Court followed Indalex when it granted priority to the Interim Lender Charge over the deemed trust under the NLPBA in June 2015.⁷⁶

[181] The issue now is a broader one, whether the deemed trusts under the NLPBA have any effect in the context of CCAA proceedings.

[182] No one argues that the CCAA and the NLPBA are not validly enacted.

[183] Nothing in the CCAA expressly invalidates deemed trusts under pension legislation. Section 37(1) CCAA, which was added to the CCAA in 2007, invalidates in the CCAA context most deemed trusts in favour of the Crown. However, it does not invalidate deemed trusts in favour of other persons, such as the deemed trust under the NLPBA. The Court emphasized in its June 2015 decision that certain statements in *Century Services*⁷⁷ and *Aveos*⁷⁸ about deemed trusts should be limited to deemed trusts in favour of the Crown and should not be applied to all deemed trusts.⁷⁹

[184] The CCAA provides specific protection for certain pension-related liabilities. Section 6(6) and (7) CCAA require that the employer provide for certain pension payments before the court can sanction the compromise or arrangement:

6 (6) If the company participates in a prescribed pension plan for the benefit of its employees, the court may sanction a compromise or an arrangement in respect of the company only if

(a) the compromise or arrangement provides for payment of the following amounts that are unpaid to the fund established for the purpose of the pension plan:

(i) an amount equal to the sum of all amounts that were deducted from the employees' remuneration for payment to the fund,

(ii) if the prescribed pension plan is regulated by an Act of Parliament,

(A) an amount equal to the normal cost, within the meaning of subsection 2(1) of the Pension Benefits Standards Regulations, 1985, that was required to be paid by the employer to the fund, and

(B) an amount equal to the sum of all amounts that were required to be paid by the employer to the fund under a defined contribution provision, within the meaning of ⁷⁵ Indalex, supra note 69, par. 60.

subsection 2(1) of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985,

(C) an amount equal to the sum of all amounts that were required to be paid by the employer to the administrator of a pooled registered pension plan, as defined in subsection 2(1) of the Pooled Registered Pension Plans Act, and

(iii) in the case of any other prescribed pension plan,

(A) an amount equal to the amount that would be the normal cost, within the meaning of subsection 2(1) of the Pension Benefits Standards Regulations, 1985, that the employer would be required to pay to the fund if the prescribed plan were regulated by an Act of Parliament, and

(B) an amount equal to the sum of all amounts that would have been required to be paid by the employer to the fund under a defined contribution provision, within the meaning of subsection 2(1) of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, if the prescribed plan were regulated by an Act of Parliament,

(C) an amount equal to the sum of all amounts that would have been required to be paid by the employer in respect of a prescribed plan, if it were regulated by the Pooled Registered Pension Plans Act; and

(b) the court is satisfied that the company can and will make the payments as required under paragraph (a).

(7) Despite subsection (6), the court may sanction a compromise or arrangement that does not allow for the payment of the amounts referred to in that subsection if it is satisfied that the relevant parties have entered into an agreement, approved by the relevant pension regulator, respecting the payment of those amounts.

[185] Section 36(7) CCAA provides a similar limitation on the court's power to authorize a sale of assets:

36 (7) The court may grant the authorization [to sell or otherwise dispose of assets outside the ordinary course of business] only if the court is satisfied that the company can and will make the payments that would have been required under paragraphs 6(4)(a) and (5)(a) if the court had sanctioned the compromise or arrangement.

[186] These provisions are limited in scope. They protect the employee contributions deducted at source by the employer and not yet remitted to the pension fund as well as the normal cost payments due by the employer. They do not protect the special payments due or the wind-up deficiency.

[187] There is no operational conflict between these provisions and the deemed trust under the NLPBA in the sense that the deemed trust under the NLPBA protects additional amounts that are not protected by the CCAA.

[188] The question is whether the NLPBA frustrates Parliament's purpose by protecting additional amounts. Did Parliament intend that only the employee contributions and the normal cost payments be protected or did Parliament provide a minimum level of protection, leaving it to the provincial legislatures to extend the protection to additional amounts if they thought it appropriate to do so?

[189] This is not a matter of, as the NL Superintendent puts it in his outline of argument, "relying on the largely discredited and marginalized doctrine of 'negative implication' or 'covering the field'."⁸⁰ The Court will not assume that Parliament intended to occupy the field. There is a substantial body of written evidence as to Parliament's intent in adopting Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA. There are the submissions made to Parliament in relation to the protection of pension plans in insolvency, the deliberations of the committees and of Parliament, and the final decision reached by Parliament. Justice Deschamps cited the report of the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce in her judgment in Indalex:

[81] There are good reasons for giving special protection to members of pension plans in insolvency proceedings. Parliament considered doing so before enacting the most recent amendments to the CCAA, but chose not to (An Act to amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, the Wage Earner Protection Program Act and chapter 47 of the Statutes of Canada, 2005, S.C. 2007, c. 36, in force September 18, 2009, SI/2009-68; see also Bill C-501, An Act to amend the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and other Acts (pension protection), 3rd Sess., 40th Parl., March 24, 2010 (subsequently amended by the Standing Committee on Industry, Science and Technology, March 1, 2011)). A report of the Standing Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce gave the following reasons for this choice:

Although the Committee recognizes the vulnerability of current pensioners, we do not believe that changes to the BIA regarding pension claims should be made at this time. Current pensioners can also access retirement benefits from the Canada/Quebec Pension Plan, and the Old Age Security and Guaranteed Income Supplement programs, and may have private savings and Registered Retirement Savings Plans that can provide income for them in retirement. The desire expressed by some of our witnesses for greater protection for pensioners and for employees currently participating in an occupational pension plan must be balanced against the interests of others. As we noted earlier, insolvency – at its essence – is characterized by insufficient assets to satisfy everyone, and choices must be made.

The Committee believes that granting the pension protection sought by some of the witnesses would be sufficiently unfair to other stakeholders that we cannot recommend the changes requested. For example, we feel that super priority status could unnecessarily reduce the moneys available for distribution to creditors. In turn, credit availability and the cost of credit could be negatively affected, and all those seeking credit in Canada would be disadvantaged.

(Debtors and Creditors Sharing the Burden: A Review of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (2003), at p. 98; see also p. 88.)

[82] In an insolvency process, a CCAA court must consider the employer's fiduciary obligations to plan members as their plan administrator. It must grant a remedy where appropriate. However, courts should not use equity to do what they wish Parliament had done through legislation.⁸¹

[190] The Monitor cites a number of other reports, summaries and bills in his outline of arguments.

[191] The Pension Parties argue that extrinsic evidence is inadmissible to establish Parliament's purpose in a paramountcy analysis. They argue that Parliament's intention must be stated in the statute which is said to be paramount. However, in Lemare Lake, Justice Gascon, speaking for the majority, considered extrinsic evidence of Parliament's intention but found it to be insufficient:

[45] This is, in our respectful view, insufficient evidence for casting s. 243's purpose so widely. As the Court explained in COPA, at para. 68, "clear proof of purpose" is required to successfully invoke federal paramountcy on the basis of frustration of federal purpose. The totality of the evidence presented by amicus does not meet this high burden. While cases and secondary sources can obviously be helpful in identifying a provision's purpose, the sources cited by amicus merely establish promptness and timeliness as general considerations in bankruptcy and receivership processes. The absence of sufficient evidence supporting amicus's claim about the broad purpose of s. 243 is fatal to his claim. What the evidence shows instead is a simple and narrow purpose: the establishment of a regime allowing for the appointment of a national receiver, thereby eliminating the need to apply for the appointment of a receiver in multiple jurisdictions.⁸²

[Emphasis added]

[192] In the present matter, the evidence is clear and the conclusion is inescapable. Parliament was not setting minimum requirements or a floor that must be respected, while leaving it to the provinces to decide whether in their jurisdictions to protect additional amounts owing to pension funds. It is clear that Parliament had weighed the competing interests and decided that this was the protection that all pension plan members across Canada would receive. It left no room for the provinces.

[193] It is also important to consider the BIA.

⁸¹ Indalex, supra note 69, par. 81-82.

⁸² Lemare Lake, supra note 74, par. 45.

[194] The BIA provides a scheme for distribution of the bankrupt's assets: it excludes property that the debtor holds in trust for any other person (Section 67(1)(a)), it recognizes the rights of secured creditors (Sections 127-134), it provides for the priority of certain claims (Section 136), it postpones the claims of non-arm's length parties (Section 137) and it pays all other claims rateably (Section 141).

[195] There is a substantial body of Supreme Court jurisprudence standing for the proposition that provinces cannot change this scheme of distribution. The principles were summarized by Justice Gonthier in Husky Oil:

(1) provinces cannot create priorities between creditors or change the scheme of distribution on bankruptcy under s. 136(1) of the Bankruptcy Act;

(2) while provincial legislation may validly affect priorities in a non-bankruptcy situation, once bankruptcy has occurred section 136(1) of the Bankruptcy Act determines the status and priority of the claims specifically dealt with in that section;

(3) if the provinces could create their own priorities or affect priorities under the Bankruptcy Act this would invite a different scheme of distribution on bankruptcy from province to province, an unacceptable situation; and

(4) the definition of terms such as "secured creditor", if defined under the Bankruptcy Act, must be interpreted in bankruptcy cases as defined by the federal Parliament, not the provincial legislatures. Provinces cannot affect how such terms are defined for purposes of the Bankruptcy Act.

(5) in determining the relationship between provincial legislation and the Bankruptcy Act, the form of the provincial interest created must not be allowed to triumph over its substance. The provinces are not entitled to do indirectly what they are prohibited from doing directly;

(6) there need not be any provincial intention to intrude into the exclusive federal sphere of bankruptcy and to conflict with the order of priorities of the Bankruptcy Act in order to render the provincial law inapplicable. It is sufficient that the effect of provincial legislation is to do so.⁸³

[196] These principles have been applied by the Supreme Court to invalidate a number of attempts by the provinces to give the Crown priority for certain claims.⁸⁴ The argument was that the predecessors of the current Section 136(1)(j) BIA gave the federal and provincial Crown a limited priority, and that any attempt by the province to improve that ranking was inoperative. The argument extended not only to deemed trusts but also to other priorities established by the provinces in favour of the Crown which were not published and were not available generally to other creditors.

[197] The Monitor argues that this same argument applies in the present matter to invalidate the deemed trust and the lien and charge under the NLPBA as provincial attempts to change the scheme of distribution in the CCAA.

[198] For the argument to apply in the present matter, there must be two extensions:

- (1) the argument must be extended from Crown claims to pension claims, and
- (2) the argument must be extended from the BIA to the CCAA.

[199] As for extending the argument from Crown claims to pension claims, there are two important differences between a Crown claim and a pension claim: (1) the priority of Crown claims is expressly provided by Section 136(1)(j) BIA, whereas there is a pension charge created by Sections 81.5 and 81.6 BIA, and (2) the BIA was amended in 1992 to expressly provide that deemed trusts (Section 67(2)) and security (Section 86(1)) in favour of the Crown (whether federal or provincial) are generally not effective in bankruptcy, subject to a number of exceptions which are not relevant in this matter.

[200] Neither difference is fatal to the extension of the argument. Pension claims are not mentioned in Section 136 BIA because they are not preferred claims: some pension claims are secured claims under Sections 81.5 and 81.6 BIA and in principle the rest are ordinary unsecured claims in a bankruptcy. It is not necessary that they be mentioned specifically in Section 136 BIA.

[201] The provisions dealing expressly with Crown claims clearly have no application to pension claims. However, those provisions were not necessary to conclude that a provincial priority conflicts with the BIA scheme of distribution. Even though pension claims are treated differently from Crown claims, they are part of the scheme of distribution under the BIA and any attempt by the province to change that scheme of distribution is inoperative.

[202] The argument that the BIA scheme of distribution applies in CCAA proceedings is more difficult.

[203] There is no statutory scheme of distribution under the CCAA because the CCAA is not intended to be the vehicle for a liquidation of assets and distribution of the proceeds. The CCAA is intended as a vehicle for the restructuring of the debtor. In principle, a plan will be submitted to the creditors and they will have the right to vote on it. For that reason, there is no need to provide a scheme of distribution.

[204] However, as we have already discussed, the present matter involves a liquidating CCAA.

[205] In that context, it is clear that the scheme of distribution under the BIA is very relevant. If the creditors are offered a plan in the context of a liquidating CCAA, it will be limited to distributing the proceeds of the sale of the debtor's assets. The creditors will inevitably compare what they are getting under the plan to what they would get under the BIA. If any creditor is offered less under the plan, he will likely vote against the plan or oppose its approval by the court, with a view to petitioning the debtor into bankruptcy. Justice Deschamps referred to this in Indalex as the creditors “bargain[ing] in the shadow of their bankruptcy entitlements”⁸⁵. As Justice Deschamps wrote in Century Services:

[47] Moreover, a strange asymmetry would arise if the interpretation giving the ETA priority over the CCAA urged by the Crown is adopted here: the Crown would retain priority over GST claims during CCAA proceedings but not in bankruptcy. As courts have reflected, this can only encourage statute shopping by secured creditors in cases such as this one where the debtor's assets cannot satisfy both the secured creditors' and the Crown's claims (Gauntlet, at para. 21). If creditors' claims were better protected by liquidation under the BIA, creditors' incentives would lie overwhelmingly with avoiding proceedings under the CCAA and not risking a failed reorganization. Giving a key player in any insolvency such skewed incentives against reorganizing under the CCAA can only undermine that statute's remedial objectives and risk inviting the very social ills that it was enacted to avert.⁸⁶

[206] In the same way, if the Court concludes that the NLPBA deemed trusts are valid in a liquidating CCAA but not in a BIA proceeding, then the creditors affected by the deemed trust will simply put the Wabush CCAA Parties into bankruptcy.

[207] Alternatively, it is frequently the outcome of a liquidating CCAA that no plan is submitted and the debtor slips into a bankruptcy under the BIA for the purpose of distributing its assets.

[208] The bottom line is that a liquidating CCAA requires a scheme of distribution and the only one which makes sense is the scheme of distribution under the BIA. As a result, and unless there is a contradiction between the CCAA and the BIA, the BIA scheme of distribution should apply in a liquidating CCAA.

[209] Under Section 81.6 BIA, the same amounts which are protected by Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA are secured by security on all of the bankrupt's assets. There is no asymmetry. There is no security for the unpaid special payments and wind-up deficit and those are treated as unsecured claims.⁸⁷

[210] In light of all of these circumstances, the Court concludes that it would frustrate the purpose of Parliament if the deemed trust under the NLPBA operated in the context of a CCAA proceeding. The doctrine of federal paramountcy therefore renders the deemed trust under the NLPBA inoperable.

⁸⁵ Indalex, supra note 69, par. 51.

⁸⁶ Century Services, supra note 77, par. 47.

⁸⁷ Moreover, there is the argument that the pension administrator cannot be a « secured creditor » as a result of the lien and charge created by Section 32(4) NLPBA because the amounts owing by the employer are not due to the pension administrator. As a result, it cannot be a « secured creditor » as that term is defined in the BIA: Harbert Distressed Investment Fund, L.P. v. General Chemical Canada Ltd., 2007 ONCA 600, par. 32, leave to appeal to Supreme Court refused, 2008 CanLII 6391.

b. the PBSA and Parliament's intent

[211] The same conflict exists between the CCAA and the PBSA: the PBSA creates a deemed trust for the special payments due to the pension fund whereas the special payments are not protected under the CCAA.

[212] Because the CCAA and the PBSA are both federal statutes enacted by the same legislator, it is not an issue of paramountcy but rather a question of the determination of the legislator's intention.

[213] As the Court wrote in its June 2015 judgment:

[74] It is difficult to reconcile Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA with a broad interpretation of Section 8(2) PBSA. Why would the legislator give specific protection to the normal payments by amending the CCAA in 2009 if the deemed trust protecting not only the normal payments but also the special payments was effective in the CCAA context? Why would the legislator not protect the special payments under Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA if they were already protected under a deemed trust? What happens to the deemed trust for the special payments if there is an arrangement or an asset sale? Because both statutes were adopted by the same legislator, we must try to determine the legislator's intent.⁸⁸

[214] In Century Services, the Supreme Court was faced with a similar conflict between the deemed trust for GST under the Excise Tax Act and the CCAA. The language of the *Excise Tax Act*⁸⁹ provided that the deemed trust was effective notwithstanding any law of Canada other than the BIA. Justice Deschamps adopted "a purposive and contextual analysis to determine Parliament's true intent" (par. 44) and examined the "internal logic of the CCAA" (par. 46), before concluding that the deemed trust for GST was not effective in a CCAA proceeding.

[215] The Court adopts the following reasoning to resolve the conflict:

Given that the pension provisions of the BIA and CCAA came into force much later than s. 8 of the PBSA, normal interpretation would require that the later legislation be deemed to be remedial in nature. Likewise, since those provisions of the BIA and CCAA are the more specific provisions, normal interpretation would take them to have precedence over the general. Finally, the limited scope of the protection given to pension claims in the BIA and the CCAA would, by application of the doctrine of implied exclusion, suggest that Parliament did not intend there to be any additional protection. In enacting BIA subs. 60(1.5) and 65.13(8) and ss. 81.5 and 81.6 and CCAA subs. 6(6) and 37(6), while not amending subs. 8(2) of the PBSA (by adding explicit priority language or by removing the insolvency trigger), Parliament demonstrated the intent that pension claims would have protection in insolvency and restructurings only to the limited extent set out in the BIA and the CCAA.⁹⁰

[Emphasis added]

[216] The Court therefore concludes that the PBSA deemed trust is not effective in the context of the present CCAA proceedings.

6. Conclusions

[217] As a result of the foregoing, the Court comes to the following conclusions:

1. The trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;
2. However, the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided for by Sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA.

[218] To provide greater clarity, the Court responds as follows to the questions raised by the Monitor in paragraph 76 of his Motion for Directions:

- a) "Liquidation" under Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA includes a liquidating plan under the CCAA;
- b) A "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA commenced when the Wabush CCAA Parties made a motion seeking CCAA protection on May 20, 2015;
- c) Not answered.
- d) The wind-up deficit is not covered by the PBSA deemed trust. The Court has assumed that it is covered by the deemed trust under the NLPBA, but has not come to any conclusion on the question;
- e) Not answered.
- f) Nothing in the NLPBA limits the assets covered by the deemed trust to assets located in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador;
- g) The Court would not recognize or enforce the deemed trust under the NLPBA against assets located in the province of Québec.

[219] Finally, with respect to the orders sought by the Representative Employees in their Argumentation Outline, the Court adds that the Plans are governed by the PBSA for the railway employees, by the SPPA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and by the NLPBA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in NL.

[220] At the outset, the Court said it would reserve the rights of the parties to ask the Court to revise the conclusions of the present judgment if: (1) the NLCA decides that the interpretation of the NLPBA is different from the interpretation that the Court assumed, and (2) that difference is material to the Court's conclusions.

[221] However, based on its analysis and conclusions in the present judgment, the Court can now remove that reserve, because the interpretation of the NLPBA was not material to the Court's conclusions.

[222] If the NLCA disagrees with the Court on any issue other than the interpretation of the NLPBA, that will be a matter that the parties can raise on appeal.

FOR THESE REASONS, THE COURT:

[223] GRANTS the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;

[224] DECLARES that the trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

[225] DECLARES that the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided for by Sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA;

OSFI says that the PBSA applies exclusively to the pension plan members who as employees used to work on the Wabush Mines railway (railways being a federal undertaking), to the exclusion of the NLPBA.

PROCÈS-VERBAL D'UNE CONFÉRENCE TÉLÉPHONIQUE DE GESTION TENUE LE 13 DÉCEMBRE 20171- Introduction

[1] La présente fait suite aux lettres de Me Ashby du 1^{er} décembre 2017 et à celles de Me Hatnay des 1^{er} et 11 décembre 2017 concernant le tableau synthèse des questions en litige dont il est question aux paragraphes 2 et suivants du procès-verbal de la conférence de gestion du 21 novembre 2017, sur lequel les parties ont à ce jour été incapables de s'entendre.

[2] Me Béchard-Torres est absent bien qu'ayant été dûment avisé et dans ces circonstances, il est décidé de procéder en son absence.

[3] La juge Savard encourage les parties à poursuivre les discussions afin de déposer un tableau conjoint des questions en litige, ce qui faciliterait grandement le travail de la Cour dans l'étude des dossiers.

[5] Pour chaque question, tous les dossiers dans lesquels elle est soulevée seront clairement identifiés par leurs numéros. Le tableau comportera également, pour chaque question, l'identification des appelants qui entendent faire des représentations à la Cour pour chacune des questions.

[6] Il est entendu que le tableau ne devra comprendre aucune argumentation ou représentation écrite et être limité à un exposé concis des questions en litige.

[7] Dans la rédaction de leurs argumentations les appelants devront respecter l'ordre et le libellé des questions en litige telles qu'énoncées dans ce tableau et à l'égard desquelles ils entendent s'adresser à la Cour.

[8] Les avocats des appelants qui sont présents s'engagent à communiquer avec Me Béchard-Torres afin de l'informer de cette manière de procéder.

[9] Ce tableau sera transmis à la Cour, par l'entremise de Me Julie Devroede, ainsi qu'aux avocats de l'intimée – appelante incidente et de la mise en cause – appelante incidente, au plus tard le 18 décembre 2017. Il sera également reproduit à l'annexe II conjointe.

[11] Ce second tableau sera confectionné en conformité avec les modalités énoncées aux paragraphes 4 à 7 ci-dessus.

[13] Ce second tableau sera transmis à la Cour, par l'entremise de Me Julie Devroede, ainsi qu'aux avocats des appelants, au plus tard le 4 janvier 2018. Il sera également reproduit à l'annexe II conjointe.

PROCÈS-VERBAL D'UNE CONFÉRENCE DE GESTION TENUE LE 21 NOVEMBRE 20171- Introduction

[1] La juge Savard explique l'objectif de la rencontre. Après discussions, les parties procéderont selon les modalités suivantes.

2- Les questions en litige

[2] Dans le contexte où il y a ici 4 appels principaux et 2 appels incidents concernant le même jugement de première instance, afin d'éviter les recoupements et de mieux structurer l'argumentation en vue de la rédaction des mémoires, la juge Savard requiert que les avocats de toutes les parties communiquent entre eux afin d'identifier l'ensemble des questions en litige dont la Cour est saisie.

[3] Le tout sera présenté sous forme de tableau synthèse, faisant état de l'ensemble des questions en litige et de la position de chacune des parties, ou, le cas échéant, de son intention de ne pas faire de représentations, quant à chacune des questions. Il est convenu que les parties travailleront à partir du document déjà élaboré par Me Hatney, auquel ils apporteront les modifications nécessaires, notamment pour y ajouter les questions en litige soulevées dans les appels incidents, la question de la nécessité des appels incidents (à la suite du jugement de la juge Bich du 17 novembre 2017), ainsi que celle de la (ou les) norme(s) d'intervention applicable. De plus, les conclusions recherchées dans chacun des dossiers d'appel (appels principaux et appels incidents) devront être formulées distinctement, dans un document joint audit tableau synthèse.

[4] Tant dans le tableau que dans les mémoires, les questions en litige seront énumérées en fonction de l'ordre logique dans lequel elles devraient être abordées et sans égard au fait qu'elles soient soulevées dans le cadre d'un appel principal ou incident. Chaque partie devra suivre la numérotation et le libellé des questions en litige identifiées dans le tableau synthèse lors de la rédaction de leur mémoire respectif, étant entendu que leurs argumentations respectives ne porteront que sur les seules questions en litige qui les concernent.

[6] La version finale de ce tableau devra être transmise à la Cour, par l'entremise de Me Julie Devroede, au plus tard le 24 novembre 2017. Il sera également reproduit à l'annexe II conjointe. De plus, les parties conviennent que ce tableau sera mis à jour une fois tous les mémoires déposés afin d'y ajouter, pour chacune des questions en litige, la référence aux paragraphes pertinents de leurs mémoires respectifs.

3- Les mémoires

[7] Les mémoires seront déposés en versions papier et technologique, dans le second cas sur clé USB, en conformité avec le Règlement de procédure civile (Cour d'appel) (articles 41 à 52) (ci-après : « Règlement »), tout en tenant compte des modalités de ce procès-verbal.

3.1 Nombre de pages

[8] Après discussions, il est convenu que les parties disposeront du nombre de pages suivant pour leurs argumentations. Contrairement à la règle usuelle édictée à l'article 44 du Règlement, la partie IV des argumentations (les conclusions) sera exclue du décompte des pages.

- Pour les appelants Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel, Neil Johnson, en leur qualité de représentants désignés : une argumentation n'excédant pas 30 pages;
- Pour les autres appelants : des argumentations n'excédant pas 25 pages chacune;
- Pour l'intimée – appelante incidente FTI Consulting Canada Inc. : Une seule argumentation n'excédant pas 65 pages, à diviser à sa convenance entre les appels principaux et son appel incident;
- Pour les mis en cause Bloom Lake General Partner Limited et als. : une argumentation n'excédant pas 25 pages;
- Pour la mise en cause – appelante incidente la Ville de Sept-Îles : Une seule argumentation n'excédant pas 30 pages, à diviser à sa convenance entre les appels principaux et son appel incident;
- Pour les intimés incidents : des argumentations n'excédant pas 15 pages chacune.

[10] Il en sera de même du côté des mis en cause au regard de l'argumentation du contrôleur. Un délai leur est d'ailleurs accordé afin de s'assurer du respect de cet engagement (voir ci-dessous la section relative aux délais).

4- Les mémoires : annexes

[11] Il est convenu que les parties déposeront des annexes conjointes.

4.1 Modalités de dépôt des annexes I et II

[12] À l'annexe I sera reproduit le jugement dont appel du 11 septembre 2017.

[13] À l'annexe II seront reproduits les éléments suivants :

- Le tableau synthèse des questions en litige en appel et des conclusions recherchées par dossier d'appel;
- La dernière version (amendée) de la demande pour directives déposée par le contrôleur en première instance;
- Les autres jugements rendus dans le cadre des procédures en première instance, dans la seule mesure où ils sont pertinents aux questions en litige en appel;
- Les décisions déjà rendues par les juges de la Cour d'appel dans les présents dossiers.

4.2 Modalités de dépôt de l'annexe III – La reproduction de la preuve

[16] À cette annexe III conjointe sera reproduite l'ensemble de la preuve pertinente, notamment les éléments suivants :

- Les pièces jointes à la demande pour directives du contrôleur en première instance;
- Toutes les autres pièces déposées en première instance aux fins de ladite demande;
- La déclaration assermentée de M. Terry Watt;
- Les rapports du contrôleur déposés en première instance, dans la seule mesure où ils sont pertinents aux questions en litige en appel.

[17] Les annexes conjointes seront déposées en versions papier et technologique (clé USB) en 7 exemplaires (1 original + 6 copies).

[18] Il est entendu que les plans de plaidoirie, notes et autorités ou toute argumentation écrite déposés en première instance, de même que les transcriptions des plaidoiries en première instance, ne constituent pas des éléments de preuve et ainsi, ne doivent pas être reproduits en annexe des mémoires.

5- Index et hyperliens

[19] Chaque partie pourra insérer des hyperliens entre la table des matières de la version technologique de son mémoire et les procédures et pièces reproduites à l'annexe III, comme prévu à l'article 11 du Règlement.

[20] Également, la version technologique des argumentations pourra contenir des hyperliens permettant d'accéder rapidement aux procédures et pièces invoquées. L'utilisation d'hyperliens est facultative. Afin de faciliter la réalisation de ce travail, les parties bénéficieront d'un délai supplémentaire après le dépôt de leurs mémoires pour le dépôt d'une nouvelle version technologique des mémoires, avec hyperliens.

[22] Si une partie est autorisée à déposer une nouvelle version technologique de son mémoire, il devra être clairement indiqué que celle-ci remplace la version déjà déposée au dossier de la Cour. Dans un tel cas, le personnel de la Cour procédera à la destruction de la première version technologique du mémoire pour éviter toute confusion.

[23] Après discussions, il est convenu de l'échéancier suivant :

- Notification et dépôt des mémoires des appelants : au plus tard le 19 janvier 2018;
- Notification et dépôt du mémoire de l'intimée – appelante incidente : au plus tard le 16 mars 2018;
- Notification et dépôt des mémoires des mis en cause et de la mise en cause – appelante incidente : au plus tard le 29 mars 2018;
- Notification et dépôt des mémoires des intimés incidents : au plus tard le 11 avril 2018.

7- Recueils condensés

8- Cahiers de sources

[26] La juge Savard rappelle aux parties l'existence la directive G-8, quant à la liste des arrêts réputés faire partie du cahier de sources et que les parties ne doivent pas y reproduire (article 57 du Règlement).

[27] Les parties communiqueront entre elles afin de produire, dans la mesure du possible, un cahier de sources conjoint, ce qui facilitera le travail de la Cour en regroupant l'ensemble des sources pertinentes à un seul endroit et en évitant les doublons. Chaque partie pourra y signaler les passages qu'elle juge pertinents par une ligne simple ou double en marge ou un autre système clairement identifié par une légende.

[28] Les cahiers de sources seront déposés, sur support papier et en version technologique, au plus tard le 18 avril 2018 et en conformité avec les règles habituelles concernant la confection et le nombre d'exemplaires, à l'exception du délai de production (articles 56 et 58 du Règlement).

9- Date et durée d'audience

[29] Les parties sont avisées que les 11 et 12 juin 2017 sont réservés pour l'audition des dossiers.

[30] Quant à la durée d'audience, conformément à l'article 47 du Règlement, chaque partie indiquera dans l'attestation finale de son mémoire le temps souhaité pour sa plaidoirie

PAR LA JUGE

JUGEMENT

Requêtes de bene esse pour permission de former un appel incident présentées par la requérante FTI Consulting Canada inc.

[1] La requérante FTI Consulting Canada Inc. présente dans chacun des dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171 une requête de bene esse pour permission de former un appel incident à l'encontre du jugement prononcé le 11 septembre 2017 par la Cour supérieure, district de Montréal (l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton), dans le dossier 500-11-048114-157. Le 31 octobre 2017, le juge Healy a autorisé les appelants à se pourvoir contre ce jugement, conformément aux art. 13 et 14 de la *Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies*¹ et l'art. 357 C.p.c.

[2] Considérant l'arrêt de la Cour dans *Daigle c. Mathieu*², il paraît à première vue que la requérante FTI Consulting Canada inc. n'a pas besoin d'interjeter un appel incident pour faire valoir les moyens qu'elle avance aux paragr. 5-14 et 7 de ses requêtes de bene esse pour permission d'appeler. Dans cet arrêt, la Cour écrit en effet ce qui suit, sous la plume du juge Morissette :

[20] Il peut sembler inhabituel que l'intimée attaque une conclusion de la juge de première instance dans un mémoire où elle se porte par ailleurs à la défense du dispositif du jugement a quo et où elle demande à la Cour, par ses propres conclusions, de « rejeter l'appel principal ». En effet, le juge Adjudor Rivard a déjà écrit ce qui suit dans un ouvrage sur l'appel [renvoi omis] :

Ne peut donc former un appel recevable que celui qui est lésé par le jugement de première instance; la cause du préjudice doit se trouver dans le dispositif du jugement, non seulement dans les motifs.

Certes, l'intimée, en l'occurrence, a bel et bien formé un appel incident, mais celui-ci porte exclusivement sur le quantum de la réclamation et sa déclaration d'appel incident ne dit mot de ce qui est plaidé dans son mémoire sur l'appel principal. S'insurgeant contre ce procédé, les intimés incidents ont soutenu dans leur mémoire que « la Cour d'appel devrait purement et simplement ignorer ces représentations » sur la responsabilité professionnelle de Daigle dans la conduite du recours contre Clair. Si cependant la Cour acceptait d'entendre l'appelante incidente sur le bien-fondé du paragraphe [141] des motifs de première instance, ils demandaient la permission de plaider par écrit sur ce point – et à cette fin ils reproduisaient comme Annexe II à leur mémoire d'intimés incidents de larges extraits de l'argumentation écrite [renvoi omis] qu'ils avaient versée au dossier de la Cour supérieure.

[21] En réalité, cette situation n'a rien d'irrégulier, malgré ce que prétendent les intimés incidents. Les auteurs d'une monographie sur l'appel précisent à ce sujet [renvoi omis] :

L'intimé, dans le cadre de l'appel principal, peut demander à la Cour de réexaminer les aspects du jugement qui lui sont défavorables, en réponse à l'appel principal. Il n'y a donc pas lieu de former un appel incident pour attaquer des motifs de la décision auxquels l'intimé ne souscrit pas.

L'énoncé s'appuie sur deux arrêts récents de la Cour [renvoi : Citoyens pour une qualité de vie/Citizens for a Quality of Life c. Aéroports de Montréal, [2007] R.J.Q. 2362, 2007 QCCA 1274; Meunerie BL inc. (Syndic de), J.E. 2007-2253, 2007 QCCA 1601]. Ainsi donc, l'intimée pouvait plaider comme elle l'a fait dans son mémoire le caractère erroné de la conclusion formulée au paragraphe [141] des motifs de première instance; ce faisant, d'ailleurs, elle ne remettait aucunement en question le dispositif du jugement, elle offrait plutôt une raison additionnelle d'en confirmer le bien-fondé. Lorsque survient une telle situation, il arrive que la partie appelante demande la permission de produire un mémoire ampliatif pour répondre aux prétentions de la partie intimée. En l'espèce, c'est ce que les appelants ont fait dans l'Annexe à leur mémoire d'intimés incidents. Chaque partie aura donc été en mesure de faire valoir l'ensemble de ses prétentions sur les moyens soulevés de part et d'autre et il convient pour vider le litige de toutes les considérer. Cela clôt la question.

[3] Cet enseignement a été repris récemment dans *Harvey c. Gouvernement régional d'Eeyou Istchee Baie-James*³. On retrouve le même point de vue dans : *Del Guidice c. Honda Canada inc.*⁴, *Industrielle-Alliance, compagnie d'assurances générales c. Crédit Ford du Canada ltée*⁵; *Société canadienne des postes c. Blouin*⁶; *Campisi c. Procureur général du Québec*⁷.

[4] Toutes ces affaires ont cependant été décidées en vertu de l'ancien *Code de procédure civile*⁸, encore que rien dans le nouveau Code ne me semble a priori de nature à modifier l'état du droit sur le sujet.

chargée d'entendre l'appel principal dans chacun des dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171. Advenant que la Cour estime qu'un appel incident est nécessaire, elle pourra dès lors statuer en même temps sur la question de savoir si une permission est requise ou pas au vu de l'art. 359 C.p.c.¹⁰ (disposition dont il est question plus abondamment dans le jugement se rapportant aux requêtes de la mise en cause Ville de Sept-Îles, infra, paragr. [9] et s.). Le cas échéant, elle statuera aussi sur la question de savoir s'il y a lieu d'accorder la permission sollicitée.

POUR CES MOTIFS, les requêtes de bene esse pour permission d'appeler sont DÉFÉRÉES à la formation qui sera chargée d'entendre les appels principaux dans les dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171, et ce, pour y être plaidées tant sur la question procédurale que sur le fond, la gestion de l'affaire étant laissée entre les mains de la juge qui présidera la conférence de gestion du 21 novembre prochain, ou toute autre conférence.

Requêtes de bene esse pour permission de former un appel incident présentées par la requérante Ville de Sept-Îles

[8] La requérante Ville de Sept-Îles présente dans chacun des dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171 une requête de bene esse pour permission de former un appel incident à l'encontre du jugement prononcé le 11 septembre 2017 par la Cour supérieure, district de Montréal (l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton), dans le dossier 500-11-048114-157. Le 31 octobre 2017, le juge Healy a autorisé les appelants à se pourvoir contre ce jugement, conformément aux art. 13 et 14 de la *Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies*¹¹ et l'art. 357 C.p.c.

[9] Selon la requérante, vu le libellé de l'art. 359 C.p.c., elle peut interjeter cet appel par le seul dépôt d'une déclaration d'appel incident, ainsi que le confirmeraient les commentaires de la ministre de la Justice¹². Autrement dit, dans les cas où l'appel principal est assujéti à une permission préalable et, lorsque celle-ci est accordée, toute autre partie à l'appel ainsi autorisé pourrait former un appel incident par le dépôt au greffe d'une déclaration d'appel incident, et ce, sans autre formalité.

Voir également : Carrillo Garcia c. Succession de Leroux, 2017 QCCA 1631, qui défère à la Cour la question de savoir si l'appel incident requiert une permission lorsque l'appel principal a lui-même fait l'objet d'une autorisation préalable en vertu de l'art. 357 C.p.c. (art. 30, 2^e al., ou art. 31 C.p.c.).

[10] Ce point de vue ne fait toutefois pas l'unanimité et certains estiment plutôt que, à l'instar de la situation qui existait sous l'empire de l'ancien *Code de procédure civile*¹³, mais avant 2002, l'appel incident requiert en pareil cas une autorisation préalable, tout comme l'appel principal. Ce serait là le sens à donner aux nouvelles dispositions du *Code de procédure civile*¹⁴. À ce propos, les auteurs André Rochon et Juliette Vani s'expriment comme suit :

La ministre écrit dans ses commentaires sur l'article 359 que dès qu'un appel est logé « [t]oute autre partie peut interjeter son propre appel, incident à l'appel principal par une simple déclaration sans qu'il soit alors besoin d'obtenir une permission, le dossier étant ouvert ». Néanmoins, force est de conclure que ce n'est pas ce qui a été sanctionné dans la loi.

Contrairement à ce que laissent entendre les commentaires de la ministre, l'article 359 tel que rédigé ne reprend aucunement l'article 26.0.1 a.C.p.c. qui prévoyait que lors d'un appel, toute autre partie pouvait interjeter un appel de plein droit. C'est cet article qui dispensait les parties d'obtenir une permission pour former un appel incident qui en aurait autrement nécessité une. L'article 359 ne fait pas cette nuance. Il se borne à réitérer le contenu de l'article 500 a.C.p.c.

L'état du droit qui existait avant l'entrée en vigueur de l'art. 26.0.1 a.C.p.c., en 2002, sera donc de nouveau applicable. Avant cette date, seul l'article 500 a.C.p.c., repris à l'article 359, régissait le processus d'appel incident.

L'article 500 a.C.p.c. prévoyait que l'intimé pouvait former un « appel incident sans autre formalité qu'une déclaration, signifiée [...] et produite [...] ». Les termes « sans autre formalité » pouvaient laisser croire que lorsqu'une permission d'appeler était requise, l'article 500 a.C.p.c. en dispensait l'appelant incident. La Cour d'appel en a décidé autrement. Elle a statué que cet article consacrait seulement une procédure alternative et plus simple d'exercer un droit d'appel qui devrait être conféré par d'autres dispositions de la loi (Villeneuve (Ville de) c. Émile Drapeau inc. [1975] C.A. 874). Ainsi, lorsque la permission d'appeler était nécessaire pour conférer ce droit d'appel, l'art. 500 a.C.p.c. n'en dispensait pas l'appelant incident. C'est d'ailleurs pour contrer cet état de choses et dispenser l'appelant incident de demander une permission pour en appeler que l'article 26.0.1 a.C.p.c. a été promulgué en 2002.

L'article 359 ne reprend même pas les termes « sans autre formalité » qui apparaissaient à l'article 500 a.C.p.c. Contrairement à ce dernier, l'article 359 laisse encore moins penser qu'une permission d'appeler autrement nécessaire ne le serait pas en cas d'appel incident.

En l'absence de l'article 26.0.1 a.C.p.c., les parties ne sont donc plus dispensées d'obtenir une permission d'appeler lorsqu'elle est requise par l'article 30 ou 31 pour accorder la compétence à la Cour de trancher leur appel incident (Élomari c. Agence spatiale canadienne, 2005 QCCA 1229, EYB 2005-98905, J.E. 2006-120; Hoppenheim c. Feldman, 2005 QCCA 323, EYB 2005-88359, J.E. 2005-706 (j. unique); Compagnie d'assurance Jevco c. Compagnie d'assurance ING du Canada, 2005 QCCA 1263, EYB 2005-99278, J.E. 2006-176 (j. unique)).

Cette décision législative est non seulement cohérente avec l'esprit d'économie des ressources du Code, mais aussi avec le reste des modifications législatives relatives à l'appel incident.

[11] Comme le note la requérante au paragr. 7b) de ses requêtes, la Cour n'a pas encore eu l'occasion de se prononcer sur la portée de l'art. 359 C.p.c. et sur la manière dont l'appel incident doit être formé lorsque l'appel principal requiert lui-même une autorisation. C'est la raison pour laquelle, par prudence, elle a choisi de présenter en même temps que ses déclarations d'appel incident autant de requêtes de bene esse pour permission de former un appel incident.

[14] J'ajoute que, en cours d'audience, il m'a paru que les moyens soulevés par les requêtes pourraient être sujettes aux commentaires faits précédemment dans le jugement concernant la requérante FTI Consulting Canada Inc. (voir supra, paragr. [2] et s.).

[15] Tout cela étant, et pour éviter la perte d'un droit, les requêtes de bene esse de la mise en cause seront déférées à la Cour, pour y être plaidées en même temps sur la question procédurale et sur le fond des moyens qu'elles soulèvent.

POUR CES MOTIFS, les requêtes de bene esse pour permission d'appeler sont DÉFÉRÉES à la formation qui sera chargée d'entendre les appels principaux dans les

TO ONE OF THE HONORABLE JUSTICES OF THE COURT OF APPEAL SITTING IN AND FOR THE REGISTRY OF MONTREAL, FTI CONSULTING CANADA INC., ACTING AS COURT-APPOINTED MONITOR TO THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES, BEING RESPONDENT AND INCIDENTAL APPELLANT BEFORE THIS COURT, RESPECTFULLY SUBMITS IN SUPPORT OF THE PRESENT APPLICATION:

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

1. On September 11, 2017, Mr. Justice Stephen W. Hamilton (the "Supervisory Judge") of the Quebec Superior Court sitting in Commercial Division for the judicial district of Montreal (the "CCAA Court") granted the Amended Motion for Directions with respect to Pension Claims (the "Pension Priority Motion") presented by FTI Consulting Canada Inc., acting as court-appointed monitor (the "Monitor") to Bloom Lake General Partner Limited, Quinto Mining Corporation, 8568391 Canada Inc., Cliffs Quebec Iron Mining ULC, the Bloom Lake Iron Ore Mine Limited Partnership, Bloom Lake Railway Company and Bloom Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Bloom Lake CCAA Parties"¹) and Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties"²), in Superior Court file bearing number 500-11-048114-157 (the "CCAA Proceedings"), which decision (the "Pension Priority Decision"³) has already been the object of Notices of Appeal and Applications for Leave to Appeal by:
 - (a) Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland & Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions (the "NL Superintendent of Pensions") in Court file bearing number 500-09-027082-171;
 - (b) United Steel Workers, Local Sections 6254 and 6285 (the "Union"), in Court file bearing number 500-09-027075-175;
 - (c) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson, as representatives of the Salaried and Non-Union Employees and Retirees (the "Representatives"), in Court file bearing number 500-09-027077-171;

² The initial order pursuant to the CCAA with respect to the Wabush CCAA Parties was rendered on May 20, 2015 (the "Wabush Filing Date").

³ Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein shall have the meaning ascribed thereto in the Pension Priority Decision or in the Monitor's Notices of Incidental Appeal, as the case may be.

- (d) the Attorney General of Canada, acting on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions ("OSFI"), in Court file bearing number 500-09-027076-173;
2. The above-noted Applications for Leave to Appeal were granted on October 31, 2017 by Mr. Justice Patrick Healy of the Court of Appeal. It bears noting that the Monitor did not contest any of them;
3. The hearing of the Pension Priority Motion before the Supervisory Judge lasted two full days on June 28 and June 29, 2017. The parties did not proceed with any examinations out of Court and thus no transcripts were filed, nor did the Supervisory Judge hear any testimonial evidence. The two-day hearing was entirely dedicated to oral arguments from the parties, who had also exchanged detailed argumentation outlines and books of authorities ahead of the hearing;
4. The Pension Priority Decision granted the Monitor's Pension Priority Motion, which had been brought with a view to settle the issues arising out of underfunded defined-benefit Pension Plans set up and funded by the Wabush CCAA Parties, and the fact that relating Pension Claims have been asserted as secured claims, the whole as more fully outlined in the Pension Priority Decision;
5. The Monitor filed Notices of Incidental Appeal on or about November 9, 2017. It did so on a de bene esse basis for the reasons set out at paragraphs 10 to 15 of said Notices of Incidental Appeal, which read as follows:
 10. To successfully overturn the Pension Priority Decision, the Appellants will first need to convince the Court of Appeal that the Supervisory Judge erred in finding that pension deemed trusts could not be enforceable in CCAA proceedings;
 11. Furthermore, in order to obtain that the Pension Claims to be paid in priority to the extent sought in their respective Notices of Appeal, the Appellants will also need, to varying degrees, to address the other issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion;

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

12. In doing so, the Appellants will no doubt rely on findings by the Supervisory Judge (in some case adverse to the Monitor's position), including the question as to whether and when a "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA occurred in the CCAA Proceedings, and the impact of such triggering event occurring after the Wabush Filing Date, as the case may be;
 13. Other issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion, which were not settled in the Pension Priority Decision, will also arise, including whether the NLPBA deemed trust or lien and charge extend to and protect the wind-up deficit;
 14. Seeing as the Monitor is satisfied with the Pension Priority Decision and intends to argue first and foremost that the Court of Appeal should refrain from intervening in any way, and considering that the Monitor would not pursue an incidental appeal should the Appellants discontinue their own appeals (see Section 359 C.C.P. a contrario), it is submitted that no incidental appeal would be required for the Monitor, as Respondent, to raise the following arguments:
 - (a) the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered because there was no "liquidation" of the Wabush CCAA Parties, contrary to what the Supervisory Judge found;
 - (b) in any event, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered as at the Wabush Filing Date, as no "liquidation" had occurred on or before that date, such that they cannot be enforced in CCAA proceedings;
 - (c) the NLPBA deemed trust and lien and charge do not extend to the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims;
 15. However, with a view of ensuring that all issues are brought before the Court of Appeal, to allow each party to fully present its arguments with respect to same, to avoid unnecessary procedural arguments, possible undue delays and to promote a fair, efficient and diligent hearing of the four appeals and ultimately a full resolution of the issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion, the Monitor hereby files this Notice of Incidental Appeal on a de bene esse basis;
6. Whether or not an incidental appeal was required in the circumstances, the Monitor submits that it has an automatic right to file same without the need to seek and obtain leave to do so from this Court by virtue of Article 359 of the Code of Civil Procedure and Section 14(2) of the CCAA;

7. That said, by abundance of caution given the lack of clear authorities on the specific procedural issue of whether leave is required to file an incidental appeal in CCAA matters, and seeing the importance of the issues in dispute for the parties and the practice in general, the Monitor also brings the present Application of Leave to File an Incidental Appeal, on de bene esse basis, with a view to raise before the Court of Appeal as incidental appellant the same arguments outlined in the Notices of Incidental Appeal:
 - (a) the deemed trust under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered because there was no "liquidation" of the Wabush CCAA Parties, contrary to what the Supervisory Judge found;
 - (b) in any event, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered as of the Wabush Filing Date, as no "liquidation" had occurred on or before that date, such that they cannot be enforced in CCAA proceedings;
 - (c) the NLPBA deemed trust and lien and charge do not extend to the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims;
8. The Monitor respectfully submits that all four branches of the test to obtain leave to appeal in CCAA matters, outlined by Justice Allan R. Hilton J.A. in Statoil Canada Ltd. (Arrangement relative à), 2012 QCCA 665, are met;
9. Specifically, the Monitor submits that the additional issues raised on a subsidiary and de bene esse basis in its Notices of Incidental Appeal are prima facie meritorious and important both for the present matter, inasmuch as they aim at achieving a full and final resolution of the issues raised in the Pension Priority Motion, as well as for the insolvency practice generally;
10. The Monitor further submits that granting leave on a de bene esse basis, assuming such is required, will not unduly hinder the restructuring, inasmuch as the Court of Appeal has already granted leave to appeal from the Pension Priority Decision in the four above-mentioned matters, and that hearing dates on

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

- the merits have already been tentatively scheduled for June 11 and June 12, 2018, and that a case management hearing to be presided by Madam Justice Manon Savard, J.A., is set to take place on November 21, 2017;
11. With respect to the issues raised on a subsidiary and de bene esse basis in its incidental appeal, the Monitor intends to argue:
 - a) The deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered because there was no "liquidation" of the Wabush CCAA Parties.⁴
 12. This issue was discussed at length in the Pension Priority Decision (at paragraphs 155 to 175);
 13. The Monitor respectfully submits that the conclusions of the Supervisory Judge (at paragraphs 218(a) and (b)) are ill-founded for the following reasons:
 - a) these conclusions do not take into account the policy considerations highlighted by the Supreme Court of Canada in Royal Bank of Canada v. Sparrow Electric Corp., [1997] 1 S.C.R. 411 at paragraphs 21 and 22 and in British Columbia v. Samson Bélair Ltd., [1989] 2 S.C.R. 24 at paragraph 33;
 - b) the Supervisory Judge came to the conclusion that a "liquidation" had occurred as of the Wabush Filing Date with hindsight and on the basis of subsequent events (at paragraph 172), which creates undue uncertainty, disrupts the status quo amongst creditors and is intrinsically unfair;
 - c) considered as a triggering event, "liquidation" simply cannot be construed as a vague or subjective notion, the occurrence of which is only confirmed in light of subsequent events and the passage of time, on an accretive basis, one that could be possibly revoked by the eventual filing of a plan arrangement that would somehow retroactively eliminate the occurrence of the "liquidation" trigger;

- d) the Supervisory Judge had previously concluded that no "liquidation" had occurred and that the PBSA and NLPBA deemed trusts had not been triggered (see paragraphs 67 to 70 and 79 of the Suspension Order issued on June 26, 2015, leave to appeal denied, Appendix A hereto);
 - e) the plain wording of sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLBPA evidences a clear intent on the legislator's part to impose deemed trust in the event of a bankruptcy, which is in stark contrast with the conspicuous absence of any reference to CCAA proceedings;
 - f) conflating the notions of "liquidating CCAA" and "liquidation of the employer" clearly runs against the guiding principle that an initial order issued pursuant to the CCAA is meant to preserve the status quo amongst creditors vis-à-vis the debtors and their assets;
14. As such, the Monitor intends to argue once again before the Court of Appeal that no "liquidation" occurred in the present CCAA Proceedings;
- b) In any event, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered as of the Wabush Filing Date, as no "liquidation" had occurred on or before that date, such that they cannot be enforced in CCAA proceedings.⁵

15. The Supervisory Judge explained as follows at paragraph 175 of the Pension Priority Decision why he did not deal with this issue:

[175] Because the Court has concluded that the triggering event occurred when the CCAA motion was filed, the Court need not decide whether the triggering event must occur prior to the initial ⁵ Paragraphs 15 to 18 of the present Motion are identical to paragraphs 20 to 23 of the Monitor's Notice of Incidental Appeal.

CCAA order, or whether it can occur after the initial CCAA order but prior to the sale of the assets.

16. The Monitor submits that allowing deemed trusts to arise post-filing, rather than having been crystallized by the date of the CCAA filing or occurring prior thereto, is radically incompatible with the fundamental status quo principle underpinning all CCAA proceedings, and intends to present once again before the Court of Appeal the following arguments which had been presented to the Supervisory Judge;
17. While the CCAA does not incorporate the scheme of distribution provided for in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3, it nevertheless seeks to preserve the status quo amongst creditors as against the insolvent debtors and their assets, such that the purported crystallization of statutory deemed trust post-filing, and the ensuing assertion of "secured creditor" status with respect to claims that undeniably remained unsecured as of the date of the Wabush Filing Date, run contrary to the very foundation of insolvency legislation;
18. As a subsidiary argument, even if the Court of Appeal were to rule that a "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA or 32(2) NLPBA can occur under the umbrella of the CCAA, including by way of a so-called "liquidating CCAA" proceeding, the Monitor will argue that these CCAA Proceedings ought not to be considered as such;

c) The NLPBA deemed trust and lien and charge do not extend to the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims.⁶

19. The Supervisory Judge declined to settle this issue, having concluded that the deemed trust created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA were in any event not enforceable in CCAA proceedings (at paragraph 224);

⁶ Paragraphs 19 to 26 of the present Motion are identical to paragraphs 24 to 31 of the Monitor's Notice of Incidental Appeal.

20. Should the Court of Appeal overturn this conclusion, and, despite the foregoing arguments, further find that a "liquidation" triggering a deemed trust has occurred in the present CCAA Proceedings, the Monitor will subsidiarily argue that the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims is not covered by the deemed trust nor lien and charge provided at Section 32 NLPBA, for the following reasons;
21. While the wording of Sections 61(1) of the NLPBA and 32(1) of the NLPBA defining the amounts secured by the deemed trust are identical, Section 61(2), which provides for the obligation to pay the wind-up deficit, and Section 61(1) are mutually exclusive;
22. The obligation to pay the wind-up deficit upon termination is based on Section 61(2) NLPBA. Based on the fact that the wording of Sections 32(1) and 61(1) NLPBA are identical and that the amounts payable under Sections 61(1) and 61(2) NLPBA are mutually exclusive, it follows that the wind-up deficit is not subject to either the deemed trust pursuant to Section 32(1) NLPBA nor to the lien and charge pursuant to Section 32(4) NLPBA;
23. Section 25.1 of the Pension Benefits Act Regulations, NLR 114/96, which pertains to the wind-up deficit, when read in conjunction with Section 60(2) NLPBA, clearly provides that the first payment to be made on account of the wind-up deficit is to be made no later than two weeks following the date of the wind-up report, itself to be filed within six months of the effective date of termination, such that any payments due on account of the wind-up deficit cannot be considered as "... amounts due to the pension from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination", within the meaning of Sections 32(1)(c) or 61(1)(c) NLPBA;
24. Section 61 NLPBA was amended in 2008 by the addition of paragraph 2. Section 32 NLPBA was not amended at that time to reflect the changes made to Section 61(2) NLPBA. It follows that the amounts to be held in trust under the NLPBA are limited to certain amounts detailed in Sections 32(1), (2) and (3).

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

Clearly, it does not provide for the wind-up deficit to be held in trust, seeing as Sections 61(2) and 61(1) are mutually exclusive;

25. The combined wording of Sections 32 and 61 NLPBA is very different from and can easily be contrasted with Section 57(4) of the Ontario Pension Benefits Act, which was analysed by the Supreme Court of Canada in the matter of Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steel Workers, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, as the NLPBA does not contain a specific deemed trust triggered upon the termination or wind-up of a plan, nor clear wording extending the deemed trust to all contribution owing "even if not yet due", nor a specific priority rule similar to the one contained in Section 30(7) of the Ontario Personal Property Security Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. P.10;
26. For all of the foregoing reasons, and with a view to achieving a full and final resolution of the issues raised in the Pension Priority Motion, the Monitor, should leave be found to be required in the circumstances and should it be granted, will ask the Court of Appeal to:

[A] DISMISS the appeals of: (i) Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland & Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027082-171; (ii) United Steel Workers, Local Sections 6254 and 6285, in Court file number 500-09-027075-175; (iii) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson, as representatives of the Salaried and Non-Union Employees and Retirees, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027077-171; and (iv) the Attorney General of Canada, acting on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027076-173;

OR, SUBSIDIARILY, SHOULD THE COURT OF APPEAL GRANT THE APPEALS, IN WHOLE OR IN PART, AND FIND THAT THE SUPERVISORY JUDGE ERRED IN THAT NO DEEMED TRUST ARISING UNDER EITHER THE SPPA, PBSA OR NLPBA CAN BE ENFORCEABLE IN CCAA PROCEEDINGS:

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

- [B] GRANT the present Incidental Appeal on a de bene esse basis and deliver the following declaratory conclusions, as may be required for a full resolution of the issues in dispute:
- [C] DECLARE that, notwithstanding the issue of their enforceability in CCAA proceedings, no deemed trust or lien and charge protecting the Pension Claims arose in the present matter pursuant to either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA;

WITH RESPECT TO SCOPE OF APPLICATION:

- [D] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under Section 32 NLPBA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were persons employed in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador within the meaning of Section 5 NLPBA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;
- [E] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 8 PBSA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were employed in "included employment" within the meaning of Section 4 PBSA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;
- [F] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 49 SPPA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were reporting for work in Quebec or otherwise qualify under Section 1 SPPA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;

Monitor's Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

WITH RESPECT TO AMOUNTS PROTECTED:

- [G] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under Section 32 NLPBA does not cover the wind-up deficit component of either Pension Claims;
- [H] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA only covers outstanding payments or contributions that had accrued at the time of the Initial Order;

WITH RESPECT TO ASSETS CHARGED:

- [I] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 32 NLPBA only attaches to assets located in Newfoundland and Labrador and the proceeds thereof, and cannot be enforceable as against assets located in Quebec or the proceeds thereof;
- [J] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 49 SPPA only attaches to assets located in Quebec and the proceeds thereof;
- [K] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 8 PBSA only attaches to railway assets and the proceeds thereof;

WITH RESPECT TO RANK:

- [L] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA, ranks after the prior claim of the Mise-en-cause, City of Sept-Îles, for outstanding property taxes pursuant to Sections 2651(5) and 2654.1 of the Civil Code of Québec with respect to the taxable immovables to which said prior claim pertain and the proceeds thereof;

THE WHOLE, WITHOUT COSTS.

27. The present Application for Leave to File an Incidental Appeal de bene esse is well founded;

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY AND PLEASE THE COURT:

GRANT the present Application;

AUTHORIZE the Monitor to file an Incidental Appeal of the judgment rendered on September 11, 2017 by the Honorable Steven W. Hamilton of the Superior Court, Commercial Division with respect to each of the appeals brought by: (i) Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland & Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027082-171; (ii) United Steel Workers, Local Sections 6254 and 6285, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027075-175; (iii) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson, as representatives of the Salaried and Non-Union Employees and Retirees, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027077-171; and (iv) the Attorney General of Canada, acting on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027076-173;

NOTICE OF INCIDENTAL APPEAL DE BENE ESSE BY THE MONITOR
(Articles 352 and 359 of the Code of Civil Procedure)

Respondent / Incidental Appellant

Dated November 9, 2017

1. On September 11, 2017, Mr. Justice Stephen W. Hamilton (the "Supervisory Judge") of the Quebec Superior Court sitting in Commercial Division for the judicial district of Montreal (the "CCAA Court") granted the Amended Motion for Directions with respect to Pension Claims (the "Pension Priority Motion") presented by FTI Consulting Canada Inc., acting as court-appointed monitor (the "Monitor") to

Monitor's Notice of Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

Bloom Lake General Partner Limited, Quinto Mining Corporation, 8568391 Canada Inc., Cliffs Quebec Iron Mining ULC, the Bloom Lake Iron Ore Mine Limited Partnership, Bloom Lake Railway Company and Bloom Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Bloom Lake CCAA Parties"¹) as well as to Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties"²) in Superior Court file bearing number 500-11-048114-157 (the "CCAA Proceedings"), which decision (the "Pension Priority Decision"³) has been the object of Notices of Appeal and Applications for Leave to Appeal by:

- (a) Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland & Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions (the "NL Superintendent of Pensions"), in Court of Appeal file bearing number 500-09-027082-171;
- (b) United Steel Workers, Local Sections 6254 and 6285 (the "Union"), in Court of Appeal file bearing number 500-09-027075-175;
- (c) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson, as representatives of the Salaried and Non-Union Employees and Retirees (the "Representatives"), in Court of Appeal file bearing number 500-09-027077-171; and
- (d) the Attorney General of Canada, acting on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions ("OSFI"), in Court of Appeal file bearing number 500-09-027076-173;

¹ The initial order pursuant to the Companies' Creditor Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985 c. C-36 ("CCAA") with respect to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties was rendered on January 27, 2015.

² The initial order pursuant to the CCAA with respect to the Wabush CCAA Parties was rendered on May 20, 2015 (the "Wabush Filing Date").

³ Capitalized terms not otherwise defined herein shall have the meaning ascribed thereto in the Pension Priority Decision.

2. The above-noted Applications for Leave to Appeal were not contested and were granted on October 31, 2017 by Mr. Justice Patrick Healy of the Court of Appeal;
3. The hearing of the Pension Priority Motion before the Supervisory Judge lasted two full days on June 28 and June 29, 2017. The parties did not proceed with any examinations out of Court and thus no transcripts were filed, nor did the Supervisory Judge hear any testimonial evidence. The two-day hearing was entirely dedicated to oral arguments from the parties, who had also exchanged detailed argumentation outlines and books of authorities ahead of the hearing;
4. The factual background leading to the Pension Priority Motion is fully described by the Supervisory Judge as follows in the Pension Priority Decision:
 - (a) the Wabush CCAA Parties conducted their operations in two provinces, Newfoundland & Labrador and Quebec, and also owned and operated railways, which are federally regulated, in both (at paragraph 3);
 - (b) the Wabush CCAA Parties created and funded two defined-benefit pension plans (the "Pension Plans"), being the Union Plan and the Salaried Plan (at paragraph 4), both of which were underfunded (at paragraphs 18 to 22);
 - (c) by way of the Suspension Order rendered on June 26, 2015 (leave to appeal denied), a copy of which is attached hereto as Appendix A, the CCAA Court suspended the payment of the monthly amortization payments and the annual lump sum (catch-up) payments owing to the Pension Plans (at paragraphs 8 and 14);
 - (d) both Pension Plans were terminated on December 16, 2015 (at paragraph 9), and Mise-en-cause Morneau Shepell Ltd. was appointed as replacement plan administrator (the "Replacement Plan Administrator") on March 30, 2016 (at paragraph 12);
 - (e) proofs of claims asserting secured claims were filed in respect of amounts owing to both Pension Plans (the "Pension Claims"), including in each case a wind-up deficit component of over $20 million (at paragraphs 22 and 23);

- (f) substantially all the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties have been sold over the course of the CCAA Proceedings, the proceeds of which are held in trust by the Monitor, including from immovable properties located in Sept-Îles subject to unpaid taxes, over which the City of Sept-Îles claims priority (at paragraph 26);
5. On January 30, 2017, the Supervisory Judge had ruled that the CCAA Court had jurisdiction to hear and deal with all the issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion. There was no appeal from that decision (the "Jurisdiction Order"), a copy of which is attached hereto as Appendix B;
 6. Despite this, a concurrent reference has been brought before the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal to deal with certain issues and questions forming part of the Pension Priority Motion, as explained at paragraphs 48 to 60 of the Pension Priority Decision;
 7. The issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion are articulated by the Supervisory Judge at paragraph 47 of the Pension Priority Decision. The position of each party is adequately summarized in paragraphs 27 to 44;
 8. By way of the Pension Priority Decision, the Supervisory Judge:
 - (a) granted the Pension Priority Motion (at paragraph 223);
 - (b) declared that the trusts created under the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, R.S.Q. c. R-15.1 ("SPPA"), the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, R.S.C. 1985, c. 32 ("PBSA"), and the Newfoundland & Labrador Pension Benefits Act, 1997, S.N.L. 1996, c. T-4.01 ("NLBPA") are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings (at paragraph 224);
 - (c) declared that the employee contributions and normal cost payments relating to pension plans are protected to the extent provided for by Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA (at paragraph 225, which mistakenly refers to Section 37(6) instead of 36(7) of the CCAA);

9. The Supervisory Judge also found that:
- (a) a "liquidation" under Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA includes a liquidating plan under the CCAA (at paragraph 218a));
 - (b) a "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA had commenced as at the Wabush Filing Date (at paragraph 218b));
 - (c) the deemed trust under the NLPBA should not be recognized or enforced against assets located in the Province of Quebec (at paragraph 218g));
 - (d) the wind-up deficit is not protected by the deemed trusts under either the PBSA (at paragraphs 136 and 218d)) or the SPPA (at paragraphs 130 and 218d)). The Supervisory Judge did not reach a conclusion as to whether the deemed trust under Section 32 NLPBA extended to the wind-up deficit (at paragraphs 58, 114, 143, and 218d));
 - (e) the Pension Plans are governed by the PBSA for the railway employees, by the SPPA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in Quebec and by the NLPBA for the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland & Labrador (at paragraph 219);
 - (f) the protection afforded by Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA only extends to employee contributions and normal cost payments, to the exclusion of special or amortization payments and wind-up deficits (at paragraphs 184 to 186);
 - (g) additional protection afforded in pension legislation to special or amortization payments or wind-up deficits cannot apply once the CCAA is triggered, as a matter of federal paramountcy with respect to the SPPA and the NLPBA (at paragraphs 187 to 210), and as matter of interpretation of Parliament's intent with respect to the PBSA (at paragraphs 211 to 216);

10. To successfully overturn the Pension Priority Decision, the Appellants will first need to convince the Court of Appeal that the Supervisory Judge erred in finding that pension deemed trusts could not be enforceable in CCAA proceedings;
11. Furthermore, in order to obtain that the Pension Claims be paid in priority to the extent sought in their respective Notices of Appeal, the Appellants will also need, to varying degrees, to address the other issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion;
12. In doing so, the Appellants will no doubt rely on findings by the Supervisory Judge (in some case adverse to the Monitor's position), including the question as to whether and when a "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLPBA occurred in the CCAA Proceedings, and the impact of such triggering event occurring after the Wabush Filing Date, as the case may be;
13. Other issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion, which were not settled in the Pension Priority Decision, will also arise, including whether the NLPBA deemed trust or lien and charge extend to and protect the wind-up deficit;
14. Seeing as the Monitor is satisfied with the Pension Priority Decision and intends to argue first and foremost that the Court of Appeal should refrain from intervening in any way, and considering that the Monitor would not pursue an incidental appeal should the Appellants discontinue their own appeals (see Section 359 C.C.P. a contrario), it is submitted that no incidental appeal would be required for the Monitor, as Respondent, to raise the following arguments:
 - (a) the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered because there was no "liquidation" of the Wabush CCAA Parties, contrary to what the Supervisory Judge found;
 - (b) in any event, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered as of the Wabush Filing Date, as no "liquidation" had occurred on or before that date, such that they cannot be enforced in CCAA proceedings;
 - (c) the NLPBA deemed trust and lien and charge do not extend to the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims;

15. However, with a view of ensuring that all issues are brought before the Court of Appeal, to allow each party to fully present its arguments with respect to same, to avoid unnecessary procedural arguments, possible undue delays and to promote a fair, efficient and diligent hearing of the four appeals and ultimately a full resolution of the issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion, the Monitor hereby files this Notice of Incidental Appeal on a de bene esse basis;
16. With respect to each of the issues above, the Monitor intends to argue as follows:
 - a) The deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered because there was no “liquidation” of the Wabush CCAA Parties.
17. This issue was discussed at length in the Pension Priority Decision (at paragraphs 155 to 175);
18. The Monitor respectfully submits that the conclusions of the Supervisory Judge (at paragraphs 218(a) and (b)) are ill-founded for the following reasons:
 - a) these conclusions do not take into account the policy considerations highlighted by the Supreme Court of Canada in Royal Bank of Canada v. Sparrow Electric Corp., [1997] 1 S.C.R. 411 at paragraphs 21 and 22 and in British Columbia v. Samson Bélair Ltd., [1989] 2 S.C.R. 24 at paragraph 33;
 - b) the Supervisory Judge came to the conclusion that a “liquidation” had occurred as of the Wabush Filing Date with hindsight and on the basis of subsequent events (at paragraph 172), which creates undue uncertainty, disrupts the status quo amongst creditors and is intrinsically unfair;
 - c) considered as a triggering event, “liquidation” simply cannot be construed as a vague or subjective notion, the occurrence of which is only confirmed in light of subsequent events and the passage of time, on an accretive basis, one that could be possibly revoked by the eventual filing of a plan arrangement that would somehow retroactively eliminate the occurrence of the “liquidation” trigger;

- d) in June 2015, the Supervisory Judge had previously concluded in the context of the Suspension Order that no "liquidation" had occurred and that the PBSA and NLPBA deemed trusts had not been triggered (at paragraphs 67 to 70 and 79 of the Suspension Order, Appendix A hereto);
 - e) the plain wording of sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) NLBPA evidences a clear intent on the legislator's part to impose deemed trust in the event of a bankruptcy, which is in stark contrast with the conspicuous absence of any reference to CCAA proceedings;
 - f) conflating the notions of "liquidating CCAA" and "liquidation of the employer" clearly runs against the guiding principle that an initial order issued pursuant to the CCAA is meant to preserve the status quo amongst creditors vis-à-vis the debtors and their assets;
19. As such, the Monitor intends to argue once again before the Court of Appeal that no "liquidation" occurred in the present CCAA Proceedings;
- b) In any event, the deemed trusts under the PBSA and NLPBA were not triggered as at the Wabush Filing Date, as no "liquidation" had occurred on or before that date, such that they cannot be enforced in CCAA proceedings.
20. The Supervisory Judge explained as follows at paragraph 175 of the Pension Priority Decision why he did not deal with this issue:
- [175] Because the Court has concluded that the triggering event occurred when the CCAA motion was filed, the Court need not decide whether the triggering event must occur prior to the initial CCAA order, or whether it can occur after the initial CCAA order but prior to the sale of the assets.
21. The Monitor submits that allowing deemed trusts to arise post-filing, rather than having been crystalized by the date of the CCAA filing or occurring prior thereto, is radically incompatible with the fundamental status quo principle underpinning all

CCAA proceedings, and intends to present once again before the Court of Appeal the following arguments which had been presented to the Supervisory Judge;

22. While the CCAA does not incorporate the scheme of distribution provided for in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. B-3, it nevertheless seeks to preserve the status quo amongst creditors as against the insolvent debtors and their assets, such that the purported crystallization of statutory deemed trust post-filing, and the ensuing assertion of "secured creditor" status with respect to claims that undeniably remained unsecured as of the date of the Wabush Filing Date, run contrary to the very foundation of insolvency legislation;

23. As a subsidiary argument, even if the Court of Appeal were to rule that a "liquidation" within the meaning of Sections 8(2) PBSA or 32(2) NLPBA can occur under the umbrella of the CCAA, including by way of a so-called "liquidating CCAA" proceeding, the Monitor will argue that these CCAA Proceedings ought not to be considered as such;

c) The NLPBA deemed trust and lien and charge do not extend to the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims.

24. The Supervisory Judge declined to settle this issue, having concluded that the deemed trust created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA were in any event not enforceable in CCAA proceedings (at paragraph 224);

25. Should the Court of Appeal overturn this conclusion, and, despite the foregoing arguments, further find that a "liquidation" triggering a deemed trust has occurred in the present CCAA Proceedings, the Monitor will subsidiarily argue that the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims is not covered by the deemed trust nor lien and charge provided at Section 32 NLPBA, for the following reasons;

26. While the wording of Sections 61(1) of the NLPBA and 32(1) of the NLPBA defining the amounts secured by the deemed trust are identical, Section 61(2), which provides for the obligation to pay the wind-up deficit, and Section 61(1) are mutually exclusive;

27. The obligation to pay the wind-up deficit upon termination is based on Section 61(2) NLPBA. Based on the fact that the wording of Sections 32(1) and 61(1) NLPBA are identical and that the amounts payable under Sections 61(1) and 61(2) NLPBA are mutually exclusive, it follows that the wind-up deficit is not subject to either the deemed trust pursuant to Section 32(1) NLPBA nor to the lien and charge pursuant to Section 32(4) NLPBA;
28. Section 25.1 of the Pension Benefits Act Regulations, NLR 114/96, which pertains to the wind-up deficit, when read in conjunction with Section 60(2) NLPBA, clearly provides that the first payment to be made on account of the wind-up deficit is to be made no later than two weeks following the date of the wind-up report, itself to be filed within six months of the effective date of termination, such that any payments due on account of the wind-up deficit cannot be considered as "... amounts due to the pension from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination", within the meaning of Sections 32(1)(c) or 61(1)(c) NLPBA;
29. Section 61 NLPBA was amended in 2008 by the addition of paragraph 2. Section 32 NLPBA was not amended at that time to reflect the changes made to Section 61(2) NLPBA. It follows that the amounts to be held in trust under the NLPBA are limited to certain amounts detailed in Sections 32(1), (2) and (3). Clearly, it does not provide for the wind-up deficit to be held in trust, seeing as Sections 61(2) and 61(1) are mutually exclusive;
30. The combined wording of Sections 32 and 61 NLPBA is very different from and can easily be contrasted with Section 57(4) of the Ontario Pension Benefits Act, which was analysed by the Supreme Court of Canada in the matter of Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steel Workers, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, as the NLPBA does not contain a specific deemed trust triggered upon the termination or wind-up of a plan, nor clear wording extending the deemed trust to all contribution owing "even if not yet due", nor a specific priority rule similar to the one contained in Section 30(7) of the Ontario Personal Property Security Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. P.10;

Monitor's Notice of Incidental Appeal de bene esse (C.A.M. 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171, 500-09-027082-171), November 9, 2017

31. Based on the foregoing reasons, the Monitor submits that the NLPBA does not afford priority status or otherwise protect the wind-up deficit component of the Pension Claims, and intends to argue same before the Court of Appeal;
32. Also in the spirit of reaching a full and final resolution of the issues raised by the Pension Priority Motion, the Monitor takes note of the Incidental Appeal brought by the City of Sept-Îles and will ask the Court of Appeal, as a subsidiary conclusion, to determine the respective ranking of the Pension Claims and the prior claim of the City of Sept-Îles;
33. For all of the foregoing reasons, the Monitor will ask the Court of Appeal to:
 - [A] DISMISS the appeals of: (i) Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland & Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027082-171; (ii) United Steel Workers, Local Sections 6254 and 6285, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027075-175; (iii) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson, as representatives of the Salaried and Non-Union Employees and Retirees, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027077-171; and (iv) the Attorney General of Canada, acting on behalf of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, in Court file bearing number 500-09-027076-173;

OR, SUBSIDIARILY, SHOULD THE COURT OF APPEAL GRANT THE APPEALS, IN WHOLE OR IN PART, AND FIND THAT THE SUPERVISORY JUDGE ERRED IN THAT NO DEEMED TRUST ARISING UNDER EITHER THE SPPA, PBSA OR NLPBA CAN BE ENFORCEABLE IN CCAA PROCEEDINGS:

- [B] GRANT the present Incidental Appeal on a de bene esse basis and deliver the following declaratory conclusions, as may be required for a full resolution of the issues in dispute:
- [C] DECLARE that, notwithstanding the issue of their enforceability in CCAA Proceedings, no deemed trust or lien and charge protecting the Pension Claims arose in the present matter pursuant to either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA;

WITH RESPECT TO SCOPE OF APPLICATION:

- [D] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under Section 32 NLPBA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were persons employed in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador within the meaning of Section 5 NLPBA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;
- [E] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 8 PBSA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were employed in "included employment" within the meaning of Section 4 PBSA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;
- [F] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 49 SPPA only covers those portions of the Pension Claims accrued and due in respect of employees and retirees who are or were reporting for work in Quebec or otherwise qualify under Section 1 SPPA, as well as their surviving spouses and other eligible related beneficiaries;

WITH RESPECT TO AMOUNTS PROTECTED:

- [G] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under Section 32 NLPBA does not cover the wind-up deficit component of either Pension Claims;
- [H] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA only covers outstanding payments or contributions that had accrued at the time of the Initial Order;

WITH RESPECT TO ASSETS CHARGED:

- [I] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 32 NLPBA only attaches to assets located in Newfoundland and Labrador and the proceeds thereof, and cannot be enforceable as against assets located in Quebec or the proceeds thereof;
- [J] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 49 SPPA only attaches to assets located in Quebec and the proceeds thereof;
- [K] DECLARE that any deemed trust arising under Section 8 PBSA only attaches to railway assets and the proceeds thereof;

WITH RESPECT TO RANK:

- [L] DECLARE that any deemed trust or lien and charge arising under either Section 32 NLPBA, Section 8 PBSA, or Section 49 SPPA, ranks after the prior claim of the Mise-en-cause, City of Sept-Îles, for outstanding property taxes pursuant to Sections 2651(5) and 2654.1 of the Civil Code of Québec with respect to the taxable immovables to which said prior claim pertain and the proceeds thereof;

THE WHOLE, WITHOUT COSTS.

REQUÊTE DE BENE ESSE POUR PERMISSION D'APPELER DE LA MISE-EN-CAUSE – APPELANTE INCIDENTE VILLE DE SEPT-ÎLES D'UN JUGEMENT RENDU SUR UNE REQUÊTE POUR DIRECTIVES DU CONTRÔLEUR EN MATIÈRE D'ARRANGEMENT AVEC LES CRÉANCIERS DES COMPAGNIES

8 novembre 2017

À L'UN DES HONORABLES JUGES DE LA COUR D'APPEL, LA MISE-EN-CAUSE – APPELANTE INCIDENTE VILLE DE SEPT-ÎLES EXPOSE :

INTRODUCTION

1. Le 11 septembre 2017, le juge Stephen W. Hamilton de la Cour supérieure du district de Montréal, s'exprimant en chambre commerciale, a rendu un jugement par lequel il a accueilli la requête pour directives du Contrôleur (« Requête pour directives »), annexe 1;
2. Les conclusions de ce jugement sont les suivantes :

« [223] GRANTS the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;

[224] DECLARES that trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

[225] DECLARES that the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided for by Sections 6 (6) and 37 (6) of the CCAA;

[225] THE WHOLE WITHOUT COSTS.»

3. L'audition en première instance a duré deux (2) jours;
4. Ce jugement a été rendu en vertu de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, Ch. 36 (« LACC ») et concerne notamment la question de la priorité de la réclamation d'une municipalité pour taxes impayées par rapport à celles relatives aux régimes de retraite dans le contexte d'un plan d'arrangement;

DEMANDE DE PERMISSION D'APPELER DE BENE ESSE

5. Ce jugement serait en principe appelable sur permission en vertu des articles 13 et 14 de la LACC. qui se lisent comme suit :

« 13. Sauf au Yukon, toute personne mécontente d'une ordonnance ou décision rendue en application de la présente loi peut en appeler après avoir obtenu la permission du juge dont la décision fait l'objet d'un appel ou après avoir obtenu la permission du tribunal ou d'un juge du tribunal auquel l'appel est porté et aux conditions que prescrit ce juge ou tribunal concernant le cautionnement et à d'autres égards.

14 (1) Cet appel doit être porté au tribunal de dernier ressort de la province où la procédure a pris naissance. (...)»

[Notre emphase]

6. Cependant, la Ville de Sept-Îles est d'avis qu'il n'est pas nécessaire de demander la permission d'appeler pour former un appel incident et qu'une déclaration d'appel incident de bene esse est suffisante, pour les motifs suivants:

- a) Le jugement a fait l'objet de quatre (4) demandes pour permission d'appeler respectivement dans les dossiers suivants, lesquelles ont été accueillies par l'honorable Patrick Healy, j.c.a., le 31 octobre 2017 :

- 1) 500-09-027075-175 : Appel des Appelants Syndicats des métaux, section local 6254 et Syndicat des Métaux, section Locale 6285;
- 2) 500-09-027076-173 : Appel du Procureur général du Canada;
- 3) 500-09-027077-171 : Appel de Michael Keeper, Terrence Watt, Damien Lebel et Neil Johnson à titre de représentants désignés pour représenter l'ensemble des salariés non-syndiqués dans le cadre des procédures;
- 4) 500-09-027082-171 : Appel de Sa Majesté aux droits de Terre-Neuve et du Labrador représentée par le Superintendant des pensions;

tel qu'il appert du procès-verbal d'audience du 31 octobre 2017, annexe 2 ;

- b) Selon l'article 359 C.p.c., « Lorsqu'une déclaration d'appel a déjà été déposée dans une affaire, une autre partie peut former un appel incident par le dépôt au greffe d'une déclaration d'appel incident. L'appel incident subsiste malgré l'abandon ou le rejet de l'appel principal »; [Notre emphase]

- c) Dans ses commentaires concernant cet article rapportés à la page 286 de l'ouvrage intitulé Commentaires de la Ministre de la Justice, publié par Wilson & Lafleur, la ministre de la Justice affirme ce qui suit:

« Cet article reprend essentiellement le droit antérieur, mais y ajoute que l'appel incident subsiste malgré l'abandon ou le rejet de l'appel principal. Cette règle permet d'éviter que deux parties n'introduisent un appel principal pour éviter que celui qui, autrement, aurait été incident ne vaille plus en cas d'abandon ou de rejet de l'appel principal.

La déclaration d'appel, qu'elle soit de plein droit ou sur permission, saisit la Cour d'appel et ouvre le dossier d'appel. Dès lors, toute partie peut interjeter son propre appel, incident à l'appel principal, par une simple déclaration sans qu'il soit alors besoin d'obtenir une permission, le dossier étant ouvert.

Sources : CPC 1965 : art. 26.0.1, 500 » [Notre emphase]

7. Malgré ce qui précède, la Ville de Sept-Îles, par prudence, demande à la Cour de bene esse la permission de former un appel incident du jugement, annexe 1, pour les motifs suivants:
- a) Le 31 octobre 2017, à l'occasion de l'audience sur les requêtes pour permission d'appeler, les avocats de certaines parties appelantes ont indiqué qu'ils estimaient que les parties intimées ou mises en cause devaient former un appel incident si elles voulaient remettre en cause certains motifs ou raisonnements du juge de première instance;
- b) À notre connaissance, la Cour d'appel n'a encore pas eu l'occasion d'interpréter l'article 359 C.p.c.;

QUESTION EN LITIGE ET MOYENS D'APPEL

8. Le jugement, annexe 1, met notamment en jeu la question subsidiaire suivante: La créance de la MISE-EN-CAUSE – APPELANTE INCIDENTE Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes foncières impayées est-elle prioritaire à celles des régimes de retraite ?
9. Selon une jurisprudence constante, et tel que le rappelait la Cour d'appel¹, une partie qui désire en appeler d'un jugement rendu dans le cadre de l'application de la LACC, doit répondre aux critères suivants :

- i. Whether the point on appeal is of significance to the practice;
- ii. Whether the point raised is of significance to the action or proceedings;
- iii. Whether the appeal is prima facie meritorious or frivolous;
- iv. Whether the appeal will unduly hinder the progress of the action or proceedings;

Application des critères aux présents dossiers :

a) Critères i) et ii) : L'importance pour la pratique et l'importance pour le dossier :

10. La présente demande de permission d'appeler soulève une question subsidiaire, qui est nouvelle et d'importance pour la pratique, n'ayant jamais été tranchée à notre connaissance par les tribunaux canadiens dans le cadre d'un processus de restructuration entrepris en vertu de la LACC;
11. Dans l'éventualité où la Cour d'appel concluait que les réclamations des régimes de retraite bénéficient d'une fiducie réputée ou d'un « lien and charge » applicables au Québec, il est nécessaire que la question de la priorité d'une réclamation d'une municipalité pour taxes foncières impayées sur celles de régimes de retraite soit tranchée pour l'avenir, cette question étant sujette à être soulevée à maintes reprises dans le futur dans le cadre de plans de restructuration entrepris en vertu de la LACC;
12. L'impact économique de la question soulevée par le présent appel incident est de l'ordre de plusieurs millions pour la Ville de Sept-Îles, et pourrait également être considérable pour d'autres municipalités en général, considérant que, selon le Code civil du Québec (art. 2654.1 C.c.Q.) et selon la LACC, leurs créances font l'objet d'une protection et d'un traitement prioritaire;

b) Critère iii) : Prima Facie, la question est sérieuse et mérite d'être soumise à la Cour d'appel

13. Cette question est sérieuse et mérite d'être soumise à la Cour d'appel pour les motifs suivants :

- a) Quatre (4) appels principaux ont déjà été autorisés dans les présents dossiers;
- b) Aux paragraphes 119 à 128 du jugement, le juge expose d'une façon favorable à la Ville de Sept-Îles les principes de droits applicables à la question subsidiaire de la priorité des créances de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes impayées par rapport à celles des régimes de retraite. Cependant, il n'a pas jugé nécessaire de trancher complètement cette question, concluant que les fiducies réputées en matière de régime de retraite ne sont pas valables dans le cadre de l'application de la LACC :

«[127] The Ville de Sept-Îles argues that its claim for property and water taxes predates the liquidation of the Wabush CCAA Parties and any default in payment of the contributions, and therefore takes priority even if the deemed trust is valid.

[128] However, for the reasons set out below, it is not necessary for the Court to decide those priority issues.

[217]. As result of the foregoing, the Court comes to the following conclusions:

1. The trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

[224] DECLARES that trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings »

- c) Cette omission du juge de première instance est déterminante car, dans l'éventualité où la Cour d'appel accueillait les appels principaux dans les présents dossiers et déclarait que les créances des régimes de retraite bénéficient de fiducies réputées ou de « lien and charge » applicables au Québec, pour une solution complète du litige, elle devra se prononcer sur la question subsidiaire de la priorité des créances de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes impayées par rapport à celle des régimes de retraite;

c) Critère iv) : L'appel incident projeté n'a pas pour effet de retarder le processus de restructuration entrepris

14. Considérant que quatre (4) appels principaux ont déjà été autorisés dans les présents dossiers, l'appel incident de la Ville de Sept-Îles n'aura certes pas pour effet de retarder le processus de restructuration entrepris;

AUTRES MOYENS

15. La Ville de Sept-Îles se réserve le droit de soulever des moyens d'appel additionnels à l'effet qu'il n'y a pas eu de liquidation au sens de l'article 8 de Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985) ch. 32 (« PBSA ») et de l'article 32 de la Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL, 1996, c. P-4.01 (« NLPBA »), contrairement à ce que le juge Hamilton a conclu dans le jugement, annexe 1, et, subsidiairement, qu'une telle liquidation n'existait pas en date de l'ordonnance initiale

16. La Ville de Sept-Îles se réserve également le droit de soulever des moyens à l'effet que l'article 32 de la NLPBA ne protège pas les déficits de terminaison

CONCLUSIONS RECHERCHÉES

17. Compte tenu des moyens d'appel énoncés à sa déclaration d'appel incident de bene esse, jointe en annexe 3, la Ville de Sept-Îles demandera à la Cour d'appel ce qui suit :

Dans l'éventualité où la Cour d'appel accueillait les appels principaux dans les dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171 et infirmait la conclusion énoncée au paragraphe 224 du jugement, et où elle concluait que les réclamations des régimes de retraite bénéficient d'une fiducie réputée ou d'un « lien and charge » applicable au Québec:

ACCUEILLIR l'appel incident de la Ville de Sept-Îles;

DÉCLARER que la créance de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes foncières impayées a priorité sur celles des régimes de retraite en ce qui concerne le produit de la vente des immeubles des débitrices situés sur le territoire de la Ville de Sept-Îles;

LE TOUT, avec frais de justice;

POUR CES MOTIFS, VOUS PLAISE :

ACCUEILLIR la présente requête;

AUTORISER la Ville de Sept-Îles à introduire l'appel incident du jugement rendu le 11 septembre 2017 par l'honorable juge Stephen W. Hamilton de la Cour supérieure, siégeant en chambre commerciale, dans le district de Montréal, dans le dossier portant le numéro 500-11-048114-157;

Toutefois, si la Cour concluait que la permission d'appeler n'était pas requise et que l'appel incident pouvait être formé par le seul dépôt d'une déclaration d'appel incident, PRENDRE ACTE du dépôt de la déclaration d'appel incident de la MISE EN CAUSE- APPELANTE INCIDENTE Ville de Sept-Îles;

LE TOUT, frais à suivre selon le sort de l'appel.

(Articles 13 et 14 Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies; Article

A - INTRODUCTION

1. La Ville de Sept-Îles se porte appelante incidente de bene esse contre le jugement de la Cour supérieure rendu le 11 septembre 2017 par l'honorable juge Stephen W. Hamilton, siégeant en chambre commerciale dans le district de Montréal, qui a accueilli la requête pour directives du Contrôleur (« Requête pour directives ») ;
2. Les conclusions de ce jugement sont les suivantes :

« [223] GRANTS the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;

[224] DECLARES that trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

[225] DECLARES that the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided for by Sections 6 (6) and 37 (6) of the CCAA;

[225] The WHOLE WITHOUT COSTS.»

3. Ce jugement a été rendu en vertu de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. 1985, Ch. 36 (« LACC ») et concerne notamment la question subsidiaire de la priorité de la réclamation d'une municipalité pour taxes impayées par rapport à celles relatives aux régimes de retraite;
4. Ce jugement a fait l'objet de quatre (4) demandes de permission d'appeler en vertu des articles 13 et 14 de la LACC respectivement dans les dossiers suivants, lesquelles ont été accueillies par l'honorable Patrick Healy, j.c.a., le 31 octobre 2017 :
 - 1) 500-09-027075-175 : Appel des Appelants Syndicats des métaux, section local 6254 et Syndicat des Métaux, section Locale 6285;
 - 2) 500-09-027076-173 : Appel du Procureur général du Canada;
 - 3) 500-09-027077-171 : Appel de Michael Keeper, Terrence Watt, Damien Lebel et Neil Johnson à titre de représentants désignés pour représenter l'ensemble des salariés non-syndiqués dans le cadre des procédures;
 - 4) 500-09-027082-171 : Appel de Sa Majesté aux droits de Terre-Neuve et du Labrador représentée par le Superintendant des pensions;
 tel qu'il appert du procès-verbal d'audience du 31 octobre 2017;
5. L'audition en première instance a duré deux (2) jours;

B - DÉCLARATION D'APPEL DE BENE ESSE

6. Le 31 octobre 2017, à l'occasion de l'audience sur les requêtes pour permission d'appeler, les avocats de certaines parties appelantes ont indiqué qu'ils estimaient que les parties intimées ou mises en cause devaient former un appel incident si elles voulaient remettre en cause certains motifs ou raisonnements du juge de première instance;
7. Selon la jurisprudence constante de la Cour d'appel, un appel ne porte que sur le dispositif du jugement et il n'y a pas lieu de former un appel incident pour remettre en cause certains motifs d'une décision ou pour défendre un jugement en plaidant des arguments que le juge de première instance a écartés ou laissés sans réponse, puisque dans de tels cas, une partie peut énoncer ces arguments dans son mémoire d'intimée à l'encontre d'un appel principal¹;

8. La Cour d'appel se prononçait comme suit dans l'arrêt Daigle c. Mathieu, 2010 QCCA 1312 (CanLII), aux paragraphes 20 et 21 :

« [20] Il peut sembler inhabituel que l'intimée attaque une conclusion de la juge de première instance dans un mémoire où elle se porte par ailleurs à la défense du dispositif du jugement a quo et où elle demande à la Cour, par ses propres conclusions, de « rejeter l'appel principal ». En effet, le juge Adjuditor Rivard a déjà écrit ce qui suit dans un ouvrage sur l'appel :

Ne peut donc former un appel recevable que celui qui est lésé par le jugement de première instance; la cause du préjudice doit se trouver dans le dispositif du jugement, non seulement dans les motifs.

L'intimé, dans le cadre de l'appel principal, peut demander à la Cour de réexaminer les aspects du jugement qui lui sont défavorables, en réponse à l'appel principal. Il n'y a donc pas lieu de former un appel incident pour attaquer des motifs de la décision auxquels l'intimé ne souscrit pas.

L'énoncé s'appuie sur deux arrêts récents de la Cour. Ainsi donc, l'intimée pouvait plaider comme elle l'a fait dans son mémoire le caractère erroné de la conclusion formulée au paragraphe [141] des motifs de première instance; ce faisant, d'ailleurs, elle ne remettait aucunement en question le dispositif du jugement, elle offrait plutôt une raison additionnelle d'en confirmer le bien-fondé. (...) »

Le Barreau du Québec*, 2003 CanLII 45871 (QCCA), par.13 et 14; Meunerie B.L. inc. (Syndic de), 2007 QCCA 1601, par. 7; Del Guidice c. Honda Canada inc., 2007 QCCA 922, par. 22 à 23; Cloutier c. Société Canada Trust, 2008 QCCA 544, para. 19; Daigle c. Mathieu, 2010 QCCA 1312, par. 20 et 21; S.M. c. R.K., 2015 QCCA 1401, paragraphes 6, 7; Procureur général du Québec c. Fiset, 2017 QCCA 512, paragraphes. 10-12; Succession de Ashegh, 2017 QCCA 927, par. 1 et 2; Harvey c. Gouvernement régional d'Eeyou Istachee Baie-James, 2017 QCCA 1098, par. 42 et 43.

9. Considérant l'état du droit, la Ville de Sept-Îles est d'avis qu'elle n'a pas à formuler d'appel incident compte tenu qu'elle ne remet pas en question le dispositif du jugement;
10. Cependant, considérant les commentaires des avocats de certaines parties appelantes, considérant qu'une autre partie a jugé approprié de le faire, et par prudence, elle soumet à la Cour la présente déclaration d'appel incident de bene esse;

C - ÉNONCÉ DES MOYENS D'APPEL

11. Le juge de première instance a erré dans son jugement en omettant de trancher complètement une question subsidiaire en litige et ce, pour les motifs suivants;
12. Aux paragraphes 119 à 128 du jugement, le juge expose d'une façon favorable à la Ville de Sept-Îles les principes de droits applicables à la question subsidiaire de la priorité de la créance de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes impayées par rapport à celles des régimes de retraite. Cependant, il n'a pas jugé nécessaire de trancher complètement cette question, concluant que les fiducies réputées en matière de régimes de retraite ne sont pas valables dans le cadre de l'application de la LACC :

«[127] The Ville de Sept-Îles argues that its claim for property and water taxes predates the liquidation of the Wabush CCAA Parties and any default in payment of the contributions, and therefore takes priority even if the deemed trust is valid.

[128] However, for the reasons set out below, it is not necessary for the Court to decide those priority issues.

[217]. As result of the foregoing, the Court comes to the following conclusions:

1. The trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

[224] DECLARES that trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings »

13. Cette omission est déterminante car, dans l'éventualité où la Cour d'appel accueillait les appels principaux dans les présents dossiers et déclarait que les créances des régimes de retraite bénéficient de fiducies réputées ou de « lien and charge » applicables au Québec, pour une solution complète du litige, elle devra se prononcer sur la question subsidiaire de la préséance de la créance prioritaire de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes impayées par rapport à celles des régimes de retraite;
14. En effet, le produit de la vente des immeubles des débitrices situés à Sept-Îles, immeubles à l'égard desquels des arrérages importants de taxes municipales demeurent impayés, représente une part considérable des sommes disponibles pour distribution aux créanciers des débitrices dans le cadre des procédures sous la LACC, et il faudra déterminer qui de la Ville de Sept-Îles ou des régimes de retraite a le premier rang à l'égard de ces sommes;

D - AUTRES MOYENS

15. La Ville de Sept-Îles se réserve le droit de soulever des moyens d'appel additionnels à l'effet qu'il n'y a pas eu de liquidation au sens de l'article 8 de Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985) ch. 32 (« PBSA ») et de l'article 32 de la Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL, 1996, c. P-4.01 (« NLPBA »), contrairement à ce que le juge Hamilton a conclu dans le jugement, annexe 1, et, subsidiairement, qu'une telle liquidation n'existait pas en date de l'ordonnance initiale;
16. La Ville de Sept-Îles se réserve également le droit de soulever des moyens à l'effet que l'article 32 de la NLPBA ne protège pas les déficits de terminaison;

E - CONCLUSIONS RECHERCHÉES

17. Pour ces motifs, la partie appelante demandera à la Cour de :

Dans l'éventualité où la Cour d'appel accueillait les appels principaux dans les dossiers 500-09-027075-175, 500-09-027076-173, 500-09-027077-171 et 500-09-027082-171, infirmait la conclusion énoncée au paragraphe 224 du jugement, et où elle concluait que les réclamations des régimes de retraite bénéficient de fiducies réputées ou d'un « lien and charge » applicables au Québec :

ACCUEILLIR l'appel incident de la Ville de Sept-Îles;

DÉCLARER que la créance de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour taxes foncières impayées a priorité sur celles des régimes de retraite en ce qui concerne le produit de la vente des immeubles des débitrices situés sur le territoire de la Ville de Sept-Îles;

LE TOUT, avec frais de justice ;

18. Avis de la présente déclaration d'appel incident est donné aux parties et à leurs avocats impliqués dans les présents dossiers;

À L'UN DES HONORABLES JUGES DE LA COUR D'APPEL, SIÉGEANT
DANS LE DISTRICT DE MONTRÉAL, LES PARTIES APPELANTES EXPOSENT CE QUI SUIT :

I INTRODUCTION

1. En date du 11 septembre 2017, le juge Stephen W. Hamilton, de la Cour Supérieure, chambre commerciale, du district de Montréal, a accueilli la requête pour directives du Contrôleur intitulée Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims (ci-après la « Requête »);

2. Il s'agit d'un jugement rendu en matière d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies qui concerne plus précisément la priorité associée aux réclamations pour les déficits de régimes de retraite;
3. Le jugement de première instance reprend la majorité des arguments soumis par le Contrôleur, en ce que l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton décide notamment que :
 - a) Les effets de la Loi sur les régimes complémentaires de retraite, RLRQ c. R-15.1 (ci-après la « LRCR ») bénéficient uniquement aux cotisations associées aux participants québécois qui ne travaillaient pas sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral, les effets de la Loi sur les régimes de retraite, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 (ci-après la « NLPBA ») bénéficient uniquement aux cotisations associées aux participants terre-neuviens qui ne travaillaient pas sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral et les effets de la Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985), ch. 32 (2e suppl.) (ci-après la « LNPP ») bénéficient aux cotisations associées au groupe résiduel qui travaillait sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral (paragraphe 61 à 81);
 - b) La LRCR ne crée aucune fiducie réputée valide (paragraphe 89 à 112);
 - c) Les fiducies réputées prennent rang en concurrence avec les autres formes de garanties selon la date à laquelle les contributions sont venues à échéance (paragraphe 119 à 128);
 - d) La fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA n'affecte pas les biens des débitrices situés au Québec (paragraphe 144 à 154);
 - e) La fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA ne trouve pas application dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies en raison de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (paragraphe 177 à 210);
 - f) La fiducie réputée constituée par la LNPP ne trouve pas application dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies selon l'intention du législateur dégagée en application de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (paragraphe 211 à 216);
4. Les parties appelantes joignent à la présente le jugement de première instance à l'Annexe 1, une copie des pièces et des éléments de preuve présentés en première instance et nécessaires à son appel à l'Annexe

CS : 500-11-048114-157

2, ainsi qu'une copie des actes de procédures relatifs à l'audition de la requête en première instance à l'Annexe 3;

5. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit dans son jugement pour les motifs qui suivent;

II MOYENS D'APPEL

i) L'intention du législateur fédéral entourant la protection des régimes de retraite et la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale

6. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale et que l'intention du législateur fédéral entraînaient l'inapplicabilité des fiducies réputées constituées par la NLPBA et la LNPP dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies;
7. Ces conclusions sous-tendent que le législateur a déterminé un niveau maximal de protection offert aux créances associées aux régimes de retraite en promulguant les articles 6(6), 6(7) et 36(7) LACC, ce qui n'est, en tout respect, pas le cas;
8. Le jugement de première instance conclut également de manière erronée à une équivalence entre les régimes de faillite et d'arrangement quant à l'applicabilité des fiducies présumées, alors que les lois ellesmêmes diffèrent quant aux articles pertinents;
9. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que le niveau de protection offert par les articles 6(6), 6(7) et 36(7) LACC est en fait un niveau minimal de protection, qui laisse toute la place à l'application des lois provinciales en matière de régimes de retraites, tel que la NLPBA, et à la LNPP;
10. Les parties appelantes entendent également démontrer qu'il convient de distinguer le régime de faillite du régime d'arrangement sur cet aspect en raison de la différence entre ces deux lois;

CA : 500-09-027-075-175

Demande modifiée pour permission d'appeler d'un jugement rendu en matière
d'arrangement

11. Effectivement, le régime de la faillite comporte un ordre de priorité défini exhaustivement, ce qui n'est pas le cas du régime prévu par la LACC;
12. Par conséquent, la conclusion à laquelle le juge de première instance aurait dû parvenir est que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale ne peut trouver application en l'espèce, puisqu'on ne retrouve aucun conflit d'application, mais surtout aucune incompatibilité d'objet permettant l'application de cette doctrine qui doit recevoir une interprétation restrictive dans le contexte du fédéralisme canadien;
13. Par ailleurs, l'interprétation proposée par les parties appelantes à l'effet que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale n'est pas déclenchée par les fiducies réputées appliquées dans un contexte de distribution est cohérente avec les motifs de la Cour Suprême dans l'affaire Sun Indalex Finance, LLC c. Syndicat des Métallos, 2013 CSC 6 :

« [52] La fiducie réputée créée par la LRR continue de s'appliquer dans les instances relevant de la LACC, sous réserve de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (Crystalline Investments Ltd. c. Domgroup Ltd., 2004 CSC 3 (CanLII), [2004] 1 R.C.S. 60, par. 43) »
14. Par ces propos, la Cour Suprême nous indiquait que les fiducies réputées pouvaient trouver application dans d'autres situations que lors du financement intérimaire qui était sous-étude, des cas où la prépondérance fédérale ne serait pas déclenchée;
15. Les parties appelantes soumettent que le jugement de première instance vide cette affirmation de tout son sens, puisqu'il n'y aurait alors aucune situation où les fiducies réputées trouveraient application dans un contexte LACC si elles sont ineffectives pour une éventuelle distribution;
16. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'ensemble des conclusions du jugement de première instance sur l'applicabilité de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale ou encore sur le fait de faire

primer les protections minimales prévues à la LACC sur les protections prévues à la LNPP se fondent sur l'intention du législateur ainsi déterminée;

17. En arrivant à une conclusion différente sur la portée et le sens de la protection accordée aux régimes de retraites dans la LACC, le juge de première instance aurait nécessairement conclu à l'inapplicabilité de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale en l'espèce, n'y retrouvant aucune assise valable pour prétendre à une incompatibilité d'objet;
18. Dans le même sens, le juge de première instance aurait maintenu les effets de la LNPP malgré l'existence d'une protection minimale prévue sous la LACC;

ii) Les effets des différentes lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite et de fiducies réputées

19. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que l'application compartimentée des différentes lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite;
20. En effet, tel que mentionné précédemment, le juge de première instance a décidé que chaque loi produisait des effets uniquement quant aux cotisations associées aux travailleurs sous sa juridiction;
21. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que la NLPBA et sa fiducie réputée produit des effets s'étendant à tout le déficit du régime de retraite des salariés syndiqués et que la LRRCR et la LNPP s'appliquent tout simplement de manière concurrente sans qu'aucune de ces lois ne produise un effet exclusif envers une catégorie de participants;
22. Comme la LRRCR et la LNPP produisent des effets qui ne s'étendent pas au déficit de terminaison mais fixent uniquement des normes minimales (Articles 5 LRRCR et 3 LNPP), rien n'empêche la NLPBA de continuer à produire ses effets de fiducie réputée en lien avec le déficit de terminaison à l'avantage de l'ensemble des participants au régime de retraite. Il n'y a ici aucun conflit entre les différentes lois;

23. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'application compartimentée que fait le juge de première instance a pour effet de neutraliser une partie importante des effets rémédiateurs de la NLPBA, puisque près de la moitié des participants au régime sont assujettis uniquement à la LNPP ou la LRCR et leur protection moindre par l'effet du jugement de première instance;

iii) La fiducie réputée créée par la LRCR

24. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la LRCR ne contient aucune fiducie réputée valide en droit, en raison d'un manque au niveau de l'identification de la propriété visée;
25. En effet, le juge de première instance estime que l'article 49 LRCR aurait nécessairement dû comprendre une mention à l'effet que les sommes visées par cette fiducie réputée sont retirées du patrimoine des débitrices pour que les tribunaux puissent conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée valablement constituée;
26. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que les articles 49 et 264 de la LRCR comportent les éléments essentiels qui permettent de conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée valablement constituée dans la LRCR;
27. La position des parties appelantes est d'ailleurs soutenue par les conclusions auxquelles la Cour Supérieure était arrivée lorsqu'elle avait été saisie d'une question similaire dans l'affaire Timminco Itée (Arrangement relatif à), 2014 QCCS 174;
28. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisqu'elle a pour effet de retirer toute protection aux créances des participants québécois advenant que les conclusions du jugement de première instance sur la prépondérance fédérale soient infirmées, mais que ses conclusions sur l'application des trois lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite soient maintenues;

iv) La priorité d'une fiducie réputée créée législativement sur les créanciers garantis

29. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que les fiducies réputées créées législativement prenaient rang en concurrence avec les créanciers garantie en fonction de leur date;
30. Selon le juge de première instance, les dates d'échéances des contributions seraient les éléments permettant de déterminer le rang des créances associées aux fiducies réputées vis-à-vis les droits des créanciers garantis;
31. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que l'effet des fiducies réputées ne saurait s'exercer en concurrence avec les droits des créanciers garantis des débitrices;
32. En effet, les fiducies réputées ont pour conséquence directe de déplacer les biens visés du patrimoine des débitrices vers un patrimoine d'affectation distinct;
33. Ainsi, la garantie ne peut plus être exercée par les créanciers garantis puisque les biens visés n'appartiennent tout simplement plus au patrimoine de leur débiteur;
34. Cela est sans compter les dispositions prohibant les saisies à l'encontre des sommes associées aux régimes de retraite dans les différentes lois (Articles 264 LRCR, 36 LNPP, 33 NLPBA);
35. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'effet pratique des fiducies réputées est grandement affecté s'il doit entrer en concurrence avec les droits des créanciers garantis;

CA : 500-09-027-075-175

Demande modifiée pour permission d'appeler d'un jugement rendu en matière

v) Les biens visés par la fiducie réputée de la NLPBA

36. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA ne pouvait valablement produire des effets vis-à-vis les biens situés au Québec;
37. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que l'article 1262 du Code civil du Québec, RLRQ c. CCQ-1991 permet la reconnaissance d'une fiducie constituée par la loi d'une autre province, pour autant qu'elle respecte les conditions applicables en droit québécois;
38. Les parties appelantes estiment que la fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA respecte l'ensemble des conditions applicables et que, par conséquent, le juge de première instance aurait dû reconnaître son plein effet, même pour les biens situés au Québec;
39. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque la majorité en valeur des biens qui ont été vendus dans le cadre des procédures d'arrangement se situe au Québec;
40. En faisant une telle distinction, le juge de première instance prive la fiducie réputée de la NLPBA d'une part appréciable de ses effets en annulant ses principales possibilités de permettre le recouvrement de sommes dans le cadre d'une éventuelle distribution;

III L'APPLICATION DES CRITÈRES POUR L'OBTENTION DE LA PERMISSION

41. Les questions en jeu sont des questions de nature à être soumises à la Cour d'appel :
 - a) La question concernant l'effectivité des fiducies réputées dans un contexte de distribution effectuée sous la LACC est certainement une question d'intérêt pour la Cour d'appel, en raison des nombreuses incidences qu'aurait un éventuel arrêt de cette Cour en cette matière;
 - b) Tel que l'honorable juge Kasirer, j.c.a., le mentionnait dans son jugement du 18 août 2015 (Bloom Lake, g.p.l. (Arrangement

CS : 500-11-048114-157

- relatif à*), 2015 QCCA 1351), le droit concernant l'applicabilité des fiducies réputées en contexte d'insolvabilité est loin d'être une question résolue en jurisprudence;
- c) La question soulevée par la présente demande de permission concernant l'applicabilité de la fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA aux biens situés au Québec est une question nouvelle qui n'a jamais été abordée en jurisprudence;
 - d) La question portant sur la validité de la fiducie réputée constituée par la LRRCR fait l'objet d'une jurisprudence contradictoire, étant directement contraire au jugement rendu dans l'affaire Timminco ltée (Arrangement relatif à), 2014 QCCS 174;
42. Tel que prévu par une jurisprudence constante¹, la partie qui souhaite en appeler d'un jugement rendu dans le cadre de procédure en vertu de la LACC doit montrer qu'elle rencontre les critères suivants :
- a) whether the point on appeal is of significance to the practice;
 - b) whether the point raised is of significance to the action itself;
 - c) whether the appeal is prima facie meritorious or, on the other hand, whether it is frivolous; and
 - d) whether the appeal will unduly hinder the progress of the action;
43. Les parties appelantes soumettent que la présente demande de permission rencontre l'ensemble de ces critères;
- i) L'importance pour la pratique en général
44. Tel que mentionné précédemment, l'applicabilité des fiducies réputées en contexte d'insolvabilité est une question qui n'est pas résolue en jurisprudence mais qui se pose à chaque fois qu'un régime de retraite à prestation déterminée déficitaire fait partie du dossier;
45. La pratique en général pourrait largement bénéficier des questions de principes qui sont soulevées par la présente demande de permission, notamment sur une détermination par la Cour d'appel du caractère effectif des fiducies réputées dans un contexte de distribution entreprise sur la LACC;

ii) L'importance pour le sort de l'action

46. L'importance des questions soulevées en l'espèce est également valable pour le sort de l'action elle-même;
47. Les créances associées aux régimes de retraite dans le présent dossier constituent une part importante de l'ensemble des réclamations formulées à l'encontre des débitrices;
48. Les conséquences du jugement de première instance sont très importantes sur les possibilités des salariés syndiqués de recouvrer les sommes importantes qui sont dues à leur régime de retraite;

iii) Les chances de succès prima facie

49. En première instance, les parties ont débattu de l'ensemble des questions en litige pendant deux jours qui ont été constitués uniquement de plaidoiries;
50. De plus, de nombreux arguments avaient déjà été soumis par écrit, tel qu'il appert des nombreuses argumentations écrites soumises en première instance;
51. Par conséquent, les parties appelantes soumettent qu'il existe de nombreux appuis jurisprudentiels ou doctrinaux soutenant des interprétations contraires à ce qui a été déterminé par le juge de première instance;
52. Ces éléments devraient suffire, au stade prima facie, à établir des chances raisonnables de succès;

CA : 500-09-027-075-175

Demande modifiée pour permission d'appeler d'un jugement rendu en matière d'arrangement

iv) L'absence d'entrave pour la suite du dossier

53. À ce stade-ci, les procédures en vertu de la LACC sont relativement avancées et rien n'indique qu'une opportunité d'en appeler de la décision de première instance aurait pour effet de paralyser le dossier;
54. Les principaux actifs des débitrices ont été liquidés et la partie intimée travaille toujours au traitement des réclamations qui ont été déposées, pour lesquelles un nombre important d'entre elles sont encore en attente de détermination;
55. Comme la suite du dossier se limite essentiellement en une éventuelle distribution, la partie appelante soumet à cette honorable Cour que l'importance de ce critère est largement diminuée en l'espèce;
56. Même si la partie intimée venait à compléter le traitement des réclamations, il serait possible pour elle de procéder à une distribution partielle pour les entités qui ne sont pas concernées par le présent débat;

IV CONCLUSIONS

57. La partie appelante demandera à la Cour d'appel de :
 - a) ACCUEILLIR l'appel;
 - b) INFIRMER le jugement de première instance;
 - c) REJETER la requête pour directives du Contrôleur intitulée Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;

Datée du 2 octobre 2017

I INTRODUCTION

1. Les parties appelantes se pourvoient contre un jugement de la Cour Supérieure, chambre commerciale, rendu le 11 septembre 2017, par l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton, siégeant dans le district de Montréal (ci-après le « Jugement ») et qui a accueilli la requête pour directives du Contrôleur intitulée Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims (ci-après la « Requête »);

Déclaration d'appel

2. La Requête visait à faire déterminer par la Cour Supérieure quelle devait être la priorité accordée aux différentes composantes des réclamations formulées en faveur des régimes de retraite en cause et une détermination quant à l'applicabilité et l'étendue des fiducies réputées créées par les différentes lois régissant les régimes complémentaires de retraite;
3. En effet, la Requête recherchait des conclusions à l'effet qu'aucune fiducie réputée n'était applicable en l'espèce et que, par conséquent, la seule priorité dont bénéficierait les régimes de retraite serait la priorité pour les contributions des employés et les coûts de service courant prévue aux articles 6(6) et 37(6) de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (ci-après la « LACC »);
4. Les parties appelantes se sont opposées à cette Requête, étant plutôt d'opinion que l'ensemble du déficit de terminaison du régime de retraite des salariés syndiqués est visé par une fiducie réputée devant continuer de trouver application dans le contexte des procédures LACC;
5. Le jugement de première instance reprend la majorité des arguments soumis par le Contrôleur, en ce que l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton décide notamment que :
 - a) Les effets de la Loi sur les régimes complémentaires de retraite, RLRQ c. R-15.1 (ci-après la « LRCR ») bénéficient uniquement aux cotisations associées aux participants québécois qui ne travaillaient pas sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral, les effets de la Loi sur les régimes de retraite, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 (ci-après la « NLPBA ») bénéficient uniquement aux cotisations associées aux participants terre-neuviens qui ne travaillaient pas sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral et les effets de la Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985), ch. 32 (2e suppl.) (ci-après la « LNPP ») bénéficient aux cotisations associées au groupe résiduel qui travaillait sur un ouvrage de compétence fédéral (paragraphe 61 à 81);

Déclaration d'appel

- b) La LRRC ne crée aucune fiducie réputée valide (paragraphe 89 à 112);
 - c) Les fiducies réputées prennent rang en concurrence avec les autres formes de garanties selon la date à laquelle les contributions sont venues à échéance (paragraphe 119 à 128);
 - d) La fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA n'affecte pas les biens des débitrices situés au Québec (paragraphe 144 à 154);
 - e) La fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA ne trouve pas application dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies en raison de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (paragraphe 177 à 210);
 - f) La fiducie réputée constituée par la LNPP ne trouve pas application dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies selon l'intention du législateur dégagée en application de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (paragraphe 211 à 216);
6. La date de l'avis du jugement est le 15 septembre 2017;
 7. La durée de l'instruction en première instance a été de deux jours;
 8. Les parties appelantes joignent à la présente le jugement de première instance à l'Annexe 1;
 9. La valeur de l'objet du litige est de 27,5M$, représentant la créance due au régime de retraite des salariés syndiqués qui est visée par la fiducie réputée dont bénéficient l'ensemble des membres du Syndicat;
 10. Les parties appelantes soumettent en tout respect que le juge de première instance a erré en droit dans son jugement pour les motifs qui suivent;

II LES MOYENS D'APPEL

i) L'intention du législateur fédéral entourant la protection des régimes de retraite et la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale

11. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale et que l'intention du législateur fédéral entraînaient l'inapplicabilité des fiducies réputées constituées par la NLPBA et la LNPP dans un contexte d'arrangement avec les créanciers des compagnies;
12. Ces conclusions sous-tendent que le législateur a déterminé un niveau maximal de protection offert aux créances associées aux régimes de retraite en promulguant les articles 6(6), 6(7) et 36(7) LACC, ce qui n'est, en tout respect, pas le cas;
13. Le jugement de première instance conclut également de manière erronée à une équivalence entre les régimes de faillite et d'arrangement quant à l'applicabilité des fiducies présumées, alors que les lois elles-mêmes diffèrent quant aux articles pertinents;
14. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que le niveau de protection offert par les articles 6(6), 6(7) et 36(7) LACC est en fait un niveau minimal de protection, qui laisse toute la place à l'application des lois provinciales en matière de régimes de retraites, tel que la NLPBA, et à la LNPP;
15. Les parties appelantes entendent également démontrer qu'il convient de distinguer le régime de faillite du régime d'arrangement sur cet aspect en raison de la différence entre ces deux lois;
16. Effectivement, le régime de la faillite comporte un ordre de priorité défini exhaustivement, ce qui n'est pas le cas du régime prévu par la LACC;

Déclaration d'appel

17. Par conséquent, la conclusion à laquelle le juge de première instance aurait dû parvenir est que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale ne peut trouver application en l'espèce, puisqu'on ne retrouve aucun conflit d'application, mais surtout aucune incompatibilité d'objet permettant l'application de cette doctrine qui doit recevoir une interprétation restrictive dans le contexte du fédéralisme canadien;
18. Par ailleurs, l'interprétation proposée par les parties appelantes à l'effet que la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale n'est pas déclenchée par les fiducies réputées appliquées dans un contexte de distribution est cohérente avec les motifs de la Cour Suprême dans l'affaire Sun Indalex Finance, LLC c. Syndicat des Métallos, 2013 CSC 6 :

« [52] La fiducie réputée créée par la LRR continue de s'appliquer dans les instances relevant de la LACC, sous réserve de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale (Crystalline Investments Ltd. c. Domgroup Ltd., 2004 CSC 3 (CanLII), [2004] 1 R.C.S. 60, par. 43) »
19. Par ces propos, la Cour Suprême nous indiquait que les fiducies réputées pouvaient trouver application dans d'autres situations que lors du financement intérimaire qui était sous-étude, des cas où la prépondérance fédérale ne serait pas déclenchée;
20. Les parties appelantes soumettent que le jugement de première instance vide cette affirmation de tout son sens, puisqu'il n'y aurait alors aucune situation où les fiducies réputées trouveraient application dans un contexte LACC si elles sont ineffectives pour une éventuelle distribution;
21. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'ensemble des conclusions du jugement de première instance sur l'applicabilité de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale ou encore sur le fait de faire

Déclaration d'appel

primer les protections minimales prévues à la LACC sur les protections prévues à la LNPP se fondent sur l'intention du législateur ainsi déterminée;

22. En arrivant à une conclusion différente sur la portée et le sens de la protection accordée aux régimes de retraites dans la LACC, le juge de première instance aurait nécessairement conclu à l'inapplicabilité de la doctrine de la prépondérance fédérale en l'espèce, n'y retrouvant aucune assise valable pour prétendre à une incompatibilité d'objet;
23. Dans le même sens, le juge de première instance aurait maintenu les effets de la LNPP malgré l'existence d'une protection minimale prévue sous la LACC;

ii) Les effets des différentes lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite et de fiducies réputées

24. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que l'application compartimentée des différentes lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite;
25. En effet, tel que mentionné précédemment, le juge de première instance a décidé que chaque loi produisait des effets uniquement quant aux cotisations associées aux travailleurs sous sa juridiction;
26. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que la NLPBA et sa fiducie réputée produit des effets s'étendant à tout le déficit du régime de retraite des salariés syndiqués et que la LRRCR et la LNPP s'appliquent tout simplement de manière concurrente sans qu'aucune de ces lois ne produise un effet exclusif envers une catégorie de participants;
27. Comme la LRRCR et la LNPP produisent des effets qui ne s'étendent pas au déficit de terminaison mais fixent uniquement des normes minimales (Articles 5 LRRCR et 3 LNPP), rien n'empêche la NLPBA de continuer à produire ses effets de fiducie réputée en lien avec le déficit de terminaison à l'avantage de l'ensemble des participants au régime de retraite. Il n'y a ici aucun conflit entre les différentes lois;

28. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'application compartimentée que fait le juge de première instance a pour effet de neutraliser une partie importante des effets réparateurs de la NLPBA, puisque près de la moitié des participants au régime sont assujettis uniquement à la LNPP ou la LRRCR et leur protection moindre par l'effet du jugement de première instance;

iii) La fiducie réputée créée par la LRRCR

29. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la LRRCR ne contient aucune fiducie réputée valide en droit, en raison d'un manque au niveau de l'identification de la propriété visée;
30. En effet, le juge de première instance estime que l'article 49 LRRCR aurait nécessairement dû comprendre une mention à l'effet que les sommes visées par cette fiducie réputée sont retirées du patrimoine des débitrices pour que les tribunaux puissent conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée valablement constituée;
31. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que les articles 49 et 264 de la LRRCR comportent les éléments essentiels qui permettent de conclure à l'existence d'une fiducie réputée valablement constituée dans la LRRCR;
32. La position des parties appelantes est d'ailleurs soutenue par les conclusions auxquelles la Cour Supérieure était arrivée lorsqu'elle avait été saisie d'une question similaire dans l'affaire Timminco Itée (Arrangement relatif à), 2014 QCCS 174;

33. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisqu'elle a pour effet de retirer toute protection aux créances des participants québécois advenant que les conclusions du jugement de première instance sur la prépondérance fédérale soient infirmées, mais que ses conclusions sur l'application des trois lois en matière de régimes complémentaires de retraite soient maintenues;

iv) La priorité d'une fiducie réputée créée législativement sur les créanciers garantis

34. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que les fiducies réputées créées législativement prenaient rang en concurrence avec les créanciers garantie en fonction de leur date;

35. Selon le juge de première instance, les dates d'échéances des contributions seraient les éléments permettant de déterminer le rang des créances associées aux fiducies réputées vis-à-vis les droits des créanciers garantis;

36. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que l'effet des fiducies réputées ne saurait s'exercer en concurrence avec les droits des créanciers garantis des débitrices;

37. En effet, les fiducies réputées ont pour conséquence directe de déplacer les biens visés du patrimoine des débitrices vers un patrimoine d'affectation distinct;

38. Ainsi, la garantie ne peut plus être exercée par les créanciers garantis puisque les biens visés n'appartiennent tout simplement plus au patrimoine de leur débiteur;

39. Cela est sans compter les dispositions prohibant les saisies à l'encontre des sommes associées aux régimes de retraite dans les différentes lois (Articles 264 LRCR, 36 LNPP, 33 NLPBA);

40. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque l'effet pratique des fiducies réputées est grandement affecté s'il doit entrer en concurrence avec les droits des créanciers garantis;

v) Les biens visés par la fiducie réputée de la NLPBA

41. Le juge de première instance a erré en droit lorsqu'il a décidé que la fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA ne pouvait valablement produire des effets vis-à-vis les biens situés au Québec;
42. Les parties appelantes entendent démontrer que l'article 1262 du Code civil du Québec, RLRQ c. CCQ-1991 permet la reconnaissance d'une fiducie constituée par la loi d'une autre province, pour autant qu'elle respecte les conditions applicables en droit québécois;
43. Les parties appelantes estiment que la fiducie réputée constituée par la NLPBA respecte l'ensemble des conditions applicables et que, par conséquent, le juge de première instance aurait dû reconnaître son plein effet, même pour les biens situés au Québec;
44. Cette erreur de droit est déterminante puisque la majorité en valeur des biens qui ont été vendus dans le cadre des procédures d'arrangement se situe au Québec;
45. En faisant une telle distinction, le juge de première instance prive la fiducie réputée de la NLPBA d'une part appréciable de ses effets en annulant ses principales possibilités de permettre le recouvrement de sommes dans le cadre d'une éventuelle distribution;

III CONCLUSIONS

46. Pour les raisons mentionnées précédemment, la partie appelante demandera à la Cour d'appel de :

Déclaration d'appel

- a) ACCUEILLIR l'appel;
- b) INFIRMER le jugement de première instance;
- c) REJETER la requête pour directives du Contrôleur intitulée Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;
- d) DÉCLARER que les fiducies réputées créées par la Loi sur les régimes complémentaires de retraite, RLRQ c. R-15.1, par la Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985), ch. 32 (2e suppl.) et par la Loi sur les régimes de retraite, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 s'appliquent nonobstant les procédures en vertu de la Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies, L.R.C. (1985), ch. C-36;
- e) DÉCLARER que l'entièreté du déficit de terminaison du régime de retraite Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company bénéficie de la priorité conférée par la fiducie réputée de la Loi sur les régimes de retraite, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01;
- f) DÉCLARER que la priorité de cette fiducie réputée passe avant toutes créances garanties pouvant grever les biens des débitrices Mises en cause Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company et Wabush Lake Railway Company;
- g) DÉCLARER que cette fiducie réputée s'attache à l'ensemble des biens des débitrices Mises en cause Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company et Wabush Lake Railway Company, sans égard à la province dans laquelle ces biens sont situés;
- h) LE TOUT, vu la nature du dossier, sans frais.

Avis de la présente déclaration d'appel est donné à FTI Consulting Canada Inc., à Me Sylvain Rigaud, aux procureurs des Mises en cause (Mes Bernard Boucher, Andrew J. Hatnay, Amy Tang, Demetrios Yiokaris, Ronald A. Pink, Louis Robillard, Pierre Lecavalier, Michelle Kellam, Doug Mitchell, Edward Bécharde-Torres et Martin Roy) et au greffe de la Cour Supérieure du district de Montréal.

A. INTRODUCTION

1. The Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland & Labrador seeks leave to appeal the decision of Mr. Justice Stephen Hamilton (the "Motion Judge") of the Superior Court of Quebec on the Amended Motion by the Monitor for Directions with Respect to Pension Claims in Arrangement relatif à Bloom Lake, 2017 QCCS 4057 (Court File S.C. No. 500-11-048114-157) (the "Motion Decision") dated September 11, 2017, and attached hereto as Annex A. The hearing before the Motion Judge was held on June 28 and 29, 2017.
2. The Motion Judge granted the Amended Motion for Directions by the Monitor, FTI Consulting Canada Inc., and declared that the deemed trusts created by the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 ("NLPBA"), the Supplemental Pension Plans Act, CQLR c. R-15.1 ("SPPA"), and the Pension Benefits Standards

-3-

Act, 1985, R.S.C., 1985, c. 32 ("PBSA"), are not enforceable in proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA"). The Motion Judge likewise concluded that the deemed trust created by the NLPBA could not in any event attach to the proceeds of property formerly located in the Province of Quebec. The Superintendent hereby seeks leave to appeal the Motion Judge's decision.

B. CONTEXT

3. Since 1965, the Wabush Mines JV (a joint venture of Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc.) has operated an iron ore mine near the Town of Wabush, Newfoundland & Labrador, as well as a port facility and a pellet production facility in Pointe-Noire, Québec. The ore was transported from Wabush to Pointe-Noire by the Arnaud Railway Company and the Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties").
4. The Wabush CCAA Parties, in addition to Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, sponsor two pension plans with defined benefit provisions for their salaried and unionized employees and retirees (the "Union DB Plan" and the "Salaried DB Plan", respectively). Both plans originally included a majority of employees who reported for work in Newfoundland & Labrador, although many members reported for work in Québec and on the two federally-regulated railways.¹ The two DB Plans now include over two thousand members; their membership breakdown by jurisdiction is detailed at paragraph 6 of the Motion Decision.
5. On May 19, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties filed a motion for the issuance of an initial order under the CCAA. On June 26, 2015, the Superior Court ordered the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of their monthly amortization payments and their annual lump sum "catch-up" payments coming due under the two DB Plans. The Court also ordered the suspension of payment of other post-retirement benefits, including life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan.²

6. On December 16, 2015, the Superintendent and the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (“OSFI”) terminated both plans, effective immediately. As of March 2016, the monthly benefits being paid to the retirees of the Salaried DB Plan were reduced by 25%, and the benefits being paid to the retirees of the Union DB Plan were reduced by 21%.
7. During the course of the present CCAA proceedings, all or substantially all of the assets were sold, and the proceeds are now held by the Monitor. These assets were located in both the Provinces of Newfoundland & Labrador and Quebec.
8. There are significant amounts still owed to the Salaried and Union DB Plans. $6,671,820 is still owed to the Union DB Plan as special payments and catch-up special payments, while $2,185,756 is still owed in special payments to the Salaried DB Plan. The wind-up deficiencies of the Union and Salaried DB Plan are valued at $27,486,548 and $27,450,000, respectively.
9. On September 20, 2016, the Monitor filed a Motion for Directions – later amended on April 13, 2017, and attached as Annex B to the present Motion – seeking a determination of various issues relating to potential pension claims, including:
 - 1) What law applies to determine each DB Plan member’s pension rights;
 - 2) Whether a “liquidation” had occurred triggering the deemed trust outlined in section 32(2) of the NLPBA and section 8 of the PBSA;
 - 3) Whether the NLPBA’s liquidation deemed trust encompasses the full wind-up deficiency owed to the two DB Plans after termination, or whether it was limited to simply the normal costs and special payments which have accrued;

² 2015 QCCS 3064; motion for leave to appeal dismissed, 2015 QCCA 1351.

- 4) Whether the trust outlined in section 49 of the SPPA constitutes a valid deemed trust;
- 5) Whether the deemed trusts in the NLPBA and the SPPA are rendered inoperative as a result of an alleged conflict with the federal CCAA;
- 6) Likewise, whether the deemed trust outlined in the federal PBSA was in conflict with the federal CCAA and, if so, how ought that conflict be resolved;
- 7) Whether the deemed trust created by the NLPBA could charge property located outside the Province of Newfoundland & Labrador, specifically in the Province of Quebec;
- 8) Whether the deemed trust under the SPPA could take priority over the Ville de Sept-Îles' claim for unpaid property taxes.

C. MOTION DECISION

10. On the issues put to him in the Monitor's Motion for Directions, the Motion Judge concluded as follows:
 - 1) The law that applies to any given plan member will depend on where that plan member reported for work (paras. 61-81).
 - 2) There was "liquidation" of the insolvent debtors in this case, thereby giving rise to the liquidation deemed trusts outlined in the NLPBA and the PBSA (paras. 155-175). This liquidation, in his view, would have begun at the very outset of the insolvency proceedings, on May 19, 2015 (para. 173).
 - 3) The Motions Judge also assumed that the deemed trust under the NLPBA applies to the full wind-up deficits owed to the two DB pension plans.
 - 4) As for the Quebec members, the Motions judge concluded that the Quebec SPPA does not create a valid deemed trust that is enforceable against third parties, since it lacks the "key language" that deems certain amounts "to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy" (paras. 90-91).

- 5) The Motion Judge concluded that the NLPBA's deemed trusts and concurrent lien and charge conflict with the CCAA, and are therefore rendered inoperative by virtue of the doctrine of paramountcy (paras. 177-210).
- 6) Finally, the Motions Judge concluded that the NLPBA's deemed trust of the NLPBA could not attach to property located in the Province of Quebec (paras. 144-154).

D. GROUND FOR APPEAL

11. The Superintendent seeks leave to appeal on the basis that the Motion Judge erred in concluding a) that the NLPBA's deemed trusts conflict with the CCAA and are thereby rendered inoperative, and b) that the NLPBA's deemed trusts could not attach to the proceeds of sales currently held by the Monitor.

a) The NLPBA does not conflict with the CCAA

12. Sections 6(6), 6(7) and 36(7) CCAA enshrine certain minimal protections for pension liabilities, specifically the normal costs and the unremitted employee contributions deducted at source. These guarantees must be satisfied before a CCAA court may authorize a sale of assets or approve a plan of arrangement.
13. Section 32 of the NLPBA does not expressly conflict with these – or any other – sections of the CCAA. Section 32 simply provides for a deemed trust and a lien and charge that confer additional protection for pensioners. This is constitutionally inoffensive: cooperative federalism indeed recognizes that provincial laws can supplement and add to the protections envisioned in federal law.³ This has occurred in areas such as highway safety⁴, the regulation of pesticides⁵, tobacco advertising⁶, and even in insolvency proceedings⁷. Respectfully, the Motion Judge discarded this settled jurisprudence when he concluded as follows:

It is clear that Parliament had weighed the competing interests and decided that this was the protection that all pension plan members across Canada would receive. It left no room for the provinces. (Para. 192, underlining added)

14. Respectfully, the Motion Judge's conclusion is inconsistent with the "guiding principle" of modern federalism jurisprudence, which stresses that courts should facilitate and encourage the overlap between both federal and provincial laws, so that both levels of government may pursue their own vision of the public good within their respective spheres of competence.⁸

15. Fundamentally, Parliament is presumed to be respectful of the Provinces' legislative authority.⁹ As the Supreme Court of Canada has repeatedly insisted, courts should only impute to Parliament an intention to "cover the field" on a given question if Parliament employs "very clear statutory language to that effect".¹⁰ Otherwise, the "fundamental rule of constitutional interpretation" requires that courts interpret federal legislation as if it welcomes the overlapping application of provincial law.¹¹

16. Parliament did not employ any of the "very clear statutory language" required to shut out any possible provincial action in sections 6(6) or 36(7) CCAA. These provisions are instead framed as minimum guarantees; section 6(6) even contemplates a situation in which an arrangement is concluded which provides for more protection than the minimum level envisioned in federal law. This absence of any legislative language ruling out provincial law is made all the more conspicuous by the fact that Parliament actually did rule out the continued application of provincial deemed trusts in favour of the Crown in section 37 of the CCAA.

17. What is more, the “extraneous evidence” the Motion Judge considered of Parliament’s intent only demonstrates that Parliament considered affording more protection to pensioners when it amended the CCAA in 2009, but chose not to. On its own, this is insufficient and cannot meet the “high standard” for invoking paramountcy on the basis of a frustration of federal purpose.¹² Parliament will often consider different policy alternatives – and different ways of balancing competing interests – before settling on its preferred choice. If these everyday legislative choices implied that Parliament “covered the field” and definitively decided a given question, the Provinces would be significantly handicapped from pursuing their own vision of the public good in their own areas of competence. Paramountcy must instead be applied with restraint.¹³
18. Moreover, while it is not determinative, paramountcy arguments rarely succeed without the express support of the federal government, speaking through its Attorney General.¹⁴ In this case, the AGC’s submissions dovetail with the Superintendent’s. Only the Monitor and the Wabush CCAA Parties seek to invoke paramountcy.
19. The Motion Judge’s alternative basis for invoking paramountcy is more tenuous still. The Motion Judge decided that the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act’s comprehensive scheme of collocation applies, in its totality, to a CCAA liquidation

¹² Marine Services International Ltd. v. Ryan Estate, [2013] 3 SCR 52, 2013 SCC 44, at para. 84.

¹³ Bank of Montreal v. Marcotte, [2014] 2 SCR 725, 2014 SCC 55, at para. 74, Saskatchewan (Attorney General) v. Lemare Lake Logging Ltd., 2015 SCC 53, [2015] 3 S.C.R. 419, at para. 27.

¹⁴ Rothmans, Benson & Hedges Inc. v. Saskatchewan, [2005] 1 S.C.R. 188, 2005 SCC 13, at para. 26, citing Kitkatla Band v. British Columbia (Minister of Small Business, Tourism and Culture), [2002] 2 S.C.R. 146, 2002 SCC 31 (CanLII), at paras. 72-73.

(paras. 202-210). In his view, the “bottom line is that a liquidating CCAA requires a scheme of distribution and the only one which makes sense is the scheme of distribution under the BIA” (para. 208).

20. In this, the Motion Judge relies on Century Services Inc. v. Canada, [2010] 3 S.C.R. 379, 2010 SCC 60, where Deschamps J. noted that the rights conferred under the CCAA should be interpreted harmoniously with the rights provided under the BIA, so as to avoid giving secured creditors a strategic incentive to seek the debtor's bankruptcy.¹⁵
21. However, Century Services only directs courts on how they ought to interpret provisions of the CCAA and the BIA. It provides no legal basis to graft the BIA's entire scheme of collocation into a CCAA liquidation. This was confirmed in Sun Indalex Finance LLC v. United Steelworkers, [2013] 1 SCR 271, 2013 SCC 6, where this very argument was put before the Supreme Court of Canada, and rejected in these terms :

[51] [...] Provincial legislation defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament. Parliament did not expressly apply all bankruptcy priorities either to CCAA proceedings or to proposals under the BIA. Although the creditors of a corporation that is attempting to reorganize may bargain in the shadow of their bankruptcy entitlements, those entitlements remain only shadows until bankruptcy occurs. At the outset of the insolvency proceedings, Indalex opted for a process governed by the CCAA, leaving no doubt that although it wanted to protect its employees' jobs, it would not survive as their employer. This was not a case in which a failed arrangement forced a company into liquidation under the BIA. Indalex achieved the goal it was pursuing. It chose to sell its assets under the CCAA, not the BIA.

22. The Motions Judge's apparent repudiation of Indalex is an error of law in its own right. More fundamentally, it is unclear what authority any court would have to re-write the CCAA in this way. If there are indeed “gaps” in the CCAA, then provincial law continues to apply unimpeded, since it “defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament”.¹⁶

b) The NLPBA's deemed trust and lien and charge may attach to the proceeds of assets formerly located in the Province of Quebec

23. Respectfully, the Motion Judge erred in not giving direct effect to the NLBA's deemed trust and lien and charge directly in Quebec through article 3079 of the Civil Code of Québec. Section 32 NLPBA is clearly a mandatory provision of another “State” which is closely connected to the insolvency of the Wabush CCAA Parties. Furthermore, there are “legitimate and manifestly preponderant interests” for doing so. The Wabush CCAA Parties’ business straddled the provincial border, and their multijurisdictional pension plan included members from both jurisdictions. In these circumstances, the “integrating character of our constitutional arrangement”¹⁷ required the Motion Judge to give full effect to the law of a sister province, especially in the context of national insolvency proceedings.

24. That the Quebec legislature did not see fit to confer similar protections on Quebec employees and retirees should not have compelled the Motion Judge to decline to apply Newfoundland & Labrador law to property in Quebec.

E. THESE ISSUES MERIT LEAVE TO APPEAL

25. Pursuant to sections 13 and 14(2) of the CCAA, leave to appeal must be sought from this Honourable Court. Leave is to be granted if the issue on appeal is of significance to the practice of insolvency law generally and to the action itself, if the grounds for appeal are prima facie meritorious or are at least not frivolous, and if the appeal will not unduly hinder the progress of the action.¹⁸

26. The question of federal paramountcy is of great significance to both insolvency law generally and to these particular proceedings. The Motion Judge’s conclusion

¹⁶ Sun Indalex Finance LLC v. United Steelworkers, [2013] 1 SCR 271, 2013 SCC 6, at para. 51.

¹⁷ See Morguard Investments Ltd. V. De Savoye, 1990 CanLII 29 (SCC), [1990] 3 S.C.R. 1077, at pp. 1100.

¹⁸ See e.g. Re Stomp Pork Farm Ltd., 2008 SKCA 73, at para. 29; Statoil Canada Ltd. (Arrangement relative à), 2013 QCCA 851; Bloom Lake, g.p.l. (Arrangement relative à), 2015 QCCA 1351, para. 29.

implies that provincial pension legislation may never supplement the minimum protections outlined in sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA, contrary to what was expressed by the Supreme Court in Indalex. More fundamentally, the Motion Judge's reasoning raises an important issues relating to the doctrine of federal paramountcy, namely the conditions under which Parliament may "cover the field" on a given question.

27. The Motion Judge's conclusion that the BIA's scheme of collocation applies to a liquidating CCAA is more important still. As a matter of law, it represents an important departure from the Supreme Court of Canada's precedents in Century Services and Indalex. It implies that any provincial law which subverts the BIA's scheme of collocation will be rendered inoperative at the outset of every CCAA proceeding. This, as a matter of practice, will surely have important implications on negotiations under the CCAA.
28. The conflict of laws issue is also important. There is a dearth of jurisprudence – and virtually no appellate jurisprudence – on the issue of when a real right created by the legislation of one province may attach to the assets of a debtor subjected to nation-wide insolvency proceedings.
29. With respect to the implications for this particular case, if the two conclusions mentioned above were reversed, the NLPBA's deemed trust would secure both the special payments and the full wind-up deficit owed to the Salaried and Union DB Plans. These issues are thus of great import to all of the pension plan members.
30. For the reasons detailed above, the grounds of appeal are likewise not frivolous.
31. Finally, this appeal will not unduly hinder the progress of the action. These insolvency proceedings are at their end. These are the last – and certainly most important – issues to be resolved before the Monitor can proceed to distribute the proceeds of its CCAA liquidation.
32. The Superintendent reserves its right to make submissions on any other issues for which leave may be granted in the present matter.

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THIS HONOURABLE COURT TO:

- I. GRANT the present Motion;
- II. AUTHORIZE the Superintendent to appeal from the Judgment issued by the Honourable Stephen Hamilton on September 11, 2017, granting the Monitor's Motion for Directions in part;
- III. FIX a date for the hearing of the Superintendent's appeal.

NOTICE OF APPEAL
(Article 352 C.C.P.)

Appellant
October 2, 2017

A. INTRODUCTION

1. The Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland & Labrador appeals the decision of Mr. Justice Stephen Hamilton (the "Motion Judge") of the Superior Court of Quebec on the Amended Motion by the Monitor for Directions with Respect to Pension Claims in Arrangement relatif à Bloom Lake, 2017 QCCS 4057 (Court File S.C. No. 500-11-048114-157) (the "Motion Decision") dated September 11, 2017, and attached hereto as Annex A. The hearing before the Motion Judge was held on June 28 and 29, 2017.
2. The Motion Judge granted the Amended Motion for Directions by the Monitor, FTI Consulting Canada Inc., and declared that the deemed trusts created by the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 ("NLPBA"), the Supplemental Pension Plans Act, CQLR c. R-15.1 ("SPPA"), and the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, R.S.C., 1985, c. 32 ("PBSA"), are not enforceable in proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA"). The Motion Judge likewise concluded that the deemed trust created by the NLPBA could not in any event attach to the proceeds of property formerly located in the Province of Quebec.

B. CONTEXT

3. The facts of the matter are uncontested and are detailed in the Motion Decision at paragraphs 3-31.
4. Since 1965, the Wabush Mines JV (a joint venture of Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc.) operated an iron ore mine near the Town of Wabush, Newfoundland & Labrador, as well as a port facility and a pellet production facility in Pointe-Noire, Québec. The ore was transported from Wabush to Pointe-Noire by the Arnaud Railway Company and the Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited (collectively, the “Wabush CCAA Parties”).
5. The Wabush CCAA Parties, in addition to Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, sponsor two pension plans with defined benefit provisions for their salaried and unionized employees and retirees (the “Union DB Plan” and the “Salaried DB Plan”, respectively). Both plans originally included a majority of employees who reported for work in Newfoundland & Labrador, although many members reported for work in Québec, or on the two federally-regulated railways.¹ The two DB Plans include over two thousand members; their membership breakdown by jurisdiction is detailed at paragraph 6 of the Motion Decision.
6. On May 19, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties filed a motion for the issuance of an initial order under the CCAA. On June 26, 2015, the Superior Court ordered the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of their monthly amortization payments and their annual lump sum “catch-up” payments coming due under the two DB Plans. The Court also ordered the suspension of payment of other post-retirement benefits, including life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan.²

7. On December 16, 2015, the Superintendent and the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (“OSFI”) terminated both plans, effective immediately. As of March 2016, the monthly benefits being paid to the retirees of the Salaried DB Plan were reduced by 25%, and the benefits being paid to the retirees of the Union DB Plan were reduced by 21%.
8. During the course of the present CCAA proceedings, all or substantially all of the assets were sold, and the proceeds are now held by the Monitor. These assets were located in both the Provinces of Newfoundland & Labrador and Quebec.
9. There are significant amounts still owed to the Salaried and Union DB Plans. $6,671,820 is still owed to the Union DB Plan as special payments and catch-up special payments, while $2,185,756 is still owed in special payments to the Salaried DB Plan. The wind-up deficiencies of the Union and Salaried DB Plan are valued at $27,486,548 and $27,450,000, respectively.
10. On September 20, 2016, the Monitor filed a Motion for Directions – later amended on April 13, 2017 – seeking a determination of various issues relating to potential pension claims, including:
 - 1) What law applies to determine each DB Plan member’s pension rights;
 - 2) Whether a “liquidation” had occurred triggering the deemed trusts outlined in section 32 of the NLPBA and section 8 of the PBSA;
 - 3) Whether the NLPBA’s liquidation deemed trust encompasses the full wind-up deficiency owed to the two DB Plans after termination, or whether it was limited to simply the normal costs and special payments which have accrued;

² 2015 QCCS 3064; motion for leave to appeal dismissed, 2015 QCCA 1351.

- 4) Whether the trust outlined in section 49 of the SPPA constitutes a valid deemed trust;
 - 5) Whether the deemed trusts in the NLPBA and the SPPA are rendered inoperative as a result of an alleged conflict with the federal CCAA;
 - 6) Likewise, whether the deemed trust outlined in the federal PBSA was in conflict with the federal CCAA and, if so, how ought that conflict be resolved;
 - 7) Whether the deemed trust created by the NLPBA could charge property located outside the Province of Newfoundland & Labrador, specifically in the Province of Quebec;
 - 8) Whether the deemed trust under the SPPA could take priority over the Ville de Sept-Îles' claim for unpaid property taxes.
11. The Amended Motion for Directions is attached as Annex B to the present Notice.

C. MOTION DECISION

12. On the issues put to him in the Monitor's Motion for Directions, the Motion Judge concluded as follows:
- 1) The law that applies to any given plan member will depend on where that plan member reported for work (paras. 61-81).
 - 2) There was "liquidation" of the insolvent debtors in this case, thereby giving rise to the liquidation deemed trusts outlined in the NLPBA and the PBSA (paras. 155-175). This liquidation, in his view, would have begun at the very outset of the insolvency proceedings, on May 19, 2015 (para. 173).
 - 3) The Motions Judge also assumed that the deemed trust under the NLPBA applies to the full wind-up deficits owed to the two DB pension plans.
 - 4) As for the Quebec members, the Motions judge concluded that the Quebec SPPA does not create a valid deemed trust that is enforceable against third parties, since it lacks the “key language” that deems certain amounts “to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy” (paras. 90-91).

- 5) The Motion Judge concluded that the NLPBA's deemed trusts and concurrent lien and charge conflict with the CCAA, and are therefore rendered inoperative by virtue of the doctrine of paramountcy (paras. 177-210).
- 6) Finally, the Motions Judge concluded that the NLPBA's deemed trust of the NLPBA could not attach to property located in the Province of Quebec (paras. 144-154).

D. GROUNDS FOR APPEAL

13. The Superintendent seeks leave to appeal on the basis that the Motion Judge erred in concluding a) that the NLPBA's deemed trusts conflict with the CCAA and are thereby rendered inoperative, and b) that the NLPBA's deemed trusts could not attach to the proceeds of sales currently held by the Monitor.

a) The NLPBA does not conflict with the CCAA

14. Sections 6(6), 6(7) and 36(7) CCAA enshrine certain minimal protections for pension liabilities, specifically the normal costs and the unremitted employee contributions deducted at source. These guarantees must be satisfied before a CCAA court may authorize a sale of assets or approve a plan of arrangement.
15. Section 32 of the NLPBA does not expressly conflict with these – or any other – sections of the CCAA. Section 32 simply provides for a deemed trust and a lien and charge that confer additional protection for pensioners. This is constitutionally inoffensive: cooperative federalism indeed recognizes that provincial laws can supplement and add to the protections envisioned in federal law.³ This has occurred in areas such as highway safety⁴, the regulation of pesticides⁵, tobacco advertising⁶, and even in insolvency proceedings⁷. Respectfully, the Motion Judge discarded this settled jurisprudence when he concluded that section 32 NLPBA triggered the doctrine of paramountcy:

It is clear that Parliament had weighed the competing interests and decided that this was the protection that all pension plan members across Canada would receive. It left no room for the provinces. (Para. 192, underlining added)

16. Respectfully, the Motion Judge's conclusion is inconsistent with the "guiding principle" of modern federalism jurisprudence, which stresses that courts should facilitate and encourage the overlap between both federal and provincial laws, so that both levels of government may pursue their own vision of the public good within their respective spheres of competence.⁸
17. Fundamentally, Parliament is presumed to be respectful of the Provinces' legislative authority.⁹ As the Supreme Court of Canada has repeatedly insisted, courts should only impute to Parliament an intention to "cover the field" on a given question if Parliament employs "very clear statutory language to that effect".¹⁰ Otherwise, the "fundamental rule of constitutional interpretation" requires that courts interpret federal legislation as if it welcomes the overlapping application of provincial law.¹¹

¹¹ Saskatchewan (Attorney General) v. Lemare Lake Logging Ltd., 2015 SCC 53, [2015] 3 S.C.R. 419, at para. 20-22.

18. Parliament did not employ any of the “very clear statutory language” required to shut out any possible provincial action in sections 6(6) or 36(7) CCAA. These provisions are instead framed as minimum guarantees; section 6(6) even contemplates a situation in which an arrangement is concluded which provides for more protection than the minimum level envisioned in federal law. This absence of any legislative language ruling out provincial law is made all the more conspicuous by the fact that Parliament actually did rule out the continued application of provincial deemed trusts in favour of the Crown in section 37 of the CCAA.
19. What is more, the “extraneous evidence” the Motion Judge considered of Parliament’s intent only demonstrates that Parliament considered affording more protection to pensioners when it amended the CCAA in 2009, but chose not to. On its own, this is insufficient and cannot meet the “high standard” for invoking paramountcy on the basis of a frustration of federal purpose.¹² Parliament will often consider different policy alternatives – and different ways of balancing competing interests – before settling on its preferred choice. If these everyday legislative choices implied that Parliament “covered the field” and definitively decided a given question, the Provinces would be significantly handicapped from pursuing their own vision of the public good in their own areas of competence. Paramountcy must instead be applied with restraint.¹³
20. Moreover, while it is not determinative, paramountcy arguments rarely succeed without the express support of the federal government, speaking through its Attorney General.¹⁴ In this case, the AGC’s submissions dovetail with the Superintendent’s. Only the Monitor and the Wabush CCAA Parties seek to invoke paramountcy.

¹³ Bank of Montreal v. Marcotte, [2014] 2 SCR 725, 2014 SCC 55, at para. 74, Saskatchewan (Attorney General) v. Lemare Lake Logging Ltd., 2015 SCC 53, [2015] 3 S.C.R. 419, at para. 27.

¹⁴ Rothmans, Benson & Hedges Inc. v. Saskatchewan, [2005] 1 S.C.R. 188, 2005 SCC 13, at para. 26, citing Kitkatla Band v. British Columbia (Minister of Small Business, Tourism and Culture), [2002] 2 S.C.R. 146, 2002 SCC 31 (CanLII), at paras. 72-73.

21. The Motion Judge's alternative basis for invoking paramountcy is more tenuous still. The Motion Judge decided that the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act's comprehensive scheme of collocation applies, in its totality, to a CCAA liquidation (paras. 202-210). In his view, the "bottom line is that a liquidating CCAA requires a scheme of distribution and the only one which makes sense is the scheme of distribution under the BIA" (para. 208).
22. In this, the Motion Judge relies on Century Services Inc. v. Canada, [2010] 3 S.C.R. 379, 2010 SCC 60, where Deschamps J. noted that the rights conferred under the CCAA should be interpreted harmoniously with the rights provided under the BIA, so as to avoid giving secured creditors a strategic incentive to seek the debtor's bankruptcy.¹⁵
23. However, Century Services only directs courts on how they ought to interpret provisions of the CCAA and the BIA: it provides no legal basis to graft the BIA's entire scheme of collocation into a CCAA liquidation. This was confirmed in Sun Indalex Finance LLC v. United Steelworkers, [2013] 1 SCR 271, 2013 SCC 6, where this very argument was put before the Supreme Court. Deschamps J. rejected it in clear and emphatic terms:

[51] [...] Provincial legislation defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament. Parliament did not expressly apply all bankruptcy priorities either to CCAA proceedings or to proposals under the BIA. Although the creditors of a corporation that is attempting to reorganize may bargain in the shadow of their bankruptcy entitlements, those entitlements remain only shadows until bankruptcy occurs. At the outset of the insolvency proceedings, Indalex opted for a process governed by the CCAA, leaving no doubt that although it wanted to protect its employees' jobs, it would not survive as their employer. This was not a case in which a failed arrangement forced a company into liquidation under the BIA. Indalex achieved the goal it was pursuing. It chose to sell its assets under the CCAA, not the BIA.

¹⁵ Century Services Inc. v. Canada, 2010 SCC 60, [2010] 3 S.C.R. 379, at para. 47.

24. The Motions Judge never addresses this portion of Deschamps J.'s reasons, although he was repeatedly made aware of it in oral and written submissions. This apparent repudiation of Indalex is an error of law in its own right. More fundamentally, it is unclear what authority any court would have to re-write the CCAA in this way. If there are indeed "gaps" in the CCAA, then provincial law continues to apply unimpeded, since it "defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament".¹⁶ The Motions Judge erred by concluding that provincial law was ousted simply because it "makes sense" to do so (para. 208).
25. It is worth adding that the Motion Judge's argument on this front sits poorly with his insistence on respecting Parliament's choices. Parliament did not choose to apply the BIA's scheme of distribution to CCAA proceedings, even though CCAA liquidations were already common during the first decade of this century.¹⁷
- b) The NLPBA's deemed trust and lien and charge may attach to the proceeds of assets formerly located in the Province of Quebec
26. Respectfully, the Motion Judge erred in not giving direct effect to the NLBA's deemed trust and lien and charge directly in Quebec through article 3079 of the Civil Code of Québec. Section 32 NLPBA is clearly a mandatory provision of another "State" which is closely connected to the insolvency of the Wabush CCAA Parties. Furthermore, there are "legitimate and manifestly preponderant interests" for doing so. The Wabush CCAA Parties' business straddled the provincial border, and their multijurisdictional pension plan included members from both jurisdictions. In these circumstances, the "integrating character of our constitutional arrangement"¹⁸ required the Motion Judge to give full effect to the law of a sister province, especially in the context of national insolvency proceedings.

27. That the Quebec legislature did not see fit to confer similar protections on Quebec employees and retirees should not have compelled the Motion Judge to decline to apply Newfoundland & Labrador law to property in Quebec.
28. The Superintendent reserves its right to make submissions on any other issues for which leave may be granted in the present matter.

MAY IT PLEASE THIS HONOURABLE COURT TO:

- I. GRANT the Superintendent's appeal with costs;
- II. DISMISS the Monitor's Motion for Directions;
- III. DECLARE that the deemed trust posited by the NLPBA is enforceable and operative during the course of CCAA proceedings;
- IV. DECLARE that the NLPBA's deemed trust may attach to the proceeds held by the Monitor from the sale of assets formerly located in the Province of Québec.

THE WHOLE RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED.

APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL FROM AN INTERLOCUTORY DECISION AND TO SUSPEND PROVISIONAL EXECUTION

(Section 13 and 14 of the CCAA and Articles 30, para. 2, and 357 C.C.P.)

Dated: October 2, 2017

TO ONE OF THE HONOURABLE JUSTICES OF THE COURT OF APPEAL SITTING IN AND FOR THE DISTRICT OF MONTREAL, THE APPELLANTS MICHAEL KEEPER, TERENCE WATT, DAMIEN LABEL AND NEIL JOHNSON, IN THEIR CAPACITY AS COURT-APPOINTED REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SALARIED/NON-UNION EMPLOYEES AND RETIREES OF THE "WABUSH CCAA PARTIES" (COLLECTIVELY, THE "SALARIED MEMBERS"), RESPECTFULLY SUBMIT:

I. BACKGROUND

1. In 2013, the Supreme Court of Canada released its decision in Indalex where the court held, inter alia, that provincial statutory pension deemed trusts in favour of pension plan beneficiaries for amounts owing to a pension plan by their employer apply as a priority claim in proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA"), subject only to the doctrine of paramourcy.
2. Paramourcy was applied in Indalex to the limited extent of subordinating the deemed trusts in the Ontario Pension Benefits Act, RSO 1990, c P.8 ("PBA") (which operate in a very similar manner to the pension deemed trusts in the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, chapter R-15.1 ("SPPA"), and the Newfoundland Pension Benefits Act, 1997, S.N.L.1996 Chapter P-4.01 ("NLPBA") and the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, R.S.C., 1985, c. 32 ("PBSA") which are the three relevant pension statutes in this appeal) to the priority of the DIP lender's priority granted by the CCAA court in Indalex.
3. The Supreme Court in Indalex made significant progress in settling many legal issues pertaining to the application of pension deemed trusts in CCAA proceedings. Indalex has been applied and followed in subsequent cases. Following the Supreme Court's decision, the CCAA court in *Indalex*¹ approved a settlement that distributed estate funds in that case to the pension plan members. In *Timminco*², the Ontario Timminco pension plan recovered as first priority distribution in respect of the underfunded Ontario pension plan deficit, and the Québec Timminco pension plan also recovered a priority payment pursuant to the decision of Mr. Justice Mongeon of the Québec Superior Court who held, relying on Indalex, that the deemed trusts in section 37 of the SPPA are valid and enforceable with respect to unpaid current service payments and unpaid special payments³.

4. On September 11, 2017, the Honourable Mr. Justice Stephen Hamilton (the “CCAA Judge”) of the Québec Superior Court, District of Montreal rendered the Pension Claims Order, a copy of which is attached hereto as Schedule [1];

5. In his sweeping decision covering many areas of pension and insolvency law in different provinces (Québec and Newfoundland) and different jurisdictions (provincial and federal), the CCAA Judge ruled broadly with different interpretations and on different theories, that the pension deemed trusts in the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA are of no force or effect in the CCAA proceedings. He thereby rendered all of the Québec and Newfoundland retirees as unsecured creditors without any priority in the CCAA proceedings.

6. The decision of the CCAA Judge in the case under appeal is, in many respects, contrary to the Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Indalex, completely contradictory to the decision of Mr. Justice Mongeon in Timminco, and injects new uncertainty into pension and insolvency law with respect to the SPPA, NLPBA, and the PBSA pension deemed trusts. It would have the effect of rendering the Québec and Newfoundland retirees of Wabush Mines as unsecured creditors with virtually no hope for recovery for their substantial pension losses in the Wabush Mines CCAA proceedings.

7. As set out herein, leave to appeal, and the appeal itself, should be granted.

II. THE GROUNDS FOR THIS MOTION

8. Since 1965, the Wabush Mines group of companies, namely, Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company, and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, “Wabush Mines”) operated an open-pit iron ore mine in the Town of Wabush, Newfoundland and Labrador, and processing and transport facilities in the Town of Sept-Iles, Québec.

³ Ibid at para 135.

Representatives of Salaried/Non-Union Employees & Retirees' Application for Leave to Appeal (C.A.M. 500-09-027077-171), October 2, 2017

9. Wabush Mines operated as an integrated company for all its employees. The iron ore would first be mined and concentrated at the Scully Mine in the Town of Wabush in south west Labrador. The iron ore concentrate would be loaded into railcars (privately owned by Wabush Mines) and transported by rail to another Wabush Mines facility (Pointe Noire) located near the Town of Sept-Iles, on the St. Lawrence River in Québec.

10. At Pointe Noire, the concentrated ore was made into small iron ore pellets (pelletized) to make it more efficient for smelting in steel mill blast furnaces. The steel makers operating these steel mills are the major consumers of iron ore. The ore pellets would then be loaded into "Lakers" ships and shipped down the St. Lawrence River and into the Great Lakes to customers in Canada and the USA.

11. All of the salaried employees of Wabush Mines - regardless of where in the organization they worked, whether mining the ore, transporting the ore by rail, processing the ore, or loading it onto Lakers for river transport, were employees of Wabush Mines and earned pension benefits in the same plan: the Wabush Salaried Plan.

12. In 2013, the parent company of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Natural Resources ("CNR"), based in Cleveland, Ohio, decided it would disengage and shut down its mining operations in Eastern Canada, including its mining Wabush Mines and processing operations in Newfoundland and Québec. To avoid paying the $650M - $750M that CNR estimated as the costs to close its mining operations at Wabush Mines, CNR chose to render Wabush Mines insolvent and then use the CCAA as its disengagement tool.

13. Since the head office of Wabush Mines is located in Montreal, pursuant to section 9 of the CCAA, Wabush Mines applied for CCAA protection from the Québec Superior Court.

14. On May 20, 2015, Wabush Mines was rendered insolvent and obtained protection from its creditors under the CCAA. Since the head office of Wabush Mines is located in Montreal, pursuant to section 9 of the CCAA, Wabush Mines applied for and obtained CCAA protection from the CCAA Judge of the Québec Superior Court in Montreal. The accounting firm of FTI Consulting Inc. was appointed as the monitor.

Representatives of Salaried/Non-Union Employees & Retirees' Application for Leave to Appeal (C.A.M. 500-09-027077-171), October 2, 2017

15. Wabush Mines did not restructure. Instead, while under CCAA protection, it shut down mining operations, terminated the employees, requested the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions to appoint a replacement administrator over the pension plans saying that it did not have the "resources" to administer the pension plans any further itself, and has been liquidating all of its assets to eventually pay toward its creditors' claims.

16. On December 16, 2015, the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions (the "Superintendent") declared that the Salaried Plan be terminated effective on that date (the "Wind-up Date").⁴ The Plans are in the process of being wound up by Morneau Shepell, the actuarial consulting firm appointed by the Superintendent on March 30, 2016 as the replacement pension plan administrator.

17. The Monitor has reported there will be substantial shortfall in paying creditors' claim.

18. Even before the Pension Claims Order, the treatment of the Wabush Mines retirees in the CCAA proceedings has been extraordinarily harsh. The retirees have lost their entire health and life insurance benefits without any prior warning, and have had a 25% reduction to their monthly pension benefits. This has resulted in significant financial hardship to the retirees.

19. This case is very sensitive for the Wabush retirees in Newfoundland and Québec, their families, and their communities.

20. While it was operating, Wabush Mines sponsored two pension plans that are to pay its salaried and unionized employees their pension benefits on retirement that they earned during their employment years with Wabush Mines:

- a) the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the aforementioned "Salaried Plan"); and ⁴ Affidavit of Terry Watt, sworn on December 14, 2016 ("Watt Affidavit"), at para. 18, Schedule 10.

- b) the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the "Union Plan")⁵
- (collectively, the "Pension Plans").

The loss of health and life insurance benefits

21. Through their years of employment service for the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Salaried Members earned entitlement to be paid pension benefits, Health Benefits, and, for certain salaried employees, supplemental pension benefits;
22. Immediately following its obtaining of CCAA protection, in June, 2015, Wabush Mines terminated the employees' health benefits, life insurance benefits, and unfunded supplemental pension benefits (collectively, "other post-employment benefits" or "OPEBs") without giving the retirees prior notice.⁶

The losses to pension benefits

23. The Wabush Pension Plans are registered in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador and regulated under the NLPBA by the Newfoundland Superintendent. All regulatory filings for the plan are made with the Superintendent.⁷
24. The Salaried Plan is a "contributory" defined benefit plan, meaning that employees were required to contribute a percentage of their regular pay into the plans. The company was required under the terms of the plans and statute law to contribute amounts so that the plans would pay the pension benefits earned by the employees.
25. The pension plans are underfunded, meaning they do not have enough funds to pay the full monthly pension benefit to retirees. This predicament has directly caused the 25% reduction to monthly benefits for the Salaried Members and rendered elderly retirees as creditors in the CCAA proceeding of Wabush Mines.

26. On January 26, 2016, the Salaried Members received a letter from Wabush Mines notifying them that the Superintendent directed Wabush Mines to reduce the amount of monthly pension benefits of the Salaried retirees by 25%.⁸ Morneau has completed its wind-up reports for the pension plans as of the Wind-up Date. The Salaried Plan has a wind-up deficit of $27,450,000 and the Union Plan has a wind-up deficit of $27,486,548.

27. With claims for their terminated health benefits and losses to monthly pension benefits, the Salaried retirees are a very significant creditor group:

Salaried	$27,450,000	$43,452,000	$1,483,182.35

The Monitor's "Motion for Directions with respect to Pension Claims"

28. On November 16, 2015, at the hearing of the motion by the Monitor for approval of the Claims Procedure Order, Representative Counsel advised the Monitor and the CCAA Judge that any issue(s) regarding the interpretation of the NLPBA Deemed Trust should be referred to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador for adjudication. The Monitor, company, and certain other creditors opposed such a transfer of the NLPBA issue to the Newfoundland Court.

29. On September 20, 2016, the Monitor proceeded to file its Motion for Directions, which was subsequently amended on April 16, 2017.

30. Although styled as a "Motion for Directions", the Monitor sought specific orders and argued strongly that the Wabush Salaried Plan members in Newfoundland and Québec should have the bulk of their statutory deemed trust priorities declared of no effect in the CCAA proceeding and reduced to unsecured claims.

⁸ Watt Affidavit, supra note 4 at para. 19, Schedule 10.

31. Currently, the Monitor reports that there is approximately $75,081,000 total in the different estates of Wabush Mines.⁹ Other than repaying the DIP Loan that had been provided by another subsidiary of CNR, Cliffs Mining Company, at the outset of the CCAA proceedings, there have not been any distributions to creditors. The Monitor's latest estimate of the ranges of potential distribution to unsecured creditors is 0.00% to 2.42% of claims.¹⁰

32. On October 7, 2016, Representative Counsel, Morneau Shepell, and the Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland & Labrador (the "Superintendent") each filed Notices of Objection to the Monitor's Motion for Directions. The Notices of Objection, inter alia, disagreed with the formulation of the Monitor's questions and proposed alternate more straightforward questions. After extensive negotiations with the Monitor and the company on alternate questions, the Monitor and company did not accept any changes to their questions.

33. In a decision dated January 30, 2017, this Court dismissed the joint request by Representative Counsel, the Superintendent, and Morneau to transfer the issues relating to the interpretation of the NLPBA to the Newfoundland Court. The Monitor's motion was therefore set down for hearing on June 28 and 29, 2017 to decide all of the Monitor's questions.

Reference by the Newfoundland Government to the Newfoundland Court of Appeal

34. In the CCAA Judge's decision of January 30, 2017 declining to transfer the issues of interpretation of the NPBA, he stated at paragraph 89:

[89] ...If the government of Newfoundland and Labrador wishes to obtain a judgment from the courts of the province on the interpretation of the NLPBA, it can refer a matter to the Court of Appeal and Labrador.¹¹ [emphasis added]

35. On March 27, 2017, the Newfoundland & Labrador government, referring to paragraph 89 of the CCAA Judge's decision above, issued an Order in Council directing that a Reference be brought before the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal and setting out Reference questions (the “Reference”) that are different from the Monitor's questions.¹² The Reference hearing was heard by the Newfoundland Court of Appeal on September 21 and 22, 2017 and the court has reserved its decision;

36. On September 11, 2017, the CCAA Judge released his decision in the Pension Claims Motion;

The decision of the CCAA Judge

37. In his decision, the CCAA Judge made at least 13 determinations:

- a) that the Salaried Plan (and Union Plan) are governed by the PBSA with respect to the employees who worked on the railway, by the SPPA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Sept-Iles, Québec, and by the NLPBA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland¹³;
- b) that the combined effect of section 8(1) and (2) of the PBSA create a deemed trust in the event of a liquidation of the employer, and that the liquidation was a "triggering event" for the deemed trust¹⁴;
- c) that the statutory deemed trust language identifying the property covered on a so-called "triggering event" is necessary for the effectiveness of a statutory deemed trust based on the reasons of the Supreme Court of Canada in Sparrow Electric (a GST case) which was followed by the Québec Superior Court in Aveos (a PBSA deemed trust case)¹⁵;
- d) that the deemed trust under section 49 of the SPPA and the unseizability provision under section 264 of the SPPA are not effective to a deemed trust for Québec pension plan members¹⁶;

- 10 -

- e) that the SPPA deemed trust, even if effective, would cover only the unpaid going concern payments and unpaid special payments (to the extent that they relate to Wabush non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec)¹⁷;
- f) that the NLPBA deemed trusts do not apply to the assets of Wabush Mines located within the province of Québec¹⁸;
- g) that the Wabush Mines CCAA proceedings was a liquidation (as compared to a restructuring) that started on May 19, 2015 (the date Wabush Mines obtained protection under the CCAA from the CCAA Judge)¹⁹, and that the deemed trust under section 8(2) of the PBSA and section 32(2) of the NLPBA came into effect on that date, and that the liquidation is the so-called "triggering event" for the creation of the deemed trust in section 32(2) in NLPBA, and further that there is no need for the court to decide whether the "triggering event" must occur prior to the CCAA Initial Order or prior to the sale of the assets²⁰;
- h) that the NLPBA deemed trusts are inoperable in a CCAA proceeding based on the doctrine of paramountcy²¹;
- i) that the lien and charge created by section 32(4) of the NLPBA is a valid fixed charge under the law of Newfoundland and Labrador²²;
- j) that the PBSA deemed trust attaches to the debtor's current property, with effect retroactive to the date that the contributions become due; however, such priority is subordinate to pre-existing secured creditors with a fixed charge²³;
- k) that the PBSA deemed trust is not effective in the CCAA proceedings for reasons other than paramountcy²⁴;

¹⁷ Pension Claims Order, at para. 131, Schedule 1

¹⁸ Pension Claims Order, at para. 154, Schedule 1

¹⁹ The CCAA Judge reversed himself on this finding in his decision of June 26, 2015, where he held that the Wabush CCAA proceedings was not a liquidation at paragraph 79, Schedule 3

- l) that the Pension Claims are only protected to the extent provided for by sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA²⁵; and
- m) that the scheme of distribution to creditors in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c B-3 ("BIA") should be incorporated into the CCAA²⁶;

III - ERRORS OF LAW

The CCAA Judge erred in his decision as follows:

38. Error #1: concluding that the Salaried Plan (as well as the Union Plan) is regulated on a compartmentalized basis by three different pension statutes for different groups of Wabush Mines pension plan members to be determined either by the province in which they reported for work while they were active employees, or whether the employees worked on an aspect of the Wabush Mines mining operations that in and of itself is subject to federal jurisdiction (e.g., the federal regulation of railways under the Constitution Act). Specifically, he erred by finding that the PBSA applies exclusively to the Wabush railway retirees, the SPPA applies exclusively to the Wabush non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and that the NLPBA applies exclusively to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland. In so doing, he erred by, inter alia,:

- a) misinterpreting and misapplying the interpretative principles applicable to multi-jurisdictional pension plans, including, but not limited to, certain inter-provincial agreements respecting pension plans with members in more than one province;
- b) misinterpreting the Salaried Plan, including but not limited to section 12.06 which states that Newfoundland law is the applicable law to the plan;
- c) failing to conclude that the railway workers and those reporting for work in Québec are also concurrently subject to and protected by the NLPBA deemed trusts;

²⁵ Pension Claims Order, at para. 217, Schedule 1.

²⁶ Pension Claims Order, at para. 208, Schedule 1.

- d) misinterpreting section 5 of the NLPBA to limit the application of the NLPBA deemed trusts to only the Newfoundland-resident members of the Salaried Plan; and
 - e) failing to recognize the historical context of the Salaried Plan, which militates in favour of applying the NLPBA deemed trusts to all employees, including that since the inception of the Salaried Plan in 1968 and for the next 47 years until the CCAA proceedings in 2015, the Salaried Plan had been regulated exclusively by the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions in accordance with the NLPBA only including with respect to the funding of the plan; and the federal regulator of the PBSA has had no regulatory involvement with the Salaried Plan;
39. Error #2: concluding that the property covered on an event he called a deemed trust "triggering event" is necessary for a statutory deemed trust to be valid, and further erred by misconstruing and misapplying the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in *Sparrow Electric*²⁷ (a GST case) which was adopted by the Québec Superior Court in *Aveos*²⁸ (a PBSA case) in forming the above conclusion. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:
- a) applying the reasoning of Sparrow Electric that deals with specific statutory language deemed trusts for GST under the Income Tax Act to pension deemed trusts despite the complete absence of Sparrow GST-type language for pension deemed trusts in the CCAA, SPPA, NLPBA, PBSA, or any other statute;
 - b) misinterpreting section 49 of the SPPA to conclude that property to which the deemed trust attaches must be identified for the SPPA deemed trusts to be effective, in contradiction to the decision of the same Québec court in Timminco, thus generating opposite legal results on the same issues by the same Québec court; and
 - c) rationalizing that since he found no deemed trust protection for the Québec members of the Salaried Plan under the SPPA, he ought to similarly penalize the

- 13 -

NLPBA members by finding that the NLPBA deemed trust also does not attach to any of the company's assets in Québec;

40. Error #3: concluding that the deemed trusts in section 49 of the SPPA and the unseizability provision under section 264 of the SPPA are not effective to create a deemed trust for the amounts owing to a pension plan by an employer and do not create a property or security interest. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) finding that even if section 49 of the SPPA created a valid deemed trusts, the deemed trusts would be of no effect in a CCAA; and
- b) mis-interpreting and applying sections 49 and 264 of the SPPA, and rejecting the ratio in Timminco which dealt with the same issue in a lengthy decision by a judge of the same court which found that the SPPA deemed trusts are effective in a CCAA proceeding.

41. Error #4: not determining the priority issues with respect to the Pension Plan Administrator's lien and charge (a secured claim) pursuant to section 32(4) of the NLPBA despite that the CCAA Judge assumed that such lien and charge is a valid fixed charge under the law of Newfoundland and Labrador;

42. Error #5: concluding that the NLPBA deemed trusts, even if valid (which the CCAA Judge held were not in CCAA proceedings, which is an error), do not apply to attach assets located in the Province of Québec. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) concluding that the Court would not recognize or enforce the deemed trusts under the NLPBA against assets of the employer located in the province of Québec; and
- b) misinterpreting and misapplying Articles 1262, 3079, 3097, 3102 and 3118 of the Civil Code of Québec, CQLR c CCQ-1991 ("CCQ") regarding the NLPBA deemed trusts;

43. Error #6: determining that the scheme of distribution to creditors in the BIA should be incorporated into the CCAA, and thereby excluding the pension deemed trusts from application that are intended to protect pension plan beneficiaries from pension plan underfunding, in particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- 14 -

- a) disregarding the clear language of the Supreme Court of Canada in Indalex where the Supreme Court addressed this exact issue and held that BIA priorities are not to be read into the CCAA:

"[51]... [T]his does not mean that courts may read bankruptcy priorities into the CCAA at will. Provincial legislation defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament. Parliament did not expressly apply all bankruptcy priorities either to CCAA proceedings or to proposals under the BIA.";²⁹ [emphasis added]

- b) assuming wrong facts and outcomes in commercial transactions and CCAA proceedings without any evidence in order to support his legal conclusions summarized herein.

44. Error #7: concluding that the NLPBA deemed trust "frustrates the purpose of Parliament if it were to operate in the context of a CCAA proceeding" by misapplying the doctrine of paramountcy, and further misinterpreting the language of the CCAA and reading language into the CCAA that does not exist. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) not following the Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Indalex where the Court confirmed (in the context of the Ontario Pension Benefits Act) that provincial pension deemed trusts create a valid and enforceable deemed trust in CCAA proceedings, and instead deciding that the NLPBA deemed trusts are not effective in a CCAA proceeding;
- b) finding that the retirees' pension claims are protected only to the limited extent provided for by sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA despite the complete absence of any limiting language in the CCAA or in the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA, and despite that similar arguments were asserted before the Supreme Court in Indalex by the company in that case and were rejected by the Supreme Court; and

- c) interpreting the CCAA to conclude that Parliament only intended that the unpaid normal costs payments but not unpaid special payments and wind-up deficit are to be protected in a CCAA proceeding and that provincial pension deemed trust provisions are of no force or effect in a CCAA proceeding;

45. Error #8: concluding that the PBSA deemed trust is not effective in the CCAA proceedings, on the rationale of the timing of legislative amendments and concluding that since the pension provisions in the CCAA (and BIA) were added in December 2007 (coming into force in September 2009), which was after the initial deemed trust protections were inserted into sections 8 and 29 of the PBSA (in June 1986), it must mean that Parliament intended for the PBSA deemed trusts to no longer apply. In so doing, he failed to take into account that the PBSA was in fact amended again by Parliament after the pension provisions were added to the CCAA (and BIA). The PBSA was amended on July 12, 2010 (coming into force on April 1, 2011) to specifically remove only the wind up deficit deemed trust from the PBSA, giving rise to the inescapable conclusion that Parliament turned its mind to amending federal pension protections and intentionally kept the PBSA deemed trusts for unpaid current service costs and unpaid special payments in place, in addition to and as a supplement to the provisions it previously added to the CCAA in 2007 in section 6(6) that requires a CCAA Plan of Compromise to provide for the payment of unpaid current service costs only as part of such plan, (unless expressly approved by the CCAA Judge to the contrary). Further, the CCAA Judge misinterpreted section 6(6) of the CCAA.

V. THE TEST FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL IN CCAA CASES IS MET

46. The test for granting leave to appeal in CCAA cases is well established and set out below.
- (a) The point on appeal is of significance to the practice;
 - (b) The point raised is of significance to the action;
 - (c) The appeal is prima facie meritorious and is not frivolous; and
 - (d) The appeal will not unduly hinder the progress of the action.

- 16 -

The criteria for leave to appeal in CCAA cases have been met. Leave to appeal should be granted.

a) The proposed appeal involves issues that are significant to the practice

47. The issues in the proposed appeal are significant to insolvency practice in Québec, Newfoundland, as well as the rest of Canada. The interpretation, scope, effect, and application of pension deemed trusts in CCAA proceedings are significant to the insolvency and pension practice. Hamilton J. made determinations on these issues that are inconsistent with decisions of the Supreme Court of Canada and the Québec Superior Court, generating new uncertainty in the law, in particular following the release of Indalex which had settled many issues. The decision of this court would assist insolvency practice and help settle the law;

b) The point raised on the appeal is of significance to the action

48. The Salaried retirees are both a significant creditor group with claims of approximately $72 million³⁰ and vulnerable stakeholder group in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.

49. The points raised on the appeal directly impact the priority of distribution from the Wabush Mines estate to all creditors and therefore are significant to the action;

c) The proposed appeal is meritorious and not frivolous

50. The above-noted errors and the misinterpretations of the, NLPBA, CCAA and PBSA (and BIA) and Supreme Court caselaw are palpable and overriding errors and have merit. The issues for the proposed appeal are clearly not frivolous;

d) The appeal will not hinder the progress of the action

51. The Wabush CCAA Parties are in liquidation, are not restructuring, and undergoing a sales process in accordance with timelines and procedures that are being calculated by the Monitor and overseen by the CCAA Judge. The next major step is to vet creditors' claims, determine priorities among creditors, and distribute the sales proceeds to creditors. No distributions have been made to creditors and no distribution is scheduled. The appeal will not hinder the progress of the action;

52. The Appellants will ask the Court of Appeal to:

- a) ALLOW the appeal;
- b) SET ASIDE the judgment in first instance;
- c) DECLARE THAT:

i) the NLPBA, PBSA, and SPPA deemed trusts concurrently apply in favour of all the members of the Salaried Plan, are enforceable in the CCAA proceeding, and generate a priority recovery for the Salaried Plan members in respect of the amounts owing that covered by the deemed trusts ahead of all other creditors, ranking only after the priorities granted to the DIP lender and other CCAA court-ordered charges in the CCAA proceedings;

ii) the pension plan administrator's lien and charge under section 32(4) of the NLPBA is a secured claim of the pension plan administrator for the amount of unpaid current service payments, unpaid special payments, and unpaid wind up deficit in respect of all members of the Salaried Plan, including the Wabush retirees who worked on the railway and the Wabush retirees who had reported for work in Québec;

iii) sections 49 and 264 of the SPPA create a valid and enforceable deemed trust over the amount of all unpaid current service payments, and unpaid special payments owing to the Salaried Plan with respect to the Québec retirees and that such contributions with interest are unassignable and unseizable;

iv) the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA deemed trusts charge or otherwise apply to all of the applicable Wabush CCAA Parties' assets, including its assets located in Québec;

- 18 -

- v) the pension plan administrator's lien and charge under section 32(4) of the NLPBA charges or otherwise applies to all of the applicable Wabush CCAA Parties' assets, including its assets located in Québec;
- vi) the scope of the NLPBA deemed trusts and the pension plan administrator's lien and charge covers the amount of unpaid current service payments, unpaid special payments, and the unpaid wind-up deficit of the Salaried Plan; and
- vii) such other declarations and orders as counsel may request and this Honourable Court will grant.

53. The undersigned are the Court-appointed Representative Counsel to the Applicants/Objecting Parties in the latter's capacity as Court-appointed Representatives of all salaried and non-union active and retired employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties. The CCAA Judge made these orders (the "Representation Order"), on June 22, 2015, a copy of which is attached to this Motion (Schedule [5]; Order Appointing Representatives and Representative Counsel).

VII. A STAY OF PROVISIONAL EXECUTION IS WARRANTED

54. Should the relevant provisions in the Pension Claims Order be allowed to stand, then the beneficiaries of the Salaried Plan will suffer serious and irreparable hardship. This Court should stay execution of the Pension Claims Order, suspend any distribution from the CCAA estate that could not be made if this Court finds that the pension claims are entitled to the protection of the pension deemed trusts and/or the lien and charge under the NLPBA, PBSA, and SPPA, which includes but is not limited to the wind up deficit; and that such claims are enforceable against all of the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties, including but not limited to those assets located in Québec.

VIII. ANY DELAYS FOR SERVICE, FILING AND PRESENTING THIS MOTION SHOULD BE ABRIDGED

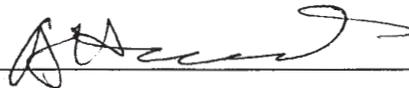

55. Given the gravity of the hardship of the relevant parts of the Pension Claims Order on the Salaried retirees and the need for all stakeholders in the Wabush CCAA Parties to have proper direction on the state of the law applicable to the many issues raised in this appeal, any delays for service, filing and presenting this Motion should be abridged, if necessary;

56. Further, should this Court grant leave to appeal, it is anticipated that all interested parties in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings would cooperate to request case management from this Court to facilitate a fast track appeal hearing of the merits to ensure that the issues are adjudicated quickly and to ensure there is no material delay or prejudice to the CCAA stakeholders;

WHEREFORE, MAY IT PLEASE THIS HONOURABLE COURT TO:

- [A] GRANT this application for leave to appeal;
- [B] ABRIDGE, if necessary, the delays for serving, filing and presenting the Applicants' Motion for Leave to Appeal and from an Interlocutory Decision and to Suspend Provisional Execution;
- [C] AUTHORIZE the Applicants to institute an appeal from the judgment rendered by the Honourable Mr. Justice Stephen W. Hamilton, on September 11, 2017;
- [D] SUSPEND the provisional execution of the Pension Claims Order until such time as judgment has been rendered on the appeal; and
- [E] FIX a date for hearing the appeal.

NOTICE OF APPEAL

(Article 352 C.C.P.)

Appellant

Dated: October 2, 2017

1. The Appellants appeal from the Judgment on the Amended Motion by the Honourable Mr. Justice Stephen Hamilton (the "CCAA Judge") of the Québec Superior Court (Commercial Division), District of Montreal, rendered on September 11, 2017 (the "Pension Claims Order"), wherein it was rendered;

- (a) granting the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims;
- (b) declaring that the trusts created under the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, chapter R-15.1 ("SPPA"), Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, R.S.C., 1985, c. 32 ("PBSA"), and the Newfoundland Pension Benefits Act, 1997, S.N.L.1996 Chapter P-4.01 ("NLPBA") are not enforceable in the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA") proceedings; and
- (c) declaring that the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided by sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA;

2. The date of the Judgment is September 11, 2017;

3. The duration of the hearing was from June 28 to 29, 2017;

4. The Appellants file with this Notice of Appeal a copy of the judgment in first instance in Schedule [1];

INTRODUCTION:

5. In 2013, the Supreme Court of Canada released its decision in Indalex where the court held, inter alia, that provincial statutory pension deemed trusts in favour of pension plan beneficiaries for amounts owing to a pension plan by their employer apply as a priority claim in proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 ("CCAA"), subject only to the doctrine of paramountcy.

6. Paramountcy was applied in Indalex to the limited extent of subordinating the deemed trusts in the Ontario Pension Benefits Act, RSO 1990, c P.8 ("PBA") (which operate in a very similar manner to the pension deemed trusts in the SPPA, NLPBA and the PBSA which are the three relevant pension statutes in this appeal) to the priority of the DIP lender's priority granted by the CCAA court in Indalex.

7. The Supreme Court in Indalex made significant progress in settling many legal issues pertaining to the application of pension deemed trusts in CCAA proceedings. Indalex has been applied and followed in subsequent cases. Following the Supreme Court's decision, the CCAA court in *Indalex*¹ approved a settlement that distributed estate funds in that case to the pension plan members. In *Timminco*², the Ontario Timminco pension plan recovered as first priority distribution in respect of the underfunded Ontario pension plan deficit, and the Québec Timminco pension plan also recovered a priority payment pursuant to the decision of Mr. Justice Mongeon of the Québec Superior Court who held, relying on Indalex, that the deemed trusts in section 37 of the SPPA are valid and enforceable with respect to unpaid current service payments and unpaid special payments³.

8. In his sweeping decision covering many areas of pension and insolvency law in different provinces (Québec and Newfoundland) and different jurisdictions (provincial and federal), the CCAA Judge ruled broadly with different interpretations and on different theories, that the pension deemed trusts in the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA are of no force or effect in the CCAA proceedings. He thereby rendered all of the Québec and Newfoundland retirees as unsecured creditors without any priority in the CCAA proceedings.

9. The decision of the CCAA Judge in the case under appeal is, in many respects, contrary to the Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Indalex, completely contradictory to the decision of Mr. Justice Mongeon in Timminco, and injects new uncertainty into pension and insolvency law with respect to the SPPA, NLPBA, and the PBSA pension deemed trusts. It would have the effect of rendering the Québec and Newfoundland retirees of Wabush Mines as unsecured creditors with virtually no hope for recovery for their substantial pension losses in the Wabush Mines CCAA proceedings.

³ Ibid at para 135

The decision of the CCAA Judge

10. In his decision, the CCAA Judge made at least 13 determinations:
- a) that the Salaried Plan (and Union Plan) are governed by the PBSA with respect to the employees who worked on the railway, by the SPPA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Sept-Iles, Québec, and by the NLPBA with respect to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland⁴;
 - b) that the combined effect of section 8(1) and (2) of the PBSA create a deemed trust in the event of a liquidation of the employer, and that the liquidation was a "triggering event" for the deemed trust⁵;
 - c) that the statutory deemed trust language identifying the property covered on a so-called "triggering event" is necessary for the effectiveness of a statutory deemed trust based on the reasons of the Supreme Court of Canada in Sparrow Electric (a GST case) which was followed by the Québec Superior Court in Aveos (a PBSA deemed trust case)⁶;
 - d) that the deemed trust under section 49 of the SPPA and the unseizability provision under section 264 of the SPPA are not effective to a deemed trust for Québec pension plan members⁷;

- f) that the NLPBA deemed trusts do not apply to the assets of Wabush Mines located within the province of Québec⁹;
- g) that the Wabush Mines CCAA proceedings was a liquidation (as compared to a restructuring) that started on May 19, 2015 (the date Wabush Mines obtained protection under the CCAA from the CCAA Judge)¹⁰, and that the deemed trust under section 8(2) of the PBSA and section 32(2) of the NLPBA came into effect on that date, and that the liquidation is the so-called "triggering event" for the creation of the deemed trust in section 32(2) in NLPBA, and further that there is no need for the court to decide whether the "triggering event" must occur prior to the CCAA Initial Order or prior to the sale of the assets¹¹;
- h) that the NLPBA deemed trusts are inoperable in a CCAA proceeding based on the doctrine of paramountcy¹²;
- i) that the lien and charge created by section 32(4) of the NLPBA is a valid fixed charge under the law of Newfoundland and Labrador¹³;

- m) that the scheme of distribution to creditors in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, R.S.C. 1985, c B-3 ("BIA") should be incorporated into the CCAA¹⁷;

I - GROUNDS OF APPEAL

The CCAA Judge erred in his decision as follows:

11. Error #1: concluding that the Salaried Plan (as well as the Union Plan) is regulated on a compartmentalized basis by three different pension statutes for different groups of Wabush Mines pension plan members to be determined either by the province in which they reported for work while they were active employees, or whether the employees worked on an aspect of the Wabush Mines mining operations that in and of itself is subject to federal jurisdiction (e.g., the federal regulation of railways under the Constitution Act). Specifically, he erred by finding that the PBSA applies exclusively to the Wabush railway retirees, the SPPA applies exclusively to the Wabush non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and that the NLPBA applies exclusively to the non-railway employees who reported for work in Newfoundland. In so doing, he erred by, inter alia,

- a) misinterpreting and misapplying the interpretative principles applicable to multi-jurisdictional pension plans, including, but not limited to, certain inter-provincial agreements respecting pension plans with members in more than one province;

- b) misinterpreting the Salaried Plan, including but not limited to section 12.06 which states that Newfoundland law is the applicable law to the plan;
- c) failing to conclude that the railway workers and those reporting for work in Québec are also concurrently subject to and protected by the NLPBA deemed trusts;
- d) misinterpreting section 5 of the NLPBA to limit the application of the NLPBA deemed trusts to only the Newfoundland-resident members of the Salaried Plan; and
- e) failing to recognize the historical context of the Salaried Plan, which militates in favour of applying the NLPBA deemed trusts to all employees, including that since the inception of the Salaried Plan in 1968 and for the next 47 years until the CCAA proceedings in 2015, the Salaried Plan had been regulated exclusively by the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions in accordance with the NLPBA only including with respect to the funding of the plan; and the federal regulator of the PBSA has had no regulatory involvement with the Salaried Plan;

12. Error #2: concluding that the property covered on an event he called a deemed trust "triggering event" is necessary for a statutory deemed trust to be valid, and further erred by misconstruing and misapplying the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in *Sparrow Electric*¹⁸ (a GST case) which was adopted by the Québec Superior Court in *Aveos*¹⁹ (a PBSA case) in forming the above conclusion. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

¹⁹ Aveos Fleet Performance Inc./Aveos Performance aéronotique inc. (Arrangement relative à), 2013, QCCS 5662.

- a) applying the reasoning of Sparrow Electric that deals with specific statutory language deemed trusts for GST under the Income Tax Act to pension deemed trusts despite the complete absence of Sparrow GST-type language for pension deemed trusts in the CCAA, SPPA, NLPBA, PBSA, or any other statute;
- b) misinterpreting section 49 of the SPPA to conclude that property to which the deemed trust attaches must be identified for the SPPA deemed trusts to be effective, in contradiction to the decision of the same Québec court in Timminco, thus generating opposite legal results on the same issues by the same Québec court; and
- c) rationalizing that since he found no deemed trust protection for the Québec members of the Salaried Plan under the SPPA, he ought to similarly penalize the NLPBA members by finding that the NLPBA deemed trust also does not attach to any of the company's assets in Québec;

13. Error #3: concluding that the deemed trusts in section 49 of the SPPA and the unseizability provision under section 264 of the SPPA are not effective to create a deemed trust for the amounts owing to a pension plan by an employer and do not create a property or security interest. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) finding that even if section 49 of the SPPA created a valid deemed trusts, the deemed trusts would be of no effect in a CCAA; and
- b) mis-interpreting and applying sections 49 and 264 of the SPPA, and rejecting the ratio in Timminco which dealt with the same issue in a lengthy decision by a judge of the same court which found that the SPPA deemed trusts are effective in a CCAA proceeding.

14. Error #4: not determining the priority issues with respect to the Pension Plan Administrator's lien and charge (a secured claim) pursuant to section 32(4) of the NLPBA despite that the CCAA Judge assumed that such lien and charge is a valid fixed charge under the law of Newfoundland and Labrador;

15. Error #5: concluding that the NLPBA deemed trusts, even if valid (which the CCAA Judge held were not in CCAA proceedings, which is an error), do not apply to attach assets located in the Province of Québec. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) concluding that the Court would not recognize or enforce the deemed trusts under the NLPBA against assets of the employer located in the province of Québec; and
- b) misinterpreting and misapplying Articles 1262, 3079, 3097, 3102 and 3118 of the Civil Code of Québec, CQLR c CCQ-1991 ("CCQ") regarding the NLPBA deemed trusts;

16. Error #6: determining that the scheme of distribution to creditors in the BIA should be incorporated into the CCAA, and thereby excluding the pension deemed trusts from application that are intended to protect pension plan beneficiaries from pension plan underfunding, in particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) disregarding the clear language of the Supreme Court of Canada in Indalex where the Supreme Court addressed this exact issue and held that BIA priorities are not to be read into the CCAA:

"[51]... [T]his does not mean that courts may read bankruptcy priorities into the CCAA at will. Provincial legislation defines the priorities to which creditors are entitled until that legislation is ousted by Parliament. Parliament did not expressly apply all bankruptcy priorities either to CCAA proceedings or to proposals under the BIA.";²⁰ [emphasis added]

- b) assuming wrong facts and outcomes in commercial transactions and CCAA proceedings without any evidence in order to support his legal conclusions summarized herein.

17. Error #7: concluding that the NLPBA deemed trust "frustrates the purpose of Parliament if it were to operate in the context of a CCAA proceeding" by misapplying the doctrine of paramountcy, and further misinterpreting the language of the CCAA and reading language into the CCAA that does not exist. In particular, he erred, inter alia, by:

- a) not following the Supreme Court of Canada's decision in Indalex where the Court confirmed (in the context of the Ontario Pension Benefits Act) that provincial pension deemed trusts create a valid and enforceable deemed trust in CCAA proceedings, and instead deciding that the NLPBA deemed trusts are not effective in a CCAA proceeding;
- b) finding that the retirees' pension claims are protected only to the limited extent provided for by sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA despite the complete absence any limiting language in the CCAA nor in the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA, and despite that similar arguments were asserted before the Supreme Court in Indalex by the company in that case and were rejected by the Supreme Court; and
- c) interpreting the CCAA to conclude that Parliament only intended that the unpaid normal costs payments but not unpaid special payments and wind-up deficit are to be protected in a CCAA proceeding and that provincial pension deemed trust provisions are of no force or effect in a CCAA proceeding;

²⁰ Indalex Ltd., Re, 2013 SCC 3, at para 51.

18. Error #8: concluding that the PBSA deemed trust is not effective in the CCAA proceedings, on the rationale of the timing of legislative amendments and concluding that since the pension provisions in the CCAA (and BIA) came into force in September 2009, which was after the deemed trust protections were inserted into sections 8 and 29 of the PBSA, it must mean that Parliament intended for the PBSA deemed trusts to no longer apply. In so doing, he failed to take into account that the PBSA was in fact amended by Parliament years after the pension provisions were added to the CCAA (and BIA) on April 1, 2011 to specifically remove only the wind up deficit deemed trust from the PBSA, giving rise to the inescapable conclusion that Parliament turned its mind to amending federal pension protections and intentionally kept the PBSA deemed trusts for unpaid current service costs and unpaid special payments in place, in addition to and as a supplement to the provisions it previously added to the CCAA in section 6(6) that requires a CCAA Plan of Compromise to provide for the payment of unpaid current service costs only as part of such plan, (unless expressly approved by the CCAA Judge to the contrary). Further, the CCAA Judge misinterpreted section 6(6) of the CCAA.

19. The Appellants will ask the Court of Appeal to:

- a) ALLOW the appeal;
- b) SET ASIDE the judgment in first instance;
- c) DECLARE THAT:
 - i) the NLPBA, PBSA, and SPPA deemed trusts concurrently apply in favour of all the members of the Salaried Plan, are enforceable in the CCAA proceeding, and generate a priority recovery for the Salaried Plan members in respect of the amounts owing that covered by the deemed trusts ahead of all other creditors, ranking only after the priorities granted to the DIP lender and other CCAA court-ordered charges in the CCAA proceedings;

- ii) the pension plan administrator's lien and charge under section 32(4) of the NLPBA is a secured claim of the pension plan administrator for the amount of unpaid current service payments, unpaid special payments, and unpaid wind up deficit in respect of all members of the Salaried Plan, including the Wabush retirees who worked on the railway and the Wabush retirees who had reported for work in Québec;
- iii) sections 49 and 264 of the SPPA create a valid and enforceable deemed trust over the amount of all unpaid current service payments, and unpaid special payments owing to the Salaried Plan with respect to the Québec retirees and that such contributions with interest are unassignable and unseizable;
- iv) the NLPBA, SPPA, and PBSA deemed trusts charge or otherwise apply to all of the applicable Wabush CCAA Parties' assets, including its assets located in Québec;
- v) the pension plan administrator's lien and charge under section 32(4) of the NLPBA charges or otherwise applies to all of the applicable Wabush CCAA Parties' assets, including its assets located in Québec;
- vi) the scope of the NLPBA deemed trusts and the pension plan administrator's lien and charge covers the amount of unpaid current service payments, unpaid special payments, and the unpaid wind-up deficit of the Salaried Plan; and
- vii) such other declarations and orders as counsel may request and this Honourable Court will grant.

APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL

(Section 13 and 14 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36 and Section 30, para. 2 and 357 C.C.P.)

Appellant

Dated September 29, 2017

TO ONE OF THE HONOURABLE JUSTICES OF THE COURT OF APPEAL SITTING IN AND FOR THE REGISTRY OF MONTREAL, THE APPLICANT, THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF CANADA, ACTING IN HIS OWN CAPACITY AND ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDANT OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS (OSFI), RESPECTFULLY SUBMITS:

INTRODUCTION

- 1- The Debtors obtained protection from their creditors under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985 c. C-36 (hereinafter CCAA);
- 2- This is a motion for leave to appeal by the Attorney General of Canada acting on its own behalf and on behalf of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (collectively the AGC), of the decision of the Honourable Mr. Justice Stephen Hamilton (the CCAA Judge) dated September 11, 2017. A copy of this decision is attached to this motion as Schedule 1;
- 3- The AGC seeks leave to appeal that decision, which granted the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims and declared, among other things, that trusts created under the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 (hereinafter PBSA) are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

- 4- The Applicant respectfully requests that this Court:
 - (a) Grant leave to appeal from that decision with respect to the issue noted above;
 - (b) Render any further relief that this Honourable Court deems just and appropriate;
- 5- If leave to appeal is granted, the Applicant will ask the Court of Appeal to
 - (a) Reverse the CCAA Judge's decision declaring that the trust created under the PBSA is not enforceable in CCAA proceedings, particularly in the context of the case at hand where the almost all of debtors' assets have been liquidated under the CCAA without a plan being presented to the creditors;
 - (b) Declare that, unlike deemed trusts in favour of the crown, a deemed trust created by subsections 8(1) and (2) of the PBSA cannot be treated as a floating charge ranking after the previous securities;

GROUNDS FOR THIS MOTION

- 6- The Debtors and the mises en cause received protection under the CCAA by a first initial order issued in January 27, 2015 (Bloom Lake Parties) and by a second initial order rendered on May 28, 2015 (Wabush Parties) (Schedules 2 and 3);
- 7- Even before either of these orders were made, the Debtors and the mises en cause had already ceased their mining activities and the majority of the employees had already been dismissed; (Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, Schedule 4);
- 8- The CCAA Judge recognized that the Debtors are liquidating, and not restructuring their affairs (Para 160 of the decision);

- 9- In fact, by the time the CCAA Judge rendered the judgment for which leave to appeal is sought, the CCAA Judge had already rendered 14 Vesting Orders;
- 10- Almost all of the assets have already been liquidated;
- 11- As appears from the decision dated September 11, 2017, two pension plans for the employees and former employees of the Debtors are the issue in that decision;
- 12- On December 16, 2015 OSFI terminated the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees (Schedule 5); on the same date the Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland and Labrador terminated the same pension plan as well as the Pension Plan for Salaried Employees (Schedule 6);
- 13- No plan of arrangement had been presented to the creditors. All evidence suggests that the debtors will end the CCAA procedures without ever filing a plan with their creditors;
- 14- The Attorney General of Canada challenged the Controller's motion seeking directives from the Court. The AGC argued that the liquidation of the business under the CCAA constitutes a liquidation within the meaning of subsection 8(2) of the PBSA and, as such, the deemed trust created by sections 8(2) applies to the extent of the amounts owing to the pension plans under s 8(1);

DECISION OF THE CCAA JUDGE

- 15- The CCAA Judge found that a liquidation under the CCAA constitutes a liquidation in accordance with subsection 8(2) of the PBSA and that this triggers the deemed trust (Para 218 a) of the decision);
- 16- The Judge likens the deem trust to a floating charge that ranks after all the previous specific charges;
- 17- The Judge concludes that the PBSA ss 8(2) deemed trust does not apply to matters under the CCAA, Parliament having protected only normal cost payments, employee deductions, and payments in respect of defined contribution provisions under the CCAA;

- 18- Furthermore, the CCAA omitted to rule on the issue of the payment of the normal payments for the period from December 17 to 31, 2015 (Para 13, note 16 of the decision);
- 19- The Attorney General of Canada is in agreement with the CCAA Judge with respect to the application of the pension benefits legislation of different jurisdictions in the context of the present case, in which the pension plans were multi-jurisdictional.

QUESTIONS PROPOSED TO THE COURT OF APPEAL

- 1- In the context of a liquidation conducted under the guise of the CCAA and that does not result in any plan of arrangement being submitted to the creditors, can section 6(6) of the CCAA be used to conclude that the intention of Parliament in such a context was to protect only the normal cost payments, employee deductions, and payments in respect of defined contribution provisions?
- 2- Is the deemed trust created by section 8(2) of the PBSA comparable to a floating charge?
- 3- Could the CCAA Judge, in the absence of a plan of arrangement, refer to the Scheme of Distribution under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act to exclude the application of the ss 8(2) PBSA deemed trust?

ERRORS OF LAW

- 20- The CCAA Judge erred in law when he interpreted the intention of Parliament and concluded that the deemed trust created by ss 8(2) of the PBSA has no application in a liquidation carried out under the CCAA, even if said liquidation does not lead to any recovery plan for the creditors;

- 21- The CCAA Judge erred in mistaking Parliament's intention in the context of corporate restructuring for Parliament's intention in the context of liquidation;
- 22- The CCAA Judge also erred in concluding that in a CCAA case, without even being able to vote on the matter, the beneficiaries of the pension plans have no protection other than those available under the CCAA;
- 23- The CCAA Judge erroneously applied the principles of statutory interpretation. His conclusion in the present case rendered two federal statutes irreconcilable;
- 24- The CCAA Judge held that bankruptcy and liquidation are elements that trigger the PBSA deemed trust, though he also concluded that this trust does not apply in matters of the CCAA or proposals. In so doing, he created a different regime for bankruptcy, one which contravenes the very wording of section 8(2) of the PBSA;
- 25- The CCAA Judge applied the interpretative criteria concerning deemed trusts in favour of the crown to the deemed trusts of the pension plan, without taking into account:
 - The broad and liberal criteria that must be applied in matters of the protection of pension plans¹;
 - The unseizable nature of assets that make up a pension plan;
 - The intention of Parliament to provide increased protection to pension plans; the beneficiaries of those plans being, by virtue of ss 6(6) of the CCAA, the only ones able to renounce this protection;
 - Section 37 (1) of the CCAA;
- 26- The CCAA Judge failed to rule on whether normal payments should be made for the period from December 17 to 31, 2015;

¹ Buschau v. Roger Communication Inc. [2006] 1 RCS 973; Monsanto Canada Inc. v. Ontario (Superintendent of Financial Institutions) [2004] 3 RCS 152; Schmidt v. Air Product Canada Limited [1974] 2 RCS 611;

TEST FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL

- 27- The criteria for leave to appeal in CCAA have been met:
- (a) The proposed appeal involves issues that are significant to the practice
- 28- The issues that would be raised on appeal are very important to the practice in matters of insolvency and, more precisely, to the liquidation of assets within the framework of the CCAA.
- (b) The point raised on the appeal is of significance to the action
- 29- The pension plan was terminated in December 2015 because the plan has failed to meet the prescribed tests and standards for solvency as required by subsection 9(1) of the PBSA and sections 8 and 9 of the Regulations, and that the employer has discontinued all of its business operations. Without the contributions due up to and including December 31, 2015, the impact on the beneficiaries of these pension plans is very significant and cannot be remedied later.
- (c) The proposed appeal is meritorious and not frivolous
- 30- The grounds for appeal include an erroneous analysis of the intent of Parliament and of the scope of the deemed trust under section 8(2) of the PBSA. In addition, the CCAA Court concluded that in the context of the CCAA, ss 8(2) does not apply, such that beneficiaries of a pension plan can be provided less than what is provided by ss 8(2) PBSA, and without the power to vote (i.e to accept or deny this reduction) provided by ss 6(6) of the CCAA when there is a plan. These are certainly not frivolous grounds.
- (d) The appeal will not hinder the progress of the action
- 31- Although this case began in May 2015, the assets have now been liquidated and no plan of arrangement is foreseeable. In the circumstances, the proposed appeal will not delay administration of this file, which appears to be headed towards a release from the CCAA without an arrangement or reorganisation.

CONCLUSION SOUGHT ON APPEAL

32- The appellant will ask the Court of Appeal to:

- a) GRANT the appeal;
- b) OVERTURN in part the judgment rendered in first instance;
- c) REJECT in part the request for directives of the Monitor;
- d) DECLARE that, in the context of liquidation under the CCAA, the deemed trust under section 8(2) of the PBSA applies, and, as a result, the amounts owed must be paid to the pension plans unless the beneficiaries of the plans accept lesser amounts as part of a plan submitted to them;
- e) DECLARE THAT NORMAL PAYMENTS ARE DUE UP TO DECEMBER 31, 2015;
- f) ORDER costs against the Respondent and other contesting parties/intervenors in both first instance and appeal;

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT :

GRANT the present motion;

AUTHORISE the appellant to commence an appeal of the judgment rendered on September 11, 2017 by the Honourable Stephen W. Hamilton of the Superior Court, Commercial Division, district of Montreal bearing file number 500-11-048114-157;

THE WHOLE, with costs follow.

MIS EN CAUSE - Mis en cause

AMENDED NOTICE OF APPEAL
(S. 206 to 208 and 352 C.C.P.)

Appellant

Dated January 4, 2018

1. The appellant appeals from a judgment of the Superior Court (Commercial Division) rendered on September 11 2017, by the Honourable Stephen W. Hamilton, District of Montreal, rendered that :

"GRANTS the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pensions Claims;

DECLARES that the trusts created under the SPPA, PBSA and NLPBA are not enforceable in CCAA proceedings;

DECLARES that the employee contributions and the normal cost payments are protected to the extent provided for by sections 6(6) and 37(6) of the CCAA

THE WHOLE WITHOUT COSTS"

2. The date of the notice of judgment is September 11 2017;
3. The duration of the trial was of 2 days;
4. The appellant file with this notice of appeal a copy of the judgment in first instance in Schedule 1;
5. The value of the subject matter of the dispute is $8 880 469.00;
6. The trial judge erred in his judgment for the following reasons :
 - a) The CCAA Judge erred in law when he interpreted the intention of the legislator in concluding that the Deem Trust created by section 8(2) of the PBSA had no application in a liquidation carried out under the CCAA, even if said liquidation does not lead to any recovery plan for the creditors;
 - b) The CCAA Judge confused the intention of the legislator in the context of corporate restructuring or reorganisation with the intent of the legislator in the context of liquidation;
 - c) The CCAA Judge also erred in concluding that the beneficiaries of the pension plan do not have any protection other than normal payments in a CCAA case without even being able to vote on the matter;

- d) The CCAA Judge erroneously applied the principles of statutory interpretation, as his conclusion in the present case rendered two federal statutes irreconcilable;
 - e) The CCAA Judge, in holding that bankruptcy and liquidation are elements that trigger the Deem Trust that does not apply in matters of the CCAA or proposals, creates a different regime for bankruptcy that contravenes the very wording of section 8(2) of the PBSA;
 - f) The CCAA Judge applied the interpretation criteria of the Deem Trust to the Crown to the Deem Trust of the pension plan without taking into account:
 - The broad and liberal criteria that needs to be applied in matters of the protection of pension plans (Bushau and Smith);
 - The elusive nature of the assets that make up the pension plan;
 - The intention of legislator to provide increased protection to pension plans; the beneficiaries being the ones able to renounce this protection, under section 6(6) of the CCAA;
 - Section 37(1) of the CCAA;
 - g) The CCAA Judge failed to rule on whether normal payments should be made for the period from December 16 to 31, 2015;
7. The appellant will ask the Court of Appeal to :
- a) GRANT the appeal;
 - b) OVERTURN in part the judgment rendered in first instance;
 - c) REJECT in part the request for directives of the Monitor;
 - d) DECLARE that, in the context of liquidation under the CCAA, the deemed trust under section 8(2) of the PBSA applies (...);
 - e) DECLARE that the product of the sale of the debtor companies' assets, up to the amount that is due to the pension plans and protected by the deemed trust created by s 8(2) of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985, is excluded from the debtor's assets;

f) DECLARE that the amounts owed must be paid to the pension plans unless the beneficiaries of the plans accept lesser amounts as part of a plan submitted to them;

g) DECLARE that normal payments are due up to December 31, 2015;

JUDGMENT

INTRODUCTION

[1] The debtors have filed proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act ("CCAA").¹ They owe substantial liabilities under two pension plans, including special payments, catch-up special payments and wind-up deficiencies. The Monitor has filed a motion for directions with respect to the priority of the various components of the pension claims.

[2] A preliminary issue has arisen as to whether the Court should request the aid of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador (the "NL Court") with respect to the scope and priority of the deemed trust and other security created by the Newfoundland and Labrador Pension Benefit Act ("NLPBA"),² which regulates in part the pension plans.

CONTEXT

[3] On May 19, 2015, the Petitioners Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc. and the Mises-en-cause Wabush Mines (a joint venture of Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources), Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (together the "Wabush CCAA Parties") filed a motion for the issuance of an initial order under the CCAA, which was granted the following day by the Court.

[4] Prior to the filing of the motion, Wabush Mines operated (1) the iron ore mine and processing facility located near the Town of Wabush and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador, and (2) the port facilities and a pellet production facility at Pointe-Noire, Québec. Arnaud Railway and Wabush Lake Railway are both federally regulated railways that transported iron ore concentrate from the Wabush mine to the Pointe-Noire port. The operations had been discontinued and the employees terminated or laid off prior to the filing of the CCAA motion.

[5] The Wabush CCAA Parties have two pension plans for their employees which include defined benefits:

- A hybrid pension plan for salaried employees at the Wabush mine and the Pointe-Noire port hired before January 1, 2013, known as the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the “Salaried Plan”); and
- A pension plan for unionized hourly employees at the Wabush mine and Pointe-Noire port, known as the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the “Union Plan”).

[6] Wabush Mines was the administrator of both plans.

[7] The majority of the employees covered by the plans reported for work in Newfoundland and Labrador while some reported for work in Québec. Moreover, some of the employees covered by the Union Plan worked for Arnaud Railway, which is a federally regulated railway. The result is that the Salaried Plan is governed by the NLPBA, while the Union Plan is governed by both the NLPBA and the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act (“PBSA”).³ Further, the Union suggests that the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act (“SPPA”)⁴ might be applicable to employees or retirees who reported for work in Québec. Both plans are subject to regulatory oversight by the provincial regulator in Newfoundland and Labrador, the Superintendent of Pensions (the “NL Superintendent”), while the Union Plan is also subject to regulatory oversight by the federal pension regulator, the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (“OSFI”). The Québec regulator, Retraite Québec, might also have a role to play.

[8] On June 26, 2015, in the context of approving the interim financing of the debtors, the Court ordered the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of the monthly amortization payments and the annual lump sum “catch-up” payments coming due under the plans, and confirmed the priority of the Interim Lender Charge over the deemed trusts with respect to the pension liabilities. The Court also ordered the suspension of payment of other post-retirement benefits, including life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan.⁵

[9] On December 16, 2015, the NL Superintendent terminated both plans effective immediately on the basis that the plans failed to meet the solvency requirements under the regulations, the employer has discontinued all of its business operations and it was highly unlikely that any potential buyer of the assets would agree to assume the assets and liabilities of the plans.⁶ On the same date, OSFI terminated the Union Plan effective immediately for the same reasons.⁷

[10] Both the NL Superintendent and OSFI reminded the Wabush CCAA Parties of the employer's obligation upon termination of the plan to pay into the pension fund all amounts that would be required to meet the solvency requirements and the amount necessary to fund the benefits under the plan. They also referred to the rules with respect to deemed trusts.⁸

[11] On January 26, 2016, the salaried retirees received a letter from Wabush Mines notifying them that the NL Superintendent had directed Wabush Mines to reduce the amount of monthly pension benefits of the members by 25%.⁹ Retirees under the Union Plan had their benefits reduced by 21% on March 1, 2016.¹⁰

[12] On March 30, 2016, the NL Superintendent and OSFI appointed Morneau Shepell Ltd as administrator for the plans.¹¹

[13] The Wabush CCAA Parties paid the monthly normal cost payments for both plans up to the termination of the plans on December 16, 2015. As a result, the monthly normal cost payments for the Union Plan were fully paid as of December 16, 2015.¹² The monthly normal cost payments for the Salaried Plan had been overpaid in the amount of $169,961 as of December 16, 2015.¹³

⁹ Exhibit RESP-7.

¹⁰ Affidavit of Terence Watt, sworn December 14, 2016, par. 19.

¹¹ Exhibit R-15.

¹² There is a debate as to whether the Wabush CCAA Parties were required to pay the full monthly payment for December or only a pro-rated portion. The amount at issue for the period from December 17 to 31, 2015 is $21,462.

¹³ Exhibit R-16.

500-11-048114-157

[14] However, the Wabush CCAA Parties ceased making the special payments in June 2015 pursuant to the order issued by the Court, with the result that unpaid special payments as of December 16, 2015 total $2,185,752 for the Salaried Plan¹⁴ and $3,146,696 for the Union Plan.¹⁵

[15] Further, the Wabush CCAA Parties did not make the lump sum “catch-up” special payments that came due after June 2015. The amount payable is now calculated to be $3,525,125.¹⁶ These amounts became known with certainty only when the actuarial report was completed and filed in July 2015, but some of these amounts may relate to the pre-filing period.

[16] Finally, the plans are underfunded. The Plan Administrator estimates the wind-up deficits as at December 16, 2015 to be approximately $26.7 million for the Salaried Plan and approximately $27.7 million for the Union Plan.

[17] As a result, according to the Monitor, the total amounts owing are approximately $28.7 million to the Salaried Plan and $34.4 million to the Union Plan.

[18] The Plan Administrator filed a proof of claim in respect of the Salaried Plan that includes a secured claim in the amount of $24 million and a restructuring claim in the amount of $1,932,940,¹⁷ and a proof of claim with respect to the Union Plan that includes a secured claim in the amount of $29 million and a restructuring claim in the amount of $6,059,238.¹⁸

[19] The differences in the numbers are not important at this stage. It is sufficient to note that there are very large claims and that the Plan Administrator claims the status of a secured creditor with respect to a substantial part of its claims.

[20] It is also important to note that the Wabush CCAA Parties held assets both in Newfoundland and Labrador and in Québec. Many of the Québec assets have been sold and have generated substantial proceeds currently held by the Monitor.

[21] The Monitor is now working through the claims procedure. In that context, the Monitor applies to the Court for an order declaring that:

- a) normal costs and special payments outstanding as at the date of the Wabush Initial Order are subject to a limited deemed trust;

- b) normal costs and special payments payable after the date of the Wabush Initial Order, including additional special payments and catch up payments established on the basis of actuarial reports issued after the Wabush Initial Order, constitute unsecured claims;
- c) the wind-up deficiencies constitute unsecured claims; and
- d) any deemed trust created pursuant to the NLPBA may only charge property in Newfoundland and Labrador.

[22] Those issues are not yet before the Court. A preliminary issue has arisen as to whether the Court should request the aid of the NL Court with respect to the scope and priority of the deemed trust and the lien created by the NLPBA and whether the deemed trust and the lien extend to assets located outside of Newfoundland and Labrador.

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

[23] All parties agree that (1) the Court has jurisdiction to deal with all of the issues, and (2) the Court has the discretion to request the aid of the NL Court.

[24] Three parties suggest that the Court should exercise that discretion and request the aid of the NL Court:

- The Plan Administrator;
- The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees; and
- The NL Superintendent.

[25] The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees have proposed that the following questions should be resolved by the NL Court:

1. The Supreme Court of Canada has confirmed in Indalex that provincial laws apply in CCAA proceedings, subject only to the doctrine of paramountcy. Assuming there is no issue of paramountcy, what is the scope of section 32 in the NPBA [NLPBA] deemed trusts in respect of:
 - a) unpaid current service costs;
 - b) unpaid special payments; and,
 - c) unpaid wind-up liability.
2. The Salaried Plan is registered in Newfoundland and regulated by the NPBA.

500-11-048114-157

- a) (i) Does the PBSA deemed trust also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who worked on the railway (i.e., a federal undertaking)?
- (ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and PBSA if so, how is the conflict resolved?
- b) (i) Does the SPPA also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who reported for work in Québec?
- (ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and SPPA and if so, how is the conflict resolved?
- (iii) Do the Quebec SPPA deemed trusts also apply to Québec Salaried Plan members?
3. Is the NPBA lien and charge in favour of the pension plan administrator in section 32(4) of the NPBA a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator? If yes, what amounts does this secured claim encompass?

[26] Three other parties suggest that the Court should not transfer any issues to the NL Court and should decide all of the issues:

- The Monitor;
- The Syndicat des métallos, sections locales 6254 et 6285; and
- The Ville de Sept-Îles.

[27] The Ville de Sept-Îles argues that the request to transfer should be dismissed because it is too late.

[28] Finally, two parties do not take a position on the request to transfer:

- The Attorney-General of Canada, acting on behalf of OSFI; and
- Retraite Québec.

ANALYSIS

1. The jurisdiction of the CCAA Court

[29] In principle, all issues relating to a debtor's insolvency are decided before a single court.¹⁹ This rule is based on the "public interest in the expeditious, efficient and ¹⁹ Sam Lévy & Associés Inc. v. Azco Mining Inc., 2001 SCC 92, par. 25-28.

500-11-048114-157

economical clean-up of the aftermath of a financial collapse.”²⁰ This public interest favours a “single control” of insolvency proceedings by one court as opposed to their fragmentation among several courts.²¹

[30] The Supreme Court in Sam Lévy concluded as follows with respect to the relevant test:

76 In the present case, we are confronted with a federal statute that prima facie establishes one command centre or “single control” (Stewart, supra, at p. 349) for all proceedings related to the bankruptcy (s. 183(1)). Single control is not necessarily inconsistent with transferring particular disputes elsewhere, but a creditor (or debtor) who wishes to fragment the proceedings, and who cannot claim to be a “stranger to the bankruptcy”, has the burden of demonstrating “sufficient cause” to send the trustee scurrying to multiple jurisdictions. Parliament was of the view that a substantial connection sufficient to ground bankruptcy proceedings in a particular district or division is provided by proof of facts within the statutory definition of “locality of a debtor” in s. 2(1). The trustee in that locality is mandated to “recuperate” the assets, and related proceedings are to be controlled by the bankruptcy court of that jurisdiction. The Act is concerned with the economy of winding up the bankrupt estate, even at the price of inflicting additional cost on its creditors and debtors.²²

(Emphasis added)

[31] Although the Sam Lévy case was decided in the context of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (“BIA”),²³ the same principles apply in the context of the other insolvency legislation, including the CCAA.²⁴ The CCAA court has jurisdiction to deal with all of the issues that arise in the context of the CCAA proceedings.²⁵ The stay of proceedings under the CCAA gives effect to this principle by preventing creditors from bringing proceedings outside the CCAA proceedings without the authorization of the CCAA court.

[32] There are clear efficiencies to having a single court deal with all of the issues in a single judgment.

[33] The general rule is therefore that the Court should rule on all issues that arise in the context of these insolvency proceedings.

2. The discretion to ask for the assistance of another court

[34] There are however situations where another court can deal more efficiently with specific issues. The CCAA Court has jurisdiction to ask for the assistance of another court under Section 17 CCAA:

17 All courts that have jurisdiction under this Act and the officers of those courts shall act in aid of and be auxiliary to each other in all matters provided for in this Act, and an order of a court seeking aid with a request to another court shall be deemed sufficient to enable the latter court to exercise in regard to the matters directed by the order such jurisdiction as either the court that made the request or the court to which the request is made could exercise in regard to similar matters within their respective jurisdictions.

[35] The representative of the salaried employees and retirees also pleaded the notion of forum non conveniens under the Civil Code:

3135. Even though a Québec authority has jurisdiction to hear a dispute, it may, exceptionally and on an application by a party, decline jurisdiction if it considers that the authorities of another State are in a better position to decide the dispute.

[36] The Supreme Court held in *Sam Lévy*²⁶ that Article 3135 C.C.Q. does not apply in bankruptcy matters because of Section 187(7) BIA, which provides:

187 (7) The court, on satisfactory proof that the affairs of the bankrupt can be more economically administered within another bankruptcy district or division, or for other sufficient cause, may by order transfer any proceedings under this Act that are pending before it to another bankruptcy district or division.

[37] While Section 17 CCAA is not as explicit, the Court is satisfied that it is not necessary or appropriate to refer to Article 3135 C.C.Q. in the present context. The CCAA court is not being asked to decline jurisdiction, but rather it is being asked to seek the assistance of another court.

[38] The Court is therefore satisfied that, notwithstanding the general rule that it should rule on all issues that arise in the context of these insolvency proceedings, it can seek the assistance of another court. It is a discretionary decision of this Court, based on factors such as cost, expense, risk of contradictory judgments, expertise, etc.

3. Specific grounds

[39] The arguments put forward in support of the referral of the issues to the NL Court can be summarized as follows:

a) Legal considerations:

- These are complex and important issues of provincial law;
- The courts in Newfoundland and Labrador possess far greater expertise in interpreting the NLPBA than does the courts in Québec, although these specific questions have not yet been considered by any court in Newfoundland and Labrador;
- The interpretation of the NLPBA is a question of the intention of the legislator in Newfoundland and Labrador, and the NL Court is better situated to determine this intention;

b) Factual considerations:

- It is a question of purely local concern and it may significantly impact a large number of residents of Newfoundland and Labrador;
- The province of Newfoundland and Labrador is closely connected to the dispute: a majority of the employees reported for work in the province and the Wabush CCAA Parties maintained significant business operations in the province;
- If justice is to be done and be seen to be done it is important that consequential decisions on provincial legislation be made by the courts of that province;
- The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees want the NL Court to interpret the NLPBA;

c) Practical considerations:

- The law of another province is treated as a question of fact in Québec, with the result that the conclusion on a matter of foreign law is not binding on subsequent courts and can only be overturned in the presence of a palpable and overriding error;
- It might be difficult to prove the law of Newfoundland and Labrador in a Québec court given the lack of jurisprudence on the specific issues;

500-11-048114-157

- There will be increased costs if the Québec Court interprets the NLPBA because of the need to retain experts to provide legal opinions;
- There is no reason to believe that fragmenting the proceedings will result in additional delay;
- The judgment to be rendered will be a precedent and only a decision of the courts of Newfoundland and Labrador would be an authoritative precedent;
- Other persons or parties may wish to intervene on the issue of the scope of the Section 32 NLPBA deemed trusts, which would be more practical in the NL Court.

[40] These arguments do not convince the Court that this is an appropriate case to refer the issues to the NL Court.

a) Legal considerations

[41] This is the key argument put forward by the parties suggesting that the NLPBA issues be referred to the NL Court: the issues relate to the NLPBA, and the NL Court is best qualified to interpret the NLPBA.

[42] The Court accepts as a starting point that the NLPBA applies in the present matter: the pension plans are regulated by the NL Superintendent in accordance with the NLPBA (although OSFI also regulates the Union Plan in accordance with the PBSA) and the plans expressly provide that they are interpreted in accordance with the NLPBA.

[43] The Court also accepts the obvious proposition that the NL Court is more qualified to deal with an issue of Newfoundland and Labrador law than the courts of Québec, particularly since Newfoundland and Labrador is a common law jurisdiction and Québec is a civil law jurisdiction.

[44] However, that does not mean that the Court will automatically refer every issue governed by the law of another jurisdiction to the courts of that other jurisdiction.

[45] First, there are rules in the Civil Code with respect to how Québec courts deal with issues governed by foreign law. Articles 3083 to 3133 C.C.Q. set out the rules to determine which law is applicable to a dispute before the Québec courts, and Article 2809 C.C.Q. sets out how the foreign law is proven before the Québec courts.

[46] Further, pursuant to these rules, Québec courts regularly hear matters governed by foreign law. The Court of Appeal recently held that the fact that a dispute is governed by foreign law does not have much weight in a forum non conveniens analysis:

[98] Si on revoie les considérations du Juge, portant sur dix points, pour conclure que le for géorgien est préférable, deux aspects principaux en ressortent, soit les coûts et la loi applicable.

[99] Quant à cette dernière considération, elle n'est pas d'un grand poids, à mon avis. Parce que le débat porte sur les faits plutôt que sur le droit. Parce que la common law est tout de même familière aux tribunaux québécois. Parce que faire la preuve de la loi d'un État américain n'est pas un grand défi, c'est même chose courante.

[100] Et surtout, parce que le critère de la loi applicable ne constitue pas en soi un facteur important. Dans tout litige international, les conflits de lois sont l'ordinaire et non l'exception.²⁷

[47] In other words, the mere fact that a dispute is governed by foreign law is not a good reason to send the case to the foreign jurisdiction. This principle was applied in a CCAA context in the MMA case.²⁸

[48] There are examples in the insolvency context of the court with jurisdiction over the insolvency declining to send an issue governed by foreign law to the foreign court. In Sam Lévy, the Supreme Court declined to send an insolvency matter to British Columbia simply because there was a choice of B.C. law, stating, "The Quebec courts are perfectly able to apply the law of British Columbia."²⁹

[49] In Lawrence Home Fashions Inc./Linge de maison Lawrence inc. (Syndic de), Justice Schragger, then of this Court, stated :

[18] In any event, should equitable set-off under Ontario law become relevant to the case, Québec judges sitting in such matters, on the presentation of the appropriate evidence, are readily capable of dealing with foreign law issues. Indeed, this is a frequent occurrence particularly in insolvency matters.³⁰

[50] The Ontario courts rejected similar arguments in Essar Algoma:

[80] Ontario courts can and do often apply foreign law. In this case I do not consider the fact that the law to be applied is Ohio law much of a factor, if any.³¹

²⁷ Stormbreaker Marketing and Productions Inc. c. Weinstock, 2013 QCCA 269, par. 98-100.

²⁸ MMA, supra note 24, par. 20.

[51] The Monitor submitted cases in which Québec courts have interpreted different provisions of the pension laws of other provinces.³² The Court also notes that it dealt to a more limited extent with the deemed trust under the NLPBA in its decision dated June 26, 2015.

[52] There are nevertheless circumstances where the CCAA court has referred legal issues to the courts of another province. The *Curragh*³³ and *Yukon Zinc*³⁴ judgments were cited as examples of such cases. However, in both cases, the legal issues related to the Yukon Miners Lien Act.³⁵ Justice Farley in Curragh wrote :

This legislation and its concept of the lien affecting the output of the mine or mining claim is apparently unique to the Yukon Territory.³⁶

[53] Moreover, both cases involved real rights on property in Yukon.

[54] The parties also pointed to Timminco as precedent authority directly on point supporting the transfer of a pension issue by the CCAA court to the jurisdiction where the pension plan is registered and has been administered.³⁷ However, Timminco is not a precedent in that the parties in that case consented to the referral of the issue and Justice Morawetz simply gave effect to their consent.

[55] Without concluding that the Court would only refer a legal issue if the foreign law at issue is unique, the Court concludes that the arguments favouring the referral of a legal issue are stronger when the foreign law is unique.

[56] It is therefore important to examine the issues that might be referred to the NL Court and the uniqueness of the NLPBA provisions that are at issue in the present matter.

[57] The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees identify the relevant questions as being the scope of the deemed trust and of the lien and charge under Section 32 NLPBA, as well as the interaction between the NLPBA and the federal and Québec statutes.

[58] Section 32 NLPBA provides:

32. (1) An employer or a participating employer in a multi-employer plan shall ensure, with respect to a pension plan, that

- (a) the money in the pension fund;
- (b) an amount equal to the aggregate of
 - (i) the normal actuarial cost, and
 - (ii) any special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to date; and
- (c) all
 - (i) amounts deducted by the employer from the member's remuneration, and
 - (ii) other amounts due under the plan from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund

are kept separate and apart from the employer's own money, and shall be considered to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members, former members, and other persons with an entitlement under the plan.

(2) In the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that under subsection (1) is considered to be held in trust shall be considered to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own money or from the assets of the estate.

(3) Where a pension plan is terminated in whole or in part, an employer who is required to pay contributions to the pension fund shall hold in trust for the member or former member or other person with an entitlement under the plan an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination.

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

[59] The first point is that there is nothing particularly unique about Section 32 NLPBA.

[60] There is a very similar deemed trust provision in Section 8(1) and (2) PBSA:

8 (1) An employer shall ensure, with respect to its pension plan, that the following amounts are kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys, and the employer is deemed to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members of the pension plan, former members, and any other persons entitled to pension benefits under the plan:

(a) the moneys in the pension fund,

(b) an amount equal to the aggregate of the following payments that have accrued to date:

(i) the prescribed payments, and

(ii) the payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement; and

(c) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund:

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer, including any amounts that are required to be paid under subsection 9.14(2) or 29(6).

(2) In the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that by subsection (1) is deemed to be held in trust shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

[61] In Québec, the SPPA provides :

49. Until contributions and accrued interest are paid into the pension fund or to the insurer, they are deemed to be held in trust by the employer, whether or not the latter has kept them separate from his property.

500-11-048114-157

[62] There are similar deemed trusts and/or liens in every Canadian province outside Québec except Prince Edward Island: Ontario,³⁸ British Columbia,³⁹ Alberta,⁴⁰ Saskatchewan,⁴¹ Manitoba,⁴² Nova Scotia⁴³ and New Brunswick.⁴⁴

[63] The second point is that there is no Newfoundland and Labrador jurisprudence interpreting the relevant provisions of the NLPBA. The NL Superintendent pleaded that “the courts of Newfoundland & Labrador possess far greater expertise in interpreting the PBA [NLPBA] than does the Superior Court of Québec.” While this is undoubtedly true with respect to the NLPBA as a whole, it is not true with respect to Section 32 NLPBA. In an earlier ruling also issued in the Yukon Zinc matter, Justice Fitzpatrick of the B.C. Supreme Court refused to decline jurisdiction and refer a matter involving the Yukon Miners Lien Act to the courts of Yukon and one of the factors that went against referring the matter to the Yukon court was the lack of jurisprudence in the Yukon court.⁴⁵

[64] Moreover, in this case, because of the similarities between the NLPBA and the federal and other provincial pension laws, the judge interpreting the NLPBA will likely refer to decisions of the courts of other provinces interpreting their legislation or the federal PBSA.

[65] The Québec Court should be in as good a position as the NL Court in that exercise.

[66] Finally, as is typical in these cases, there is a close interplay between the NLPBA and the CCAA. The first question proposed by the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees is: “Assuming there is no issue of paramountcy, what is the scope of section 32 in the NPBA [NLPBA] deemed trusts”. The scope of the NLPBA is not relevant if the NLPBA does not apply because of a conflict with the CCAA and federal paramountcy. In that sense, there may not even be a need to deal with the interpretation of the NLPBA.

[67] Moreover, there are issues in this case with the federal PBSA and the Québec SPPA. The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees suggest that the following questions are relevant:

2. The Salaried Plan is registered in Newfoundland and regulated by the NPBA.

³⁸ Ontario Pension Benefits Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. P.8, s. 57.

³⁹ British Columbia Pension Benefits Standards Act, S.B.C. 2012, c. 30, s. 58

⁴⁰ Alberta Employment Pension Plans Act, S.A. 2012, c. E-8.1, s. 58 and 60.

⁴² Manitoba Pension Benefits Act, C.C.S.M., c. P32, s. 28.

⁴³ Nova Scotia Pension Benefits Act, S.N.S. 2011, c. 41, s. 80.

⁴⁴ New Brunswick Pension Benefits Act, S.N.B. 1987, c P-5.1, s. 51.

⁴⁵ Yukon Zinc Corporation (Re), 2015 BCSC 836, par. 90.

- a) (i) Does the PBSA deemed trust also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who worked on the railway (i.e., a federal undertaking)?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and PBSA if so, how is the conflict resolved?
- b) (i) Does the SPPA also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who reported for work in Québec?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and SPPA and if so, how is the conflict resolved?

(iii) Do the Quebec SPPA deemed trusts also apply to Québec Salaried Plan members?

[68] The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees and the NL Superintendent suggest that, in the interests of simplicity and expediency, all of these questions should be referred to the NL Court.

[69] The Court has great difficulty with this suggestion. On what basis should the Court conclude that the NL Court is in a better position to decide whether the Québec SPPA and deemed trust apply to employees who reported for work in Québec (question 2(b)(i) and (iii)) and how the conflict between the NLPBA and the SPPA should be resolved (question 2(b)(ii))? The first are pure questions of Québec law, and the last is a question where the laws of Québec and of Newfoundland and Labrador have equal application. There are similar questions with respect to the federal PBSA (question 2(c)), which the Court is in as good a position to decide as the NL Court.

[70] The Court will not refer issues of Québec law or federal law to the NL Court, and if those issues are too closely interrelated to the NLPBA issues, or if in the interests of simplicity and expediency they should all be decided by the same court, then the solution is not to refer any issues to the NL Court.

[71] In the earlier Yukon Zinc ruling where Justice Fitzpatrick refused to refer the matter to the courts of Yukon, she found that the issues related to the interrelationship between the Yukon Miners Lien Act and the rights asserted by others under B.C. law, in relation to assets the majority of which were located in British Columbia:

[89] As for the law to be applied to the various issues, it is clear that whatever forum is used to resolve these issues, there will be a blend of both British Columbian contract law and Yukon miner's lien law. The majority of the concentrate is located in British Columbia and was in this Province well before the 2015 Procon Lien was registered. Further, the contract rights are to be decided in accordance with British Columbian law, particularly as to if, and if so, when, title to the concentrate passed from Yukon Zinc to Transamine.

[90] This is not akin to the situation discussed in Ecco Heating Products Ltd. v. J.K. Campbell & Associates Ltd., 1990 CanLII 1631 (BC CA), [1990] 48 B.C.L.R. (2d) 36 (C.A.), where the major issue arose under builder's lien legislation in British Columbia and where the court referred to the "extensive existing relevant jurisprudence" in British Columbia: at 43-44. It is common ground here that there is no case law on the issues of scope and priority under the MLA that arise here, let alone relevant Yukon jurisprudence.

[91] It is quite apparent that some issues arise under the MLA and, in particular, issues relating to Procon's rights in relation to the concentrate remaining in Yukon which is claimed by Transamine under British Columbian law. Transamine argues that this Court can take judicial notice of the MLA: see Evidence Act, R.S.B.C. 1996, c. 124, s. 24(2)(e). In any event, Procon has fully researched the issues as they arise under the MLA and made submissions on them. To turn the tables on Procon, if I were to decline jurisdiction in favour of the Yukon courts, there equally would be issues as to the Yukon court interpreting and applying British Columbian law on the contract issues.

[92] It would be impossible in the circumstances to bifurcate the issues based on the applicable law. Even if bifurcation was available, it would be neither a practical nor an efficient strategy in resolving the issues between Yukon Zinc, Procon and Transamine.

(Emphasis added)

[72] In the present matter, the bulk of the assets on which the deemed trust or the lien created by the NLPBA may apply are the proceeds of the sale of assets in Québec.

[73] On balance, the legal considerations do not favour referring the issues to the NL Court.

b) Factual considerations

[74] The parties suggesting that the NLPBA issues be referred to the NL Court also argue that these are essentially local issues that should be decided by the local court.

[75] It is clear that there are significant factual links between these issues and the province of Newfoundland and Labrador.

[76] In particular, the Wabush mine is located in Newfoundland and Labrador and most of the employees reported to that mine. As a result, many of the retirees are currently resident in Newfoundland and Labrador. The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees want the NL Court to interpret the NLPBA.

[77] However, there are equally strong factual links to the province of Québec: the Pointe-Noire facility is in Québec and most of the railway joining the Wabush mine and the Pointe-Noire facility is in Québec. There are almost as many employees and retirees in Québec:

	Salaried Plan	Union Plan
Newfoundland and Labrador	313	1,005
Québec	329	661
Other	14	66 ⁴⁶

[78] As a result, this is not a matter of purely local concern in Newfoundland and Labrador.

[79] Although the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees want the NL Court to interpret the NLPBA, more than half of the persons that they represent live in Québec.

[80] It is also worth noting that the Union, which represents more employees and retirees, asks that the case remain in Québec, even though most of their members reside in Newfoundland and Labrador.

c) Practical considerations

[81] The parties suggesting that the NLPBA issues be referred to the NL Court argue that the law of Newfoundland and Labrador is in principle a question of fact in a Québec court which is proven with expert witnesses. They argue that this has a series of somewhat inconsistent consequences:

- The parties will have to hire experts, which is costly and time consuming;
- It will be difficult to find experts because these questions have never been litigated before;
- If there is an appeal, the interpretation of the NLPBA will be treated as a question of fact and therefore only subject to be overturned if there is a palpable and overriding error.

⁴⁶ Watt Affidavit, par. 16.

[82] This seems to exaggerate the difficulty. The Court can take judicial notice of the law of another province.⁴⁷ This is particularly true when it is an issue of interpreting a statute.⁴⁸ In this case, where the parties plead that it will be difficult to find an expert, it seems unlikely that the Court would require expert evidence. This is particularly so when the provisions of the NLPBA which are at issue are similar to the provisions of the federal PBSA with respect to which expert evidence is not admissible. If there is no expert evidence to be offered, then there is no expense. A finding of fact with respect to expert evidence may attract the higher standard for appellate review of a palpable and overriding error.⁴⁹ This does not mean that every ruling on an issue of foreign law attracts the same standard. If the judge decides the interpretation of the NLPBA without considering the credibility of expert witnesses, then there is no reason for the Court of Appeal to apply the higher standard for appellate review.

[83] In terms of cost, it is difficult to see how the cost of continuing the proceedings in Québec will be higher than the cost of hiring attorneys in Newfoundland and Labrador and debating part of the issues there. The Union and Sept-Îles argued that it would be more expensive for them to argue the issues in Newfoundland and Labrador, and they added that they pay their own costs, unlike the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees and the Plan Administrator.

[84] Another issue is the delays that the referral might create.

[85] Sept-Îles bases its argument that it is too late now to raise the issue of a transfer on the fact that the Court already dealt with some of these issues 18 months ago. The representatives of the salaried employees and retirees plead that they raised the issue of a possible transfer of issues to the NL Court at the hearing of the motion for approval of the Claims Procedure Order on November 16, 2015.

[86] The Court will not dismiss the issue for lateness. However, it is relevant that the issue is being debated now as opposed to 18 months ago. If the issue had been debated at that time, the Court might have been less concerned about the possible delays that would result from referring the issues to the NL Court.

[87] The parties suggesting that the NLPBA issues be referred to the NL Court plead that there is no reason to believe that fragmenting the proceedings will result in additional delay. They do not however offer the Court any concrete indication of how quickly the case could proceed through the NL Court and any appeal.

[88] The Court is concerned by the possible delay. The parties pointed to Timminco, where the CCAA Court transferred a pension issue to the Québec Superior Court, as an example of how these referrals should work. In that case, the parties consented to refer the Québec pension aspects of the CCAA file that was being litigated in Ontario to a Québec court. Even in those circumstances, the delay between the referral (October 18, 2012)⁵⁰ and the final judgment of the Québec court (January 24, 2014)⁵¹ was over 15 months.

[89] Finally, the Court does not consider the question of whether its decision will or will not be treated as a precedent to be a relevant consideration. Similarly, the Court does not consider the possibility of intervenants to be relevant. The Court's focus is on resolving the difficulties of the parties appearing before it. If the government of Newfoundland and Labrador wishes to obtain a judgment from the courts of the province on the interpretation of the NLPBA, it can refer a matter to the Court of Appeal of Newfoundland and Labrador.⁵²

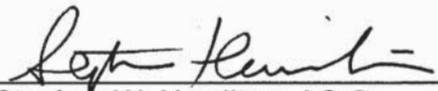

CONCLUSION

[90] For all of the foregoing reasons, the Court concludes that it is not appropriate in the present circumstances to refer the proposed questions to the NL Court.

FOR THESE REASONS, THE COURT:

[91] DECIDES that it has jurisdiction to deal with the issues related to the interpretation of the Newfoundland and Labrador Pension Benefits Act in the context of the present proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act and that it will not refer those issues to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador;

JUDGMENT ON THE MOTION OF THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES TO GRANT PRIORITY TO THE INTERIM LENDER CHARGE AND TO SUSPEND THE PAYMENT OF CERTAIN PENSION AMORTIZATION PAYMENTS AND POST-RETIREMENT EMPLOYEE BENEFITS (#144), AND RELATED MATTERS

INTRODUCTION

[1] These proceedings raise essentially three issues:

1. Can and should the Court order that the charge in favour of the interim lender rank ahead of the statutory deemed trusts for payments due by the debtors to the pension plan?
2. Can and should the Court suspend the debtors' obligation to pay the special amortization payments to the pension plan?
3. Can and should the Court suspend the debtors' obligation to pay the other post-employment benefits for the retirees?

BACKGROUND

The parties

[2] On May 20, 2015, the Petitioners Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc. and the Mises-en-cause Wabush Mines (a joint venture of Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources), Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (the "Wabush CCAA Parties") filed a motion for the issuance of an initial order under the *Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act*¹ (CCAA), which was granted on that date by the Court (the "Wabush Initial Order").

500-11-048114-157

[3] Prior to the filing of the motion, Wabush Mines operated the iron ore mine and processing facility located near the Town of Wabush and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador, and the port facilities and a pellet production facility at Pointe-Noir, Québec. Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway are both federally regulated railways that are involved in the transportation of iron ore concentrate from the Wabush mine to the Pointe-Noir port.

The pension plans and other post-employment benefits

[4] The Wabush CCAA Parties have two defined benefit pension plans for their employees:

- The pension plan for salaried employees at the Wabush mine and the Pointe-Noire port hired before January 1, 2013, called the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines JV, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company; and
- The pension plan for unionized hourly employees at the Wabush mine and Pointe-Noire port, called the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines JV, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company.

[5] Wabush Mines is the administrator of both plans.

[6] Because some of the employees covered by the plans work in Newfoundland and Labrador and because others work in federally regulated industries, the plans are subject to regulatory oversight by both the federal pension regulator, the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions ("OSFI"), and the provincial regulator in Newfoundland and Labrador, the Superintendent of Pensions (the "N&L Superintendent").

[7] The monthly normal cost payments for the plans for 2015 based on a valuation as at January 1, 2014 are $50,494.83 for the hourly plan and $41,931.25 for the salaried plan, for a total monthly normal cost payment of $92,46.08. All monthly normal cost payments in respect of the plans for January through April, 2015 have been paid in full.

[8] The plans are underfunded. Based on estimate received from the Wabush CCAA Parties' pension consultant, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe the estimated wind-up deficiencies for the plans as at January 1, 2015 to be a total of approximately $41.5 million, consisting of approximately $18.2 million for the salaried plan and approximately $23.3 million for the hourly plan.

[9] The Wabush CCAA Parties are required to pay monthly amortization payments based on the 2014 valuation of $393,337.00 for the hourly plan and $273,218.58 for the salaried plan, for a total monthly amortization payment of $666,555.58. All monthly amortization payments in respect of the plans for January through April, 2015 have been paid in full, save for a shortfall of approximately $130,000.

[10] In addition to the monthly amortization payments, the Wabush CCAA Parties are also required to make a lump sum “catch-up” amortization payment for the plans estimated to be approximately $5.5 million due in July 2015.

[11] The Wabush CCAA Parties currently provide other post-employment benefits (“OPEBs”), including life insurance and health care, to former hourly and salaried employees hired before January 1, 2013, which vary based on whether retirees were formerly members of a bargaining unit or were non-unionized salaried employees.

[12] As of December 31, 2014, accumulated benefits obligations for the OPEBs totalled approximately $52.1 million. The premiums required to fund the foregoing OPEBs are approximately $182,000 a month.

[13] In addition to the foregoing, there is a supplemental retirement arrangement plan for certain current and former salaried employees of Wabush Mines JV. The obligations under this plan are approximately $1.01 million.

The Interim Financing

[14] Prior to filing the motion for the issuance of an initial order, the Wabush CCAA Parties entered into the Interim Financing Term Sheet with Cliffs Mining Company (the “Interim Lender”). The Interim Lender is a subsidiary of the ultimate parent of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

[15] The cash flow statement filed with the motion for the issuance of an initial order showed that the Wabush CCAA Parties had run out of cash and were not anticipating any receipts from operations other than two small rental payments, with the result that they needed the Interim Financing to continue even their limited operations for the duration of the CCAA process.

[16] The Interim Financing Term Sheet provided that the Interim Lender would advance a maximum principal amount of US$10,000,000 to provide for short-term liquidity needs of the Wabush CCAA Parties while they are under CCAA protection. The Interim Lender’s obligation to advance funds is subject to a number of conditions and covenants, including the following:

500-11-048114-157

- The Interim Lender will have a charge in the principal amount of CDN$15,000,000 which will have priority over all charges against the Wabush CCAA Parties' property except for certain specified charges;² and
- The Wabush CCAA Parties will not make any special payments in relation to the pension plans or any payments in respect of OPEBs.³

CCAA proceedings

[17] As a result of the foregoing, the Wabush CCAA Parties asked the Court as part of the Wabush Initial Order on May 20, 2015 to approve the Interim Financing Term Sheet and to create the Interim Lender Charge, but not to give the Interim Lender Charge priority over the existing secured creditors until they had the chance to be heard.

[18] The Monitor filed its Fifth Report in which it recommended that the Court approve the Interim Financing Term Sheet and the granting of the Interim Lender Charge.

[19] Based on the evidence presented at the hearing on May 20, 2015,⁴ the Court granted the Wabush Initial Order, including the approval of the Interim Financing Term Sheet and the create of the Interim Lender Charge ranking after the existing secured creditors.

[20] The Wabush Initial Order provided for a comeback hearing on June 9, 2015.

[21] On May 29, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties filed their "Motion for the issuance of an order in respect of the Wabush CCAA parties (1) granting priority to certain CCAA charges, (2) approving a Sale and Investor Solicitation Process nunc pro tunc, (3) authorizing the engagement of a Sale Advisor nunc pro tunc, (4) granting a Sale Advisor Charge, (5) amending the Sale and Investor Solicitation Process, (6) suspending the payment of certain pension amortization payments and post-retirement employee benefits, (7) extending the stay of proceedings, (8) amending the Wabush Initial Order accordingly", in which they sought various conclusions including (1) an order granting priority to the Interim Lender Charge over all charges against the Wabush CCAA Parties' property, subject to certain exceptions not relevant here, and (2) an order suspending the payment of the special payments and the OPEBs.

² Sections 7(1) and 8(2) of the Interim Financing Term Sheet

³ Section 25(h), which does specify that the Wabush CCAA Parties shall be entitled to make normal cost payments under defined benefit plans.

500-11-048114-157

[22] In addition, the Wabush CCAA Parties sent a letter on May 29, 2015 to 2,092 retirees and to the union representatives to advise them of the hearing on June 9, 2015 and to advise them that they would present on June 9, 2015 requests that the Interim Lender Charge be given priority over the deemed trusts relating to pension payments and that the special payments and the payment of the OPEBs be suspended.

[23] Prior to the comeback hearing, the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Monitor received various notices of objection, which can be classified into two categories as follows:

- (a) the first category of notices of objection were filed on behalf of (1) the Administration Portuaire de Sept-Îles/Sept-Iles Port authority ("SIPA"), (2) the Iron Ore Company of Canada ("IOC"), and (3) MFC Industrial Ltd., and pertained to the reservation of certain contractual rights;
- (b) the second category of notices of objection were filed on behalf of (1) the N&L Superintendent, (2) OSFI, (3) United Steelworkers Locals 6254 and 6285 (the "Union"), and (4) Michael Keeper, Terence Watt, Damien Lebel and Neil Johnson in their personal capacity and as the proposed representatives of all non-union employees and retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties. These notices of objection will be described more fully below.

[24] On June 9, 2015, the Court granted the Wabush comeback motion in part and issued an order, which reserved the rights of SIPA, IOC and MFC as follows:

[10] DECLARES that this Order approving the SISP as it relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties nunc pro tunc is without prejudice to the rights, if 'any, of the Administration Portuaire de Sept-Îles/Sept-Iles Port Authority (hereinafter the "SIPA"), vis à vis the Wabush CCAA Parties, including: (i) the rights of the SIPA, acting as successor in the rights of the National Harbours Board, pursuant to the agreement referred to and communicated as Exhibit O-1 in support of SIPA's Notice of objection dated April 13, 2015; and (ii) the rights of SIPA, acting as successor in the rights of the Canada Ports Corporation, pursuant to the agreement referred to and communicated as Exhibit O-7 in support of SIPA's Notice of objection already filed in the Court record and dated April 13, 2015;

[11] DECLARES that this Order approving the SISP as it relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties nunc pro tunc is without prejudice to the rights, if any of the Iron Ore Company of Canada or its related companies (hereinafter the "IOC"), vis-à-vis the Wabush CCAA Parties, including, but not limited to, the rights pursuant to the Subscription Agreement dates August 3, 1959 referred to in IOC's Notice of objection already filed in the Court record and dated April 13, 2015;

[12] DECLARES that this Order approving the SISP as it relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties nunc pro tunc is without prejudice to the rights, if any, of MFC Industrial Ltd. ("MFC") if any, vis-à-vis the Wabush CCAA Parties, including pursuant to an Amendment and Consolidation of Mining Leases dated September 2, 1959 and related sub-leases (as amended from time to time) as it relates to the property of Wabush CCAA Parties.

[13] RESERVES the right of IOC, SIPA and of MFC to raise any such rights at a later stage if need be;

[25] The Court scheduled a hearing on June 22, 2015 to deal with the remaining requests of the Wabush CCAA Parties in relation to the priority of the Interim Lender Charge and the suspension of the special payments and the OPEBs:

[6] RESERVES the rights of Her Majesty in right of Newfoundland and Labrador, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, the Syndicat des Métallos, Section Locale 6254, the Syndicat des Métallos, Section 6285 and the Attorney General of Canada to contest the priority of the Interim Lender Charge over the deemed trust(s) as set out in the Notices of Objection filed by each of those parties in response to the Motion, which shall be heard and determined at the hearing scheduled on June 22, 2015;

[21] ORDERS the request by the Wabush CCAA Parties for an order for the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of the monthly amortization payments coming due pursuant to the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company and the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company, nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date is adjourned to June 22, 2015;

[22] ORDERS the request by Wabush CCAA Parties for an order for the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA parties of the annual lump sum "catch-up" payments coming due pursuant to the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway company and the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company, nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date is adjourned to June 22, 2015;

[23] ORDERS the Wabush CCAA Parties' request for an order for the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of other post-retirement benefits to former hourly and salaried employees of their Canadian subsidiaries hired before January 1, 2013, including without limitation payments for life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan, nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date is adjourned to June 22, 2015;

THE POSITION OF THE OBJECTING PARTIES

[26] Prior to the hearing on June 22, 2015, the parties exchanged outlines of their respective arguments. The four retirees also filed the “Motion for an order appointing the Petitioners-Mises-en-cause as representative of salaried/non-union and retired employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties” seeking to be appointed as representatives of salaried/non-union and retired employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties and to seek funding for their counsel. This motion was granted by consent on June 22, 2015.

[27] The positions taken by the objecting parties can be summarized as follows:

Objection Raised/Objecting Parties	N&L S.	OSFI	Union	Non-union retirees
Suspension of Amortization Payments	Objects	Objects*	Objects	Object
Suspension of OPEBs	--	--	Objects	Object
Superpriority of Interim Lender Charge	Objects*	Objects	Objects	--

* Not in the notice of objection, but in the written argument

 In the notice of objection and the written argument, but partly withdrawn at hearing

[28] Moreover, in its notice of objection and written argument, the Union requests that that one officer from each of the two locals be designated by the Court as the persons responsible for responding to questions from unionized retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties and providing them with information about their rights and recourses, and that those persons be funded by the Wabush CCAA Parties.

N&L Superintendent

[29] The N&L Superintendent objects to the Wabush CCAA Parties’ request for a suspension of the special payments. He argues that the suspension of the special payments sought by the Wabush CCAA Parties contravenes Sections 32 and 61(2) of the Newfoundland and Labrador *Pension Benefits Act, 1997*⁵ (the “N&L Act”).

[30] He does not raise any objection with respect to the suspension of the OPEBs.

[31] In his notice of objection, the N&L Superintendent also reserved his right to raise additional objections. In his written argument, he adds an argument with respect to the priority of the Interim Lender Charge, which he also claims would contravene Sections 32 and 61(2) of the N&L Act.

[32] In addition to the foregoing, the N&L Superintendent also claims in its written argument that the Wabush CCAA Parties are in a conflict of interest when it comes to the administration of the pension plans, and suggests that other, less stringent financing alternatives would have been available.

[33] Finally, the N&L Superintendent further claims that additional information with regards to paragraphs 83 to 91 of the Wabush Comeback Motion needs to be divulged in order for it to be able to properly carry out its statutory duties under the N&L Act, including to assess the financial status of the plans. However, at the hearing, representations were made that information had been provided and no specific order was sought. The Court reserves the N&L Superintendent's rights in this regard.

OSFI

[34] In its notice of objection, OSFI objects solely to the granting of the priority of the Interim Lender Charge, and only inasmuch as this would result of a priming rank over the normal cost payments owing to the pension plans which benefit from priority under Sections 8 and 36(2) of the *Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985*⁶ ("PBSA").

[35] In its written argument, OSFI instead invokes the statutory deemed trust in connection with outstanding special payments.

[36] OSFI now also challenges the suspension of the special payments on the basis that the Wabush CCAA Proceedings would not constitute a restructuring, but rather a liquidation.

[37] According to OSFI, the impact of the deemed trust is to render any and all amount owing to the pension plans inalienable and exempt from seizure, such that, as a result, the Interim Lender Charge could not obtain a security on those assets.

The Union

[38] In its notice of objection, the Union opposes the suspension of both the special payments and the OPEBs, and seeks an order that the Wabush CCAA parties be forced to make such payments notwithstanding the terms of the Interim Financing Term Sheet.

[39] In doing so, the Union insists on the hardship such a suspension would cause for the retirees, whose claims are alimentary in nature.

[40] The Union also asks the Court to preserve the rank of the deemed trust for amounts owing to the pension plans, and seeks to have this deemed trust rank ahead of or equal with the Interim Lender Charge.

⁶ R.S.C. 1985, c. 32 (2nd Supp.), as amended.

[41] The notice of objection and the written argument also argue for the appointment of a representative to handle the numerous queries of union members.

Non-union retirees

[42] In their notice of objection, the non-union retirees object to the suspension of the OPEBs and the special payments sought by the Wabush CCAA Parties on the basis of the significant prejudice such relief would cause to the retirees.

[43] In their written argument, they argue that such a suspension would in fact amount to a disclaimer or resiliation of agreements, subject to the provisions of Section 32 CCAA, which it is argued were not respected in the case at hand.

[44] They add that the conditions of the Interim Lender Term Sheet should not allow the Wabush CCAA Parties to circumvent the requirements of said Section 32 CCAA.

[45] At the hearing, they indicated that they objected most strenuously to the suspension of the OPEBs, because of the impact on the retirees. They indicated that they would not object to a short-term suspension of the special payments, until the Wabush CCAA Parties collected the tax refunds they were expecting and therefore had funds other than the Interim Financing with which to make the special payments.

POSITION OF THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES

[46] The Wabush CCAA Parties argue that they do not have any funds or any source of funds and therefore that they need the Interim Financing.

[47] They also argue that even with the Interim Financing, they do not have any funds available to continue to pay the special payments or any of the OPEBs, as the Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments.

[48] On the law, they argue that the deemed trusts created under the PBSA and the N&L Act are not effective to protect the special payments or the OPEBs in the CCAA context. As a consequence, the Interim Lender Charge requested by the Wabush CCAA Parties does not prime any security under the PBSA or the N&L Act. Further, since those payments are unsecured and relate to pre-filing services, there is no reason for the Wabush CCAA Parties to make those payments.

[49] They therefore argue that the Court should exercise its discretion to give the Interim Lender Charge priority over the deemed trusts and to suspend the obligation to pay the special payments and the OPEBs.

500-11-048114-157

POSITION OF THE MONITOR

[50] The Monitor filed its Seventh Report for purposes of the comeback hearing.

[51] In its report, it supports the position taken by the Wabush CCAA Parties.

[52] Its legal argument supports the legal argument put forward by the Wabush CCAA Parties.

ISSUES IN DISPUTE

[53] The issues in dispute can be outlined as follows;

- (a) Can and should the Court order that the Interim Lender Charge rank ahead of all encumbrances, including statutory deemed trusts?
- (b) Can and should the Court suspend the Wabush CCAA Parties' obligation to pay the special payments?
- (c) Can and should the Court suspend the Wabush CCAA Parties' obligation to pay the OPEBs?

ANALYSIS

[54] The three issues have significant overlaps. The Court will nevertheless analyze them sequentially, and will adopt its previous reasoning to the extent it is relevant.

1. Super-priority of the Interim Lender ChargeGeneral

[55] What is at issue is the conflict between the super-priority of the interim lender charge under Section 11.2 CCAA and the statutory deemed trusts created by Section 8 PBSA and Section 32 of the N&L Act.

[56] Section 11.2 CCAA allows the Court, after considering the factors set out in Section 11.2(4) CCAA, to create an interim lender charge and to give that charge priority over the claim of any secured creditor of the debtor:

11.2 (1) On application by a debtor company and on notice to the secured creditors who are likely to be affected by the security or charge, a court may make an order declaring that all or part of the company's property is subject to a security or charge — in an amount that the court considers appropriate — in favour of a person specified in the order who agrees to lend to the company an amount approved by the court as being required by the company, having regard to its cash-flow statement. The security or charge may not secure an obligation that exists before the order is made.

(2) The court may order that the security or charge rank in priority over the claim of any secured creditor of the company.

(3) The court may order that the security or charge rank in priority over any security or charge arising from a previous order made under subsection (1) only with the consent of the person in whose favour the previous order was made.

(4) In deciding whether to make an order, the court is to consider, among other things,

(a) the period during which the company is expected to be subject to proceedings under this Act;

(b) how the company's business and financial affairs are to be managed during the proceedings;

(c) whether the company's management has the confidence of its major creditors;

(d) whether the loan would enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement being made in respect of the company;

(e) the nature and value of the company's property;

(f) whether any creditor would be materially prejudiced as a result of the security or charge; and

(g) the monitor's report referred to in paragraph 23(1)(b), if any.

(Emphasis added)

[57] OSFI and the N&L Superintendent, supported by the Union, argue that Section 11.2 CCAA does not allow the Court to give the interim lender charge priority over the deemed trusts in pension matters created by their respective legislations.

[58] The argument put forward by OSFI and the N&L Superintendent is essentially that the employer is deemed to hold the amounts in trust, and therefore they are not "part of the company's property" and cannot be charged under Section 11.2 CCAA.

[59] The Wabush CCAA Parties argue that there is a conflict between the legislation creating the deemed trusts and the CCAA and that the CCAA must prevail:

- The CCAA prevails over the PBSA as a matter of statutory interpretation of two pieces of federal legislation, and 500-11-048114-157

- The CCAA prevails over the N&L Act because of the constitutional doctrine of federal paramountcy.

[60] Because the arguments are different with respect to the PBSA and the N&L Act, the Court will deal with them separately.

[61] These are not new issues. The courts, including the Supreme Court, have been called upon to deal with the effect of federal and provincial deemed trusts in the insolvency context on numerous occasions. There have also been a number of statutory amendments, some designed to overturn the results of judgments.

[62] Because of the urgency of rendering judgment in this matter, the Court will not embark on an exhaustive analysis of all of these judgments and amendments.

Effectiveness of the PBSA deemed trust in CCAA proceedings

[63] OSFI relies on Sections 8(1) and (2) and 36(2) of the PBSA, which provide as follows:

8. (1) An employer shall ensure, with respect to its pension plan, that the following amounts are kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys, and the employer is deemed to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members of the pension plan, former members, and any other persons entitled to pension benefits under the plan:

(a) the moneys in the pension fund,

(b) an amount equal to the aggregate of the following payments that have accrued to date:

(i) the prescribed payments, and

(ii) the payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement; and

(c) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund:

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer, including any amounts that are required to be paid under subsection 9.14(2) or 29(6).

500-11-048114-157

(2) In the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that by subsection (1) is deemed to be held in trust shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

36. (2) Any agreement or arrangement to assign, charge, anticipate or give as security

(a) any benefit provided under a pension plan, or

(b) any money withdrawn from a pension fund pursuant to section 26 is void or, in Quebec, null.

(Emphasis added)

[64] The deemed trust created by Section 8 PBSA is intended to cover all amounts due by the employer to the pension fund. These would include the normal payments, as well as the special payments.

[65] Section 8(1) PBSA requires the employer to keep the required amounts separate and apart from its own moneys, and deems the employer to hold them in trust. In the present matter, the required amounts have not been kept separate and apart and the assets subject to the trust have been comingled with other assets. Pursuant to the decision of the Supreme Court in Sparrow Electric, the consequence is that the trust created by Section 8(1) PBSA does not exist because the subject-matter of the trust cannot be and never was identifiable.⁷

[66] As a result, the relevant provision is Section 8(2) PBSA which provides that the amount shall be deemed to be separate and apart, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

[67] However, Section 8(2) PBSA only applies "[i]n the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer". It attaches to any property which lawfully belongs to the employer when the triggering event occurred.⁸

[68] The issue of the triggering event could be determinative in the present case. If the triggering event has not occurred, then there is no deemed trust and no obstacle to the Court granting the priority required by the Interim Lender.

⁷ Royal Bank of Canada v. Sparrow Electric Corp., [1997] 1 S.C.R. 411, par. 28.

[69] It is clear that there has been no assignment or bankruptcy in the present matter. Further, there is no liquidation under Part XVIII of the *Canada Business Corporations Act*⁹ or equivalent provincial legislation. A CCAA proceeding does not appear to trigger the application of Section 8(2) PBSA. However, OSFI argues that these CCAA proceedings are really a liquidation, because it is very likely that the ongoing sale process will result in the sale of all of the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

[70] In interpreting the word “liquidation” in Section 8(2) PBSA, and in particular whether it includes a liquidation under the CCAA,¹⁰ the Court will consider more generally how the deemed trust under Section 8(2) PBSA is dealt with under the CCAA.

[71] It must be emphasized at the outset that the deemed trust under Section 8(2) PBSA is not a deemed trust in favour of the Crown. This is a fundamental distinction. Section 37(1) CCAA, which renders all deemed trusts in favour of the Crown ineffective in the CCAA context, subject to certain exceptions, has no application to the deemed trust under Section 8(2) PBSA. As a result, many of the cases cited to the Court, which deal with the effectiveness of deemed trusts in favour of the Crown, must be applied with caution in the present circumstances.

[72] In particular, the Wabush CCAA Parties rely on language in the Supreme Court’s judgment in *Century Services*¹¹ that must be read carefully. Justice Deschamps refers in paragraph 45 to “the general rule that deemed trusts are ineffective in insolvency”. There is no such general rule, other than Section 37(1) CCAA (and Section 67(2) of the *Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act*¹²) which applies only to deemed trusts in favour of the Crown. She begins the paragraph with a reference to the predecessor of Section 37(1) CCAA and she refers throughout the paragraph to Crown claims and Crown priorities. She must be referring to Crown deemed trusts in that sentence as well. Justice Fish’s comments in paragraph 95 must be similarly limited. The Court respectfully disagrees with Justice Schragger in *Aveos*¹³ on this issue and concludes that there is no general rule that deemed trusts in favour of anyone other than the Crown are ineffective in insolvency. Deemed trusts will be interpreted restrictively as exceptions to the general principle that the assets of the debtor are available for all of the creditors,¹⁴ but there is no general rule that they are ineffective.

[73] However, other provisions of the CCAA deal expressly with pension obligations. Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA were added to the CCAA in 2009. They provide that an arrangement can only be sanctioned or an asset sale approved by the Court, if provision is made for the payment of certain enumerated pension obligations, including deductions from employee salaries and normal cost contributions of the employer, but not including special payments.

[74] It is difficult to reconcile Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA with a broad interpretation of Section 8(2) PBSA. Why would the legislator give specific protection to the normal payments by amending the CCAA in 2009 if the deemed trust protecting not only the normal payments but also the special payments was effective in the CCAA context? Why would the legislator not protect the special payments under Sections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA if they were already protected under a deemed trust? What happens to the deemed trust for the special payments if there is an arrangement or an asset sale? Because both statutes were adopted by the same legislator, we must try to determine the legislator's intent.

[75] In Century Services, the Supreme Court was faced with a conflict between the deemed trust for GST and the CCAA. Justice Deschamps adopted "a purposive and contextual analysis to determine Parliament's true intent".¹⁵ She concluded that the deemed trust for GST did not apply in a CCAA proceeding, even though the language in the *Excise Tax Act*¹⁶ provided that the deemed trust was effective notwithstanding any law of Canada other than the BIA. She attached importance to the "internal logic of the CCAA".¹⁷

[76] Moreover, in Indalex, Justice Deschamps referred to the conclusions of a Parliamentary committee which had considered extending the protection afforded the beneficiaries of pension plans. The committee made the policy decision not to extend that protection. Justice Deschamps concluded that "courts should not use equity to do what they wish Parliament had done through legislation."¹⁸

[77] The Court therefore adopts the following reasoning to resolve the conflict in the present case:

Given that the pension provisions of the BIA and CCAA came into force much later than s. 8 of the PBSA, normal interpretation would require that the later legislation be deemed to be remedial in nature. Likewise, since those provisions of the BIA and CCAA are the more specific provisions, normal interpretation would take them to have precedence over the general. Finally, the limited scope of the protection given to pension claims in the BIA and the CCAA would, by application of the doctrine of implied exclusion, suggest that Parliament did not intend there to be any additional protection. In enacting BIA subs. 60(1.5) and

65.13(8) and ss. 81.5 and 81.6 and CCAA subs. 6(6) and 37(6), while not amending subs. 8(2) of the PBSA (by adding explicit priority language or by removing the insolvency trigger), Parliament demonstrated the intent that pension claims would have protection in insolvency and restructurings only to the limited extent set out in the BIA and the CCAA.¹⁹

(Emphasis added)

[78] For all of these reasons, the Court concludes that Parliament's intent is that federal pension claims are protected in insolvency and restructurings only to the limited extent set out in the BIA and the CCAA, notwithstanding the potentially broader language in the PBSA.

[79] In the alternative, the Court could conclude that a liquidation under the CCAA does not fall within the term "liquidation" in Section 8(2) PBSA such that there has been no triggering event.

[80] Either way, the Court concludes that the deemed trust under Section 8(2) PBSA does not prevent the Court from granting priority to the Interim Lender Charge, if the conditions of Section 11.2 CCAA are met.

Effectiveness of the N&L Act deemed trust in CCAA proceedings

[81] The N&L Superintendent relies on the combined effect of Sections 32 and 61(2) of the N&L Act:

32. (1) An employer or a participating employer in a multi-employer plan shall ensure, with respect to a pension plan, that

- (a) the money in the pension fund;
- (b) an amount equal to the aggregate of
 - (i) the normal actuarial cost, and
 - (ii) any special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to date; and
- (c) all
 - (i) amounts deducted by the employer from the member's remuneration, and

- (ii) other amounts due under the plan from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund

are kept separate and apart from the employer's own money, and shall be considered to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members, former members, and other persons with an entitlement under the plan.

(2) In the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that under subsection (1) is considered to be held in trust shall be considered to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own money or from the assets of the estate.

(3) Where a pension plan is terminated in whole or in part, an employer who is required to pay contributions to the pension fund shall hold in trust for the member or former member or other person with an entitlement under the plan an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination.

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

61. (1) On termination of a pension plan, the employer shall pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the requirements prescribed by the regulations for solvency, including

- (a) an amount equal to the aggregate of
- (i) the normal actuarial cost, and
 - (ii) special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to the date of termination; and

- (b) all
- (i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and
 - (ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination.

(2) Where, on the termination, after April 1, 2008, of a pension plan, other than a multi-employer pension plan, the assets in the pension fund are less than the value of the benefits provided under the plan, the employer shall, as prescribed by the regulations, make the payments into the pension fund, in addition to the payments required under subsection (1), that are necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

(Emphasis added)

[82] The key provision, Section 32(2) of the N&L Act, is virtually identical to Section 8(2) PBSA. As a result, much of the analysis set out above applies here as well.

[83] However, the analysis takes a different turn once one reaches the conclusion that it is difficult to reconcile the broad deemed trust under Section 32(2) of the N&L Act with the more limited protection under Section 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA.

[84] This is a conflict between provincial legislation and federal legislation. Constitutional doctrine instructs the courts to try to interpret the federal and provincial legislation in such a way as to avoid the conflict, but this is not the same exercise as trying to find the intent of a single legislator who adopted conflicting pieces of legislation.

[85] For the purposes of this analysis, the Court will assume that the N&L Act is valid and is intended to be effective in an insolvency context. This means that the province granted greater protection to pension obligations than the federal legislator recognized in the CCAA. The principles of interpretation set out above do not apply to resolve a conflict between a federal statute and a provincial statute. There is no basis for interpreting the statutes in such a way as to make them consistent.

[86] There is also a potential conflict with respect to the priority of the interim Lender Charge: under Section 11.2 CCAA, the Court can create an interim lender charge over all of the debtor's property and give it priority over all other charges, except that the province has created a deemed trust which, if it is effective, subtracts assets from the debtor's property and makes them unavailable to be charged in favour of the interim lender.

[87] The question is therefore whether the province can create such a charge that could prevent the Court from granting priority to an interim lender charge.

[88] The Supreme Court in Indalex held in the circumstances of that case, that the interim lender charge had priority over the provincial deemed trust by reason of the application of the doctrine of federal paramountcy, because the CCAA's purpose would be frustrated without the interim lender charge.²⁰ The trial judge in Indalex had rejected the deemed trust and therefore had not considered the doctrine of paramountcy. However, in granting the interim lender charge, he had considered the factors in Section 11.2(4) CCAA and had concluded that the interim lender charge was necessary and in the best interest of Indalex and its stakeholders. The Supreme Court held that these findings were sufficient for paramountcy to apply.

[89] As a result, the Court can give priority to the Interim Lender Charge over the deemed trust under the N&L Act if the test for federal paramountcy is met. The Court will consider the paramountcy issue as part of its analysis of the factors under Section 11.2(4) CCAA.

Factors under Section 11.2(4) CCAA

[90] Section 11.2(4) CCAA sets out a non-exhaustive list of the factors the Court should consider before it creates an interim lender charge:

(4) In deciding whether to make an order, the court is to consider, among other things,

(a) the period during which the company is expected to be subject to proceedings under this Act;

(b) how the company's business and financial affairs are to be managed during the proceedings;

(c) whether the company's management has the confidence of its major creditors;

(d) whether the loan would enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement being made in respect of the company;

(e) the nature and value of the company's property;

(f) whether any creditor would be materially prejudiced as a result of the security or charge; and

(g) the monitor's report referred to in paragraph 23(1)(b), if any.

[91] The Court already considered those factors when it decided to create the Interim Lender Charge on May 20, 2015.

[92] In his Fifth Report dated May 19, 2015, the Monitor provided the following comments on the factors listed in Section 11.2(4) CCAA:

The period during which the company is expected to be subject to proceedings under the CCAA

(a) While the deadline for the submission of binding offers pursuant to the SISP has yet to be set, based the Wabush May 18 Forecast and preliminary discussions regarding the potential timeline for the completion of the SISP, it is believed that the Interim Financing Term Sheet provides sufficient liquidity to enable the Wabush CCAA Parties to complete the SISP;

500-11-048114-157

How the company's business and affairs are to be managed during the proceedings

(b) The Wabush CCAA Parties' senior personnel and Boards of Directors remain in place to manage the business and affairs of the Wabush CCAA Parties. The Wabush CCAA Parties and their management will also have the benefit of the expertise and experience of their legal counsel and the Monitor;

Whether the company's management has the confidence of its major creditors

(c) The largest creditors of the Wabush CCAA Parties are affiliated companies who the Monitor understands to have confidence in the Wabush CCAA Parties' management. Other major creditors include the pension plans described in the May 19 Motion, employee groups in respect of other post-retirement benefits and various contract counterparties. None of the major creditors has to date expressed any concern to the Monitor in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties' management;

Whether the loan would enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement being made in respect of the company

(d) Based on the Wabush May 18 Forecast, without the Interim Facility the Wabush CCAA Parties would be unable to pay their obligations, maintain their assets or complete the SISP. The Wabush CCAA Parties and the Monitor are of the view that approval of the Interim Facility would likely enhance the prospects of generating recoveries for stakeholders, whether through a sale or a restructuring plan;

The nature and value of the company's property

(e) The Wabush CCAA Parties' assets are described in the May 19 Motion, and consist primarily of real estate, equipment, inventory and income tax receivables. The value of the Wabush CCAA Parties' property will be determined through the SISP. Nothing has come to the attention of the Monitor in respect of the nature of the Wabush CCAA Parties' property that, in the Monitor's view, ought to be given particular consideration in connection with the Interim Lender Charge;

Whether any creditor would be materially prejudiced as a result of the proposed Charge

(f) The proposed Interim Facility will provide the Wabush CCAA Parties the opportunity to complete the SISP and to maximize recoveries for stakeholders. Borrowings under the Interim Financing Term Sheet are limited to a maximum of US$10 million. The Interim Lender Charge secures only the Interim Financing Obligations and is limited to $15 million. The Monitor is of the view that any potential detriment caused to the Wabush CCAA Parties' creditors by the Interim Lender Charge should be outweighed by the benefits that it creates; and

500-11-048114-157

Other potential considerations

(g) The Monitor has researched the terms of recent interim financings based on information publicly available, a summary of which is attached hereto as Appendix C. Based on this research and Monitor's experience, the Monitor believes that the terms of the Interim Financing Term Sheet are in line with or better than market. The Monitor is of the view that the Interim Financing Term Sheet represents the best alternative available in the circumstances that would provide access to financing within the necessary timeframe.

[93] In his testimony before the Court on May 20, 2015, Clifford Smith testified that the Wabush CCAA Parties had attempted to obtain financing elsewhere, but that only a related party was willing to provide financing.

[94] The Court makes the following findings:

- The Sale and Investor Solicitation Process (SISP) is in the interests of the Wabush CCAA Parties and their stakeholders because it should lead to greater recovery;
- Without new financing, the Wabush CCAA Parties do not have enough cash to complete the SISP. The cash flow projection attached to the Fifth Report shows the Wabush CCAA Parties running out of cash in the week ending May 22, 2015;
- Without new financing, it is therefore likely that the Wabush CCAA Parties will go bankrupt;
- The Wabush CCAA Parties and the Monitor have not identified any other sources of new financing;
- The terms and conditions of the Interim Financing are reasonable, and the security is limited to the amount of the new financing.

[95] This is sufficient for the Court to conclude that the Interim Financing should be approved and the Interim Lender Charge should be granted with priority over the deemed trust under the PBSA, if it is effective in the CCAA context.

[96] With respect to the deemed trust under the N&L Act, there is the added issue of whether giving effect to the deemed trust would frustrate the federal purpose under the CCAA. Under the Interim Lender Term Sheet, the super-priority is a condition precedent to the Interim Lender's obligation to advance the funds. That condition will not be met if the Court gives effect to the deemed trust under the N&L Act, which puts the financing at risk.

[97] The objecting parties argue that the Court's jurisdiction to make appropriate orders should not be ousted by the terms of the Interim Lender Term Sheet. However, there is nothing peculiar about this provision in the Interim Lender Term Sheet. The importance of the super-priority to interim lenders has consistently been recognized by the courts. As stated by the Supreme Court in Indalex:

... case after case has shown that "the priming of the DIP facility is a key aspect of the debtor's ability to attempt a workout" (J. P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (2007), at p. 97). The harsh reality is that lending is governed by the commercial imperatives of the lenders, not by the interests of the plan members or the policy considerations that lead provincial governments to legislate in favour of pension fund beneficiaries.²¹

(Emphasis added)

[98] Similarly, Justice Morawetz stated in Timminco:

[49] In the absence of the court granting the requested super priority, the objectives of the CCAA would be frustrated. It is neither reasonable nor realistic to expect a commercially motivated DIP lender to advance funds in a DIP facility without super priority. The outcome of a failure to grant super priority would, in all likelihood, result in the Timminco Entities having to cease operations, which would likely result in the CCAA proceedings coming to an abrupt halt, followed by bankruptcy proceedings. Such an outcome would be prejudicial to all stakeholders, including CEP and USW.²²

(Emphasis added)

[99] The objecting parties also plead that the Interim Lender is related to the Wabush CCAA Parties and therefore has interests which might be different than those of an arm's length lender.

[100] However, there is no evidence that gives credence to the suggestion that the Interim Lender will advance funds without the super-priority. To the contrary, the attorney representing the Interim Lender made it clear at the hearing that there would be no advance of funds if the super-priority was not confirmed. Further, the Court is not satisfied that it has the jurisdiction to order the Interim Lender to advance the funds on terms other than those that it has accepted.

²¹ Indalex, supra note 18, par. 59

[101] In all of these circumstances, the Court concludes that giving effect to the deemed trust under the N&L Act carries a serious risk of frustrating the CCAA process. The Court therefore concludes that the doctrine of federal paramountcy is engaged, and it concludes that the N&L Act is not effective to that extent.

[102] The Court will therefore order that the Interim Lender Charge shall have priority over the deemed trusts under the PBSA and the N&L Act.

2. Suspension of special payments

[103] Further, the Wabush CCAA Parties asked that their obligation to make the special payments to the pension plans be suspended.

[104] The Courts have consistently recognized a jurisdiction to suspend the obligation to make special payments and OPEB payments “when necessary to enhance liquidity to promote the survival of a company in financial distress.”²³

[105] Several reasons underlie the existence of this jurisdiction.

[106] First, the normal pension payments that the employer is required to make relate to the current services rendered by the current employees and the Court’s jurisdiction to affect those payments is limited by the principle that the debtor must pay for current services. However, the special payments relate to a deficit that has accumulated in the pension plan. Pension benefits are deferred compensation for services that were provided by the retiree while he or she was an employee.²⁴ As a result, the special payments relate to services provided to the employer before the filing, and as such, they can be qualified as pre-filing obligations.²⁵

[107] Second, the special payments are unsecured in the CCAA context. Sections 6(6) and 36(7) create a priority in the CCAA context for the normal payments but not for the special payments. As discussed above, the deemed trust under Section 8(2) PBSA has no effect in a CCAA proceeding, and the deemed trust under Section 32(2) of the N&L

In Aveos, supra note 10, par. 86-88, Justice Schragger concluded that this characterization was not necessary for the court to have jurisdiction to suspend the payments.

500-11-048114-157

Act, in purporting to create a security interest not recognized under the CCAA, is not effective to the extent that it conflicts with the CCAA.²⁶

[108] As a result, the payment of the special payments would constitute payments to an unsecured pre-filing creditor, which could be qualified as preferential in the sense that no other unsecured pre-filing creditor is being paid.

[109] In any event, even without this characterization, the courts have a broad discretion under the CCAA to render orders that are necessary to allow the debtor to make a proposal to its creditors.

[110] In the exercise of this discretion, it is important to consider the facts.

[111] The special payments for the two plans are made up of monthly amortization payments in the amount of $666,555.58 per month and a lump sum “catch-up” amortization payment of approximately $5.5 million due in July 2015.

[112] The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have the funds available to make these payments. The cash flow statements filed with the Court show that the Wabush CCAA Parties need the funds from the Interim Financing to meet their current obligations other than the special payments. The Interim Lender Term Sheet expressly requires the Wabush CCAA Parties not to make any special payments. As a result, forcing the Wabush CCAA Parties to make the special payments would lead to a default under the Interim Financing and a likely bankruptcy.²⁷

[113] The objecting parties criticize the position taken by the Interim Lender in prohibiting the payment of the special payments.

[114] However, the position taken by the Interim Lender in this file is consistent with the position taken by other interim lenders in other files:

[55] Fairfax [the interim lender] a indiqué au Tribunal que ce financement avait été octroyé pour financer les activités courantes de Bowater et ne pouvait ainsi être utilisé pour payer les cotisations d'équilibre aux régimes de retraite. Le financement est aussi sujet au respect de différents ratios de solvabilité.²⁸

[115] Moreover, the Interim Lender's position makes sense as a commercial matter. Why should the Interim Lender advance funds that will be used to pay someone else's debt, particularly one which is pre-filing and unsecured? It is the Interim Lender's intention to fund the Wabush CCAA Parties with the amount required to get them through the SISP so that they can repay the loan. It is not in the Interim Lender's interest to fund preferential payments to unsecured pre-filing creditors. The language cited above about the harsh commercial realities of interim financing applies here as well.

²⁶ Indalex, supra note 18, par. 56.

[116] Moreover, the Court is being asked to suspend the obligation to make the special payments, and is not being asked to alter the collective agreement or extinguish the obligation to pay these amounts.²⁹

[117] As a result, the beneficiaries of the pension plans would not be prejudiced by this suspension. The wind-up deficiencies for the two pension plans as at January 1, 2015 are estimated to be a total of approximately $41.5 million. The purpose of the special payments is to reduce that deficiency and to improve the situation over time such that the beneficiaries will receive the full amounts to which they are entitled. The suspension of the special payments means that their position is not improved, but it is not worsened. Their debt remains and benefits from whatever priority it is entitled to at law.

[118] For all of these reasons, the Court will order the suspension of the special payments to the pension funds.

3. Suspension of the OPEBs

[119] The Wabush CCAA Parties currently provide OPEBs, including life insurance and health care, to former hourly and salaried employees.

[120] As of December 31, 2014, accumulated benefits obligations for the OPEBs totalled approximately $52.1 million. The premiums required to fund the foregoing OPEBs are approximately $182,000 a month.

[121] In addition to the foregoing, there is a supplemental retirement arrangement plan for certain current and former salaried employees of Wabush Mines JV. The obligations under this plan are approximately $1.01 million.

[122] The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding available to continue to pay any of the foregoing OPEBs, as the Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments. They seek an order from the Court suspending the payment of the OPEBs nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date.

[123] The reasoning as to the existence and the exercise of the discretion to suspend these payments is much the same as for the special payments. The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have the funds to make the payments, and the Interim Lender Term Sheet does not allow them to make these payments. These amounts relate to services provided pre-filing and they are unsecured. They are in a sense even less secured than the special payments because the deemed trusts created by the PBSA and the N&L Act do not purport to cover these payments.

[124] The retirees plead that there are two important differences.

[125] First, the amount at issue is only $182,000 per month. The retirees suggest that the Wabush CCAA Parties should be able to find this amount somewhere. The Wabush CCAA Parties continue to argue that they do not have the funds with which to make these payments, and the Interim Lender Term Sheet in any event prevents them from making these payments. Given the cash flow statement filed with the Court and the language of the Interim Lender Term Sheet, the Court accepts that the Wabush CCAA Parties do not have the funds.

[126] The second difference pleaded by the retirees is that they suffer a clear prejudice. The OPEBs are provided through an insurance policy, and if the Wabush CCAA Parties fail to pay the premium, the policy will be cancelled, leaving the retirees with no health insurance and only a claim against the insolvent Wabush CCAA Parties. The Court assumes this to be correct and accepts that this will cause hardship to the retirees.

[127] The retirees argue that this is equivalent to a disclaimer or rescission of the insurance contract by the Wabush CCAA Parties, which is invalid because the formalities under Section 32(1) CCAA were not followed, and the test under Section 32(4) CCAA for the Court to authorize the disclaimer or rescission was not met. Section 32(4)(c) provides that one of the factors to be considered is “whether the disclaimer or rescission would likely cause significant financial hardship to a party to the agreement.”

[128] This argument does not withstand scrutiny.

[129] There is a tri-partite relationship. The employer has obligations to the beneficiaries, and has entered into an insurance policy with the insurer so that the insurer provides those benefits to the beneficiaries. If the employer stops paying the premiums, the insurer will terminate the insurance policy. This does not affect the employer’s obligations to the beneficiaries,³⁰ but the beneficiaries will be left with an insolvent debtor instead of the insurer.

[130] However, the contract that is being terminated is the contract between the Wabush CCAA Parties and the insurer for the benefit of the beneficiaries. The counterparty is the insurer. It is not suggested that the insurer will suffer any significant financial hardship as a result of the termination of the contract. The contract between the Wabush CCAA Parties and the beneficiaries is not being terminated.

[131] Moreover, the Wabush CCAA Parties are not disclaiming or resiliating the contract. The Wabush CCAA Parties are seeking authorization to stop paying under a contract, just as they have undoubtedly stopped paying under a number of other contracts. When the debtor defaults, the counter-party has a number of options, including terminating the contract. Even if termination by the counter-party is the likely result, as in this case, it does not mean that the debtor has disclaimed or resiliated the contract. Otherwise, the debtor would have to follow the formalities and pass the test in Section 32 CCAA every time it defaulted under a contract.

[132] At the end of the day, the answer is the same as for the special payments, and the payment of the OPEBs should also be suspended.³¹

[133] The Court is very mindful of the hardship that the suspension of the OPEB payments and the termination of the insurance policy will cause to the beneficiaries. Unfortunately, that hardship appears to be inevitable. Even if the Court ordered the Wabush CCAA Parties to keep paying the premium during the SISP, that would be only a temporary solution and it is very likely if not inevitable that following the conclusion of the SISP, the Wabush CCAA Parties will cease their operations and the insurance policy will be terminated.

4. Breach of fiduciary duties

[134] The objecting parties also pleaded that Wabush Mines is in a situation of conflict of interest because it is both the administrator of the pension plans and one of the Wabush CCAA Parties seeking relief with respect to the pension plans.

[135] The PBSA and the N&L Act allow the employer to act as administrator, and the insolvency of the employer inevitably leads to the type of potential conflict in which Wabush Mines finds itself.

[136] Consistent with the views expressed by the Supreme Court in Indalex, the Court concludes that the giving of notice to the regulators, the Union and the retirees, the postponement of the hearing from June 9, 2015 to June 22, 2015 to allow the objecting parties to present their arguments, and the consent to the motion presented by the four retirees for a representation order allowing them to represent all salaried/non-union employees and retirees and related beneficiaries at the expense of the Wabush CCAA Parties, all show that the employer acted in good faith in a way consistent with its fiduciary duties to the beneficiaries of the pension plans.³²

5. Representation order sought by the Union

[137] The Union requests that one officer from each of the two locals be designated by the Court as the persons responsible for responding to questions from unionized retirees of the Wabush CCAA Parties and providing them with information about their rights and recourses. Further, the Union asks that those persons be funded by the Wabush CCAA Parties.

[138] The individuals that the Union proposes are officers of the two locals. The Union is essentially asking the Court to designate these individuals and to order that a portion of their salary be paid by the Wabush CCAA Parties. At the present time, the Union estimates that the two individuals spend one half of their time responding to calls, although that time seems to be decreasing. The admissions filed in lieu of the testimony of Frank Beaudin refer to the volume of calls received by the Union since the May 29, 2015 letter was sent to the retirees.

[139] The Monitor is a Court officer whose duties include providing information of this nature. However, the Court also recognizes that the Union has received and will continue to receive calls from the unionized retirees. It is appropriate for the Union to provide information to its retired members and to designate specific individuals to provide the information in order to ensure that there is consistency in the information provided.

[140] However, this is not a matter that requires the intervention of the Court. The Union can handle matters of communications with its former members without a Court order. The Union does not seek an order that it be authorized to represent these unionized retirees. If the Union were to make such a motion, the Court would have to consider whether there is a potential conflict between the current employees and the retirees.

[141] Further, the Court does not consider it appropriate that the Wabush CCAA Parties be ordered to pay part of the salary of the two individuals. They are salaried union officers. Providing information of this nature is within their functions.

[142] For these reasons, the Union's motion will be dismissed.

FOR THESE REASONS, THE COURT:

JUDGMENT

[1] Sitting as judge in chambers pursuant to sections 13 and 14 of the *Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act*¹ ("CCAA") and articles 29, 511 and 550 C.C.P., I am seized of two motions for leave to appeal from a judgment of the Superior Court, District of Montreal (the Honourable Stephen Hamilton), rendered on June 26, 2015. The Superior Court dismissed contestations made on behalf of the petitioners, who are, respectively, representatives of non-union employees and retired employees (petitioners in court file C.A.M. 500-09-025441-155 and hereinafter designated the "Salaried Members") and the Syndicat des Métallos, sections locales 6254 and 6285 (in court file C.A.M. 500-09-025469-156, hereinafter referred to together as the "Union"). In so doing, the Superior Court confirmed the respondent's request to grant priority to an interim lender charge over claims made by the petitioners based on deemed trusts in pension legislation. The Court also suspended certain payments due under pension plans as well as for post-retirement benefits.

[2] The Union filed an amended motion prior to the hearing. Both motions for leave also ask for orders to suspend provisional execution of the judgment notwithstanding appeal.

I Background

[3] The facts are usefully and completely recounted in the judgment a quo.²

[4] On May 20, 2015, the CCAA Judge Hamilton, J. granted a motion for the issuance of an initial order to commence proceedings under the CCAA to respondents Wabush Iron Ore Co. Ltd., Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Railway Co. Ltd. (the "Wabush CCAA Parties"). The CCAA proceedings as they concern the Wabush CCAA Parties were joined to CCAA proceedings started some four months earlier involving the "Bloom Lake CCAA Parties".³

³ The pre-existing CCAA proceedings were commenced on January 27, 2015, by an initial order issued by Castonguay, J. of the Superior Court, in respect of Bloom Lake General Partner Ltd., Quinto Mining Corp., 8568391 Canada Ltd., Cliffs Quebec Iron Mining ULC, The Bloom Lake Iron Ore Partnership and Bloom Lake Railway Co. Ltd. (the "Bloom Lake CCAA Parties").

[5] Prior to the filing of the motion, Wabush Mines operated an iron ore mine located near the Town of Wabush and Labrador City, in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador, with facilities at Pointe-Noire, Quebec.

[6] The Wabush CCAA Parties are currently involved in a court-ordered sales process, originally commenced in the Bloom Lake CCAA proceedings, whereby they seek to sell assets with a view either to concluding a plan of compromise with their creditors (including the petitioners) or disposing of assets and distributing the proceeds to creditors (including the petitioners).

[7] The Wabush CCAA Parties have two defined pension plans for their employees, one for salaried employees and the other for unionized employees paid an hourly wage. Because some employees work in a provincially-regulated setting in Newfoundland and Labrador and others work in federally-regulated industries, the plans are subject to oversight by both the federal Office of Superintendent of Financial Institutions and the Newfoundland and Labrador Superintendent of Pensions.

[8] Both plans are underfunded. The CCAA Judge set forth estimated amounts to be paid as winding-up deficiencies, monthly amortization payments and lump-sum “catch-up” amortization payments. He noted as well that the Wabush CCAA Parties provide other post-employment benefits (“OPEB”), including health care and life insurance, to certain retired employees. Accumulated benefits’ obligations for the OPEBs, as well as monthly premiums required to fund those benefits, are to be paid by the Wabush CCAA Parties. In addition, amounts are due pursuant to a supplemental retirement arrangement plan for certain salaried employees (see paras [4] to [13] of the judgment).

[9] The Wabush CCAA Parties arranged for interim financing (a debtor-in-possession or “DIP” loan) from Cliffs Mining Company, a related company. The CCAA Judge was of the view that the Wabush CCAA Parties’ cash-flow was compromised and that the interim financing was necessary to continue operations during restructuring. The Wabush initial order approved an interim financing term sheet pursuant to which the interim lender would provide US$10M of interim financing, on conditions, for the Wabush CCAA Parties short-term liquidity needs during the CCAA proceedings. These conditions included, as the CCAA Judge recorded in paragraph [16] of his reasons, a requirement that the interim lender have a charge in the principal amount of CDN $15M, with priority over all charges, against Wabush CCAA Parties’ property, subject to some exceptions. There is a further condition that Wabush CCAA Parties may not make any special payments in relation to the pension plans or any payments in respect of the OPEBs. The initial order granted the interim lender charge of $15M but did not give priority to that charge over existing secured creditors in order to allow the parties to make representations at a comeback hearing.

[10] At that comeback hearing, the Wabush CCAA Parties sought, inter alia, priority for the interim lender charge ahead of deemed trusts created by pension legislation and a suspension of obligations to pay amortization payments in relation to the pension plans and payments for OPEBs. The Salaried Members and the Union contested these matters. The CCAA Judge issued an order on June 9, 2015 granting priority to the interim lender charge, subject to the rights of, inter alia, the Salaried Members, the Union and the federal and provincial pension authorities to be determined at a later hearing.

[11] That hearing on June 22, 2015 gave rise to the judgment a quo in which the CCAA Judge granted the Wabush CCAA Parties' comeback motion and dismissed the contestations brought by the Salaried Members and the Union.

II The judgment of the Superior Court

[12] The CCAA Judge made numerous findings and rendered different orders, not all of which concern the motions before me. I will limit my comments to those aspects of the judgment relevant here.

[13] After setting forth the context and the arguments of the parties, the CCAA Judge considered the conflict between the super-priority of the interim lender charge and the deemed trusts created by federal and provincial legislation. (His findings in respect of the provincial rules do not concern us directly at this stage).

[14] As to the impact of CCAA proceedings on the deemed trust created by subsection 8(2) of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985,⁴ the judge wrote "there is no general rule that deemed trusts in favour of anyone other than the Crown are ineffective in insolvency" (para. [72]). He then considered the effect of subsection 8(2) PBSA on the provisions of the CCAA that deal with pension obligations, including subsections 6(6) and 36(7) CCAA that were added to the Act in 2009. Based on his interpretation of the general rule in subsection 8(2) PBSA and the particular rules in the CCAA, the judge concluded, as an exercise of statutory interpretation, that "Parliament's intent is that federal pension claims are protected in [...] restructurings only to the limited extent set out in the [...] CCAA, notwithstanding the potentially broader language in the PBSA" (para. [78]). In the alternative, he wrote, "the Court could conclude that a liquidation under the CCAA does not fall within the term "liquidation" in Subsection 8(2) PBSA such that there has been no triggering event" (para. [79]). Either way, he observed, the deemed trust in subsection 8(2) PBSA did not prevent him from granting a priority to the interim lending charge if the conditions of section 11.2 CCAA were met.

[15] After considering the relevant factors under the CCAA to the facts of the case, the CCAA Judge decided that the proposed sale was in the interests of the Wabush CCAA Parties and their stakeholders as it should lead to a greater recovery. The sale required new financing and, without that financing, it is likely that the Wabush CCAA Parties would go bankrupt. The judge also expressed his view that the terms and conditions of the interim financing were reasonable, and that the security is limited to the amount of the new financing. He then wrote that “[t]his is sufficient for the Court to conclude that the Interim Financing should be approved and the interim lender charge should be granted with priority over the deemed trust under the PBSA, if it is effective in the CCAA context” (para. [95]). He also found that the terms of the interim lending sheet, including the requirement that the interim lender be granted super priority, were not unusual and that he was not satisfied that the Superior Court had jurisdiction to order the lender to advance the funds on other terms (para. [100]).

[16] The CCAA Judge then gave reasons for his decision to grant the Wabush CCAA Parties’ request that their obligation to make special and OPEB payments be suspended. He held that forcing the Wabush CCAA Parties to make special payments would lead to a default under the interim financing arrangement and a likely bankruptcy (para. [112]). He came to the same conclusion in respect of the OPEBs (para. [122]). In so doing, he rejected the argument that the suspension of the OPEBs amounted to a rescission of the insurance contract under which the benefits are provided, rescission which would have required notice under section 32 CCAA (paras [127] to [131]).

[17] The CCAA Judge rejected all other grounds for contestation. He confirmed the priority of the interim lending charge over the deemed trusts as set out in the initial order; he ordered the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of monthly amortization payments, of the annual lump sum catch-up payments, and of other post-retirement benefits.

III The motions for leave

[18] The two motions raise some similar issues but are different in scope.

[19] The Salaried Members ask for leave to appeal in respect of conclusions relating to two aspects of the judgment.

[20] First, the Salaried Members seek to reverse the CCAA Judge’s approval of what they characterize as the termination of OPEBs and of payment of supplemental pension benefits imposed by the Wabush CCAA Parties without proper notice as required by section 32 CCAA. In this regard, the Salaried Members object to the following paragraph in the judgment a quo:

[146] ORDERS the suspension of payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties of other post-retirement benefits to former hourly and salaried employees of their Canadian subsidiaries hired before January 1, 2013, including without limitation payments for life insurance, health care and a supplemental retirement arrangement plan, nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date.

[21] In argument, the Salaried Members also contended that the CCAA Judge’s finding that the Wabush CCAA Parties did not have the funds to meet the $182,000 monthly payments for the premiums to fund the OPEBs and the supplemental pension benefits was mistaken.

500-09-025441-155 – 500-09-025469-156

[22] Second, the Salaried Members seek to reverse that portion of the CCAA Judge's reasons bearing on the ineffectiveness of the federal statutory deemed trust in CCAA proceedings. They say that to hold the deemed trust priority under the PBSA to be "of no force and effect in CCAA Proceedings on a wholesale basis" is wrong in law. Specifically they state that the deemed trust priority should continue to apply for the benefit of Salaried Members over the assets of the company in future priority distributions (after the DIP and CCAA-ordered priorities). For this second argument, the Salaried Members target the following paragraphs of the CCAA Judge's reasons as they pertain to the effectiveness of the PBSA deemed trust in CCAA proceedings:

[78] For all of these reasons, the Court concludes that Parliament's intent is that federal pension claims are protected in insolvency and restructurings only to the limited extent set out in the BIA and the CCAA, notwithstanding the potentially broader language in the PBSA.

[79] In the alternative, the Court could conclude that a liquidation under the CCAA does not fall within the term "liquidation" in Section 8(2) PBSA such that there has been no triggering event.

[23] It may be noted that the Salaried Members had initially contemplated objecting to the non-payment of other amounts owing by the Wabush CCAA Parties in respect of the pension plans. But given limits to the Wabush CCAA Parties' cash-flow and the significant amounts of these payments, the Salaried Members chose not to pursue the objections in these proceedings.

[24] As noted, the Salaried Members also ask to suspend provisional execution notwithstanding appeal of this order.

[25] The Union's proposed appeal is somewhat broader.

[26] In respect of the portion of the judgment regarding the deemed trust provided in the PBSA, the Union is of the view, like the Salaried Members, that the CCAA Judge erred in holding that the subsection 8(2) PBSA deemed trust is ineffective in CCAA proceedings. Moreover, the Union disagrees with the CCAA Judge that the pension amortization payments constitute ordinary, unsecured claims under the CCAA rather than trust claims (paras [103] to [118] of the judgment). The Union also says the CCAA Judge was mistaken in deciding that the financing conditions in respect of the interim financial loan were reasonable insofar as those conditions precluded the payment of OPEBs (paras [119] to [133]). The judge should have set aside the unreasonable conditions in the interim lending sheet. Had he done so, the judge would have found that the Wabush CCAA Parties had the necessary funds to make the payments owed under the plans.

[27] The Union also seeks a stay of provisional execution of the judgment.

[28] It bears mentioning that the Union's motion was filed late. In keeping with section 14(2) CCAA, the Union obtained permission from the CCAA Judge to bring the late appeal, subject to the determination by a judge in chambers of this Court as to whether the appeal is a serious one.⁵ None of the parties objected to this way of proceeding and I find the Union's amended motion to be correctly before me.

IV Criteria for granting leave

[29] The test for leave under the CCAA is well known. Writing for the Court of Appeal for Saskatchewan in Re Stomp Pork Farm Ltd.,⁶ Jackson, J.A. wrote:

[15] In a series of cases emanating first from British Columbia and then from Quebec, Alberta and Ontario, there has developed a consensus among the Courts of Appeal that leave to appeal an order or decision made under the CCAA should be granted only where there are serious and arguable grounds that are of real significance and interest to the parties and to the practice in general. The test is often expressed as a four-part one:

1. whether the issue on appeal is of significance to the practice;
2. whether the issue raised is of significance to the action itself;
3. whether the appeal is prima facie meritorious or, on the other hand, whether it is frivolous; and,
4. whether the appeal will unduly hinder the progress of the action.

[30] Judges sitting in chambers of this Court have consistently applied this four-part test to measure the seriousness of a proposed appeal. As my colleague Hilton, J.A. observed in Statoil Canada Ltd. (Arrangement relative à),⁷ the above-mentioned four criteria are understood to be cumulative, with the result that if a petitioner fails to establish any one of them, the motion for leave will be dismissed. Hilton, J.A. alluded to the oft-repeated injunction that a petitioner seeking leave to appeal faces a heavy burden given the role of a CCAA judge, the discretionary character of the decisions he or she must make and the nature of the proceedings. He recalled the longstanding cautionary note that motions for leave should only be granted "sparingly".⁸

⁵ 2015 QCCS 3584, paras [32] to [34] (per Hamilton, J.).

⁷ 2013 QCCA 851, para. [4] (in chambers).

⁸ Ibid., para. [4].

[31] The grounds upon which a stay of provisional execution notwithstanding appeal may be granted by a judge in chambers are also well known.⁹ Applying the principles developed pursuant to article 550 C.C.P. to this case, I note that the petitioners must show that the judgment suffers from a plain weakness; that failing to grant the stay would result in serious harm (sometimes characterized as irreparable harm) to them; and that the balance of inconvenience favours granting a stay.

IV Analysis

[32] Despite the importance of certain of the questions raised in the motions for leave to the practice and to this action, and notwithstanding the prima facie meritorious character of some arguments made by the petitioners, I am of the respectful view that both the Salaried Members and the Union have failed to meet the test for leave. In particular, they have not convinced me that an appeal would not unduly hinder the progress of the action.

[33] I shall make brief comments on each of the four criteria in turn.

IV.1 Importance of the questions to the practice

[34] Some questions raised in both motions, to varying degrees, have importance to the practice as that notion is understood in connection with applications for leave brought under sections 13 and 14 CCAA.

[35] The issue of the effectiveness of the PBSA deemed trust in CCAA proceedings raised in both motions meets this first criterion. This issue is not, as the respondent argued, a settled matter. In pointing to the CCAA Judge's comment in paragraph [61] to the effect that "[t]hese are not new issues", respondent has, it seems to me, quoted the judge out of context. It is of course true, as the CCAA Judge observed, that courts, including the Supreme Court, have been called upon to consider the effect of statutory deemed trusts in insolvency on numerous occasions. But as the CCAA Judge's own reasons make plain, the interpretation of the deemed trust protection in subsection 8(2) PBSA in light of amendments made to the CCAA in 2009, in particular subsections 6(6) and 36(7), involve a different exercise of statutory interpretation. In undertaking that work, the judge did have the benefit of principles set out in *Century Services*¹⁰ relating to the conflict between the deemed trust for the GST and the CCRA, in *Sparrow Electric*¹¹ dealing with a deemed trust in favour of the Crown in respect of payroll deductions for taxation, as well as *Indalex*¹² in which a conflict between provincial deemed trust and federal insolvency law was in part at issue. But these settings were different from that of the case at bar. Others have observed that difficulties arising out of the interaction between deemed trust rules for pensions and the CCAA persist, notwithstanding the jurisprudence of the Supreme Court on point.¹³ Moreover, the narrow issue would be new to this Court and the practice would have a precise consideration of the interaction between the federal deemed trust in subsection 8(2) and the CCAA by an appellate court.

[36] This is not to say that the CCAA Judge was the first to consider the problem. He had the benefit of *Aveos*¹⁴, decided by Schragger, J., as he then was, as well as a scholarly paper on the topic which he cited with approval in paragraph [77]. And while the CCAA Judge and Schragger, J. agree on central aspects of that interpretation exercise, they are not at ones on all points, including the importance of a Crown exception in this context (as the CCAA Judge himself noted at para. [72]). While I recognize the care with which the CCAA Judge examined the question of statutory interpretation, as well as the alternative argument as to whether “any liquidation” within the meaning of subs. 8(2) PBSA includes CCAA proceedings – a point not given full analysis in Aveos – the matter of the effectiveness of the federal deemed trust in CCAA proceedings is not settled law and remains important to CCAA practice.

[37] Is the issue raised by the Salaried Members of the proper scope of section 32 CCAA, and the prior notice rule, also of sufficient importance to the practice?

[38] As I will note below, I am of the respectful view that the merits of this argument are less strong. Nonetheless, the matter of the proper scope of section 32 in light of the kind of insurance contract that provided benefits here, and in particular of competing notions of suspension and termination of OPEBs, is one of importance to the practice.

[39] What about the Union’s argument that the judge erred in holding that the terms of the interim financing were reasonable?

[40] This decision was one that called upon the CCAA Judge to make a determination of fact and exercise discretion afforded him under the Act, matters generally viewed as less consequential to the practice. Moreover, it would seem to me that the ability of a lender to determine the basis of risk he or she is willing to tolerate in a restructuring is not a matter widely disputed. I have not been convinced that this point, viewed on its own, is important to the practice.

¹³ Scholars have alluded to the different permutations of the deemed trust problem in CCAA matters as important to the practice: see, e.g., Janis P. Sarra, Rescue! The Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, 2nd ed. (Toronto: Carswell, 2013) at 370 et seq. and a useful comment by Jassmine Girgis entitled “Indalex: Priority of Provincial Deemed Trusts in CCAA Restructuring” posted by the University of Calgary Faculty of Law on the website <http://ablawg.ca> in which the author comments on the on-going importance of the issue after Indalex.

IV.2 Importance of the questions to the present action

[41] The decision not to apply the PBSA deemed trust in CCAA proceedings has meaningful negative consequences for both the Salaried Members and the Union. The importance to the action in this regard seems beyond serious dispute.

[42] I agree with the petitioners that the question relating to the suspension or termination of the OPEBs is also significant to the action. The CCAA Judge recognized at para. [126] and again at para. [133] of his reasons that if the Wabush CCAA Parties fail to pay the premiums on the insurance policy, the policy will be cancelled thereby causing hardship to the Petitioners. I agree too with the position of counsel to the Union who argued that aspects of the pension claims may usefully be compared to alimentary claims, and that the hardship in suspending them gives the question sufficient importance to the action.

IV.3 The proposed appeals are prima facie meritorious and not frivolous [43] The arguments brought in service of the petitioners' view that the deemed trust under the PBSA remains effective in CCAA proceedings are not frivolous. While the exercise of statutory interpretation undertaken by the CCAA Judge – which, it should be noted, is not a discretionary exercise in and of itself – shows no prima facie weakness, that is not to say that it precludes an arguable case for the other side.¹⁵ There are, in my view, grounds for framing a statutory interpretation argument for the petitioners' position that have prima facie merit when one considers, for example, that the CCAA amendments are the product of a complicated evolution; that the CCAA and the PBSA have different policy objectives which may shape interpretation; that the relevance of principles developed by the Supreme Court in other settings to the deemed trusts problem faced in this case is the matter of fair debate; that comparisons might be made with deemed trust regimes from the provinces or other statutes, and more. All of these factors suggest to me that, notwithstanding the strength of the judgment a quo, there are prima facie meritorious lines of argument that might be pressed on appeal. The parties debated vigorously the scope of “any liquidation” in subs. 8(2) PBSA before me, for example, as they did the proper scope of amendments to the CCAA and the policy they reflect. On the question of the effectiveness of the PBSA deemed trust as raised by the Salaried Members and in the first three grounds of appeal in the Union's amended motion, I am of the view that this criterion is satisfied.

¹⁵ The gradation between “prima facie meritorious” and “frivolous” is not always clear, and the better view may well be that “meritorious” and “frivolous” do not constitute a summa division for proposed appeals: see Statoil, supra, note 7, para. [11]. It is certainly true that the petitioners may have an arguable case – one with prima facie merit – but that the judgment a quo may still be said to suffer from no apparent weakness: see the helpful comments, albeit in another context, in Droit de la famille – 081957, 2008 QCCA 1541, para. [4] (Morissette, J.A., in chambers).

[44] The issue of the proper scope of section 32 CCAA, and the prior notice rule, strikes me, from my disadvantaged position, to be less compelling, but I would not say it is wholly lacking in merit.

[45] Counsel for the monitor argued, in support of the respondents' position that leave should be refused, that this ground of appeal was frivolous. He contended that the CCAA Judge rightly held that section 32 plainly did not apply to the resiliation of the Wabush CCA Parties' insurance contract. Like the respondents, the monitor said the CCAA Judge rightly relied on *Mine Jeffrey*¹⁶ decided by this Court in 2003, and that his analysis of the "tri-partite relationship" between the employer, the insurer and the beneficiary in paragraphs [129] et seq. is free from error.

[46] The question as to the applicability of section 32 here is not frivolous, even if Mine Jeffrey presents a formidable obstacle to a successful appeal. While not equal in strength, arguments raised by counsel for the Salaried Members as to type of contract to which the rule applies and, in particular, to the distinction between the termination of a contract and the suspension of a contract, are not without some merit. While I recognize that the test of the relative merit of the arguments proposed can be construed in some circumstances as requiring more than "a limited prospect of success"¹⁷ given the nature of CCAA proceedings, I would not dismiss the motions on this narrow issue on this basis alone.

[47] The Union says the interim lender's conditions should be set aside as unreasonable. I am not convinced that this argument is prima facie meritorious.

[48] Counsel for the Union argues strongly that the interim lender should not be allowed to dictate terms to the CCAA Judge or to the stakeholders as a whole by imposing conditions on financing that have the effect of exploiting the vulnerability of the employees and former employees. He says that if the interim lender's conditions were struck as unreasonable, the Wabush CCAA Parties would have access to those funds and that there would be no need to suspend the various payments due to the petitioners.

[49] With respect, this argument strikes me as flawed in two respects. First, it requires an overturning of the CCAA Judge's view – with all the advantages of perspective he has in so deciding – that as a matter of fact the conditions of the interim financing are reasonable. Secondly, the Union has left unanswered the questions raised by the judge concerning the "harsh commercial realities of interim financing" at paragraph [115]. Why indeed should the interim lender advance funds be used to pay someone else's debt, particularly one that is pre-filing and unsecured? Why should a condition of the financing be ignored, effectively forcing the lender to advance funds on disadvantageous terms to which it did not agree? It is not a matter of the CCAA Judge being callous or insensitive to hardship faced by vulnerable parties. In my view, the comment of Deschamps, J. for the majority in Indalex, as adapted to the setting of federal deemed trusts, is apposite here: “The harsh reality is that lending is governed by the commercial imperatives of the lenders, not by the interests of the plan members or the policy considerations that lead provincial governments to legislate in favour of pension fund beneficiaries”.¹⁸

IV.4 The appeal will not hinder the progress of the action

[50] The petitioners argue that the Wabush CCAA Parties are undergoing a court-supervised sales process in accordance with timelines and procedures that are supervised by the CCAA Judge with the oversight of the monitor. In the circumstances, they say, the proposed appeal, especially if it were placed on an accelerated roll, would not hinder the progress of the action. They contend, to differing degrees, that the CCAA Judge erred in his measure of the financial vulnerability of the Wabush CCAA Parties. Mindful no doubt of the difficulty that this aspect of the analysis presents to their leave application, the Salaried Members “part company” (to use the expression of counsel) with the Union in framing their appeal more narrowly, in particular in respect of the recognition that the DIP loan enjoys a wider priority than does the Union, and in limiting their claim in respect of the payments that should escape suspension.

[51] Given the findings of fact concerning the fragility of the Wabush CCAA Parties as observed by the CCAA Judge, I find the positions of both petitioners on this point unconvincing. Even the “strategic” decision of the Salaried Members to contest the judgment on a narrower basis does not satisfy this criterion. In my view, both proposed appeals would unduly hinder the action.

[52] My conclusion is based largely on the findings of fact arrived at by the CCAA Judge regarding the vulnerability of the Wabush CCAA Parties at this stage of the restructuring.

[53] In canvassing the circumstances in which the interim financing was put in place, the CCAA Judge observed that the cash-flow position of the Wabush CCAA Parties was compromised with the result that they needed the interim financing to continue even their limited operations during the CCAA process (para. [16]). The CCAA Judge made the following specific findings, which I consider to be findings of fact: (1) that the sale and investor solicitation process in progress are in the interests of the Wabush CCAA Parties and their stakeholders because they will likely lead to a greater recovery; (2) that without new financing, the Wabush CCAA Parties could not complete the sale; (3) that without new financing allowing them to complete the sale, it is likely that the Wabush CCAA Parties will go bankrupt; (4) that the Wabush CCAA Parties and the monitor have not identified any other source of new financing; and (5) that the terms of the interim financing are reasonable (para. [94]).

¹⁸ Indalex, supra note 12, para. [59].

[54] When discussing the suspension of special payments, the CCAA Judge observed, at para. [112]:

[112] The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have the funds available to make these payments. The cash flow statements filed with the Court show that the Wabush CCAA Parties need the funds from the Interim Financing to meet their current obligations other than the special payments. The Interim Lender Term Sheet expressly requires the Wabush CCAA Parties not to make any special payments. As a result, forcing the Wabush CCAA Parties to make the special payments would lead to a default under the Interim Financing and a likely bankruptcy.

[Footnote omitted.]

[55] In respect of the suspension of the OPEBs – including what the Salaried Members characterize as the modest premiums of $182,000 per month and the supplemental retirement arrangement plan amount – the CCAA Judge recalled at para. [122] that “[t]he Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding valuable to continue to pay any of the foregoing OPEBs, as the Interim Financing Sheet prohibits such payments”. In para. [125], the CCAA Judge explained that it was not enough to say, as did the Salaried Members, that $182,000 and the supplemental amount could be found elsewhere if the interim lending sheet prevents them from making the payments: “Given the cash flow statement filed with the Court and the language of the Interim Lender Sheet, the Court accepts that the Wabush CCAA Parties do not have the funds”.

[56] These findings of fact, while not immune from review, are deserving of deference on appeal. It is not enough to say, without more, that the amount is a small one in the grand scheme of things, as do the Salaried Members, or that another interim lender could be found without difficulty as the action proceeds. The CCAA Judge decided specifically otherwise. A reviewable error would have to be shown on this point to overcome the strong impression that comes from reading the judgment that granting leave and suspending provisional execution would hinder the action.

[57] In like circumstances, leave has been denied. Recently in Bock inc. (arrangement relative à),¹⁹ my colleague Bich, J.A. declined to grant leave, notwithstanding the presence of a question she characterized as “interesting” for the purposes of an eventual appeal and one in respect of which, like ours, there was a paucity of appellate court consideration. “Granting leave to appeal”, she wrote at para. [12] of her reasons, “would most likely jeopardize the course of the action and cause irreparable harm to the debtor company and, consequently, all other stakeholders (creditors, employees, etc.)”. Similarly, in Re: Consumer Packaging Inc.,²⁰ a bench of the Court of Appeal for Ontario declined to grant leave in circumstances where conditions set by the interim lender meant that the time and financial constraints that would have come with an appeal were prohibitive: “Leave to appeal should not be granted”, wrote the Court at para. [5], “where, as in the present case, granting leave would be prejudicial to restructuring the business for the benefit of stakeholders as a whole [...]”.²¹

[58] All told, the risk of default on the interim financing and of bankruptcy to the Wabush CCAA Parties is serious. Granting leave would, in this setting, risk hindering the action. If leave were granted, the petitioners would likely obtain, at best, a Pyrrhic victory if they succeeded on appeal.

[59] Given my conclusion that leave should be denied, the motions seeking a stay of the judgment pursuant to article 550 C.C.P. are without further object and should be dismissed as well. In any event, the conditions necessary for a stay were not present. While the petitioners have, to be sure, shown that they have an arguable case, they have not pointed to something I would characterize as a weakness in the judgment quo. They did satisfy the burden of showing that the failure to grant a stay would cause them harm. However, the balance of inconvenience – considering the impact that lifting the stay would have on the Wabush CCAA Parties – would not have favoured granting a stay.

[60] Counsel should be commended for their helpful presentation of the matter in dispute.

[61] FOR THE AFOREMENTIONED REASONS: the undersigned:

[62] DISMISSES the Salaried Members motion for leave to appeal and for a stay, with costs;

²¹ As a final observation on this point, it may be recalled that, prudently, the CCAA Judge offered a further observation that gives weight, I think, to the conclusion that granting leave would be inopportune here. He suggested that even if the PBSA deemed trusts were effective in CCAA proceedings, he would have exercised his discretion under the CCAA to grant priority to the interim lender: see para. [95].

JUDGMENT ON THE CCAA PARTIES' MOTION FOR THE ISSUANCE OF AN ORDER APPROVING THE ALLOCATION
METHODOLOGY AND OTHER RELIEF (#516)
AND THE NOTICE OF OBJECTION OF VILLE DE FERMONT

INTRODUCTION

[1] The Court is asked to approve an allocation methodology developed by the Monitor to allocate the proceeds of realization from asset sale transactions and the costs of the CCAA proceedings on a principled basis among the CCAA Parties and, where necessary, among their assets. The Court is also asked to authorize the repayment of some post-filing inter-company indebtedness and the payment of undisputed outstanding property taxes.

[2] One secured creditor opposes the allocation methodology because it argues that the methodology produces an inequitable result when it is applied to the proceeds of sale of certain assets over which the secured creditor claims priority.

CONTEXT

[3] The CCAA Parties initiated proceedings under the *Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act*¹ on January 27, 2015 for the Bloom Lake Parties and May 20, 2015 for the Wabush Mines Parties.

[4] Since those dates, the CCAA Parties entered into sixteen asset sale transactions in which they sold substantially all of their assets.

[5] With respect to each asset sale transaction, the Court issued an Approval and Vesting Order which generally provided, inter alia, the following provisions:

- The assets vested in the purchaser free and clear of any security;
- The security attached to the net proceeds from the sale; and
- The net proceeds were held by the Monitor on behalf of the creditors, pending further order of the Court.

[6] As of June 16, 2017, the total amount held by the Monitor from the asset sales and from other sources was $157,989,000.² With the sale of the Wabush Mine, that amount now exceeds $160 million.

[7] The Monitor developed the Proposed Allocation Methodology to allocate the proceeds of realization and the costs on a principled basis. The Monitor summarizes his methodology as follows:

- (a) Realizations from transactions would be allocated amongst specific assets and specific CCAA Parties as set out in each transaction agreement, which, in each case, are the allocations proposed by an arm's length purchaser;
- (b) Non-transaction related realizations specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated to that CCAA Party. For example cash on hand at the commencement of the CCAA Proceedings and collection of accounts receivable;
- (c) Non-transaction related realizations not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated pro-rata based on total realizations. For example, interest on funds held by the Monitor;
- (d) Costs specifically attributable to an asset or asset category would be applied to that asset or category. For example, railcar storage fees would be applied against railcar proceeds;
- (e) Costs specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated to that CCAA Party. For example, Bloom Lake mine and Wabush Mine direct operating costs would be allocated to BLLP and to Wabush Mine JV respectively;
- (f) Costs not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated pro-rata based on net realizations after specifically attributable costs. For example, costs of management and legal and professional costs. Within this category, legal and professional fees billed on the Bloom Lake accounts will be allocated amongst the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, legal and professional fees billed on the Wabush accounts will be allocated amongst the Wabush CCAA Parties and legal and professional fees billed on the joint Bloom/Wabush accounts will be allocated amongst all of the CCAA Parties; and
- (g) As the Wabush Mines joint venture is not a legal entity, it does not have assets and liabilities in its own right. Accordingly any realizations and costs notionally allocated to Wabush Mines in the foregoing steps would be allocated to the joint venturers, WICL and WRI, based on their respective joint venture interests.³

[8] The CCAA Parties asked the Court to approve the Proposed Allocation Methodology and to authorize the repayment of some post-filing inter-company indebtedness and the payment of undisputed outstanding property taxes.

[9] A number of creditors objected, principally on the basis that they did not have sufficient information or time to take a position. Concerns were also raised as to whether the Proposed Allocation Methodology and the proposed payments were prejudicial to the potential deemed trusts relating to Pension claims.⁴

[10] The hearing originally scheduled for May 31, 2017 was postponed to June 26, 2017. During that period, the concerns raised by the creditors other than Ville de Fermont were resolved and their objections were withdrawn.

[11] Ville de Fermont maintained its objection and refined its position. It no longer objects to the Proposed Allocation Methodology generally, but it argues that the Proposed Allocation Methodology produces an inequitable result when it is applied to the proceeds of the sale of the Bloom Lake mine and related assets to Québec Iron Ore Inc. and that it should be varied in that instance. It does not contest the repayment of the post-filing inter-company indebtedness and the payment of undisputed outstanding property taxes but argues that the payment that it receives should be greater.

ANALYSIS

1. Proposed Allocation Methodology generally

[12] The Proposed Allocation Methodology is intended to allocate all realizations and costs among the various CCAA Parties and, to the extent necessary, among various assets or asset categories.

[13] The Monitor has developed the Proposed Allocation Methodology on a principled basis, without reference to the result for any specific creditor. In other words, the Monitor developed rules that would be applied in the same way to each realization and cost as opposed to allocating each realization and cost on a case-by-case basis.

[14] Allocating realizations and costs on a case-by-case basis would inevitably lead to disputes as different creditors are treated differently. The better approach is to develop a methodology applicable to all situations.

[15] However, it is important to recognize that a general methodology may not work in all circumstances and that the parties have the right to challenge the general methodology if it produces an inequitable result in particular circumstances.

[16] The Court will review the Proposed Allocation Methodology in a general way in this section, and will review the particular application to the Bloom Lake mine proceeds in a separate section. The Court has the power to intervene, whether at the general level or in a specific matter, to ensure that the creditors are treated equitably.⁵

[17] To the extent that it is necessary to allocate the proceeds of a single transaction among different CCAA Parties (in the event of multiple vendors) or different assets or categories of assets (in the event that there are multiple assets or categories of assets and different secured creditors with claims against different assets or categories of assets), the Proposed Allocation Methodology uses as a starting point the contractual allocation of the purchase price among the vendors and among the assets.

[18] The contractual allocation of the purchase price is a reasonable starting point, on the assumption that it is an allocation done by an arm's length third party who has no interest in the allocation of the proceeds.

[19] However, the contractual allocation will be not be given the same weight if the creditor can demonstrate that (1) that the purchaser is not at arm's length, (2) that the purchaser has an interest in the allocation of the proceeds, either because it or a related party is a creditor or because it made a deal with a creditor, or (3) that the CCAA Parties negotiated the allocation.

[20] In the present matter, the Monitor testified that the purchasers were typically asked to provide allocations and that the vendors accepted the allocations without negotiation. In those circumstances, we can assume that the purchaser's allocation of the purchase price reflects the purchaser's assessment of the relative value of the assets purchased.

[21] However, even if the purchaser is an arm's length third party with no interest in the allocation of the proceeds, it will nevertheless be open to a creditor to demonstrate that a particular contractual allocation is not reasonable.

[22] Typically, there will be two ways to demonstrate that the purchaser's contractual allocation of the price is not reasonable (1) the purchaser had a reason to allocate the purchase price in a way that does not reflect its assessment of the relative value of the assets, or (2) the purchaser's assessment of the relative value of the assets is clearly wrong.

[23] The burden will be on the creditor challenging the contractual allocation. It will generally not be sufficient to simply say that the purchaser's allocation was tax-driven in the sense that the purchaser may want to allocate more or less of the purchase price to certain assets or categories of assets because of the tax treatment of certain categories of assets, first because there are always tax considerations and second because, even then, the allocation must be reasonable in order to withstand scrutiny by the taxation authorities.

[24] To establish that the purchaser's assessment of the relative value of the assets is clearly wrong, the creditor will have to demonstrate a significant departure from the relative value of the assets.

[25] For the non-transaction related realizations, the Methodology divides them into those specifically attributable to a CCAA Party (such as cash on hand at the commencement of the proceedings and accounts receivable collected), and those which are not (such as interest). Those which are specifically attributable to a CCAA Party are attributed to that party, and those which are not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party are allocated pro rata to the realizations. That seems reasonable.

[26] For costs, the approach is similar:

- Costs specifically attributable to an asset or asset category (e.g. storage fees) are applied to that asset or category;
- Costs specifically attributable to a CCAA Party (e.g. mine operating costs) are allocated to that CCAA Party; and
- Costs not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party (e.g. management and legal and professional fees) are allocated pro rata based on net realizations.

[27] The Monitor represented that the Proposed Allocation Methodology is consistent with the allocation methodology approved in the Timminco Limited and Bécancour Silicon Inc. CCAA proceedings.⁶

[28] For all of the foregoing reasons, the Court will approve the Proposed Allocation Methodology, subject to the objection by Ville de Fermont.

2. Proposed repayment and payments

[29] The CCAA Parties also ask the Court to authorize the repayment of certain inter-company funding and the payment of uncontested property taxes due.

[30] These conclusions are not contested by any creditor, except that Ville de Fermont suggests that more of its claim should be paid.

[31] The proposed repayment to Bloom Lake LP by CQIM relates to advances in the amount of approximately $4.1 million made by Bloom Lake LP to CQIM pursuant to the Bloom Lake Initial Order. The Court is satisfied that the Monitor holds sufficient funds to repay those amounts and that it is appropriate to repay those amounts now to avoid further interest charges.

[32] The partial payment of property taxes relates to amounts that (1) are not contested,⁷ (2) have priority, and (3) are not subject to any prior security including the potential deemed trusts relating to Pension claims.

[33] The Monitor explains that he will not know how much is payable until the Proposed Allocation Methodology is approved and the billing information is updated. He anticipates that there will be amounts payable by Bloom Lake LLP to Ville de Fermont and by CQIM to Ville de Sept-Îles.

[34] Given the preconditions to any such payment and given that the payment will be in the interest of the estate because interest will stop running, the Court will authorize the payments.

[35] It is in the interest of the estate that these amounts be paid or repaid notwithstanding any appeal. The Court will order provisional execution of this portion of its judgment.

3. Allocation of the Bloom Lake mine sale proceeds

[36] The Bloom Lake CCAA Parties sold the Bloom Lake mine and related assets to Québec Iron Ore Inc. on December 11, 2015. The Court issued an Approval and Vesting Order on January 27, 2016, and the transaction closed on April 11, 2016.

[37] The cash portion of the purchase price was $10.5 million. The purchaser also assumed certain liabilities. The Asset Purchase Agreement included at Schedule R an allocation of the cash portion of the purchase price as between the various sellers. At the request of the Monitor, the purchaser provided a more detailed allocation of the cash portion of the purchase price among the various assets or categories of assets.⁸ The Monitor testified that the contractual allocation was accepted by the CCAA Parties without negotiation.

[38] Ville de Fermont did not contest the sale and it does not now contest the purchase price. Its contestation is limited to the contractual allocation as between three categories of assets in the total amount of $6.9 million:⁹

⁷ There are substantial unpaid municipal taxes owed to Ville de Fermont, but, as described below, the municipal evaluations are challenged. As a result, the undisputed amount is only $3.4 million (see 36th Report, par. 45).

TOTAL	$6,900,000

[39] The first two categories of assets, to which the purchaser allocated $2,900,000, represent the mine. The third category, Fermont housing, includes a property referred to as the "hotel" and 28 residences Fermont, divided as follows:¹⁰

"Hotel"	$2,909,489.77
28 residences (values varying between $15,718.95 and $56,168.43)	$1,090,510.23
TOTAL	$4,000,000

[40] The purchaser allocated the $4,000,000 among the residential properties pro rata to their municipal evaluations: the portion of the purchase price allocated to each residential property is equal to 15.8% of the municipal evaluation of that property.¹¹

[41] Ville de Fermont argues that the contractual allocation of the $6.9 million between the mine and the residential properties is unreasonable and that the purchaser undervalued the mine. It argues that the Court should substitute an allocation of the $6.9 million which is proportional to the municipal evaluations of the properties.¹²

	Municipal evaluations	Allocation of price
Mine buildings	$314,710,000 ¹³	$6,324,370
Mine immoveable	$3,299,000 ¹⁴	$66,296
"Hotel"	$18,435,400 ¹⁵	$509,334
28 Residences	$6,909,800
TOTAL	$343,354,200	$6,900,000

[42] The Monitor argued that it was reasonable for the purchaser to place relatively little value on the mine and more value on the residential properties, because the mine is more of a liability than an asset in that it is not operational and has costs of $1.5 million per month and significant environmental obligations. In any event, the Monitor argues that all parties agree that the residential properties are worth more than $4 million such that allocating $4 million to the residential properties cannot be unreasonable.

[43] The two positions lead to very different results. The taxes owing to Ville de Fermont on the mine are in the range of $16-18 million and the taxes owing on the residential properties are only $500,000-600,000. As a result, using the contractual allocation, Ville de Fermont receives $2.9 million from the mine and $500,000-600,000 from the residential properties, for a total of $3.4-3.5 million. Using Ville de Fermont's proposed allocation, it receives the full $6.9 million. In other words, Ville de Fermont receives an additional $3.4-3.5 million on its proposed allocation.

[44] As mentioned above, the purchaser was asked to provide the contractual allocation and it was accepted by the CCAA Parties without negotiation. There is no suggestion that the purchaser is not at arm's length or that the purchaser has any interest in the allocation of the proceeds. As a result, the Court will presume that the contractual allocation is reasonable and the burden is on Ville de Fermont to prove that it is not.

[45] Ville de Fermont first suggests that the purchaser had an interest in skewing the contractual allocation to give less value to the mine and more value to the residential properties. It suggests that the purchaser was motivated by tax considerations – it would improve its position in a subsequent sale. However, there was no proof of this interest. Moreover, if, as the CCAA Parties suggest, the purchaser's assessment was that the houses were more likely to be sold and it was trying to reduce the capital gain on a subsequent sale of the houses, that would suggest that allocating more value to the houses was reasonable.

[46] Ville de Fermont also suggests that the contractual allocation may be intended to help the purchaser with its challenge of the municipal evaluation of the mine. Again there is no proof of any such intent. Further, whether the purchaser allocates $2.9 million or $6.3 million of the purchase price to the mine will not likely make much difference when it is attempting to reduce the municipal evaluation from $318,009,000 to $50,000,000.

[47] The principal argument put forward by Ville de Fermont is that the allocation should be proportional to the municipal evaluations.¹⁶

[48] It is clear that the municipal evaluation of the mine bears little relationship with its current value. The municipal evaluation of the mine is $318,009,000. Ville de Fermont defended the municipal evaluation, arguing that it represented only 15% of the total amount invested of $2 billion. However, the amount invested is not necessarily the same as value. The mine, together with the residential properties, sold for a total of $6.9 million after a sale process. That must be taken to be the current market value of the properties. The purchaser allocated $2.9 million of the price to the mine and Ville de Fermont argues that it should be $6.3 million. Whether the mine is worth 1% of its municipal evaluation or 2%, it is clear that the municipal evaluation does not reflect the value of the mine.

[49] Further, the municipal evaluation of the mine is contested. The CCAA Parties seek to reduce the municipal evaluation of the mine properties from a total of $318,009,000 to $105,000,000 for 2013-14-15 and to $50,000,000 for 2016-17-18. That challenge is being continued by the purchaser. The CCAA Parties also seek a reduction of the municipal evaluation of the hotel from $12,786,600 to $6,393,000 in 2013-14-15, and the purchaser seeks a reduction from $18,435,400 to $2,500,000 in 2016-17-18.¹⁷ The CCAA Parties and the purchaser do not seek any reduction for the houses.

¹⁶ The Skeena case cited by Ville de Fermont does not support its position. In that case, the City of Prince Rupert, as secured creditor for unpaid property taxes, objected to the allocation of costs to the unsold property based on its appraised value, because the appraisal (which was substantially lower than the municipal evaluation) overstated the value of the property (New Skeena Forest Products Inc. v. Kitwanga Lumber Co., 2005 BCCA 192, par. 250).

[50] The CCAA Parties put forward arguments as to why they contest the municipal evaluation of the mine: the evaluation was established in 2011 and was not adjusted since then to take into account changes in the price of iron ore; and the evaluation was increased by $140 million because of Phase II, which was never completed. Moreover, as set out above, the mine is not operational, and has costs of $1.5 million per month and significant environmental liabilities.

[51] The Court can only conclude that the municipal evaluation of the mine is not a reliable indication of its value.

[52] In any event, Ville de Fermont does not argue that the mine is worth $318 million. In arguing for a pro rata allocation, Ville de Fermont is arguing instead for the notion of relative evaluations: if the mine is worth only 2% of its municipal evaluation, then the residential properties should be worth only 2% of their municipal evaluations.

[53] This argument carries more weight when the properties are more similar. In fact, in its contractual allocation, the purchaser applied the notion of proportionality to the residential properties: they were each allocated 15.8% of their municipal evaluations.

[54] However, in principle, the factors that determine the value of a mine (quantity of remaining iron ore, price of iron ore, operating costs) are very different from the factors that determine the value of a house (characteristics of the house and the local housing market). The value of one need not track the other.

[55] Ville de Fermont argued that the local housing market was closely tied to the mine: if the mine reopens, the residential properties have value, but if the mine does not reopen, the residential properties are worth nothing since there is no demand for them. As a result, Ville de Fermont argues that either both the mine and the residential properties have value or neither has value. In either event, Ville de Fermont argues that the residential properties cannot be worth more than the mine.

[56] This led to a debate between the two witnesses as to the potential market for the residential properties if the mine does not reopen. The Monitor testified that the residential properties have value even if the mine stays shut, because the Fire Lake North project is only 40 kilometres away and the government has announced that the road link to Fermont is being improved. The evaluator for Ville de Fermont testified that the Fire Lake North project will not create a demand for housing in Fermont: it is 90 kilometres away on a bad road, there are already 140 housing units in Fire Lake, and Arcelor purchased the Mont Wright camp which has additional residential units.

[57] This proof is inconclusive. In the absence of better proof, Ville de Fermont has not satisfied its burden of showing that the contractual allocation is unreasonable. As a result, the objection of Ville de Fermont will be dismissed, and the Proposed Allocation Methodology will be approved without any modification.

500-11-048114-157

FOR THESE REASONS, THE COURT:

[58] GRANTS the CCAA Parties' Motion for the Issuance of an Order Approving the Allocation Methodology and Other Relief (#516).

[59] APPROVES the following allocation methodology, including the purchase price allocations in the purchase and sale transactions approved by the Court:

- (a) Realizations from transactions would be allocated amongst specific assets and specific CCAA Parties as set out in each transaction agreement, which, in each case, are the allocations proposed by an arm's length purchaser;
- (b) Non-transaction related realizations specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated to that CCAA Party. For example cash on hand at the commencement of the CCAA Proceedings and collection of accounts receivable;
- (c) Non-transaction related realizations not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated pro-rata based on total realizations. For example, interest on funds held by the Monitor;
- (d) Costs specifically attributable to an asset or asset category would be applied to that asset or category. For example, railcar storage fees would be applied against railcar proceeds;
- (e) Costs specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated to that CCAA Party. For example, Bloom Lake mine and Wabush Mine direct operating costs would be allocated to BLLP and to Wabush Mine JV respectively;
- (f) Costs not specifically attributable to a CCAA Party would be allocated pro-rata based on net realizations after specifically attributable costs. For example, costs of management and legal and professional costs. Within this category, legal and professional fees billed on the Bloom Lake accounts will be allocated amongst the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, legal and professional fees billed on the Wabush accounts will be allocated amongst the Wabush CCAA Parties and legal and professional fees billed on the joint Bloom/Wabush accounts will be allocated amongst all of the CCAA Parties; and
- (g) As the Wabush Mines joint venture is not a legal entity, it does not have assets and liabilities in its own right. Accordingly any realizations and costs notionally allocated to Wabush Mines in the foregoing steps would be allocated to the joint venturers, WICL and WRI, based on their respective joint venture interests.

500-11-048114-157

[60] PERMITS the repayment of approximately $4.1 million advanced by Bloom Lake LP to CQIM since the start of the CCAA Proceeding.

[61] PERMITS the payment on account of outstanding property taxes owed by the CCAA Parties for any portion of the outstanding property taxes that are not in dispute or otherwise contested, provided that:

- (a) there exists no competing claim which may rank equal or higher to the outstanding property taxes pursuant to a security or priority (including the Pension Claims at stake in the Monitor's Motion for Directions with respect to Pension Claims); and
- (b) the proceeds of sale available further to the application of the allocation methodology are sufficient to do so.

[62] ORDERS the provisional execution of conclusions 60 and 61 of this Judgment, notwithstanding any appeal and without the necessity of furnishing any security.

[63] WITHOUT COSTS.

JUGEMENT SUR LES REQUÊTES POUR JUGEMENT DÉCLARATOIRE DE SOCIÉTÉ FERROVIAIRE ET PORTUAIRE DE POINTE-NOIRE S.E.C. (#393) ET ADMINISTRATION PORTUAIRE DE SEPT-ÎLES/SEPT-ÎLES PORT AUTHORITY (#389)

INTRODUCTION

CONTEXTE

[2] Les débitrices font l'objet d'ordonnances initiales prononcées en vertu de la LACC le 27 janvier 2015, pour les parties Bloom et le 20 mai 2015, pour les parties Wabush.

[3] Les débitrices sont propriétaires de plusieurs immeubles dans la municipalité de la Ville de Sept-Îles.

[6] Les immeubles sont vendus aux requérantes en mars 2016.

[7] Ces ventes sont le résultat d'un processus :

- Un processus de sollicitation d'offres est approuvé par le Tribunal le 17 avril 2015 et modifié le 9 juin 2015⁵;

² Pièce M-3. Les montants mentionnés dans ce jugement sont à parfaire selon la Ville et ne sont pas admis par les requérantes. Le Tribunal inclut ces montants qu'à titre indicatif.

- Investissement Québec, à titre de mandataire du gouvernement du Québec, dépose une offre afin d'acquérir certains actifs de certaines des débitrices, dont les immeubles;
- Les vendeurs, de concert avec le contrôleur et un consultant, déterminent que l'offre d'IQ est l'offre conforme la plus élevée;
- IQ et les vendeurs négocient une convention d'achat d'actifs signée le 23 décembre 2015⁶;
- Les vendeurs exercent l'option de soustraire des actifs vendus à IQ, un terrain connu comme le bloc Z;
- Le 26 janvier 2016, les vendeurs signent une convention d'achat d'actifs pour vendre le bloc Z à Administration portuaire de Sept-Îles;
- Le 1^{er} février 2016, IQ cède ses droits à Société ferroviaire et portuaire de Pointe-Noire S.E.C.;
- Les achats par Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire sont conditionnels au prononcé d'ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution prévoyant que les acheteurs acquièrent les immeubles libres de toute charge et que le produit des transactions est assujéti aux charges au lieu et place des immeubles;
- Le 1^{er} février 2016, le Tribunal autorise les deux ventes par ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution⁷; et
- Les 8 et 10 mars 2016, les immeubles sont vendus à Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire⁸.

[8] Le contrôleur détient le produit des ventes en attendant les directives du Tribunal quant à sa distribution.

⁸ Pièce R-10 est l'acte de vente à l'Administration portuaire, et les pièces P-4 et R-5 sont les certificats de contrôleur.

[10] Suite aux ventes, le 23 mars 2016, la Ville invoque l'article 2.2.5 de son Règlement de lotissement¹⁰, qui exige le paiement des taxes municipales exigibles et impayées comme condition préalable à l'approbation d'un plan-projet de lotissement, pour refuser de délivrer le permis de lotissement demandé par Administration portuaire quant au bloc Z, tant que les arrérages de taxes municipales ne sont pas payés¹¹.

[11] Le 4 avril 2016, Société ferroviaire remet à la Ville un chèque de 746 139,65 $ en paiement partiel (pour la période du 8 mars 2016 au 30 avril 2016) du premier versement des taxes de l'année 2016¹². Le 31 mai 2016, Société ferroviaire fait parvenir à la Ville un chèque de 1 667 806,38 $ pour acquitter le deuxième versement.

[13] Le 8 septembre 2016, Société ferroviaire fait parvenir à la Ville un chèque de 1 667 806,38 $ avec instructions de n'imputer ce paiement qu'au troisième versement des taxes de l'année 2016¹⁴.

[14] Le 14 septembre 2016, la Ville retourne le dernier chèque en indiquant que Société ferroviaire est responsable de l'ensemble des taxes échues en fonction de l'article 498 de la *Loi sur les cités et villes*¹⁵ et que la Ville doit imputer tout paiement sur les taxes municipales échues les plus anciennes selon le *Code civil du Québec*¹⁶.

[15] Dans ce contexte, Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire déposent des demandes de jugement déclaratoire le 3 octobre 2016. Elles demandent au Tribunal de déclarer qu'elles ne sont pas responsables, à quelque titre que ce soit, des taxes pour la période avant le 8 ou le 10 mars 2016.

POSITION DES PARTIES

¹⁰ Règlement numéro 2007-104 (pièce M-7). Le règlement est autorisé par l'article 115, alinéa 11 de la Loi sur l'aménagement et l'urbanisme, RLRQ, ch. A-19.1.

[17] Elles ajoutent que la Ville est protégée parce que le produit des ventes est assujéti aux charges de la Ville au lieu et place des immeubles.

[18] La Ville reconnaît que sa priorité pour les taxes municipales doit s'exercer contre le produit des ventes et non pas contre les immeubles, en raison des ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution.

[19] Toutefois, elle plaide que les dispositions de la LCV et du Règlement de lotissement continuent de s'appliquer. Elle demande au Tribunal de déclarer que Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire sont responsables de toute taxe sur les immeubles achetés pour la période postérieure au 21 décembre 2015.

ANALYSE

1. Les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution

[20] Les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution prévoient ce qui suit :

[13] ORDERS and DECLARES that upon the issuance of a Monitor's certificate substantially in the form appended as Schedule "A" hereto (the "Certificate"), all rights, title and interest in and to the Purchased Assets shall vest absolutely and exclusively in and with the Purchaser, free and clear from any and all right, title, benefits, priorities, claims (including claims provable in bankruptcy in the event that the Vendors should be adjudged bankrupt), liabilities (direct, indirect, absolute or contingent), obligations, interests, prior claims, security interests (whether contractual, statutory or otherwise), liens, charges, hypothecs, mortgages, pledges, trusts, deemed trusts (whether contractual, statutory, or otherwise), assignments, judgments, executions, writs of seizure or execution, notices of sale, options, agreements, rights of distress, legal, equitable or contractual setoff, adverse claims, levies, taxes, disputes, debts, charges, options to purchase, rights of first refusal or other pre-emptive rights in favour of third parties, restrictions on transfer of title, or other claims or encumbrances, whether or not they have attached or been perfected, registered, published or filed and whether secured, unsecured or otherwise (collectively, the "Encumbrances"), including without limiting the generality of the foregoing all Encumbrances created by order of this Court and all charges, security interests or charges evidenced by registration, publication or filing pursuant to the Civil Code of Québec, or any other applicable legislation providing for a security interest in personal or movable property, excluding however, the permitted encumbrances, easements and restrictive covenants listed on Schedule "B" hereto (the "Permitted Encumbrances") and, for greater certainty, ORDERS that all of the Encumbrances affecting or relating to the Purchased Assets, other than the Permitted Encumbrances, be expunged and discharged as against the Purchased Assets, in each case effective as of the applicable time and date of the Certificate.

[21] ORDERS that for the purposes of determining the nature and priority of the Encumbrances, the balance of the Proceeds remaining following deduction for applicable Cure Costs (if any) and Transfer Taxes (if any is payable) that are remitted by the Monitor pursuant to Paragraph 20 of this Order (the "Net Proceeds") shall stand in the place and stead of the Purchased Assets, and that upon the issuance of the Certificate, all Encumbrances except for the Permitted Encumbrances shall attach to the Net Proceeds with the same priority as they had with respect to the Purchased Assets immediately prior to the Closing, as if the Purchased Assets had not been sold and remained in the possession or control of the person having that possession or control immediately prior to the Closing.

(Nous soulignons)

[21] La Ville ne remet pas en question la validité des ordonnances. De toute façon, il serait trop tard pour elle de le faire¹⁷ :

[20] In this case, the A&V Order [Approval and Vesting Order] determined the rights of the parties represented in that proceeding in respect of the assets that were the subject of the sale. Although Herbal Care had not been given notice and was not represented at the hearing giving rise to the A&V Order, this non-participation does not, in my view, impact on this motion. Herbal Care took no steps after becoming aware of the A&V Order to set aside or vary the A&V Order and did not appeal the A&V Order. Herbal Care is, in my view, bound by the terms of the A&V Order.

[23] Il est évident qu'un acheteur paiera moins cher s'il achète avec le risque de se faire poursuivre pour les dettes de son vendeur¹⁸. Le but des ordonnances est de permettre aux débitrices de vendre au meilleur prix possible, au bénéfice de l'ensemble des créanciers, sans toutefois préjudicier les créanciers garantis et les créanciers prioritaires.

[24] Cette façon de faire est expressément reconnue et permise par l'article 36(6) LACC :

(6) Le tribunal peut autoriser la disposition d'actifs de la compagnie, purgés de toute charge, sûreté ou autre restriction, et, le cas échéant, est tenu d'assujettir le produit de la disposition ou d'autres de ses actifs à une charge, sûreté ou autre restriction en faveur des créanciers touchés par la purge.

[25] La Ville ne conteste pas que sa priorité pour les taxes municipales en vertu des articles 2651(5) et 2654.1 C.c.Q. est purgée par les ordonnances et se rattache au produit des ventes plutôt qu'aux immeubles. Le Tribunal n'a pas à décider, à ce stade, de la priorité entre la Ville et les autres créanciers ou de l'obligation du contrôleur de payer les taxes après les ordonnances initiales. Il suffit de noter que la Ville a la même priorité et les mêmes droits contre le produit des ventes qu'elle avait contre les immeubles.

[26] Dans le présent dossier, la Ville plaide qu'elle a (1) un droit personnel contre les requérantes pour les arrérages de taxes en vertu de l'article 498 LCV, et (2) le droit de refuser de délivrer un permis de lotissement en vertu de son Règlement de lotissement tant que les arrérages ne sont pas payés.

2. Article 498 LCV

[27] La Ville plaide que l'article 498 LCV lui donne un recours personnel contre l'acheteur d'un immeuble pour les taxes municipales impayées sur cet immeuble, même si les taxes ont été imposées pour une période antérieure à l'achat :

498. Les taxes municipales imposées sur un immeuble peuvent être réclamées aussi bien du locataire, de l'occupant ou autre possesseur de cet immeuble que du propriétaire, de même que de tout acquéreur subséquent de cet immeuble, lors même que tel locataire, occupant, possesseur ou acquéreur ne sont pas inscrits sur le rôle d'évaluation.

(Nous soulignons)

[28] Elle plaide que la purge des charges n'affecte pas ses recours personnels, dont le recours personnel contre l'acheteur.

[29] La Ville cite à l'appui de cet argument la décision du juge Gascon, alors à cette cour, dans *AbitibiBowater*¹⁹ :

[9] As worded, the Vesting Orders will not, however, exempt the Purchaser from environmental obligations in respect of the Properties. ...

[11] Contrary to what some of the Provinces have argued, the Vesting Orders, as they will be issued, will not extinguish the Provinces existing remedies, if any, under their statutes against a former owner or occupier resulting from past environmental obligations or liabilities.

...

[13] In the Court's opinion, the Vesting Orders, as sought and as granted, do not, in and of themselves, compromise such potential environmental liabilities of Abitibi towards the Provinces

¹⁹ 2010 QCCS 4294, par. 9, 11 et 13.

500-11-048114-157

[30] La Ville s'appuie en particulier sur le paragraphe 9 du jugement, où le juge Gascon semble imposer des obligations à l'acheteur de l'immeuble.

[31] Toutefois, il faut mettre ce paragraphe dans son contexte. La débitrice vendait l'immeuble à sa filiale et l'ordonnance de dévolution prévoyait expressément qu'elle n'affectait pas les obligations de la filiale comme acheteur de l'immeuble :

[6.1] ORDERS AND DECLARES that subject to any other or further order of this Court, nothing in this Order reduces or makes inapplicable (i) any obligation under any enactment of the Province of New Brunswick that the Vendors or the Purchaser or any other person may have by virtue of having been or becoming the owner or operator of the Purchased Assets or any of them, or (ii) any consent by, approval of, notice to or other similar requirement involving the provincial government or a regional or municipal government under any enactment of the Province of New Brunswick relating to the transfer of the Purchased Assets or any of them. Nothing in this paragraph shall change in any way the provisions of paragraph 14 of this Court's Re-Amended Receivership Order in respect of 4513541 Canada Inc. dated September 1, 2010.

(Nous soulignons)

[32] Donc, lorsque le juge Gascon dit au paragraphe 9, « As worded, the Vesting Orders will not, however, exempt the Purchaser from environmental obligations in respect of the Properties », il ne fait que répéter ce que l'ordonnance prévoit. Les paragraphes 11 et 13 ne traitent que des obligations du vendeur.

[33] La professeure Sarra se penche sur ce jugement et conclut seulement que l'ordonnance de dévolution n'affecte pas la responsabilité de l'ancien propriétaire ou occupant quant aux obligations passées²⁰ :

The vesting orders would not extinguish the Provinces' existing remedies, if any, under their statutes against a former owner or occupier resulting from past environmental obligations or liabilities.

(Nous soulignons)

[34] Elle ajoute aussi une mise en garde en précisant que le dossier AbitibiBowater commence avant l'entrée en vigueur des amendements de 2009, dont l'article 36 LACC.

[35] En conséquence, le juge Gascon n'établit aucunement un principe selon lequel les ordonnances de dévolution, en vertu de l'article 36(6) LACC, ne peuvent exempter l'acheteur des obligations personnelles qui lui sont imposées par une loi provinciale.

n'est pas responsable pour la portion d'un ajustement de taxes ayant lieu après son achat, mais portant en partie sur la période avant l'achat²¹ :

[27] Having regard to the broad and inclusive language used in clauses 11 and 12, I am satisfied that the increased realty taxes at issue fall within those provisions. Those taxes are properly characterized as a future claim for realty taxes that existed at the time of closing but remained to be quantified. As such, it cannot be said to be "contingent" because liability for the increased taxes to the date of closing had crystallized prior to the date of closing.

(Nous soulignons)

[37] Dans le cas présent, il est clair que les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution visent non seulement les droits réels, mais aussi les droits personnels qui suivent l'immeuble : l'énumération des droits purgés par le paragraphe 13 inclut les items suivants : « claims », « liabilities (direct, indirect, absolute or contingent) », « obligations » et « debts ». Ce sont clairement des droits personnels.

[38] De plus, il serait trop facile de déjouer le but de l'article 36(6) LACC et des ordonnances de dévolution si un droit personnel qui suit l'immeuble ne peut être purgé. La Cour d'appel a jugé dans Château d'Amos que le droit personnel conféré à la municipalité par l'article 498 LCV ne peut survivre en cas de faillite²² :

Dans un cas comme dans l'autre, quelle que soit l'alternative retenue, la municipalité, qui ne serait pas créancière garantie et qui ne s'appuierait que sur sa priorité et l'article 498 L.C.V., se verrait payée en totalité de sa créance, avant tout autre créancier chirographaire, et au détriment soit des créanciers garantis ou de la masse ou des deux, suivant le prix offert et la valeur des créances hypothécaires, en contradiction directe, à mon avis, à l'ordre de priorité établi par l'article 136 L.F.I.

Cette conséquence directe de la survie à la faillite de l'applicabilité de l'article 498 L.C.V. me paraît expressément incompatible avec les dispositions de la L.F.I.

Je suis donc d'avis, comme les deux juges de la Cour supérieure, que le droit strictement personnel conféré à la municipalité par l'article 498 L.C.V. ne saurait survivre lorsque, comme en l'espèce, un immeuble est vendu par le syndic, à l'intérieur de la réalisation des biens du failli.

(Nous soulignons)

²¹ Credit Union Central of Ontario Limited v. Heritage Property Holdings Inc., 2008 ONCA 167, par. 27. Il y avait aussi une disposition analogue à l'article 498 LCV, mais la Cour d'Appel ne traite pas de cet aspect du dossier (voir note 1).

[39] L'ajout suite à cet arrêt de l'article 2654.1 C.c.Q. pour donner à la Ville un droit réel ne change pas ce raisonnement et le même principe s'applique en vertu de la LACC²³.

[40] La Ville cite l'arrêt *Hydro-Québec c. 2951-1433 Québec inc.*²⁴, qui semble contredire Château d'Amos. Dans l'arrêt Hydro-Québec, la Cour d'appel confirme le droit de suite d'Hydro-Québec contre un propriétaire subséquent qui a acquis l'immeuble du syndic à la faillite de la débitrice d'Hydro-Québec. Cet arrêt ne réfère pas à l'arrêt Château d'Amos rendu un mois plus tôt. Dans les circonstances, le Tribunal préfère suivre l'arrêt Château d'Amos, qui porte sur la même disposition qui est en jeu dans le présent dossier.

[42] Le Tribunal conclut que le droit de la Ville de poursuivre les acheteurs en paiement des arrérages de taxes et d'intérêts pour la période avant le 8 ou le 10 mars est purgé par les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution. La Ville doit donc imputer les paiements par les acheteurs sur les plus vieilles dettes dues par les acheteurs et non sur la dette payable par les débitrices.

3. Article 2.2.5 du Règlement de lotissement

[43] L'autre argument mis de l'avant par la Ville découle de l'article 2.2.5 du son Règlement de lotissement :

2.2.5 Paiement des taxes municipales

Tout propriétaire doit, comme condition préalable à l'approbation d'un plan-projet de lotissement, payer les taxes municipales qui sont exigibles et impayées à l'égard des immeubles compris dans le plan.

[44] Dans sa lettre du 25 avril 2016, les procureurs de la Ville répondent à l'argument d'Administration portuaire soulevant l'ordonnance d'approbation et de dévolution comme suit²⁶ :

Bien que conscient des éléments que vous énoncez à votre missive [pièce R-8], il n'en reste pas moins que les arrérages de taxes dus à notre cliente bénéficient d'un droit de suite dans l'immeuble.

C'est ce qui explique les différentes dispositions de la réglementation municipale exigeant le paiement des taxes municipales avant que certaines opérations soient effectuées.

(Nous soulignons)

[45] Le principe demeure le même : les acheteurs ne sont aucunement responsables du paiement des taxes municipales pour la période avant leur acquisition des immeubles. Le droit de suite de la Ville est donc purgé par les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution.

[46] Enfin, la Ville plaide aussi que le Règlement de lotissement constitue un « Permitted Encumbrance » selon le paragraphe 7 de l'annexe B aux ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution :

7. The provisions of Applicable Laws, including by-laws, regulations, airport zoning regulations, ordinances and similar instruments relating to development and zoning;

[47] En conséquence, selon la Ville, le Règlement de lotissement n'est pas visé par la purge des droits.

[48] Le Tribunal rejette cet argument. Le paragraphe 7 vise les règles de développement et de zonage et non pas une règle incluse dans un règlement de lotissement qui vise le paiement des taxes.

CONCLUSIONS

[49] La Ville ne peut donc pas exiger des acheteurs le paiement des taxes pour la période avant leur acquisition des immeubles, soit directement par le biais de l'article 498 LCV, soit indirectement en refusant l'approbation d'un plan-projet de lotissement tant que ces taxes ne sont pas payées.

[50] Le Tribunal interprète donc la LCV et le Règlement de lotissement de façon à ne pas entrer en conflit avec ce résultat : les expressions « taxes municipales imposées » à l'article 498 LCV et « les taxes municipales qui sont exigibles et impayées » à l'article 2.2.5 du Règlement de lotissement doivent donc se limiter aux taxes municipales imposées après les acquisitions par les acheteurs suivant une ordonnance de dévolution.

[52] Le Tribunal accueille donc les requêtes des requérantes. Le Tribunal note que les conclusions demandées par les requérantes sont formulées de façon plus générale et rend son jugement en conséquence. Si toutefois cette déclaration n'est pas suffisante pour régler le problème, le Tribunal réserve le droit des requérantes de présenter une demande de clarifier la déclaration pour donner effet à la conclusion du Tribunal ci-dessus exprimée.

POUR CES MOTIFS, LE TRIBUNAL :

[53] ACCUEILLE les requêtes en jugement déclaratoire présentées par Société ferroviaire et portuaire de Pointe-Noire S.E.C. et Administration portuaire de Sept-Îles/Sept-Îles Port Authority;

[54] ORDONNE que tout délai préalable pour la présentation des requêtes soit, par les présentes, abrégé et accepté de façon à ce que celles-ci soient valablement présentables le 21 octobre 2016 et DISPENSE, par les présentes, de toute signification supplémentaire;

[55] DÉCLARE que Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire ne sont pas responsables, à quelque titre que ce soit, de quelque contribution ou taxe due à la Ville de Sept-Îles en date du 8 mars 2016 relativement aux immeubles décrits à l'Annexe A du présent jugement et en date du 10 mars 2016 relativement aux immeubles décrits à l'Annexe B (les « Taxes préachat »);

[56] DÉCLARE que les Taxes préachat ne peuvent être invoquées contre Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire et/ou les immeubles décrits aux Annexes A et B (les « Immeubles »);

[57] DÉCLARE que toute réclamation de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour les Taxes préachat est un « Encumbrance » selon les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution émises par le Tribunal le 1^{er} février 2016 (les « Ordonnances »);

[58] DÉCLARE que, conformément aux Ordonnances, les Immeubles sont vendus à Société ferroviaire et Administration portuaire le 8 mars 2016 et le 10 mars 2016 respectivement, francs, quittes et libres de toute réclamation de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour les Taxes préachat;

[59] DÉCLARE que toute réclamation de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour les Taxes préachat est annulée et radiée à l'égard des Immeubles lors de l'émission des certificats du contrôleur;

[60] DÉCLARE que toute réclamation de la Ville de Sept-Îles pour les Taxes préachat est transférée sur le produit des ventes des Immeubles détenu par le contrôleur;

[61] ORDONNE l'exécution provisoire de la présente ordonnance nonobstant appel et sans exigence quelconque de fournir une sûreté ou une provision pour frais;

[62] LE TOUT avec frais de justice.

JUGEMENT

[1] La requérante Ville de Sept-Îles (Ville) demande la permission d'appeler d'un jugement rendu le 17 novembre 2016 par la Cour supérieure, Chambre commerciale, district de Montréal (l'honorable Stephen W. Hamilton) qui accueille la requête en jugement déclaratoire des intimées.

[2] Ces dernières ont acheté des immeubles dans le cadre de procédures en vertu de la *Loi sur les arrangements avec les créanciers des compagnies (LACC)*¹. Par requête en jugement déclaratoire présentée dans le dossier constitué en vertu de la LACC, elles ont demandé au tribunal de déclarer qu'elles ne sont pas responsables des taxes dues à la municipalité pour la période précédant leur achat.

[3] La Ville plaidait que l'article 498 de la *Loi sur les cités et villes (LCV)*² lui donne un recours personnel contre l'acheteur d'un immeuble pour les taxes municipales impayées sur cet immeuble, même lorsque imposées pour une période antérieure à cet achat. Elle invoquait par ailleurs que son règlement de lotissement lui permettait de refuser d'octroyer le permis de lotissement recherché par les acheteurs, vu les arrérages de taxes accumulés avant leur achat.

[4] Le juge de première instance a rejeté ces prétentions. Il a déclaré que la Ville ne pouvait imputer les paiements de taxes des intimées sur les arrérages de taxes précédant les achats en raison du recours personnel dont dispose la Ville en vertu de l'article 498 *LCV*³ et qu'elle ne pouvait non plus refuser de délivrer des permis de lotissement en raison de ces mêmes arrérages, en invoquant son règlement de lotissement.

[5] Il a conclu que le droit de la Ville de poursuivre les acheteurs en paiement des arrérages de taxes et d'intérêts pour la période précédant leur achat était purgé par les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution rendues antérieurement à cette vente, dont la Ville n'a d'ailleurs pas contesté la validité.

[6] Il s'exprimait ainsi aux paragraphes [21] à [24] du jugement :

³ Art. 498. Les taxes municipales imposées sur un immeuble peuvent être réclamées aussi bien du locataire, de l'occupant ou autre possesseur de cet immeuble que du propriétaire, de même que de tout acquéreur subséquent de cet immeuble, lors même que tel locataire, occupant, possesseur ou acquéreur ne sont pas inscrits sur le rôle d'évaluation.

[20] In this case, the A&V Order [Approval and Vesting Order] determined the rights of the parties represented in that proceeding in respect of the assets that were the subject of the sale. Although Herbal Care had not been given notice and was not represented at the hearing giving rise to the A&V Order, this non-participation does not, in my view, impact on this motion. Herbal Care took no steps after becoming aware of the A&V Order to set aside or vary the A&V Order and did not appeal the A&V Order. Herbal Care is, in my view, bound by the terms of the A&V Order.

[23] Il est évident qu'un acheteur paiera moins cher s'il achète avec le risque de se faire poursuivre pour les dettes de son vendeur. Le but des ordonnances est de permettre aux débitrices de vendre au meilleur prix possible, au bénéfice de l'ensemble des créanciers, sans toutefois préjudicier les créanciers garantis et les créanciers prioritaires. [Référence omise]

[24] Cette façon de faire est expressément reconnue et permise par l'article 36(6) LACC :

(6) Le tribunal peut autoriser la disposition d'actifs de la compagnie, purgés de toute charge, sûreté ou autre restriction, et, le cas échéant, est tenu d'assujettir le produit de la disposition ou d'autres de ses actifs à une charge, sûreté ou autre restriction en faveur des créanciers touchés par la purge.

[7] Il paraît aussi utile de reprendre les extraits pertinents des ordonnances visées par la requête en jugement déclaratoire, tels que reproduits au jugement de première instance :

[13] ORDERS and DECLARES that upon the issuance of a Monitor's certificate substantially in the form appended as Schedule "A" hereto (the "Certificate"), all rights, title and interest in and to the Purchased Assets shall vest absolutely and exclusively in and with the Purchaser, free and clear from any and all right, title, benefits, priorities, claims (including claims provable in bankruptcy in the event that the Vendors should be adjudged bankrupt), liabilities (direct, indirect, absolute or contingent), obligations, interests, prior claims, security interests (whether contractual, statutory or otherwise), liens, charges, hypothecs, mortgages, pledges, trusts, deemed trusts (whether contractual, execution, notices of sale, options, agreements, rights of distress, legal, equitable or contractual setoff, adverse claims, levies, taxes, disputes, debts, charges, options to purchase, rights of first refusal or other pre-emptive rights in favour of third parties, restrictions on transfer of title, or other claims or encumbrances, whether or not they have attached or been perfected, registered, published or filed and whether secured, unsecured or otherwise (collectively, the “Encumbrances”), including without limiting the generality of the foregoing Encumbrances created by order of this Court and all charges, security interests or charges evidenced by registration, publication or filing pursuant to the Civil Code of Québec, or any other applicable legislation providing for a security interest in personal or movable property, excluding however, the permitted encumbrances, easements and restrictive covenants listed on Schedule “B” hereto (the “Permitted Encumbrances”) and, for greater certainty, ORDERS that all of the Encumbrances affecting or relating to the Purchased Assets, other than the Permitted Encumbrances, be expunged and discharged as against the Purchased Assets, in each case effective as of the applicable time and date of the Certificate.

[21] ORDERS that for the purposes of determining the nature and priority of the Encumbrances, the balance of the Proceeds remaining following deduction for applicable Cure Costs (if any) and Transfer Taxes (if any is payable) that are remitted by the Monitor pursuant to Paragraph 20 of this Order (the “Net Proceeds”) shall stand in the place and stead of the Purchased Assets, and that upon the issuance of the Certificate, all Encumbrances except for the Permitted Encumbrances shall attach to the Net Proceeds with the same priority as they had with respect to the Purchased Assets immediately prior to the Closing, as if the Purchased Assets had not been sold and remained in the possession or control of the person having that possession or control immediately prior to the Closing.⁴

[8] La permission d’appeler du jugement en cause est régie par les articles 13 et 14 de la LACC. Or, dans l’affaire *Statoil Canada Ltd. (Arrangement relatif à)*⁵, mon collègue le juge Hilton soulignait à bon droit que, suivant une jurisprudence établie, ce genre de permission n’est pas fréquemment accordée, et qu’elle ne l’est que lorsque l’ensemble des quatre conditions cumulatives requises sont satisfaites :

⁴ Jugement entrepris, paragr. 20.

[3] A threshold issue is the criteria to be considered upon such an application for leave. Based on the judgment of Wittman, J.A., as he then was, in Resurgence Asset Management LLC v. Canadian Airlines Corp.,⁶ there are four such criteria:

- whether the point on appeal is of significance to the practice;
- whether the point raised is of significance to the action itself;
- whether the appeal is prima facie meritorious, or, on the other hand, whether it is frivolous, and;
- whether the appeal will unduly hinder the progress of the action.

[4] Judges of this Court to whom such applications have been addressed have held unanimously that the four criteria are cumulative; with the result that an applicant's failure to establish any one of them will result in the dismissal of the application.⁷ In addition, it is also generally understood that an applicant carries a heavy burden in order to obtain leave, and that appellate courts will only grant such applications sparingly.⁸

[9] En l'espèce, la Ville, par ses arguments, remet en question l'opportunité de rendre les ordonnances d'approbation et de dévolution qui ont acquis la force de chose jugée en février 2016 et que la Ville n'a pas cru opportun de contester. Elle tente de faire valoir, après le fait, un argument sur la portée de ces ordonnances qui est contraire à l'intention du juge qui a rendu ces mêmes ordonnances en des termes clairs.

[10] La Ville ne me convainc pas que les moyens d'appel soulevés sont soutenable, alors que la décision à l'égard de laquelle elle cherche à se pourvoir tient des faits de l'affaire et du texte clair des ordonnances déjà rendues.

31. The normal cost payments with respect to the Salaried DB Plan were fully paid as of the Wabush Initial Order, and were in fact overpaid in the amount of $169,961 as of December 15, 2015, the date of the termination of the Salaried DB Plan, as appears from the summary table with respect to the Salaried DB Plan prepared by the Replacement Pension Plan Administrator (the Salaried DB Plan Summary), a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-16;
32. The normal cost payments with respect to the Union DB Plan were fully paid as of the Wabush Initial Order and continued to be paid up until December 15, 2015, the date of the termination of the Union DB Plan, (including a payment of $ 22,893 for December 2015 being the amount for the month prorated to the Union DB Plan termination date), as appears from the summary table with respect to the Union DB Plan prepared by the Replacement Pension Plan Administrator (the Union DB Plan Summary), communicated herewith as Exhibit R-17. It is noted that the Salaried DB Plan Summary and the Union DB Plan Summary appear to have rounding errors in the some of the totals shown thereon;

(ii) Special Payments

33. As appears from Section 2 of the Salaried DB Plan Summary (R-16):
- a) The special payments with respect to the Salaried DB Plan required to be paid prior to the date of the Wabush Initial Order were paid in full except for $3;
 - b) One special payment in the amount of $273,218 was paid after the date of the Wabush Initial Order and before the granting of the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), which payment constituted an underpayment of $1;
 - c) The special payments required to be paid after the date of the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), and which, in conformity with the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), were not paid, amount to $ 2,185,752;

the whole based on a Towers Watson actuarial report dated September 12, 2014 for actuarial valuation as at January 1, 2014;

34. As appears from Section 2 of the Union DB Plan Summary (R-17):
- a) The special payments with respect to the Union DB Plan required to be paid prior to the date of the Wabush Initial Order were underpaid in the amount of $146,776;
 - b) One special payment in the amount of $393,337 was paid after the date of the Wabush Initial Order and before the granting of the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), which payment constituted an overpayment of $16,308;
 - c) The special payments required to be paid after the date of the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), and which, in conformity with the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7), were not paid, amount to $3,016,232;

the whole based on a Towers Watson actuarial report dated September 12, 2014 for actuarial valuation as at January 1, 2014;

- 10 -

(iii) Catch-Up Special Payments

35. In the Wabush Comeback Motion (R-6), the Wabush CCAA Parties indicated that lump sum "catch up" special payments (each, a Catch-Up Payment) were estimated to be approximately $5.5 million for both DB Plans and would become payable as of July 2015 (at paragraph 88);
36. Subsequently, the Wabush CCAA Parties determined that no such Catch-Up Payment was due in respect of the Salaried DB Plan;
37. The Catch-Up Payment in respect of the Union DB Plan for its part was revised and estimated to be approximately $1.9 million;
38. In fact, pursuant to a Towers Watson actuarial report dated July 1, 2015 for an actuarial valuation as of January 1, 2015, which only became available after the issuance of the Wabush Initial Order, additional special payments in the aggregate amount of $3,525,120 were required with respect to the Union DB Plan, as appears from the Union DB Plan Summary (R-17);
39. As also appears from Section 3 thereof (R-17), these additional special payments with respect to the Union DB Plan were payable by way of a Catch-Up Payment of $1,762,560 due August 26, 2015, and thereafter in additional special payments payable in six monthly instalments of $293,760 starting August 30, 2015;
40. None of these monthly additional special payments were paid or kept separate and apart from their own moneys by the Wabush CCAA Parties, nor was any Catch-Up Payment made (or kept separate and apart by the Wabush CCAA Parties from their own moneys) with respect to the Union DB Plan, the whole as contemplated and authorized by the Pension Priority and Suspension Order (R-7);

(iv) Wind-Up Deficiencies

41. In the Wabush Comeback Motion (at paragraph 83), based on estimates received from Towers Watson, the Wabush CCAA Parties estimated the wind-up deficits to be approximately $18.2 million for the Salaried DB Plan and $23.3 million for the Union DB Plan;
42. [...] The Replacement Pension Plan Administrator [...] later informed the Monitor that it [...] expected the wind-up deficits as at December 16, 2015, to be approximately $26.7 million for the Salaried DB Plan and $27.7 million for the Union DB Plan;
- 42.1 In December 2016, Morneau Shepell filed a report titled "Wind-Up Actual Valuation as at December 16, 2015" in respect of the Salaried DB Plan (the Salaried DB Plan Wind-Up Report), a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-25;
- 42.2 Based on the Salaried DB Plan Wind-Up Report (R-25), the financial position of the Salaried DB Plan as of December 16, 2015 presented a wind-up deficit of $27.45 million, as appears from page 3 thereof;

Amended Motion for Directions with Respect to Pension Claims, April 13, 2017

- 11 -

- 42.3 On December 14, 2016, Towers Watson filed a report titled "Plan Termination as at December 16, 2015" in respect of the Union DB Plan (the Union DB Plan Wind-Up Report and together with the Salaried DB Plan Wind-Up Report, the Wind-Up Reports)³, a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-26;
- 42.4 Based on the Union DB Plan Wind-Up Report (R-26), the financial position of the Union DB Plan as of December 16, 2015 presented a wind-up deficit of $27,486,548, as appears from pages 8 and 9 thereof. This calculation does not account for the benefits covered by Section 17 PBSA, which is qualified as "Priority no. 2" ranking after the wind-up deficit and would represent an additional wind-up liability of $2,349,912, as appears from pages 4 and 10 of the Union DB Plan Wind-Up Report;

(v) Summary of Amounts Owing

43. In summary and based on the foregoing, the amounts owing to the [...] DB Plans based on payment due date are as follows:

	Salaried DB Plan	Union DB Plan
Normal Cost Payments

³ Both Wind-up Reports remain subject to review and approval by the pension regulators.

⁴ Excluding the additional wind-up deficit in the amount of $ 2,349,912 (see para. 42.4 above).

If a Notice of Dispute is filed by the Pension Regulator or the Representatives' Counsel within the time specified herein, paragraphs 37 and 46 to 51 hereof shall apply mutatis mutandi.

If a Notice of Dispute is filed by the Pension Regulator or the USW within the time specified herein, paragraphs 37 and 46 to 51 hereof shall apply mutatis mutandi.

[38.3] ORDERS that the Pension Regulator and the Representatives' Counsel shall be given written notice by the Monitor of, and are entitled to participate in (i) any hearing before a Claims Officer concerning a Pension Claim in respect of the Salaried Pension Plan and (ii) any hearing before the Court concerning a Pension Claim in respect of the Salaried Pension Plan.

[38.4] ORDERS that the Pension Regulator and the USW shall be given written notice by the Monitor of, and are entitled to participate in (i) any hearing before a Claims Officer concerning a Pension Claim in respect of the Union Pension Plan and (ii) any hearing before the Court concerning a Pension Claim in respect of the Union Pension Plan. [Emphasis added]

45. On December 18, 2015, the Plan Administrator filed, in accordance with the Claims Procedure Order (R-2), Proofs of Claim with respect to each of the DB Plans, as follows:
- a) With respect to the Salaried DB Plan, (i) a secured Claim in the amount of $24,000,000 against Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway and Wabush Railway (for the wind-up deficit), and (ii) a Restructuring Claim in the amount of $1,932,940 against Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway and Wabush Railway (for unpaid special payments), the whole as appears from said Proof of Claim (in the amount finally determined in accordance with the Claims Procedure Order, the Salaried DB Plan Claim), a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-18; and

- b) With respect to the Union DB Plan, (i) a secured Claim in the amount of $29,000,000 against Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway and Wabush Railway (for the wind-up deficit), and (ii) a Restructuring Claim in the amount of $6,059,238 against Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway and Wabush Railway (for unpaid special payments), the whole as appears from said Proof of Claim (in the amount finally determined in accordance with the Claims Procedure Order, the Union DB Plan Claim), a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-19;

V. APPLICABLE STATUTORY REGIME

46. [...]

46.1 As noted above, the DB Plans are registered with OSFI and/or the N&L Superintendent;

46.2 The PBSA applies to pension plans providing benefits to employees and retirees employed in "included employment", which in turn is defined as work, undertaking of business that falls within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, including navigation and shipping and extra-provincial railways, the whole as provided for in Section 4 PBSA:

4 (1) This Act applies in respect of pension plans.

(2) In this Act, pension plan means a superannuation or other plan organized and administered to provide pension benefits to employees employed in included employment (and former employees) and to which the employer is required under or in accordance with the plan to contribute [...]

(4) In this Act, included employment means employment, other than excepted employment, on or in connection with the operation of any work, undertaking or business that is within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, including, without restricting the generality of the foregoing,

(a) any work, undertaking or business operated or carried on for or in connection with navigation and shipping, whether inland or maritime, including the operation of a ship and transportation by ship anywhere in Canada;

(b) any railway, canal, telegraph or other work or undertaking connecting a province with another province or extending beyond the limits of a province [...]

(6) The Governor in Council may make regulations excepting from included employment [...]

(b) any other employment if the Governor in Council, on a report of the Minister, is satisfied that

(i) provision has been made for the coverage of employees employed in that employment under the terms of a pension plan that is organized and administered for the benefit primarily of employees employed in other than included employment and that is required to be registered under the law of a designated province [...] [Emphasis added.]

- 46.3 No regulation exempting the DB Plans from the application of the PBSA were adopted pursuant to Subsection 4(6)(b) above;
- 46.4 The PBA applies to pension plans for persons employed in Newfoundland & Labrador, except those to which an Act of the Parliament of Canada applies, as provided for in Section 5 PBA:
5. This Act applies to all pension plans for persons employed in the province [of Newfoundland & Labrador], except those pension plans to which an Act of the Parliament of Canada applies.
- 46.5 Subsection 2(ee) PBA defines "province of employment" as "the province where an employee reports for work, but if the employee is not required to report for work, the province where an employer's establishment is located from which an employee's remuneration is paid";
- 46.6 The SPPA applies to pension plans provided for employees who report for work at an establishment of their employer located in Québec, as provided for in Section 1 thereof:
1. This Act applies to pension plans provided
- (1) for employees who report for work at an establishment of their employer located in Québec or, if not, who receive their remuneration from such an establishment, provided, in the latter case, they do not report for work at any other establishment of their employer;
- (2) for employees not referred to in paragraph 1 who, while residing in Québec and being employed by an employer whose main establishment is located in Québec, work outside Québec, provided the plans are not governed by an Act of a legislative body other than the Parliament of Québec which provides for a deferred pension.
- 46.7 The Salaried DB Plan is comprised of 656 members, approximately half of which were employed in the province of Québec, with the other half in Newfoundland & Labrador⁵;
- 46.8 The Union DB Plan is comprised of 1732 members, the majority of which are in the province of Newfoundland & Labrador;
- 46.9 Following the termination of the Salaried DB Plan, 14 of its members were found to be subject to federal legislation as a result of the nature of their functions, as explained at page 4 of the Salaried DB Plan Wind-Up Report (R-25)⁶;
- 46.10 As for the Union DB Plan, it would appear that 55 of its 1732 members are governed by federal jurisdiction as a result of the nature of their functions;
- 46.11 Based on the foregoing and the information found in the Wind-Up Reports (R-25 and R-26), the members of both DB Plans appear to be subject to the following jurisdictions:

⁶ See note 3 above with respect to membership data.

46.12 Sections 6.1 PBSA, 8(2) PBA and 249 SPPA each provide for the entering into of multilateral agreements as between the federal government and that of provinces with a view to determine, inter alia, the legislative regime applicable to multi-jurisdictional pension plans;

V.1 DEEMED TRUSTS

46.13 The PBSA, the PBA and the SPPA all include provisions with respect to deemed trusts applicable under certain circumstances with respect to unpaid pension contributions;

A. PBSA

47. Section 8(1) of the PBSA requires an employer to segregate funds from its own moneys, including for certain types of payments owing to the pension fund, and further provides that a trust is deemed to have arisen with respect to said funds for the benefit of the pension members:

8 (1) An employer shall ensure, with respect to its pension plan, that the following amounts are kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys, and the employer is deemed to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members of the pension plan, former members, and any other persons entitled to pension benefits under the plan:

(a) the moneys in the pension fund,

(b) an amount equal to the aggregate of the following payments that have accrued to date:

(i) the prescribed payments, and

(ii) the payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement; and

(c) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund:

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer, including any amounts that are required to be paid under subsection 9.14(2) or 29(6).

[Emphasis added.]

⁷ See note 3 above with respect to membership data.

- 16 -

48. Section 8(2) PBSA provides that the amounts deemed to be held in trust pursuant to Section 8(1) shall not form part of the estate of the employer upon in the event of its liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy:

(2) In the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that by subsection (1) is deemed to be held in trust shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

[Emphasis added.]

49. Section 29 PBSA permits OSFI to declare the whole or part of a pension plan terminated in certain circumstances, and further provides for payments by the employer into the pension fund upon termination:

29 [...] (2) The Superintendent may declare the whole or part of a pension plan terminated where

(a) there is any suspension or cessation of employer contributions in respect of all or part of the plan members;

(b) the employer has discontinued or is in the process of discontinuing all of its business operations or a part thereof in which a substantial portion of its employees who are members of the pension plan are employed; or

(c) the Superintendent is of the opinion that the pension plan has failed to meet the prescribed tests and standards for solvency in respect of funding referred to in subsection 9(1).

(2.1) The Superintendent may also declare the whole of a pension plan terminated if there is a cessation of crediting of benefits to the plan members.

(3) In a declaration made under subsection (2) or (2.1), the Superintendent shall declare a pension plan or part of a pension plan, as the case may be, to be terminated as of the date that the Superintendent considers appropriate in the circumstances.

(6) If the whole of a pension plan is terminated, the employer shall, without delay, pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the prescribed tests and standards for solvency referred to in subsection 9(1) and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the employer shall pay into the pension fund

(a) an amount equal to the normal cost that has accrued to the date of the termination;

(b) the amounts of any prescribed special payments that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(c) the amounts of payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(d) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund

- 17 -

at the date of the termination:

- (i) the amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and
- (ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer; and
- (e) the amounts of all of the payments that are required to be made under subsection 9.14(2).

(6.4) On the winding-up of the pension plan or the liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of the employer, the amount required to permit the plan to satisfy any obligations with respect to pension benefits as they are determined on the date of termination is payable immediately.

(6.5) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of the amount that the employer is required to pay into the pension fund under subsection (6.4). However, it applies in respect of any payments that have accrued before the date of the winding-up, liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy and that have not been remitted to the fund in accordance with the regulations made for the purposes of subsection (6.1). [...]

B. PBA

50. The PBA contains similar provisions to those described above in respect of the PBSA. Section 32 PBA deems a trust to come into existence under certain circumstances:

32 (1) An employer or a participating employer in a multi-employer plan shall ensure, with respect to a pension plan, that

- (a) the money in the pension fund;
- (b) an amount equal to the aggregate of
 - (i) the normal actuarial cost, and
 - (ii) any special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to date; and

(c) all

- (i) amounts deducted by the employer from the member's remuneration, and
- (ii) other amounts due under the plan from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund are kept separate and apart from the employer's own money, and shall be considered to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members, former members, and other persons with an entitlement under the plan.

(2) In the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that under subsection (1) is considered to be held in trust shall be considered to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own money or from the assets of the estate.

(3) Where a pension plan is terminated in whole or in part, an employer who is required to pay contributions to the pension fund shall hold in trust for the member or former member or other person with an entitlement under the plan an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination.

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

- 18 -

51. Sections 59 PBA sets out the circumstances in which the N&L Superintendent may declare a plan to be terminated;

59 (1) The superintendent may declare the whole or part of a pension plan terminated where

(a) there is a suspension or cessation of employer contributions in respect of all or part of the plan membership, except where surplus is used to meet funding requirements;

(b) the employer has discontinued or is in the process of discontinuing all of its business operation or a part in which a substantial portion of its employees who are members of the plan are employed;

(c) the employer is bankrupt within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Act (Canada);

(d) the superintendent is of the opinion that the plan has failed to meet the requirements prescribed by the regulations for solvency in respect of funding; or

(e) all or part of the business or assets of a predecessor employer's business are sold, assigned or otherwise disposed of and the successor employer who acquired the business or assets does not provide a pension plan for the members of the predecessor employer's plan who become employees of the successor employer.

(2) A declaration made under subsection (1) shall declare the whole or part of a pension plan to be terminated as of a date determined by the superintendent.

52. The wind-up of a pension plan commences immediately after the termination of the plan unless the N&L Superintendent postpones the wind-up by giving written approval, pursuant to Section 60(3) PBA;

53. Section 61 PBA provides for certain termination payments as follows:

61 (1) On termination of a pension plan, the employer shall pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the requirements prescribed by the regulations for solvency, including

(a) an amount equal to the aggregate of

(i) the normal actuarial cost, and

(ii) special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to the date of termination; and

(b) all

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer

that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination.

(2) Where, on the termination, after April 1, 2008, of a pension plan, other than a multi-employer pension plan, the assets in the pension fund are less than the value of the benefits provided under the plan, the employer shall, as prescribed by the regulations, make the payments into the pension fund, in addition to the payments required under subsection (1), that are necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

C. SPPA

53.1 The only deemed trust provided for under the SPPA is that found in Section 49 thereof with respect to unpaid contributions and accrued interest:

49. Until contributions and accrued interest are paid into the pension fund or to the insurer, they are deemed to be held in trust by the employer, whether or not the latter has kept them separate from his property.

53.2 In addition, Section 264 SPPA provides that contributions payable into the pension fund are unassignable and unseizable:

264. Unless otherwise provided by law, the following amounts or contributions are unassignable and unseizable:

(1) all contributions paid or payable into the pension fund or to the insurer, with accrued interest; [...]

53.3 With respect to the employer's obligations upon termination of a pension plan, Sections 228-230 SPPA provides:

§4 – Debts of the employer

228. The amount to be funded to ensure full payment of the benefits of the members or beneficiaries affected by the withdrawal of an employer from a multi-employer pension plan or the termination of a pension plan shall constitute a debt of the employer. The amount to be funded shall be established at the date of termination.

If, at the date of termination, the employer has failed to pay contributions into the pension fund or to the insurer, as the case may be, the debt shall be the amount by which the amount to be funded exceeds such contributions. [...]

229. Any amount owed by an employer under section 228 must, upon its determination, be paid into the pension fund or to the insurer, as the case may be. However, Retraite Québec may, on the conditions it determines, allow any employer to spread the payment of such amount over a period of not more than five years.

Any amount not paid into the pension fund or to the insurer shall bear interest from the date of default, at the rate determined pursuant to section 61 that was applicable at the date of termination.

230. Any amount paid by an employer under this subdivision, including any amount recovered after the date of termination, particularly in respect of contributions outstanding and unpaid at the date of termination, shall be applied to the payment of benefits of members or beneficiaries in the order of priority established under this Act.

such that the termination deficit, if any, is a debt of the employer and not a "contribution" subject to a deemed trust;

D. SUMMARY OF AVAILABLE DEEMED TRUSTS

54. The [...] PBSA and PBA provisions set out above provide for two types of deemed trust:
- (1) a trust that is deemed to exist while the employer continues in business and that covers amounts that the employer is required to keep separate and apart from its own moneys (Sections 8(1) PBSA and 32(1) PBA, hereinafter referred to as limited deemed trusts); and
- (2) a trust that arises in the event of any liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer and that covers amounts that the employer is required to keep separate and apart from its own moneys, whether or not the amounts have in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own moneys or assets (Sections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) PBA, hereinafter referred to as liquidation deemed trusts);
55. In the case at hand, OSFI and the N&L Superintendent issued the Termination Notices (R-13 and R-14) with respect to the DB Plans after the CCAA Proceedings had commenced;

V.2 MULTI-JURISDICTIONAL AGREEMENTS AND CONFLICT OF LAWS

56. While the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties have not been fully realized to date, the Court may need to consider whether any eventual shortfall between the sale proceeds of the Wabush CCAA Parties' assets in Newfoundland and the amounts potentially duly secured by a pension deemed trust created under the PBA could possibly extend to the sale proceeds of the Wabush CCAA Parties' assets formerly located in Quebec;
57. Should it determine that the amounts potentially duly secured by a pension deemed trust created under the PBA exceed the value of sale proceeds generated from assets located in Newfoundland, this Court will need to consider applicable conflict rules so as to determine whether the applicable pension deemed trust under the PBA could extend to the sale proceeds of assets formally located in Quebec;
58. Under the general conflict rules in Quebec, real rights and by extension priority disputes over property are governed by the laws where the property is located, subject to an exception for property in transit (3097 C.c.Q.);
59. The Province of Quebec is also party to certain multi-jurisdictional agreements in relation to pension matters that may provide in certain circumstances for the application of laws of another jurisdiction by way of incorporation where the Quebec government has agreed to do so and its supervisory authority has delegated its authority to the supervisory authority of another jurisdiction;
60. In 2011, the Canadian Association of Pension Supervisory Authorities (CAPSA) developed an Agreement Respecting Multi-Jurisdictional Pension Plans (the 2011 Agreement), which was adopted by the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-20;

- 21 -

61. CAPSA also developed in 2016 a revised version thereof (the 2016 Agreement), which was adopted by the Provinces of British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan, a copy of which is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-21;

62. These 2011 and 2016 Agreements (R-20 and R-21) provide inter alia that:

6 (1) While a pension supervisory authority is the major authority for a pension plan in accordance with this Agreement:

(a) the provisions of the pension legislation of the major authority's jurisdiction in respect of matters referred to in Schedule B¹ apply to the plan instead of those of the corresponding provisions of the pension legislation of any minor authority's jurisdiction that would apply to the plan if this Agreement did not exist; and

(b) subject to the provisions of this Agreement, the provisions of the pension legislation of each jurisdiction that are applicable to the plan under the terms of such legislation apply to the plan in respect of matters not referred to in Schedule B.¹

¹ Schedule B states: "8. Legislative provisions respecting: [...] (c) requirements that the pension fund be held separate and apart from the employer's assets and deeming the pension fund to be held in trust for the active members or other persons; (d) an administrator's lien and charge on the employer's assets equal to the amounts deemed held in trust [...]".

63. However, Newfoundland & Labrador is not a party to the 2011 and 2016 Agreements (R-20 and R-21);

64. The only applicable multi-jurisdictional agreement between the governments of Quebec and Newfoundland & Labrador is a Memorandum of Agreement⁸, to which the government of Newfoundland & Labrador became a party in 1986, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-22;

65. The Memorandum of Agreement (R-22) does not provide for the incorporation and application of legislative provisions and administrative powers by the participating pension supervisory authorities, but merely provides for a certain delegation of powers as follows:

2. The major authority¹ for each plan shall exercise both its own statutory functions and powers and the statutory functions and powers of each minor authority for such plan.

9. Where a major authority is unable to exercise a particular power of enforcement available to one of the minor authorities, it shall so advise that minor authority.

⁸ The Memorandum of Agreement (R-22) remains effective, as provided by Section 284 SPPA.

66. As such, the Memorandum of Agreement (R-22) could not serve as the basis for the application of the PBA in relation to property located in Quebec;
67. In view of the foregoing and absent a multi-jurisdictional agreement providing for the application in Quebec of the laws of Newfoundland & Labrador, it is submitted that this Court is bound to apply the laws applicable in the Province of Quebec to adjudicate a dispute with respect to tangible assets located in Québec (or the proceeds standing in their stead);
68. The Monitor notes Article 3079 of the Civil Code of Québec:

3079. Where legitimate and manifestly preponderant interests so require, effect may be given to a mandatory provision of the law of another State with which the situation is closely connected.

In deciding whether to do so, consideration is given to the purpose of the provision and the consequences of its application.

but is of the view that this exception is not applicable in the circumstances as the possible application of the PBA could have been properly achieved by way of a multi-jurisdictional agreement and absent the execution of the 2011 and 2016 Agreements (R-20 and R-21) by Newfoundland & Labrador it could not justify why its legislation should override Quebec law in the present circumstances, including Articles 2644 and 2647 C.c.Q.;

VI. DIRECTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PENSION CLAIMS

69. Based on its review of the relevant statutes and applicable case-law, the Monitor is of the view that:
- a) Unpaid and accrued normal costs or special costs owing at the date of the Wabush Initial Order would be subject to a limited deemed trust pursuant to subsections 8(1) of the PBSA and 32(1) of the PBA;
 - b) A liquidation deemed trust did not arise prior to or since the Wabush Initial Order pursuant to subsections 8(2) PBSA or 32(2) PBA, as none of the applicable triggering events, including a "liquidation", have occurred, either before or since the date of the Wabush Initial Order;
 - c) In any event, any liquidation deemed trust triggered after the Wabush Initial Order with respect to unpaid amortization payments as a result of a "liquidation" would be ineffective given the terms of the Wabush Initial Order and applicable stay thereunder, the terms of the Pension Priority and Suspension Order, the fact that the special costs were assessed on the basis of a deficit which existed as of the Wabush Initial Order and were calculated for past services rendered as of a pre-filing reference date, the treatment of special costs under the CCAA generally, and legislative choices made with respect to same;
 - d) As a matter of statutory interpretation of the applicable pension legislation alone, the full amount of the wind-up deficit of the DB Plans would not be subject to a pension deemed trust pursuant to the PBSA or the PBA;

- 23 -

- e) Even if the wind-up deficits of the DB Plans were to be subject to a pension deemed trust pursuant to the terms of PBSA or the PBA, such deemed trust would be ineffective considering the Wabush Initial Order and applicable stay thereunder, the pre-filing nature of deficits of the DB Plans even if crystallized post-filing upon termination of the DB Plans, the treatment of pension deficits under the CCAA and legislative choices made with respect to same;
 - f) Even if the deemed trusts under the PBA were to cover assets located outside of Newfoundland & Labrador, this Court should not recognize and enforce it to the extent applicable the PBA deemed trust against assets located in this Province or the sale proceeds thereof;
70. The Monitor accordingly seeks an Order determining the priority of the various components of the Salaried DB Plan Claim (R-18) and the Union DB Plan Claim (R-19) to be as follows:
- a) normal costs and special payments outstanding as at the date of the Wabush Initial Order to be subject to a limited deemed trust;
 - b) normal costs and special payments payable after the date of the Wabush Initial Order, including additional special payments and Catch Up Payments established on the basis of actuarial reports issued after the Wabush Initial Order to constitute an unsecured Claim;
 - c) wind-up deficiency to constitute an unsecured Claim;
 - d) any trust created pursuant to the PBA may only charge property located in Newfoundland & Labrador;
71. Pursuant to paragraphs 38.1 and following of the Claims Procedure Order (R-2), reproduced above, the Pension Regulators, Representatives' Counsel and well as USW are all entitled to challenge the adjudication of Pension Claims by the Monitor;
72. The Monitor fully expects that various other stakeholders will have an interest in the determination of these priority issues;
73. The Monitor submits that it is proper to seek and obtain directions at this stage in respect of questions outlined above. [...] The amounts and the membership data included herein, including the wind-up deficits, are based on the information appearing in the Wind-Up Reports and are provided solely as information, as it is not necessary to know the actual quantum of the Pension Claims in order to determine their relative priority in these CCAA Proceedings;
74. In any event, should a dispute over the quantum of the wind-up deficits or any other factual information affecting the quantum of the Pension Claims arise, that issue could easily (and efficiently) be bifurcated and resolved independently from the directions sought herein;
75. The Monitor further submits that any proposed distribution of proceeds to creditors, including the choice of the mechanism to effect same, will be impacted by the issues set out herein above;

- 24 -

76. Based on the foregoing, the Monitor hereby submits that the Court will need to deal with the following questions:

Liquidation giving rise to a liquidation deemed trust

- a) What is the proper meaning of "liquidation" pursuant to subsections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) PBA?
- b) Did a "liquidation" within the meaning of subsections 8(2) PBSA and 32(2) PBA occur prior or since the Wabush Initial Order?
- c) Would such a liquidation deemed trust (...) be effective if triggered by a "liquidation" occurring after the Wabush Initial Order?

Deficit upon termination

- d) Absent CCAA or BIA proceedings with respect to an employer, could the full amount of the deficit upon termination of a defined benefit pension plan be subject to a deemed trust pursuant to either of the PBSA or the PBA?
- e) Would such a wind-up deficit deemed trust be effective if triggered by a termination occurring after the Wabush Initial Order?

Enforcement or recognition of a PBA deemed trust charging assets located in Québec

- f) Is the deemed trust arising under the PBA specifically or implicitly limited to assets of the employer located in Newfoundland & Labrador?
- g) Could this Court nonetheless recognize and enforce a PBA deemed trust against assets located in this Province (or the sale proceeds standing in their stead)?

VII. CONCLUSIONS AND PROCEDURAL MATTERS

77. The Monitor submits that the notices given of the presentation of the present Amended Motion, the initial iteration of which was originally notified to all Persons on the Service List on September 20, 2016, are proper and sufficient;

78. Pursuant to paragraph 56 of the Wabush Initial Order (R-1), all motions in these CCAA Proceedings are to be brought on no less than ten (10) calendar days' notice to all Persons on the Service List;

- 78.1 Following discussions amongst the Monitor and various interested parties, the Motion was first made returnable on a pro forma basis on October 28, 2016;

- 78.2 Prior to the October 28, 2016 hearing, the following Notices of Objection were filed:

- a) Notice of Objection dated October 7, 2016 filed by the USW;
- b) Notice of Objection dated October 7, 2016 filed by the Representatives; and
- c) Notice of Objection dated October 7, 2016 filed by the Replacement Plan Administrator;

the whole as appears from the Court record;

- 25 -

79. [...] Both before and after the October 28, 2016, the Monitor has made efforts in order [...] to agree to a timetable for the filing of materials and the presentation of the Motion with the CCAA Parties, Representative Counsel, the USW, the Replacement Plan Administrator and the relevant regulators that would allow relevant parties sufficient opportunity to respond and ensure the efficient hearing of the present Motion [...];
- 79.1 The N&L Superintendent went on to file a Notice of Objection on December 15, 2016, as appears from the Court record. While they have not filed a formal Notice of Objection, the Monitor also understands that OSFI and Retraite Québec intend to take position with respect to the issues raised in the Motion;
- 79.2 A hearing was held on December 20, 2016 to debate the preliminary issues raised in the Notices of Objection, mainly the jurisdictional argument raised by the Representatives as to whether the Court should refer parts or all of the questions arising in the Motion to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland & Labrador;
- 79.3 On January 30, 2017, the Court issued a ruling whereby it determined that it had jurisdiction to deal with all issues stemming from this Motion, including the interpretation of the PBA in the context of the CCAA Proceedings and therefore refused to refer the matter to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland & Labrador;
- 79.4 During a case management hearing held on April 5, 2017, hearing dates on the merits were set (June 28 and 29, 2017), with the Court reserving the right of all parties to submit their position concerning the legal issues this Court needed or ought to rule on to resolve the issues raised by the present Motion;
- 79.5 The service of the present Amended Motion serves as notice pursuant to [...] paragraph 56 of the Wabush Initial Order (R-1);
80. [...];
81. The CCAA Parties have been consulted by the Monitor and support the conclusions sought herein;
82. The present Motion is well founded in fact and in law.

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT TO:

GRANT the present Amended Motion;

ISSUE an Order [...] determining the various priority disputes and issues raised by the present Amended Motion;

NOTICE OF OBJECTION BY THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PENSIONS OF NEWFOUNDLAND & LABRADOR TO THE MOTION BY THE MONITOR FOR DIRECTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PENSION CLAIMS

(Sections 11 and 23(k), Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c C-36)

TO MR. JUSTICE STEPHEN W. HAMILTON, J.S.C., OR TO ONE OF THE HONORABLE JUDGES OF THE SUPERIOR COURT, SITTING IN THE COMMERCIAL DIVISION FOR THE DISTRICT OF MONTRÉAL, THE SUPERINTENDENT OF PENSIONS OF NEWFOUNDLAND & LABRADOR RESPECTFULLY SUBMITS AS FOLLOWS:

1. The Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland & Labrador objects to the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with Respect to Pension Claims dated September 20, 2016 ("Motion for Directions").
2. The Superintendent of Pensions first objects to a number of the Monitor's conclusions on questions of law. Having reviewed the relevant statutes and applicable case-law, the Superintendent of Pensions is of the view that:
 - a. A liquidation deemed trust did arise pursuant to subsection 32(2) of the Pension Benefits Act, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 ("PBA"), and that it is inconsequential that the triggering event – in this case, a "liquidation" – would have occurred after the Wabush Initial Order;
 - b. As such, all unpaid and accrued normal costs and special costs up to the date the pension plans were terminated are subject to a deemed trust, in priority to all other claims against the Wabush CCAA Parties (excepting the CCAA-ordered charges);

- c. Interpreting the relevant provisions of the PBA, the full amount of the wind-up deficit would either be subject to a deemed trust, in priority to all other claims against the Wabush CCAA Parties (excepting the CCAA-ordered charges), or subject to a lien and charge held by the Plan Administrator;
 - d. The deemed trusts and liens created pursuant to Newfoundland & Labrador's PBA charge the sale proceeds of assets formerly located in Quebec and currently held by the Monitor; or,
 - e. In the alternative, this Court ought to give effect, in Quebec, to the provisions of Newfoundland & Labrador's PBA pursuant to article 3079 of the Civil Code of Quebec, CQLR c. CCQ-1991.
3. The Superintendent notes that these objections have all been previously raised with the Monitor, with the Wabush CCAA parties, and with various counsel representing the pension interests at this Court's pro forma hearing on October 28th, 2016.
4. Furthermore, the Superintendent of Pensions objects to two assertions relating to issues of fact, or mixed fact and law, set out in the Monitor's Motion for Directions.
5. First, in the Superintendent of Pensions' view, the Monitor has erred in calculating the catch-up special payments that accrued pre-filing. A number of catch-up special payments were created by a January 1, 2015 actuarial report that was not filed until after the CCAA filing date. These catch-up payments covered, inter alia, the months of January, February, March and April 2015, the period before the CCAA filing date. While the amounts due for these months only became known with certainty when the actuarial report was completed and filed in July 2015, these payments "accrued" at the point at which they were completely constituted, before the CCAA filing date: on this point, see e.g. Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, at paras. 34-36.
6. For the Union Plan, the catch-up special payments that accrued pre-filing for the months of January, February, March and April 2015 amount to $1,175,040. This would reduce the amount of catch-up special payments currently classified as "post-filing" in the Monitor's Motion for Directions from $3,525,120 to $2,350,080.
7. Second, there is an additional amount of $21,462 of normal costs for December 2015 that was never contributed to the Union Plan. Based on the terms of the Union Plan, members who worked the partial month of December, up until the termination date of December 16th, 2015, must receive credited service for the entire month. Therefore, the normal costs for December 2015 should not have been pro-rated, as the Monitor suggests in paragraph 32 of its Motion for Directions.

8. Finally, for the reasons detailed in a Plan of Argument dated December 15th, 2016, the Superintendent of Pensions is also of the view that certain questions that relate solely to the interpretation and application of Newfoundland & Labrador law ought to be determined by the Supreme Court of Newfoundland & Labrador, pursuant to section 17 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c. C-36.
9. The Superintendent of Pension reserves its right to raise all other grounds for opposition to the matters raised in the Motion for Directions.
10. At the appropriate time, the Superintendent of Pensions will outline its substantive arguments in further detail.
11. This Notice of Objection is well founded in fact and in law.

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT TO:

GRANT the present Notice of Objection;

DISMISS the Motion for Directions in Respect of the Pension Claims;

ORDER that the adjudication of the aforementioned issues be referred to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland & Labrador for determination.

(Sections 11 and 23(k) of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36)

TO THE HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE STEPHEN W. HAMILTON, J.S.C., OR TO ONE OF THE HONOURABLE JUDGES SITTING IN THE COMMERCIAL DIVISION IN AND FOR THE JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF MONTRÉAL, THE OBJECTING PARTIES-MISES-EN-CAUSE RESPECTFULLY SUBMIT THE FOLLOWING:

The court-appointed Representatives to the non-union employees and retirees (the "Salaried Members") of the Wabush CCAA Parties object to the Motion by the Monitor for Directions with respect to Pension Claims dated September 20, 2016 ("Motion for Directions") on the following basis:

Background

1. The Wabush CCAA Entities are under CCAA protection but are not restructuring. The Wabush CCAA Entities have shut down operations, terminated the vast majority of the employees, and are selling their assets in a sales process in the CCAA proceedings. The shutdown of Wabush Mines is part of the disengagement by Cliffs Natural Resources based in Cleveland, Ohio, the parent company of Wabush Mines (and Bloom Lake), from its mining operations in Eastern Canada.
2. The Wabush Salaried Plan (and Union plans) are registered in Newfoundland and regulated under the Newfoundland Pension Benefits Act, S.N.L. 1996 c. P-4.01 ("Newfoundland PBA"). The Plans are significantly underfunded. They are in the process of being wound up by Morneau Shepell who was appointed as the replacement pension plan administrator by the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions.
3. As a result of the underfunding of the pension plans, the monthly pension benefits of the Salaried Members have been significantly reduced by 25%. Coupled with the loss of their earned health and life insurance benefits that occurred in June, 2015 at the commencement of the Wabush CCAA proceedings, the Salaried Members are suffering significant financial losses and hardship in the course of this CCAA proceeding. The Salaried Members are a very significant creditor group.

The Newfoundland PBA deemed trust priority for pension plan beneficiaries

4. On August 14, 2015, Representative Counsel wrote to the company and other parties asserting that the deemed trust priority provisions in the Newfoundland PBA (the "Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust") apply as a priority claim in favour of the beneficiaries of the Wabush Salaried Plan. A copy of the letter is communicated herewith as Exhibit OP-1.
5. On November 16, 2015, at the hearing of the motion by the Monitor for approval of the Claims Procedure Order, Representative Counsel advised the Monitor and this Honourable Court that it is the Representatives' position that any issue(s) regarding the interpretation of the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust should be referred to the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador for adjudication.
6. Despite the previously communicated position of Representative Counsel, the Motion for Directions seeks to have such questions put before by this Court. Further, Representative Counsel does not agree with the relevance and/or the formulation of certain of the Monitor's proposed questions in its Motion for Directions.
7. In the event of dispute on the issue of transferring the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust question to the Newfoundland Court, that issue should be addressed first and scheduled for a hearing. There are a number of reasons that support such a transfer, including, but not limited to, the following:
 - a) The Wabush pension plans are registered in Newfoundland and Labrador and have been funded, administered and regulated in accordance with the Newfoundland PBA since their inception. The pension plans have been, and continue to be, regulated by the Newfoundland Superintendent of Pensions pursuant to the provisions of Newfoundland PBA;

- b) The Québec Superior Court is a court of civil jurisdiction. The Newfoundland court is a court of common law jurisdiction. The Newfoundland PBA is a statute of a common law jurisdiction. It is respectfully submitted that it is more appropriate for a common law court to interpret a common law statute than a civil court interpreting a common law statute;
- c) It is more efficient and cost-effective for the Newfoundland Court to interpret the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust rather than the Québec CCAA court. Respectfully, this court does not have expertise in interpreting the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust. The adjudication of the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust will therefore require expert evidence to be adduced before the Québec court. That process involves the identification, retainer, and payment of suitable expert(s) by the adversarial parties who will be required to prepare expert affidavits on the interpretation of the Newfoundland PBA. The process to retain such expert(s) is time-consuming and costly and will contribute to delay and costs to the estate. Such delay and costs can be avoided by transferring the issue to a Newfoundland court which, as a court of competent jurisdiction to interpret Newfoundland statute law, does not require expert evidence;
- d) There is precedent authority directly on point supporting the transfer of a pension issue to the jurisdiction where the pension plan is registered and has been administered, where that jurisdiction is different from the jurisdiction of the court where the company filed for CCAA protection. For example, in the CCAA proceeding of Timminco, the company obtained CCAA protection in the Ontario Superior Court of Justice (Commercial List). An issue arose in the course of that proceeding on the interpretation of the deemed trust priority provisions in the Québec Supplemental Pension Plan Act, chapter R-15.1 ("SPPA") which regulated one of the Timminco pension plans. The CCAA judge supervising Timminco ordered adjudication of those issues to be transferred to the Québec Superior Court. The monitor of Timminco (FTI Consulting), and counsel to the company (Blakes LLP) did not oppose the transfer in that case. A decision was ultimately released by Mr. Justice Mongeon of the Quebec court interpreting the provisions of the deemed trust provisions of the Quebec SPPA to the Québec Timminco Plan. A copy of the order of Mr. Justice Morawetz dated October 18, 2012 ordering the transfer is communicated herewith as Exhibit OP-2;

- e) Section 17 of the CCAA contemplates the possibility of a transfer of an issue that arises in a CCAA proceeding to another Canadian court from the CCAA court to "act in aid of and be auxiliary to each other". Accordingly, the transfer of the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust to the Newfoundland court is readily permissible by the CCAA;
 - f) The Monitor states in its Motion for Directions that it believes another issue on which it needs direction is whether the proceeds derived from the sale of assets located in Quebec could be used toward the payment of a valid Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust claim, should the court hold that the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust priority is valid. As a Québec property issue, that is not a factor to consider in transferring the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust priority issue to the Newfoundland court. The issue of whether Quebec property laws apply in the manner suggested by the Monitor may only arise, if at all, if the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust priority applies in favour of the pension plan beneficiaries. The Québec property issue may not arise at all.
8. The process to determine disputed claims in the Claims Process was extensively negotiated by Representative Counsel and USW and other affected parties and culminated in the Claims Procedure Order of November 5, 2015. The Motion for Directions proposes an alternate process – a motion for directions – without prior consultation or agreement of Representative Counsel (nor other parties). Moreover, the Motion for Directions is in substance largely an advocacy piece and not a neutral document. Representative Counsel requests the opportunity to consult with the Monitor as to the appropriateness of a motion for directions instead of the Claims Process and on the questions to be proposed to the applicable court prior to the Motion for Directions proceeding further.

9. Representative Counsel agrees with the Objection of Morneau Shepell, concurrently filed herein.

Disagreement as to substance of questions and arguments in the Motion for Directions and reservation of rights

10. The Representatives disagree with the position adopted by the Monitor.
11. At the appropriate time, Representative Counsel will submit substantive arguments to such effect that all of the deficits in the Salaried Pension Plan should benefit from the priority deemed trust provisions set out in the Newfoundland PBA, in priority to all other claims against the Wabush CCAA Parties (other than the CCAA-ordered charges).
12. Representative Counsel reserve their rights to raise all other grounds for opposition of the matters raised in the Motion for Directions.
13. This Notice of Objection is well founded in fact and in law.

FOR THESE REASONS THE OBJECTING PARTIES-MISES-EN-CAUSE ASKS THAT THIS HONOURABLE COURT:

- [A] GRANT the present Notice of Objection;
- [B] DISMISS the Motion for Directions in respect of the Pension Claims;

- 6 -

- [C] REQUIRE: (1) the Monitor to consult with the affected parties and make best efforts to reach agreement on a procedure for the adjudication of the Newfoundland PBA Deemed Trust claims, including: the issues to be adjudicated, the appropriate forum for adjudication, the evidence on which the issues are to be adjudicated or the manner in which such evidence is to be tendered, and an appropriate timeline for adjudication; and (2) a motion be brought to amend the Amended Claims Procedure Order;

IN THE ALTERNATIVE:

- [D] RESERVE the rights of the Representatives to file a further Notice of Objection as to the specific issues raised in the Motion for Directions in respect of the Pension Claims no later than ten (10) business days after final adjudication of their present Notice of Objection;

IN THE FURTHER ALTERNATIVE

- [E] DECLARE the deemed trusts provided in section 52 of the Newfoundland PBA is applicable to the entirety of the deficits in the Wabush Salaried Plan in favour of the pension plan beneficiaries.

THE WHOLE WITHOUT COSTS, EXCEPT IN THE CASE OF CONTESTATION.

ET LE SYNDICAT DES MÉTALLOS, SECTION LOCALE 6285, EXPOSENT
CE QUI SUIT :

I. L'OBJET DE L'AVIS D'OBJECTION

1. Par la présente, les Opposants souhaitent formuler leur objection quant à la requête intitulée Motion for directions with respect to pension claims (ci-après la « Requête »), qui leur a été signifiée le 21 septembre 2016 et qui doit être présentée pour la forme le 12 octobre 2016;
2. Les Opposants souhaitent ainsi formuler une objection quant aux aspects suivants de la requête déposée par le Contrôleur :

- a) La Requête court-circuite le processus d'adjudication des réclamations ordonné par la Cour;
- b) La Requête, qui se prétend être une requête pour instructions, est en fait une requête pour jugement déclaratoire qui nécessiterait un énoncé conjoint de faits;
- c) La Requête est prématurée;
- d) Les questions soulevées par la Requête sont beaucoup trop larges et nombreuses;
- e) Les Opposants sont en désaccord complet avec les prétentions soutenues par le Contrôleur dans sa Requête;

II. LES MOTIFS D'OBJECTION

A. Le processus de réclamations ordonné par la Cour

- 3. Les Opposants soumettent à la Cour que le Contrôleur ne procède pas convenablement en présentant la Requête puisqu'il existe un mécanisme mis en place par la Cour qui permettrait de traiter efficacement de la question;
- 4. En effet, le 5 novembre 2015, le juge Stephen W. Hamilton, j.c.s. ordonnait la mise en place d'un processus de réclamations pour établir les créances qui valent contre les Débitrices et le rang de priorité de chacune de ces créances;
- 5. Ce processus a été négocié avec de nombreuses parties qui avaient des représentations à faire sur la manière dont le traitement des réclamations devait être fait pour respecter leurs droits;
- 6. Le 16 novembre 2015, ce processus était amendé en lien avec une modification au rôle des Opposants dans le cadre de celui-ci;
- 7. Depuis cette date, le processus de réclamations n'a pas été altéré et est toujours en vigueur;
- 8. Tel que mentionné au paragraphe 45 de la Requête, des réclamations ont été déposées par l'administrateur des régimes de retraite de l'époque concernant les déficits accumulés;
- 9. De plus, des réclamations actualisées sont attendues suivant le rapport de terminaison des régimes de retraite qui viendra établir le déficit de terminaison des régimes;

10. Ces réclamations n'ont toujours pas fait l'objet d'une adjudication de la part du Contrôleur;
11. Les Opposants estiment que le Contrôleur aurait dû poursuivre le traitement des réclamations et émettre une adjudication conforme à sa position, ce qui permettrait ensuite aux parties intéressées de faire valoir une contestation si elles le désirent pour ensuite convenir de façon commune de la manière de procéder pour la détermination des questions en litige et des autres sujets accessoires;
12. D'ailleurs, les Opposants détiennent un moyen de contestation en vertu du paragraphe 38.2 de l'ordonnance instaurant le processus de réclamation amendé advenant une détermination par le Contrôleur quant à la réclamation concernant le régime de retraite des salariés syndiqués;
13. Ainsi, cette manière de procéder conformément au processus de réclamation aurait pour effet de diminuer les sources de contestation en plus de canaliser le tout conformément aux ordonnances de la Cour;
14. Également, ce fonctionnement permettrait de préserver l'équité procédurale pour chacune des parties, alors qu'elle apparaît fortement compromise par le choix procédural du Contrôleur;
15. Si le Contrôleur est d'avis que le processus de réclamations ne convient plus à cette question, il est libre d'en demander l'amendement, ce qui permettra à l'ensemble des parties concernées de faire valoir leur position sur les modifications recherchées;
16. Toutefois, les Opposants soumettent que la voie procédurale choisie par le Contrôleur en l'espèce n'est pas adéquate, ce qui devrait entraîner le rejet de la Requête pour cette seule raison;

B. Le jugement déclaratoire et l'énoncé conjoint de faits

17. Les Opposants soumettent à la Cour que la Requête présentée par le Contrôleur, plutôt que d'être une requête pour instructions, est en fait une requête pour jugement déclaratoire sur certaines questions de droit;
18. Ainsi, nous soumettons que les questions de fond ne pourront être débattues avant que les parties concernées en viennent à une entente sur l'énoncé conjoint des faits à produire au soutien de cette requête;
19. Sans cela, les faits ne sauraient être considérés par le tribunal sans avoir fait l'objet d'une preuve en bonne et due forme, ce qui n'apparaît pas avoir été envisagé à ce jour étant donné que l'on traite uniquement de l'adjudication de questions de droits sur la base des représentations des parties;

C. Le caractère prématuré

20. Les Opposants soumettent à la Cour que les questions soulevées par le Contrôleur ne sont pas nées et actuelles, ce qui confère à la Requête un caractère théorique par sa prématurité;
21. En effet, le Contrôleur utilise lui-même certains termes qui laissent entendre que sa Requête se base sur certaines hypothèses pour exiger une détermination de la Cour, étant donné qu'il n'y a aucune certitude à l'heure actuelle qu'une détermination soit nécessaire dans le cadre d'une éventuelle distribution ou encore l'étendue de la détermination qui serait nécessaire;
22. Les Opposants sont d'avis qu'il faudrait attendre d'avoir une base factuelle certaine pour laquelle des questions de droit se posent avant de requérir une intervention de la Cour;
23. Le caractère prématuré est ainsi fortement lié à la poursuite du processus de réclamations;
24. De plus, les parties intéressées n'ont pas encore échangé sur leurs positions respectives puisque la position soutenue par le Contrôleur a été annoncé par le dépôt de la Requête;
25. Ainsi, les parties n'ont pas été en mesure de voir s'il y avait des points où une entente était possible pour restreindre ou éliminer le débat;
26. Ainsi, le caractère prématuré de la Requête est un autre motif pour lequel la Cour devrait rejeter la Requête;

D. Les questions choisies par le Contrôleur

27. Les Opposants soumettent qu'il n'est pas nécessaire que la Cour se prononce d'emblée sur l'ensemble des questions soulevées par le Contrôleur;
28. Les Opposants proposent plutôt un processus en plusieurs étapes permettant d'importantes économies pour l'ensemble des parties en concentrant le débat sur un point essentiel de façon préliminaire, qui pourrait bien mettre un terme au débat selon la réponse qui serait donnée par la Cour;

29. Cette solution a pour avantage d'éviter que de nombreuses questions soient abordées en profondeur par l'ensemble des parties pour finalement constater que l'exercice n'était peut-être pas nécessaire en raison d'une décision de la Cour ou d'un règlement;
30. Ainsi, les Opposants proposent plutôt que la Cour se prononce dans un premier temps quant à l'existence en l'espèce d'une fiducie réputée en vertu de la Pension Benefits Act, S.N.L. 1996, c. P-4.01 ou encore de la Loi de 1985 sur les normes de prestation de pension, L.R.C. (1985), ch. 32 (2e suppl.), portant sur l'ensemble ou une partie du déficit de terminaison des régimes de retraite, pour ensuite relayer à un deuxième temps les autres questions qui seraient toujours en litige;
31. Au surplus, advenant que la Cour juge nécessaire de se prononcer sur la totalité des questions soumises par le Contrôleur, les Opposants sont d'avis qu'il faudrait ajouter certaines questions, notamment quant à l'applicabilité des dispositions de la Loi sur les régimes complémentaires de retraite, LRLQ, c. R-15.1 et leur impact sur les réclamations portant sur les biens situés au Québec;

E. Le désaccord sur le fond

32. Au surplus, les Opposants expriment leur désaccord sur l'ensemble de la position adoptée par le Contrôleur;
33. En effet, les Opposants estiment que la fiducie réputée doit trouver application en l'espèce pour la totalité des déficits associés aux régimes de retraite, et ce, sans les restrictions indiquées par le Contrôleur;
34. Les Opposants entendent contester plus amplement cette position du Contrôleur et exprimer plus en détails leur position dans le cadre des procédures qui suivront et qui mèneront à une audition sur le fond;
35. Ainsi, les Opposants se réservent le droit de soulever tout autre motif de contestation de la Requête;
36. La présente objection est bien fondée en faits et en droit.

POUR CES MOTIFS, PLAISE À LA COUR DE :

ACCUEILLIR l'avis d'objection formulé par les Opposants;

REJETER la requête du Contrôleur intitulée Motion for directions with respect to pension claims;

RENDRE toute autre ordonnance qu'elle pourrait juger nécessaire;

SUBSIDIAIREMENT :

DIRECTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PENSION CLAIMS
(Sections 11 and 23(k) of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-36)

TO THE HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE STEPHEN W. HAMILTON, J.S.C., OR TO ONE OF THE HONOURABLE JUDGES SITTING IN THE COMMERCIAL DIVISION IN AND FOR THE JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF MONTRÉAL, THE OBJECTING-MISE-EN-CAUSE RESPECTFULLY SUBMITS THE FOLLOWING:

INTRODUCTION

- 1) The Monitor has made a Motion for Directions with respect to certain issues relating to the Pension Claims filed pursuant to the Claims Procedure established by an Order of this Court. The Motion is returnable on a pro forma basis on October 12, 2016.
- 2) In accordance with paragraph 32 of the Amended Claims Procedure Order dated November 16, 2015, the Pension Administrator filed Proofs of Claim with respect to the Claims of the Pension Plans.
- 3) Morneau Shepell, in its capacity as Replacement Pension Plan Administrator, has not yet received from the Monitor either a Notice of Revision or a Notice of Disallowance stating reasons for any revision or disallowance of the Pension Claims as required under paragraph 35 of the Amended Claims Procedure Order.
- 4) In turn, the Replacement Pension Plan Administrator has not filed a Notice of Dispute as required under paragraph 36 of the Amended Claims Procedure Order. That Order also authorizes the Pension Regulators, Representative Counsel, and the USW to file Notices of Dispute in respect of any Notice of Revision or Notice of Disallowance affecting their interests.

- 5) Under paragraph 37 of the Amended Claims Procedure Order, the Monitor may, among other things, bring a motion before the Court to adjudicate a disputed Claim, but only after being in receipt of a Notice of Dispute. Under this procedure, the parties and the Court would have the benefit of the Monitor's Notice of Revision or Disallowance, setting out the reasons therefore, and the claimant's Notice of Dispute, all of which would frame the issues to be adjudicated.
- 6) The Motion for Directions was filed by the Monitor without any consultation with, or agreement by, the Replacement Pension Plan Administrator. There has been no Motion made by the Monitor to amend the procedure for adjudicating Claims authorized by this Court in the Amended Claims Procedure Order.

OBJECTION

- 7) The Replacement Pension Plan Administrator objects to the Motion for Directions on the ground that it seeks to adjudicate the Pension Claims by a procedure that is not in accordance with the Amended Claims Procedure Order, and which has not been consented to.
- 8) Prior to any motion being made to adjudicate any aspect of the Pension Claims, there should be a motion to amend the Amended Claims Procedure Order, with prior consultation with, and agreement by, the affected parties on: the issues to be adjudicated, the appropriate forum for adjudication, the evidence on which the issues are to be adjudicated or the manner in which such evidence is to be tendered, and an appropriate timeline for adjudication.

- 9) The Replacement Pension Plan Administrator does not agree with all of the alleged facts set out in the Motion for Directions, or with the characterization of the issues in relation to the Pension Claims. In bringing the Motion for Directions outside the procedure established by the Amended Claims Procedure Notice, the Monitor has unilaterally identified and formulated issues to be adjudicated and the alleged evidence upon which it seeks to have the Court determine these issues. This is procedurally unfair.

FOR THESE REASONS THE PETITIONERS-MISES-EN-CAUSE ASKS THAT THIS HONOURABLE COURT:

DISMISS the Motion for Directions in respect of the Pension Claims and require: (1) the Monitor to consult with the affected parties and make best efforts to reach agreement on a procedure for the adjudication of the Pension Claims, including: the issues to be adjudicated, the appropriate forum for adjudication, the evidence on which the issues are to be adjudicated or the manner in which such evidence is to be tendered, and an appropriate timeline for adjudication; and (2) a motion be brought to amend the Amended Claims Procedure Order.

Accordingly, any parties wishing to object to the relief sought on this Motion must serve responding motion materials or a Notice of Objection by no later than 5 p.m. Montréal time on May 26, 2017.
23. 24. Paragraph 57 of the Bloom Lake Initial Order and paragraph 59 of the Wabush Initial Order provide that the Monitor shall communicate with the Judge and the service list with respect to the Hearing Details.

8. CONCLUSIONS

25. In light of the foregoing, the CCAA Parties hereby seek the issuance of an Order substantially in the form of the draft Order communicated herewith as Exhibit R-1, which provides for the approval of the Allocation Methodology, the authorization for the repayment of the Bloom Lake Inter-Company Funding and for the payment of the Outstanding Property Taxes.
26. The present Motion is well founded in fact and in law.

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT TO:

GRANT the present Motion;

ISSUE an order in the form of the draft Order communicated in support hereof as Exhibit R-1;

WITHOUT COSTS, save and except in case of contestation.

8. Each of the Wabush CCAA Charges rank ahead of all Encumbrances in favour of Cliffs Mining Company and behind any and all other existing Encumbrances affecting the property of the Wabush CCAA Parties charged by such Encumbrances, in favour of any Persons that have not been served with notice of the motion seeking the Wabush Initial Order (para. 47 of the Wabush Initial Order).
9. Paragraph 47 of the Wabush Initial Order also provides that the Wabush CCAA Parties and the beneficiaries of the Wabush CCAA Charges are entitled to seek priority for the Wabush CCAA Charges ahead of all Encumbrances on notice to those parties likely to be affected by such priority. Paragraph 47 of the Wabush Initial Order states that it is the intention of the Wabush CCAA Parties to seek priority for the Wabush CCAA Charges ahead of all Encumbrances at the Comeback Hearing (which, pursuant to paragraph 66 of the Wabush Initial Order is scheduled for June 9, 2015).
10. Pursuant to paragraph 56 of the Wabush Initial Order, all motions in these CCAA Proceedings are to be brought on not less than ten (10) calendar days' notice to all Persons on the service list. Each motion must specify a date (the "Initial Return Date") and time for the hearing.
11. The service of the present Motion serves as notice pursuant to paragraphs 47 and 56 of the Wabush Initial Order.
12. Paragraph 57 of the Wabush Initial Order requires that any Person wishing to object to the relief sought on a motion in the CCAA Proceedings must serve responding motion materials or a notice stating the objection to the motion and grounds for such objection (a "Notice of Objection") in writing to the moving party and the Monitor, with a copy to all persons on the service list, no later than 5 p.m. Montréal time on the date that is four (4) calendar days prior to the Initial Return Date (the "Objection Deadline"). Accordingly, any parties wishing to object to the relief sought on this Motion must serve responding motion materials or a Notice of Objection by no later than 5 p.m. Montréal time on June 5, 2015.
13. Paragraph 58 of the Wabush Initial Order further provides that if no Notice of Objection is served by the Objection Deadline, the Judge having carriage of the motion may determine whether a hearing is necessary, whether such hearing will be in person, by telephone or in writing and the parties from whom submissions are required (collectively, the "Hearing Details"). Paragraph 59 provides that the Monitor shall communicate with the Judge and the service list with respect to the Hearing Details.

2. ORDERS SOUGHT

14. On this Motion, the Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek:
 - a) priority for the Wabush CCAA Charges ahead of all Encumbrances affecting the Wabush Property, whether or not charged by such Encumbrances, and to clarify that the Encumbrances include trusts and deemed trusts (statutory or otherwise) against the Wabush Property;
 - b) nunc pro tunc approval of the Initial SISF as at the Wabush Filing Date as it applies to the Wabush CCAA Parties from and after the Wabush Filing Date;

- c) nunc pro tunc authorization of the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Monitor and the Sale Advisor as at the Wabush Filing Date to take such steps as they consider necessary or desirable in carrying out the SISP (as defined herein) in accordance with its terms as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties from and after the Wabush Filing Date;
- d) nunc pro tunc approval of the Wabush CCAA Parties' engagement of the Sale Advisor as at the Wabush Filing Date to assist, inter alia, with the conduct and implementation of the SISP as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties from and after the Wabush Filing Date;
- e) an amendment and restatement of the Initial SISP to reflect the inclusion of the Wabush CCAA Parties in the CCAA Proceedings, in the form of the amended and restated sale and investor solicitation procedures (the "SISP") communicated herewith as Exhibit R-9. A blackline comparing the Initial SISP to the SISP is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-10;
- f) the creation of the Wabush Sale Advisor Charge (as defined herein) to have priority over all claims of unsecured creditors of the Wabush CCAA Parties, but to be subordinated to the existing Wabush CCAA Charges and Encumbrances;
- g) the suspension of the payment by the Wabush CCAA Parties' of Monthly Amortization Payments and Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payments (both as defined herein) and other post-retirement employee benefits (the "OPEBs"), as described in more details herein;
- h) the extension of the Wabush Stay Period in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties until July 31, 2015, as set forth in the conclusions to this Motion; and
- i) the issuance of an Amended Initial Order in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties, reflecting any amendments to the Wabush Initial Order to be ordered by the Court herein.

3. PRIORITY OF THE WABUSH CCAA CHARGES

3.1 Movable and Immovable Hypothecs in Québec

- 15. As of May 11, 2015, there were 5 movable hypothecs registered against moveable Wabush Property in Québec (the "Movable Hypothecs"), the whole as appears from the RPMRR (Québec) search results summary in respect of the movable Wabush Property, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-11. Copies of the raw search results will be available at the hearing of this Motion.
- 16. As of May 27, 2015, there were no immovable hypothecs registered against immovable Wabush Property in Québec (excluding legal hypothecs registered in favour of persons having taken part in the construction or renovation of an immovable to which reference is made below), the whole as appears from real estate search report (Québec) in respect of the immovable Wabush Property, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-12.

3.2 Québec Construction Liens

17. As of May 27, 2015, there were 6 legal hypothecs in favour of persons having taken part in the construction or renovation of an immovable registered against immovable Wabush Property, four of them being related to the same claim (collectively, the "Existing Construction Liens"), as more fully appears from: (i) a table summarizing the Existing Construction Liens communicated herewith as Exhibit R-13; (ii) a copy of the legal hypothecs in favour of persons having taken part in the construction or renovation of an immovable and registered against the immovable Wabush Property as of May 27, 2015, communicated herewith, en liasse, as Exhibit R-14; and (iii) the index of immovables for the relevant land files of the Land Register (Québec) communicated herewith, en liasse, as Exhibit R-15.
18. According to the foregoing exhibits, claims related to the Existing Construction Liens amount to approximately $2,357,023.07, considering that four of the Existing Construction Liens relate to the same claim.
19. It is also possible that additional construction liens related to pre-filing claims (collectively with the Existing Construction Liens, the "Construction Liens") may be registered against immovable Wabush Property during the course of the CCAA Proceedings.

3.3 PPSA and UCC Registrations

20. As of May 6, 2015, there were 12 liens registered in Ontario, Newfoundland and Labrador and Ohio against movable Wabush Property located in Québec by certain creditors, as appears from a Personal Property Security Act (Ontario, Newfoundland and Labrador) and Uniform Commercial Code (Ohio) search results summary in respect of movable Wabush Property communicated herewith as Exhibit R-16 (collectively, the "PPSA Registrations"). Copies of the raw search results will be available at the hearing of this Motion.

3.4 Registrations against Immovable Wabush Property in Newfoundland and Labrador

21. As of May 14, 2015, other than on registration of lis pendens in respect of litigation instituted by Royal Bank of Canada, there were no registrations against the Immovable Wabush Property in Newfoundland and Labrador.

3.5 Need for Priority CCAA Charges

22. As more fully described in the motion for the Wabush Initial Order, each of the Wabush CCAA Charges is essential to the Wabush CCAA Parties' goal of successful restructuring and the continuance of the CCAA Proceedings.
23. The Monitor supports this position, as appears from the Fifth Report of the Monitor filed with the Court of May 19, 2015, which forms part of the Court record.
24. The current directors and officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties have advised that they are not prepared to continue in their respective capacities unless the priority sought for the Wabush Directors' Charge on this Motion is granted. The continued support and

Motion to Amend the Initial Order (Comeback Motion), May 29, 2015

- service of the directors and officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties is beneficial to the Wabush CCAA Parties' efforts to preserve value and maximise recoveries.
25. Further, the beneficiaries of the Wabush Administration Charge are essential to the success of the CCAA Proceedings and the SISP.
 26. Finally, the Interim Facility is the only source of financing available to the Wabush CCAA Parties to continue in care and maintenance mode during the pendency of the CCAA Proceedings.
 27. The Interim Lender (as defined in the Wabush Initial Order) is only prepared to make advances of the Interim Facility (as defined in the Wabush Initial Order) pursuant to the Interim Financing Term Sheet (as defined in the Wabush Initial Order) and the Interim Financing Documents (as defined in the Wabush Initial Order) if the priority sought for the Wabush Interim Lender Charge on this Motion is granted.
 28. The factors to be considered by the Court pursuant to section 11.2 of the CCAA all militate in favour of granting the priority sought for the Interim Lender Charge:
 - a) The Wabush CCAA Parties are expected to be subject to the CCAA Proceedings until at least July 31, 2015 as they seek to conduct the SISP and without the Interim Facility, the Wabush CCAA Parties do not have sufficient liquidity to meet their post-filing liabilities during such period;
 - b) The Wabush CCAA Parties' business and financial affairs will be managed in basic care and maintenance mode by the existing management team, with the goal of preserving the value of the Wabush Property while seeking a purchaser pursuant to the SISP;
 - c) The Wabush CCAA Parties' management has the confidence of the major creditors, the vast majority of whom are related companies;
 - d) The Interim Facility will significantly enhance the prospects of a viable compromise or arrangement by way of a sale of the Wabush CCAA Parties' Property, as without the Interim Facility, the Wabush CCAA Parties would not have any cash to preserve the Wabush Property and/or conduct and implement the SISP;
 - e) The nature and value of the Wabush Property is not unusual and does not involve any special considerations;
 - f) Any prejudice that could be suffered by any creditors is outweighed by the prejudice that all stakeholders would suffer in the absence of the Interim Facility, which would leave the Wabush CCAA Parties without cash and without the ability to preserve the Wabush Property and conduct and implement the SISP; and
 - g) The report of the Monitor supports the granting of the priority sought for the Interim Lender Charge.
 29. The holders of Encumbrances will benefit from the pursuit of successful CCAA Proceedings and, in particular, the SISP. Specifically, equipment lessors and financiers will benefit from the potential assignment of their respective agreements and/or the maximization of recoveries from their respective claims.

30. Parties with Construction Lien claims will benefit from the opportunity to maximize recoveries from the immoveable Wabush Property through the SISP.
31. For the purpose of this Motion the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Monitor have not yet had the opportunity to review the validity or the quantum of the Encumbrances that may be asserted and all rights are reserved in this regard.
32. The Monitor supports the granting of the priority sought for each of the Wabush CCAA Charges.

4. THE SISP¹

33. The CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Monitor and the Sale Advisor, prepared the SISP (Exhibit R-9) which established a process for the solicitation of bidders interested in acquiring the assets of the CCAA Parties or investing in one or more of the businesses of the CCAA Parties.
34. The Sale Advisor was engaged by all of the CCAA Parties to, among other things, assist in the conduct and implementation of the SISP.
35. Initially, the CCAA Parties contemplated that the SISP would be conducted in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties under the auspices of the CCAA Proceedings, with the Wabush CCAA Parties remaining outside of the CCAA Proceedings.
36. Therefore, the SISP Order that was obtained on April 17, 2015 approving the SISP, was obtained only in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties.
37. Since the date of the SISP Order, the CCAA Parties have conducted the SISP in accordance with its terms.
38. As the Wabush CCAA Parties are now subject to the CCAA Proceedings, they hereby seek the Court's approval of the SISP as relates to their participation in the SISP from and after the Wabush Filing Date and to amend the SISP to delete the defined term "Non-CCAA Parties" and all provisions related to Non- CCAA Parties therein.
39. The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that continuing the Wabush CCAA Parties in the process established by the SISP optimizes the chances of securing the best possible price for the assets for sale or the best possible investment in the businesses, all for the benefit of the Wabush CCAA Parties' stakeholders as a whole.

4.1 The Property and Business Subject to the SISP

40. The property that is available for sale pursuant to the SISP (collectively, the "Property") is comprised of substantially all the property, assets and undertaking of the CCAA

Parties, which includes their interests in the Bloom Lake Mine, the Wabush Mine, the Wabush Railway, the Arnaud Railway, the Bloom Lake Railway, and the Pointe-Noire Port (each as defined below).

41. The Businesses in which an investment may be made pursuant to the SISP are:
- a) the business relating to the Bloom Lake Mine, the related port assets located in Pointe-Noire, Québec and the rail assets located in Newfoundland and Labrador (the "Bloom Lake Business");
 - b) the business relating to the Wabush Mine (the "Wabush Mine Business"); and
 - c) the port facilities and related rail assets located in the Provinces of Newfoundland and Labrador and Québec owned by Wabush Mines JV (the "Port Business").
42. The Businesses and the Property of the CCAA Parties included in the SISP are related and interdependent, and a number of expressions of interest received by the Phase I Bid Deadline related to the assets of both the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and the Wabush CCAA Parties.
43. Accordingly, the Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that interested parties may wish to acquire either the Bloom Lake Business, the Wabush Mine Business or the Port Business, or any combination thereof, en bloc, and that such sales may be the best way for the Wabush CCAA Parties to maximize the value of their Businesses and assets.
44. The SISP also provides the flexibility for interested parties to submit bids for parts of the Property or Businesses ("Portion Bids") which, taken together or separately, may be superior to en bloc bids. The SISP permits the Wabush CCAA Parties to pursue one or more of such Portion Bids in such circumstances in order to maximize value for their stakeholders.

4.2 The SISP Procedures

45. In summary, the SISP has three phases:
- a) The first phase, contemplating delivery of non-binding letters of intent, was completed on May 19, 2015.
 - b) Parties that submit letters of intent that meet certain criteria will be invited to submit binding offers in the second phase by 5:00 p.m. on July 16, 2015 (the "Bid Deadline"). A number of letters of intent have been received by the CCAA Parties. After review and consultation with the Monitor and the Sale Advisor, the CCAA Parties have invited or will invite qualified bidders to continue into the second phase of the SISP and to submit binding offers by the Bid Deadline.
 - c) Where there is more than one Qualified Bid with respect to one or more Businesses or parts thereof, parties that submit Qualified Bids in respect of a Business or parts thereof will be invited to participate in an Auction where each participating bidder will have the opportunity to submit an Overbid in each round of bidding.

- 10 -

46. Ultimately, the SISP contemplates that one or more Successful Bids may be selected to be pursued by the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and the Wabush CCAA Parties. Any Successful Bid which relates to any Property or Businesses of the Wabush CCAA Parties will be submitted to the Court for approval, as is the case for the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties. The SISP contemplates that any other entities, including the Wabush CCAA Parties, may be added from time to time as petitioners or mises-en-cause in the CCAA Proceedings and in such circumstances, any Successful Bid in respect of such entities would also be subject to Court approval.
47. As noted in the SISP (Exhibit R-9), the purpose of the SISP procedures set forth therein is to describe, inter alia:
- a) the Property or Businesses available for sale, as more particularly described in the Teaser Letter and the Summary of Businesses, and the manner in which the opportunity for an investment in the Businesses through a Plan sponsorship can be obtained;
 - b) the manner in which Prospective Bidders may gain access to or continue to have access to due diligence materials concerning the Property, the CCAA Parties and the Businesses and time lines applicable thereto;
 - c) the manner in which Prospective Bidders may submit an LOI for all or substantially all of the Businesses or any part thereof;
 - d) the manner in which Qualified Phase I Bidders may submit a binding offer for all or substantially all of the Property or Businesses or any part thereof;
 - e) the manner in which Qualified Phase I Bidders become Qualified Bidders and bids become Qualified Bids and the process for the receipt and negotiation of Qualified Bids and Qualified Portion Bids and the timelines applicable thereto;
 - f) the manner in which one or more Auctions may be held in the event that more than one Qualified Bid is received;
 - g) the process for the ultimate selection of one or more Successful Bids; and
 - h) the process for the CCAA Parties to seek the Court's approval of one or more Successful Bids.
48. The process set out by the SISP (Exhibit R-9) can be summarized as follows:²
- a) The CCAA Parties, with the assistance of the Sale Advisor and in consultation with the Monitor, compiled a listing of prospective purchasers and investors and then used reasonable efforts to contact the parties identified therein as well as any additional parties.

² For a complete view of this process, please see the SISP (Exhibit R-9).

- 11 -

- b) Prospective Bidders had the opportunity to submit a Sale Proposal (to purchase some or all of the CCAA Parties' Property) or make a Plan Sponsorship Proposal, the whole on an "as is, where is" basis.
- c) The CCAA Parties, with the assistance of the Sale Advisor and in consultation with the Monitor, prepared a Teaser Letter and sent it to all Prospective Bidders. Prospective Bidders were required to sign a Confidentiality Agreement ("CA") in order to gain access to confidential information (including access to an electronic data room) for the purposes of performing due diligence.
- d) Prospective Bidders who had signed a CA were to provide the Sale Advisor with a non-binding LOI by 5:00 p.m. (Montréal time) on Tuesday, May 19, 2015.
- e) The CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor reviewed the LOIs and, following discussion and clarification (if any) of the terms thereof, determined which Prospective Bidders will be invited to submit binding offers. Any party so invited is considered a "Qualified Phase I Bidder". The Sale Proposal LOI Criteria and Plan Sponsorship Proposal LOI Criteria are meant to ensure that only reasonably certain, credible offers are eligible to advance as Qualified Phase I Bidders to the second phase of bidding.
- f) In order to preserve flexibility, the CCAA Parties may, at any time prior to the Bid Deadline, bring a motion to seek approval of a "stalking horse" in respect of some or all of the Property and related amendments to the SISP. If any purchase agreement is approved by the Court for use as a "stalking horse", the CCAA Parties or the Sale Advisor will provide written notice of same to all Qualified Phase I Bidders.
- g) Qualified Phase I Bidders must provide the Sale Advisor with a binding Sale Proposal or Investment Proposal by the Bid Deadline of 5:00 p.m. on July 16, 2015, which Bid Deadline was determined by the CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor. The Sale Advisor has provided written notice of the Bid Deadline to all Qualified Phase I Bidders and notice of the Bid Deadline has been posted on the Monitor's Website.
- h) Binding offers must be open for acceptance until closing of the transaction with the Successful Bidder and be accompanied by a cash deposit in an amount equal to 5% of the proposed cash purchase price (if a Sale Proposal) or consideration to be available for distribution to creditors (if a Plan Sponsorship Proposal). Deposits will be held by the Monitor and refunded to all bidders that are not deemed to be the Successful Bidder with respect to a particular Business following the closing of the transaction with the Successful Bidder.
- i) The CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor will review the binding offers and, following discussion and clarification (if any) of the terms thereof, determine whether it would be in the best interests of the applicable SISP Parties to pursue a transaction on the terms set out therein.
- j) If it is determined that only one Qualified Bid was received with respect to a Business that is in the best interests of the applicable CCAA Parties, the applicable CCAA Parties may accept such Qualified Bid as the Successful Bid and take the necessary steps to finalize an agreement with the Successful Bidder.

- k) If it is determined that more than one Qualified Bid was received with respect to a Business that are in the best interests of the applicable CCAA Parties, the applicable CCAA Parties will conduct one or more Auctions with respect to one or more Businesses to determine the highest and/or best Sale Proposal or Plan Sponsorship Proposal or combination thereof.
- l) If conducted, the Auction or Auctions will be held on a date to be determined by the applicable CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor, or as fixed by the Court. Notice of the place and date of any Auction will be delivered to all Auction Bidders by the Sale Advisor not less than three Business Days before the date of the Auction.
- m) If conducted, the Auction or Auctions will be conducted in accordance with the following procedures:
 - i) The applicable CCAA Parties and their advisors will direct and preside over the Auction. The only people permitted to attend the Auction will be the authorized representatives of the CCAA Parties, the Sale Advisor, the Monitor and each "Auction Bidder" (being a Qualified Bidder who was determined by the CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor, to be entitled to participate in the Auction);
 - ii) Bidding at the Auction will be conducted in rounds. All bids made at the Auction will be made on an open, non-confidential basis;
 - iii) The highest and/or best Qualified Bid received by the Bid Deadline (as determined by the applicable CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor, and the Monitor), will be the Opening Bid for the first round of the Auction;
 - iv) Each Auction Bidder will have the opportunity to submit an "Overbid," meaning that the proposed purchase price or consideration to be allocated to creditors must be at least a certain "Minimum Overbid Increment" higher than the purchase price or consideration to be allocated to creditors proposed in the Opening Bid;
 - v) Each subsequent round of bidding at the Auction will commence with the highest and/or best Overbid submitted in the prior round (as determined by the applicable CCAA Parties, in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor, following discussion and clarification (if any) of the terms thereof);
 - vi) Each Auction Bidder (other than a Qualified Portion Bidder) must participate in a round of the Auction in order to be entitled to participate in the next round; and
 - vii) In any round of the Auction, if no new Overbid is made, the Auction will be closed and the last Opening Bid will be accepted as the Successful Bid.

- 13 -

- n) The CCAA Parties may treat a combination of non-overlapping Portion Bids as one "Opening Bid" or "Overbid" in the Auction, and may accept a combination of non-overlapping Portion Bids as a "Successful Bid".
 - o) Upon accepting a Successful Bid that is in respect of any of the CCAA Parties' Businesses or Property, the applicable CCAA Parties will apply to this Honourable Court, with at least ten (10) days' notice to the Service List, for an order approving such Successful Bid and authorizing the applicable CCAA Parties to consummate the transaction contemplated therein.
 - p) If at any point during the SISP process, any of the CCAA Parties (in consultation with the Sale Advisor and the Monitor) determine that it will not be in the best interests of all or any of the CCAA Parties to continue with the SISP, the applicable CCAA Parties will return to Court to seek advice and directions, on notice to the Service List.
49. The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that the SISP provides the best opportunity to protect the interests of the Wabush CCAA Parties' stakeholders and for the Wabush CCAA Parties to maximize recoveries for their stakeholders. The SISP requires consultation with the Monitor throughout the process.
50. In particular, the process set out by the SISP provides for, inter alia:
- a) fairness, transparency and integrity;
 - b) commercial efficacy;
 - c) the flexibility necessary to accommodate the broad range of possible bids, given the nature of the CCAA Parties' Businesses and Property;
 - d) maximization of the chances of securing the best possible value for the CCAA Parties' Property or the maximum possible investment in the CCAA Parties' Businesses.

4.3 Contractual Rights Relating to the SISP

51. Pursuant to various contracts, certain of the Wabush CCAA Parties' contractual counterparties (the "Contractual Rights Holders") hold contractual purchase options, rights of first refusal, rights of first offer, consent rights and/or transfer restrictions (collectively, the "Contractual Rights") in respect of various subsets of the Wabush Property.
52. The assets over which each Contractual Right was granted vary. In general, such assets are shares of partially-owned subsidiaries, certain immovable property, or certain equipment and other personal property.
53. The events that may trigger a Contractual Right also vary. For example, certain of the Contractual Rights are triggered only upon the receipt of an offer to purchase the relevant subset of the Wabush Property, or upon termination of a particular agreement.

- 14 -

54. The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that fully honouring these Contractual Rights would impair their ability to maximize the value of their Businesses and the Wabush Property for the benefit of their stakeholders, as it would have a chilling effect on other potentially interested parties.
55. The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that the SISP reflects a reasonable accommodation of the Contractual Rights in the circumstances:
- a) All Contractual Rights Holders were on the list of Prospective Bidders developed for the purposes of the SISP. Each Contractual Rights Holder therefore had the opportunity to make an offer to purchase some or all of the CCAA Parties' Property or invest in their Businesses;
 - b) If a Contractual Rights Holder participates in the SISP and becomes qualified as an Auction Bidder, the Auction provides the opportunity for the Contractual Rights Holder to review the Opening Bid and to make an Overbid in each round; and
 - c) Depending on the outcome of the SISP and the terms of any Successful Bid, some or all Contractual Rights may not be triggered.

56. All Contractual Rights Holders will receive notice of this Motion.

5. THE SALE ADVISOR

5.1 Engagement of the Sale Advisor

57. As mentioned above, on April 17, 2015, the Court rendered the Sale Advisor Order (Exhibit R-5) approving the engagement of the Sale Advisor in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and granted the Bloom Lake Sale Advisor Charge.
58. The Wabush CCAA Parties, then not subject to the CCAA Proceedings, also engaged the services of the Sale Advisor pursuant to the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A).
59. The Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek the Court's approval of the appointment of the Sale Advisor nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties, who will continue to provide, inter alia, consultation and assistance to the Wabush CCAA Parties pursuant to the terms of the SISP and the Engagement Letter.
60. It was and continues to be in the Wabush CCAA Parties' best interest to retain the services of the Sale Advisor, who has extensive background on the Businesses and Property of the Wabush CCAA Parties and the relevant expertise needed to execute the SISP, evaluate the Wabush CCAA Parties' Businesses and identify strategic partners, purchasers and potential investors.
61. In or about October 2014, the Sale Advisor, a global investment bank, was verbally engaged by Cliffs Natural Resources Inc., the Wabush CCAA Parties indirect parent ("CNR"), to assist with the solicitation of investment partners and/or purchasers for, among other things, the Eastern Canadian Iron Ore investments of CNR and the Ring of Fire projects (the "Sales Process").

- 15 -

62. After the issuance of the Bloom Lake Initial Order, the CCAA Parties continued to seek the assistance of the Sale Advisor to locate investment and/or sale opportunities for their Businesses and Property as they had already been engaged by CNR for such purposes and had expended a great deal of time and effort up to the time of the CCAA filing by the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties. In addition, the Sale Advisor has extensive experience in acting as sales and investment advisor to significant companies in the mining industry (inside and outside of formal insolvency proceedings) as well as experience in Canadian court-supervised CCAA sales and investment solicitation processes as further described in the attached letter from Sale Advisor communicated herewith as Exhibit R-17.
63. Pursuant to the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A), the Sale Advisor has already assisted and will continue to assist the Wabush CCAA Parties in:
- a) conducting a business and financial analysis of the Businesses of the Wabush CCAA Parties and related parties (including the mine, rail and port facilities);
 - b) developing and implementing the SISP;
 - c) identifying and evaluating potential acquirers (each, an "Acquirer") of all or a majority of the equity securities of one or more of the Wabush CCAA Parties or related parties, through acquisition or merger, or of a majority of the assets, properties or business of any of the Businesses (each, a "Transaction");
 - d) contacting potential Acquirers that the Sale Advisor and the Wabush CCAA Parties or related parties have agreed may be appropriate for a Transaction, and meeting with and providing them such information about the Businesses as may be appropriate and acceptable to the Wabush CCAA Parties, subject to customary business confidentiality;
 - e) preparing information materials describing the Businesses, which the Sale Advisor may distribute to potential Acquirers;
 - f) developing a strategy to effectuate one or more Transactions;
 - g) structuring and negotiating the Transactions and participating in such negotiations as requested;
 - h) meeting with the CCAA Parties' and related parties' Boards of Directors and/or the Monitor, as requested by the CCAA Parties, to discuss any proposed Transaction and its financial implications;
 - i) providing a written report or affidavit(s) as may be reasonably requested by the CCAA Parties and related parties or by the Monitor with respect to the sale process for each proposed Transaction in connection with obtaining Court approval of such Transaction;
 - j) if requested by the Wabush CCAA Parties, participating in hearings before the this Court, and providing relevant testimony with respect to the sale process for each of the Transactions; and

- 16 -

- k) rendering such other financial advisory and investment banking services as customarily provided in connection with the marketing and negotiation of each Transaction, as requested by the Wabush CCAA Parties and as may be reasonably agreed to by Sale Advisor.
64. The Sale Advisor's role—which is essentially to assist in conducting the SISF and concluding a Transaction or Transactions—will be distinct from and complementary to the role of the Monitor—which is essentially to oversee the CCAA Proceedings and to assist the Wabush CCAA Parties with their Restructuring,³ and reporting to the Court.
65. As appears from the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A), the Sale Advisor's fee structure negotiated by the Wabush CCAA Parties contemplates a monthly fee for a limited period of time (the "Monthly Retainer Fee") earned from the commencement date of the CCAA Proceedings, as well as fees payable upon the closing of any Transaction (the "Transaction Fees"). The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that this fee structure is reasonable in light of the prevailing market conditions.
66. Pursuant to the terms of the Engagement letter, the engagement of the Sale Advisor is retroactive to the date of the institution of the CCAA Proceedings, being January 27, 2015.
67. The Monitor has advised the Wabush CCAA Parties that it supports the Wabush CCAA Parties' engagement of the Sale Advisor pursuant to the terms set out in the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A) subject to nunc pro tunc approval by this Court of the Engagement Letter as at the Wabush Filing Date as it relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties from and after the Wabush Filing Date, and that it will submit shortly a report with its recommendation that this engagement be approved by the Court.
68. The terms of the Engagement Letter as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties are reasonable under the circumstances.

5.2 The Sale Advisor Charge

69. The Sale Advisor Order (Exhibit R-5) granted the Bloom Lake Sale Advisor Charge over the property of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties securing the fees and expenses of the Sale Advisor payable by each Bloom Lake CCAA Party, to a maximum aggregate amount of USD $8 million.
70. Similarly, the Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek an equivalent charge in favour of the Sale Advisor over the Property of the Wabush CCAA Parties, on a several basis, securing only those fees and expenses payable by each Wabush CCAA Party, to a maximum aggregate amount of USD $5 million as security for the Monthly Retainer Fee, Transaction Fees (as each such term is defined in the Engagement Letter) and expenses reimbursable pursuant to the Engagement Letter by the Wabush CCAA Parties (Exhibit R-4A) (the "Wabush Sale Advisor Charge").

³ Defined as the orderly restructuring of the business and financial affairs of the Wabush CCAA Parties (para. 33 of the Wabush Initial Order).

71. The Engagement Letter provides that the Wabush CCAA Parties, if they become party to the CCAA Proceedings, are required to use their reasonable best efforts to obtain a charge over the property of the Wabush CCAA Parties securing the Monthly Retainer Fee, Transaction Fees and expenses reimbursable pursuant to the Engagement Letter payable by each Wabush CCAA Party, on a several basis, with such charge having priority over all claims of unsecured creditors of such Wabush CCAA Parties, but to be subordinated to the CCAA Charges and all secured claims.
72. The Wabush Sale Advisor Charge, if granted, would be limited to a maximum of USD $5 million, being the maximum amount of the Transaction Fees that could become payable by the Wabush CCAA Parties under the Engagement Letter.
73. In light of the Monthly Retainer Fee and the Transaction Fees provided for in the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A), a Wabush Sale Advisor Charge of USD $5 million is reasonable under the circumstances.
74. The Monitor has advised the Wabush CCAA Parties that it supports the creation of the Wabush Sale Advisor Charge.
75. The Court's nunc pro tunc approval of the Engagement Letter (Exhibit R-4A) as at the Wabush Filing Date in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties from and after the Wabush Filing Date and creation of the Wabush Sale Advisor Charge are essential to allow the Wabush CCAA Parties to continue to work with the Sale Advisor to analyze and explore all available options and to successfully implement and execute the SISF in order to arrive at the best result for all interested parties.

6. SUSPENSION OF CERTAIN PENSION PAYMENTS AND OPEBs

6.1 Pension Plans

6.1.1 Defined Contribution Schemes

76. The pension plans for salaried employees at the Wabush Mine hired on or after January 1, 2013 are defined contribution schemes.
77. Wabush Mines JV is the administrator of these defined contribution schemes.
78. Contributions under the defined contribution scheme are paid with each payroll. The defined contribution schemes also includes an employer matching provision whereby the employer contributes up to 6% of each employee's eligible wages with each payroll.
79. All employee and employer contributions are paid current and future contribution amounts have been included in the Wabush CCAA Parties' weekly cash flow forecast to August 14, 2015, as filed in support of the motion for the Wabush Initial Order (as such cash flow forecast may be amended from time to time, the "May 18 Forecast") and communicated herewith as Exhibit R-18.

6.1.2 Defined Benefit Plans

80. As described in the motion for the Wabush Initial Order, the pension plan for salaried employees at the Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port hired before January 1, 2013

- 18 -

is a defined benefit plan and is called the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines JV, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the "Salaried DB Plan").

81. The pension plan for unionized hourly employees at the Wabush Mine and Pointe-Noire Port is also a defined benefit plan and is called the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit Employees of Wabush Mines JV, Cliffs Mining Company, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the "Hourly DB Plan" and together with the Salaried DB Plan, the "DB Plans").
82. Wabush Mines JV is the administrator of the DB Plans.
83. Based on estimates received from the Wabush CCAA Parties' pension consultant, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe the estimated wind-up deficiencies for the DB Plans as at January 1, 2015 to be a total of approximately $41.5 million, consisting of approximately $18.2 million for the Salaried DB Plan and approximately $23.3 million for the Hourly DB Plan.
84. The Interim Lender is only prepared to make advances under the Interim Facility pursuant to the Interim Financing Term Sheet if there is an order of the Court granting priority to the Interim Lender Charge over all Encumbrances other than Permitted Priority Liens (as defined in the Interim Financing Term Sheet), including over deemed trusts that may exist in respect of pension obligations under the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 (Newfoundland and Labrador) or any other applicable legislation.
85. All monthly normal cost and amortization payments in respect of the DB Plans for January through April, 2015 have been paid in full.
86. The monthly normal cost payments for the DB Plans for 2015 based on a valuation as at January 1, 2014 (the "2014 Valuation") are approximately $50,494.83 (Hourly DB Plan) and $41,931.25 (Salaried DB Plan) for a total monthly normal cost payment of $92,46.08 (the "Normal Cost Payments"). The Normal Cost Payments are included in the May 18 Forecast.
87. The Wabush CCAA Parties are also paying monthly amortization payments based on the 2014 Valuation of $393,337.00 (Hourly DB Plan) and $273,218.58 (Salaried DB Plan) for a total monthly amortization payment of $666,555.58 (the "Monthly Amortization Payments").
88. In addition to the Monthly Amortization Payments, the Wabush CCAA Parties are also required to make a lump sum "catch-up" amortization payment (the "Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment") for the DB Plans estimated to be approximately $5.5 Million due in July 2015.
89. The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding available to continue to pay the Monthly Amortization Payments or to pay the Yearly Catch-Up Amortization Payment due in July 2015 as the Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments post-filing.

- 19 -

90. As a result, the Wabush CCAA Parties will not be making the Monthly Amortization Payments or the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment, as they had indicated in their motion for the Wabush Initial Order.

91. In light of the foregoing, the Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek an order from the Court suspending the payment of the Monthly Amortization Payments and the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date.

6.1.3 Other Post-Retirement Benefits

92. The Wabush CCAA Parties currently provide OPEBs, including life insurance and health care, to former hourly and salaried employees hired before January 1, 2013, which vary based on whether retirees were formerly members of a bargaining unit or were non-unionized salaried employees.

93. Approximately 933 retired employees and 16 active employees are currently fully eligible for retirement benefits.

94. As of December 31, 2014, accumulated benefits obligations for post-retirement benefits ("ABO") totaled approximately $52.1 million.

95. The premiums required to fund the foregoing OPEBs are approximately $182,000 a month.

96. In addition to the foregoing, there is a supplemental retirement arrangement plan (the "SRA") for certain current and former salaried employees of Wabush Mines JV. The obligations under the SRA are approximately $1.01 million.

97. The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding available to continue to pay any of the foregoing OPEBs, including the SRA obligations, as the Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments.

98. As a result, no payments on account of the OPEBs are included in the May 18 Forecast.

99. In light of the foregoing, the Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek an order from the Court suspending the payment of the OPEBs nunc pro tunc to the Wabush Filing Date.

7. EXTENSION OF THE WABUSH STAY PERIOD

100. The issuance of the Wabush Initial Order brought the Wabush CCAA Parties into the CCAA Proceedings which were already ongoing in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties.

101. The extension of the Wabush Stay Period to July 31, 2015 will make the Wabush Stay Period concurrent with the Bloom Lake Stay Period, and will allow for better streamlining, coordination and efficiency of the CCAA Proceedings.

102. Since the issuance of the Wabush Initial Order, the Wabush CCAA Parties have acted and continue to act in good faith and with due diligence.

- 20 -

103. Since the commencement of the CCAA Proceedings in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Wabush CCAA Parties have, with the assistance of and in consultation with the Monitor:
- a) met regularly with the Monitor and provided the Monitor with full co-operation and complete access to the Wabush CCAA Parties' Property, premises and books and records;
 - b) implemented procedures for the monitoring of the Wabush CCAA Parties' operations and financial circumstances, including receipts and disbursements;
 - c) held meetings and discussions with certain of the Wabush CCAA Parties' creditors, suppliers and other stakeholders;
 - d) in consultation with and with the assistance and consent of the Monitor delivered the following notices of disclaimer or:
 - i) Master Net Locomotive Lease dated February 26, 2010 between CIT Financial (Alberta) ULC and Arnaud Railway Company together with all riders and schedules thereto (as each may be amended, restated, supplemented or modified), including, without limitation, Schedule No. 02 dated March 4, 2011 (as amended by Amendment No. 01 to Lease Schedule No. 02 dated March 12, 2013, and as may be further amended, restated, supplemented or modified, together with the Memorandum of Locomotive Lease dated March 4, 2011) and Schedule No. 03 dated June 17, 2011 (as amended by Amendment No. 01 to Lease Schedule No. 03 dated August 5, 2013, and as may be further amended, restated, supplemented or modified, together with the Memorandum of Locomotive Lease dated June 17, 2011);
 - ii) Rental Agreement with reference number S75794 dated June 20, 2012 between Wabush Mines JV, and Groupe CLR (as may be amended, restated, supplemented or modified); and
 - iii) a rail transportation agreement which includes a provision to the effect that its terms shall be kept confidential;
 - e) communicated and will continue to communicate on an ongoing basis with employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties with respect to the CCAA Proceedings, providing written materials (in both French and English) and advising employees with respect to the Monitor's website, hotline and mailbox so that employees can obtain additional information and/or contact the Wabush CCAA Parties or the Monitor directly;
 - f) continued to carry out the SISP, in collaboration with the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and with assistance of the Monitor and the Sale Advisor, and prepared the present Motion to, inter alia, obtain nunc pro tunc approval for SISP and the engagement of the Sale Advisor and to amend the SISP as at the Wabush Filing Date as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties; and
 - g) responded to stakeholders' inquiries and various claims and correspondence.

- 21 -

104. It is respectfully submitted that the extension of the Wabush Stay Period to July 31, 2015 is required to provide all CCAA Parties with sufficient time to complete the next phase of the SISF and pursue their on-going Restructuring.
105. The deadline in the SISF for Qualified Phase I Bidders to submit a binding Sale Proposal or Investment Proposal has been set at 5:00 p.m. (Montréal Time) on July 16, 2015.
106. It is anticipated that the requested extension of the Stay Period until July 31, 2015, will afford the Wabush CCAA Parties sufficient time to achieve these objectives.
107. The Monitor has advised the Wabush CCAA Parties that its report will include, inter alia, the Monitor's support for the requested extension of the Wabush Stay Period, and for the suspension of the Monthly Amortization Payments, the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment or OPEBs.
108. The Monitor's report will also include the Wabush CCAA Parties' May 18 Forecast. Based on the May 18 Forecast and subject to the underlying assumptions therein, including in particular the suspension of Monthly Amortization Payments, the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment and OPEBs, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe that there is sufficient liquidity to fund their participation in these CCAA Proceedings until July 31, 2015.
109. The May 18 Forecast does not include payment of equipment financing or leases, the Monthly Amortization Payments, the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment or OPEBs.
110. It is the position of the Wabush CCAA Parties that no parties will be materially prejudiced by the extension of the Stay Period and that the extension sought is appropriate under the present circumstances.
111. In light of the foregoing, the Wabush CCAA Parties respectfully ask this Court to extend the Wabush Stay Period to July 31, 2015, the whole subject to all other terms of the Wabush Initial Order and the order to be rendered hereon.

8. CONCLUSIONS

112. In light of the foregoing, the Wabush CCAA Parties hereby seek the issuance of an Order substantially in the form of the draft Order communicated herewith as Exhibit R-19, which provides for, inter alia:
 - a) amending the Wabush Initial Order to grant priority to the Wabush CCAA Charges ahead of all Encumbrances affecting the Property of the Wabush CCAA Parties whether or not charged by said Encumbrances;
 - b) nunc pro tunc approval of the terms of the SISF as at the Wabush Filing Date as it relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties, and nunc pro tunc authorization and direction of the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Monitor and the Sale Advisor as at the Wabush Filing Date to take such steps as they consider necessary or desirable in carrying out the SISF as relates to the Wabush CCAA Parties in accordance with its terms;

- 22 -

 - e) amending and restating the Initial SISP to reflect the inclusion of the Wabush CCAA Parties in the CCAA Proceedings, in the form the SISP (as Exhibit R-9);

 - g) extending the Wabush Stay Period to July 31, 2015; and
 - h) the issuance of an Amended Initial Order in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties, reflecting any amendments to the Wabush Initial Order to be ordered by the Court herein.
113. The Wabush CCAA Parties submit further that the notices given of the presentation of the present Motion are proper and sufficient.
114. The Monitor supports the present Motion.
115. The present Motion is well founded in fact and in law.

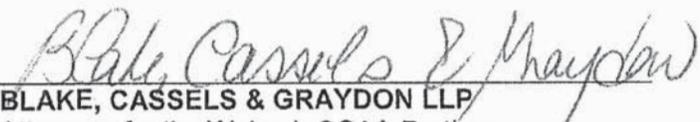

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT TO:

GRANT the present Motion;

ISSUE an order in the form of the draft Order communicated in support hereof as Exhibit R-19;

CCAA Parties"), as appears from the Initial Order communicated herewith as Exhibit R-1.

2. The Bloom Lake CCAA Parties are affiliated companies and their activities, together, comprise substantially all of the Canadian operations of, and related to, the mine located approximately 13 km north of Fermont, Québec in the Labrador Trough, a mature mining district located in Québec and Labrador, known as the Bloom Lake Mine (the "Bloom Lake Mine") and the Leased Port Premises (as defined in the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties' Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-2 (the "Motion for Bloom Initial Order")).
3. Pursuant to the Bloom Initial Order (Exhibit R-1), inter alia:
 - a) FTI Consulting Canada Inc. was appointed as monitor of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties (the "Monitor") (para. 39 ff. of the Bloom Initial Order);
 - b) a stay of proceedings was initially ordered for the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties until February 26, 2015, was extended by Order dated February 20, 2015 to April 30, 2015 and was further extended by way of an Order dated April 17, 2015 to July 31, 2015 (para. 8 ff. of the Bloom Initial Order, by way of para. 6 of the stay extension Order rendered on April 17, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-3);
 - c) procedural consolidation was ordered in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties (para. 7 of the Bloom Initial Order); and
 - d) the following priority charges were granted:
 - i) a Directors' Charge (as defined in the Bloom Initial Order) of $2.5 million (para. 31 of the Bloom Initial Order), ranking ahead of all Encumbrances (as defined in the Bloom Initial Order) (para. 47 of the Bloom Initial Order);
 - ii) an Administration Charge (as defined in the Bloom Initial Order; collectively with the Directors' Charge, the "CCAA Charges") of $2.5 million, ranking ahead of all Encumbrances (para. 47 of the Bloom Initial Order); and
 - iii) a Sale Advisor Charge (as defined in the Bloom Initial Order) of US$8 million (para. 32.1 of the Bloom Initial Order, by way of para. 6 of the sale advisor appointment Order rendered on April 17, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-4 (the "Sale Advisor Order")), with priority over all claims of the unsecured creditors of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, but subordinated to the CCAA Charges and all secured claims (para. 47.1 of the Bloom Initial Order, by way of para. 8 of the Sale Advisor Order (Exhibit R-4)).

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

4. Since the issuance of the Bloom Initial Order, the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties have, inter alia:
- a) obtained an order approving a sale and investor solicitation process (as it relates to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, the "SISP"), as appears from the Order dated April 17, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-5 (the "SISP Order");
 - b) obtained Court approval of the engagement of Moelis & Company LLC (as it relates to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, "Sale Advisor"), as appears from the Sale Advisor Order (Exhibit R-4);
 - c) obtained Court approval for the lease of the ArcelorMittal Mining Camp (as defined in the Motion for Bloom Initial Order (Exhibit R-2)) by 8568391 to a third party, as appears from the Order dated April 17, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-6 (the "Mining Camp Lease Order"); and
 - d) obtained the issuance of an Order dated April 27, 2015 and communicated herewith as Exhibit R-7 (the "Chromite Approval and Vesting Order"), in respect of CQIM, approving the sale by CQIM of the entirety of its shares of companies operating the Ring of Fire, in the context of the divestiture by CQIM and other related parties of substantially all of CQIM and CNR's (as defined below) indirect investment in a mining district in northern Ontario known as the "Ring of Fire", which transaction closed on April 28, 2015.
5. This Motion is to extend the CCAA protection granted to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties to five additional entities, as described below, to facilitate the reorganization of each of their businesses and operations. More specifically, the Wabush CCAA Parties (as described below) hereby seek the issuance of an Initial Order substantially in the form and substance of the Draft Wabush Initial Order communicated herewith as Exhibit R-8 (the "Draft Wabush Initial Order").

2. THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES

6. The Petitioners, Wabush Iron Co. Limited ("Wabush Iron") and Wabush Resources Inc. ("Wabush Resources") (collectively, the "Wabush Petitioners"; collectively with the Bloom Lake Petitioners, the "Petitioners"), are debtor companies under the CCAA.
7. Wabush Mines ("Wabush Mines JV") is an unincorporated contractual joint venture of Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources. Like the Bloom Lake Mises-en-cause, it is not a petitioner in these CCAA Proceedings but seeks to have the protections and authorizations of these CCAA Proceedings extended to it as it is intertwined with the Wabush Petitioners and forms an integral part of the business, operations and/or assets of certain of the Wabush Petitioners and more specifically, the iron ore mine and processing facility located near the Town of Wabush and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador (the "Wabush Mine") and the Pointe-Noire Port (both as defined and described more fully below).

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

8. Each of Arnaud Railway Company ("Arnaud"), and Wabush Lake Railway Company, Limited ("Wabush Lake Railway Company"; collectively with Arnaud and Wabush Mines JV, the "Wabush Mises-en-cause"; collectively with the Bloom Lake Mises-en-cause, the "Mises-en-cause") provide essential transportation services (as more fully described below) to certain of the Wabush CCAA Parties (as defined below).
9. Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway Company also seek to have the protections and authorizations of these CCAA Proceedings extended to them as they are also intertwined with the Wabush Petitioners and form an integral part of the business, operations and/or assets of the Wabush Mines JV and more specifically, the Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port.
10. The restructuring of the Wabush CCAA Parties and the prospects of finding potential investors and/or purchasers for some or all of the Wabush CCAA Parties or their assets would be significantly enhanced if the Wabush Mises-en-Cause are included as CCAA Parties in these CCAA Proceedings.
11. As described herein, the Wabush Petitioners and the Wabush Mises-en-cause (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties") and the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties (collectively with the Wabush CCAA Parties, the "CCAA Parties") are affiliated companies and their activities, together, comprise substantially all of the Canadian operations of CQIM (as defined below), particularly, ownership and operation of the Bloom Lake Mine, the Wabush Mine, the Pointe-Noire Port and three railway operations: Arnaud Railway, Wabush Lake Railway and Bloom Lake Railway (each as defined below).
12. A chart illustrating the basic corporate structure of the CCAA Parties, including the Wabush CCAA Parties, is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-9.
13. All of the CCAA Parties, with the exception of Bloom Lake GP and Bloom Lake LP, are indirect wholly-owned subsidiaries of Cliffs Natural Resources Inc. ("CNR"), an international mining and natural resources company listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "CLF".
14. Neither CNR nor any of its non-Canadian subsidiaries (other than Wabush Iron) are petitioners or mises-en-cause in these CCAA Proceedings.
15. Various market and economic factors, such as the significant fall in global commodity prices, have affected the value and feasibility of the Wabush Mine assets similar to the effect on the Bloom Lake Mine as described in the Motion for Bloom Initial Order (Exhibit R-2).
16. In June 2013, the Wabush Mines JV idled Pointe-Noire Pellets (as defined below).
17. On February 11, 2014, in addition to announcing that CNR was exploring strategic alternatives for the Bloom Lake Mine, CNR announced plans to idle the Wabush Mine by the end of the first quarter of 2014. The idle was being driven by the unsustainable high cost structure, which resulted in operations that were not viable over time as appears from a press release issued by CNR on February 11, 2014 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-10.

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

18. The Wabush Mines JV suspended operations at Wabush Mine in March 2014. In November 2014, Wabush Mines JV commenced the process of permanently idling the Wabush Mine which involved the permanent shutdown of the Wabush Mine. As described below, a Wabush Mine Closure Plan (as defined below) with respect to the reclamation of the Wabush Mine has been filed with and accepted by the Newfoundland and Labrador Department of Natural Resources, the implementation of which is subject to an environmental assessment review process.
19. Prior to and after the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine, the Wabush CCAA Parties have invested significant time and effort to finding buyers or investors for the operations and/or assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.
20. The assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties are included in the SISP that is currently being conducted by the Sales Advisor.
21. None of the Wabush CCAA Parties have been generating any revenue since November 2014 and as a result of the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine and Pointe-Noire Pellets, are not expected to generate any revenue in the foreseeable future. However, the Wabush CCAA Parties continue to incur obligations in connection with the maintenance of the idled Wabush Mine, Pointe-Noire Pellets and the Pointe-Noire Port.
22. Although Cliffs Mining Company ("CMC"), the parent of Wabush Iron, had provided some funding to the Wabush CCAA Parties to fund their losses, CMC is no longer prepared in the circumstances to continue to fund further losses of the Wabush CCAA Parties except as may be required by the Wabush CCAA Parties to administer and execute the proposed CCAA proceedings described herein and in such case only on a priority secured basis.
23. As a result of this, the Wabush CCAA Parties are facing a liquidity crisis, in that they are no longer capable of meeting their obligations as they generally become due without outside financing, and the value of their assets appears to be less than their liabilities.
24. The Wabush CCAA Parties have become insolvent and therefore seek the protection of this Court from their creditors under the CCAA, as the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties have obtained.
25. CMC has agreed to finance the Wabush CCAA Parties execution and administration of these CCAA Proceedings by way of interim financing in accordance with the terms of an interim financing term sheet dated as of May 19, 2015 (the "Interim Financing Term Sheet") that has been presented to Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources, as borrowers, in an amount up to USD $10 million (the "Interim Facility"). The whole of the Interim Financing Term Sheet is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-11.

26. The Interim Facility is to be guaranteed by Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway Company and secured by a priority charge securing up to $15 million over the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties (the "Interim Lender Charge").
27. While the Wabush CCAA Parties had hoped that they would be able to address their financial challenges outside of a CCAA filing, circumstances that have developed over the last several months, including continued disputes with third parties arising from material contracts and on-going arbitration and other proceedings, and their inability to obtain funding to pay for their on-going obligations outside of a CCAA proceeding, have led them to seek creditor protection under the CCAA.
28. The inclusion of the Wabush CCAA Parties in these CCAA Proceedings will:
 - a) provide the Wabush CCAA Parties with a more efficient and streamlined process to attempt to preserve the value of their businesses and assets under the supervision of the Court;
 - b) provide the Wabush CCAA Parties with the stability and protection from their creditors to allow them to consider and review all restructuring and reorganization options for the benefit of all of their stakeholders and obtain the liquidity needed to fund their post-filing obligations as they become due and owing by way of the Interim Facility secured by the Interim Lender Charge; and
 - c) enhance the SISF prospects as it will provide interested bidders in the Wabush CCAA Parties' businesses and assets with a Court supervised process and the opportunity to obtain a vesting order with respect to the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties as well as simplifying transactions with any party that may be interested in acquiring assets of both the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and the Wabush CCAA Parties.
29. The need for extending the consolidation of these CCAA proceedings in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties to include the Wabush CCAA Parties is for administrative purposes only at this time and shall not effect a consolidation of the assets and property of the CCAA Parties, including for the purposes of any plan or plans of arrangement that may be hereafter proposed.
30. Unless expressly provided to the contrary, any reference herein to monetary amounts refers to Canadian dollars.

3. THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES' CORPORATE STRUCTURE

31. As set out above, a chart setting out the corporate structure of the CCAA Parties is shown in Exhibit R-9.

3.1 Wabush Mines JV

32. The Wabush Mines JV is an unincorporated contractual joint venture of the Wabush Petitioners. CMC, the parent company of Wabush Iron, is the managing agent of the Wabush Mines JV.
33. Prior to 2010, CNR had an indirect minority interest in the Wabush Mines JV. In 2010, CNR, through its wholly-owned subsidiaries, purchased the shares of Wabush Resources from ArcelorMittal Dofasco Inc. and the general and limited partnership units of the HLE Mining Limited Partnership from U.S. Steel Canada Inc. for approximately USD $90,000,000.
34. Following the acquisition of these interests and a series of corporate re-organizations, CNR indirectly became the sole owner of the Wabush Mines JV through Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron.
35. The Wabush Mines JV operated, through its managing agent CMC, the port facilities (the "Pointe-Noire Port") and a pellet production facility ("Pointe-Noire Pellets"), both located at Pointe-Noire, Québec on the Bay of Sept-Iles and the Wabush Mine.
36. As described below, the Wabush Mines JV owns Pointe-Noire Pellets and certain lands at the Pointe-Noire Port and has a servitude over a dock and adjacent lands managed by the Sept-Iles Port Authority (the "Port Authority").
37. In June 2013, the Wabush Mines JV idled Pointe-Noire Pellets.
38. In March 2014, the operations at Wabush Mine were suspended and were permanently idled in November 2014.

3.2 Wabush Resources

39. Wabush Resources is a corporation incorporated pursuant to the laws of Canada, having its head office located at 1155 Rue University, Suite 508, Montreal, Québec (the "Montréal Head Office") as it appears from page 5 of the CNR 2013 Annual Report communicated herewith as Exhibit R-12.
40. Wabush Resources is a wholly-owned subsidiary of CQIM.
41. Wabush Resources holds a 73.2% undivided interest in the assets of Wabush Mines JV, including the leases, freehold interests in real property located in Québec and Newfoundland and Labrador and a servitude over a dock managed by the Port Authority at the Pointe-Noire Port.
42. Wabush Resources, together with Wabush Iron, own 100% of Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway Company, as detailed below.

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

43. Wabush Resources also holds an interest in certain shares of the following entities: Twin Falls Power Corporation ("Twin Falls") (18.73% of the outstanding Class B Shares, carrying one vote per share) and Knoll Lake Minerals Limited ("Knoll Lake") (42.6%).
44. The remaining shareholders of Twin Falls are Wabush Iron (6.866% of the outstanding Class B Shares, carrying one vote per share), Iron Ore Company of Canada (74.404% of the outstanding Class B Shares, carrying one vote per share) and Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corporation Limited (100% of the outstanding Class A Shares, carrying four votes per share).
45. The remaining shareholders of Knoll Lake are Wabush Iron (15.6%) and MFC Industrial Ltd., now known as MFC Resource Partnership ("MFC"), and other minority shareholders (41.8%).
46. Wabush Resources' sole activity is its joint venture participation in the Wabush Mines JV.
47. Wabush Resources has no employees. As noted above, all employees at Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port are employees of Wabush Mines JV.

3.3 Wabush Iron

48. Wabush Iron is a corporation incorporated pursuant to the laws of the state of Ohio, U.S.A. with its office located at 200 Public Square, Suite 3300, Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A., as appears from the company details search conducted with the Ohio Secretary of State, U.S.A. communicated herewith as Exhibit R-13.
49. Wabush Iron is a wholly-owned subsidiary of CMC, a Delaware corporation.
50. Wabush Iron's sole activity is its joint venture participation in the Wabush Mines JV.
51. Wabush Iron holds a 26.8% undivided interest in the assets of Wabush Mines JV, including leases, freehold interests in real property located in Québec and Newfoundland and Labrador and a servitude over a dock managed by the Port Authority at the Pointe-Noire Port.
52. Wabush Iron, together with Wabush Resources, own 100% of Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway Company, as detailed below.
53. Wabush Iron also holds an interest in certain shares of the following entities: Twin Falls (6.866% of the outstanding Class B Shares, carrying one vote per share), Knoll Lake (15.6%) and Northern Land Railway Company (50%).
54. The other shareholders of Twin Falls and Knoll Lake are described above. Iron Ore Company of Canada is the remaining shareholder of Northern Land Railway Company (50%).

55. Wabush Iron has no employees. All employees at Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port are employees of Wabush Mines JV.

3.4 Arnaud

56. Arnaud is a federally regulated railway incorporated pursuant to the laws of Québec, having its head office located at the Montréal Head Office as appears from page 5 of the CNR 2013 Annual Report (Exhibit R-12).

57. Arnaud is owned by Wabush Resources (75%) and Wabush Iron (25%).

58. Arnaud's primary business is the operation of the Arnaud Railway running from Arnaud Junction, Québec to the Port of Sept-Iles ("Arnaud Railway"), for the delivery of iron ore concentrate from the Bloom Lake Mine and the Wabush Mine to the Pointe-Noire Port in the Port of Sept-Iles.

59. The last shipment of iron ore concentrate from Bloom Lake Mine was delivered to the Port of Sept-Iles for loading on a ship operated by a customer of Bloom Lake LP on December 24, 2014.

3.5 Wabush Lake Railway Company

60. Wabush Lake Railway Company is a federally regulated railway incorporated pursuant to the laws of Newfoundland and Labrador, having its head office at the Montréal Head Office as it appears from page 5 of the CNR 2013 Annual Report (Exhibit R-12).

61. Wabush Lake Railway Company is owned by Wabush Resources (73.2%) and Wabush Iron (26.8%).

62. The Wabush Lake Railway Company's primary business is the operation of a railway (the "Wabush Lake Railway"). The Wabush Lake Railway connects the Wabush Mine to the Northern Land Railway for the transport of iron ore concentrate from the Wabush Mine through the Québec North Shore and Labrador Railway (the "QNS&L Railway") and the Arnaud Railway to the Pointe-Noire Port at the Port of Sept-Iles.

63. As a result of the idling of the Wabush Mine, Wabush Lake Railway Company has not transported iron ore concentrate since September, 2014.

64. Wabush Lake Railway Company has no employees.

3.6 The CCAA Parties' activities are conducted on a consolidated basis

65. The head offices of each of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and Wabush Resources, Arnaud and Wabush Lake Railway Company are located at the Montréal Head Office, the whole as it appears from page 5 of the CNR 2013 Annual Report (Exhibit R-12).

66. CQIM provides management and administrative support to the entities which manage the Wabush Mine.

67. The Wabush CCAA Parties' activities are conducted on a consolidated basis with the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, as more fully appears from pages 7, 32-33, 61-62 of the CNR 2013 Annual Report (Exhibit R-12).
68. The significant majority of the CCAA Parties' revenues and their liabilities have been derived from their operations in Québec.
69. The Bloom Lake Mine, Arnaud Railway and the Pointe-Noire Port, all of which are located in Québec, are expected to be the assets of the CCAA Parties with the highest values.
70. As at May 19, 2015, approximately 17 of the 23 active employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties were located in Québec.
71. In light of the above, the procedural consolidation of these CCAA Proceedings for administrative purposes in respect of the CCAA Parties is appropriate and necessary.

4. THE WABUSH CCAA PARTIES' BUSINESSES AND AFFAIRS

4.1 Wabush Mine

72. The Wabush Mine is an iron ore mine and processing facility located near Wabush City and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador in the Labrador Trough. A map showing the geographical location of the Wabush Mine and the site is communicated herewith as Exhibit R-14.
73. The Wabush Mine had been in operation since 1965. Since 2009 until it was idled in 2014, the Wabush Mine had annual productions of between 2.7 million and 3.9 million metric tonnes of iron ore pellets and concentrate.
74. CNR has indirectly invested approximately USD $221.2 million in the Wabush Mine since February 2010.
75. As a result of the depressed global market for steel, particularly in Asia, the corresponding significant decline in the price for iron ore, and the high cost structure of the Wabush Mine, operations at the Wabush Mine were not economically sustainable. Therefore, mining operations at the Wabush Mine were suspended in March 2014.
76. Subsequently, the Wabush Mines JV moved to permanently idle the Wabush Mine. This process was completed in November 2014 and a Wabush Mine Closure Plan (as defined below) has been filed with and accepted by the Newfoundland and Labrador Department of Natural Resources, the implementation of which is subject to an environmental assessment review process.
77. For 2014, the idling costs, employment related expenditures and other expenditures of the Wabush Mines JV related to the closure of the Wabush Mine were approximately USD $105 million.

- 12 -

78. The right of Wabush Mines JV to conduct mining operations at the Wabush Mine arises primarily under a mining sub-sublease with MFC. That sub-sublease is the September 2, 1959 Amendment and Consolidation of Mining Leases made between Canadian Javelin Limited, as lessor (now MFC) and Wabush Iron, as lessee, as amended (the "Wabush Sublease").
79. Operations at the Wabush Mine consisted of an open pit truck and shovel mine and a concentrator that utilizes single stage crushing, autogenous grinding mills and gravity separation to produce iron ore concentrate.
80. Similar to the Bloom Lake Mine, iron ore concentrate from the Wabush Mine was transported by rail by the Wabush Lake Railway, and then transferred to the Northern Land Railway, the QNS&L Railway and the Arnaud Railway for delivery to and shipment from the Pointe-Noire Port.

4.2 Pointe-Noire Port

81. The geographical location of the Pointe-Noire Port is as shown in Exhibit R-14.
82. Wabush Mines JV has a servitude over one dock and adjacent lands at the Pointe-Noire Port. Wabush Mines JV also owns certain real property and infrastructure at the Pointe-Noire Port, including Pointe-Noire Pellets. Wabush Mines had used its facilities at the Pointe-Noire Port for storage, laydown and transportation of iron ore produced at both the Wabush Mine and the Bloom Lake Mine. As described above, iron ore concentrate was transported by rail by the Wabush Lake Railway, and then transferred to the Northern Land Railway, the QNS&L Railway and the Arnaud Railway for shipment from the Pointe-Noire Port. Iron ore concentrate was then loaded onto transshipping vessels from Dock 31.
83. Transshipping was required because Dock 31 is limited in the size of ships which it can receive. Accordingly, iron ore for many customers must be loaded onto smaller "transshipping" ships which ferry multiple loads out to ocean-going vessels a short distance off-shore in the Bay of Sept-Iles for transport to overseas customers.
84. Wabush Mines JV requested and was refused authorization by the Port Authority to conduct dredging work and install a new loading system on the dock in order to permit the loading of larger ships at the dock and eliminate the need for transshipping in an effort to reduce operating costs.
85. The Port Authority's refusal to provide these work authorizations has been the subject of legal proceedings before the Québec Superior Court initiated by the Wabush CCAA Parties. Such legal proceedings have since been discontinued by the Wabush CCAA Parties.
86. As described below in section 6.13, proceedings involving Arnaud and the Port Authority before the Canadian Transportation Agency (the "Agency") are continuing before the Federal Court of Appeal.

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

- 13 -

4.3 Employees

87. Prior to the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine, the Wabush Mines JV was a significant employer in the areas of the Towns of Wabush and Labrador City, Newfoundland and Labrador and Pointe-Noire, Québec.
88. Prior to the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine in November 2014 and the last shipment of iron ore from the Pointe-Noire Port, the Wabush Mines JV employed approximately 600 employees in its operations at the Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port.
89. Following the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine and the last shipment of iron ore from the Pointe-Noire Port, employment numbers for Wabush Mines JV have dropped significantly. As described in the following chart, as at May 19, 2015, the Wabush Mines JV employs approximately 23 active employees in its operations at the Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port and approximately 168 hourly employees on lay-off at the Pointe-Noire Port.

Employer / (Location)	Active – Salaried Employees	Active – Hourly Employees	Non-Active (Leave of Absence/ Leave with Pay)	Hourly Lay-off subject to recall rights	Total Employees (Salaried, Hourly, Leave, Lay-Off)
Wabush Mines JV / (Wabush Mine)	6	0	0	0	6
Wabush Mines JV / (Pointe-Noire Port)	11	6	0	168	185
TOTAL	17	6	0	168	191

4.3.1 Employees at Wabush Mine

90. There are presently approximately 6 salaried employees at Wabush Mine. As of December 31, 2014, all hourly employees for the Wabush Mine have been terminated as a result of the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine.

4.3.2 Employees at the Pointe-Noire Port

91. Hourly employees at the Pointe-Noire Port are represented by the United Steelworkers Local 6254. A new collective agreement was entered into effective March 2, 2014 which expires on February 29, 2020.

- 14 -

92. Prior to December 2013, employees at the Pointe-Noire Port and employees of Arnaud were covered by the same bargaining certificate and collective bargaining agreement, and were on the payroll of the Wabush Mines JV. Arnaud employees remained on the Wabush Mines JV payroll until the termination of their employment.
93. Pursuant to a decision rendered by the Canadian Industrial Relations Board on December 18, 2013 on an application brought by Arnaud and the union, Arnaud is considered to be a federally regulated enterprise.
94. Operations at the Pointe-Noire Port were comprised of port operations, Pointe-Noire Pellets, railroad operation and related administrative functions. Certain employees of Pointe-Noire Pellets were laid off in 2013 prior to the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine in 2014 and the transition of the Bloom Lake Mine to care and maintenance mode. Additional lay-offs took place in November 2014 when the Wabush Mine was permanently idled.
95. Certain railroad and port operations and administrative functions continued at the Pointe-Noire Port after the closure of Pointe-Noire Pellets, the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine and the care and maintenance of the Bloom Lake Mine in order to deal with shipments of remaining iron ore from Bloom Lake Mine. On or about January 15, 2015, the last shipment of iron ore was dispatched from the Pointe-Noire Port and these remaining operations then ceased.
96. Unionized employees at the Pointe-Noire Port have a minimum of 36 months recall rights and up to a maximum of 5 years depending on the employee's years of service and subject to the terms of their collective bargaining agreement.

4.3.3 Employee Entitlements

97. Consistent with the treatment of employees of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, all salaried employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties who have been terminated on or before the date of this Motion have received their accrued and unpaid wages (including any bonuses), accrued and unpaid vacation indemnities (calculated as per company policies) and statutory severance and termination entitlements ("Employee Entitlements").
98. In order to treat all employees equally, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to pay Employee Entitlements to all other salaried employees who are terminated without cause in the future.
99. With the exception of vacation pay indemnities described below, all hourly employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties who have been laid off have been provided with their Employee Entitlements. In order to treat all employees equally, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to pay Employee Entitlements to all other hourly employees who are laid off in the future.
100. There is approximately $1.6 million of obligations relating to accrued vacation pay indemnities, of which $1.4 million relate to the hourly active and laid off employees. The amount of vacation pay indemnities for hourly employees is not included in the May 18 Forecast (as defined below) as the timing of the payment of a majority of this amount is uncertain.

- 15 -

101. All salaried and hourly employees of the Wabush CCAA Parties who have been terminated and all employees who are on lay-off have been provided with all regular group insurance coverage (with the exception of long and short-term disability coverage) for 16 weeks from their respective date of lay-off.
102. As with Employee Entitlements, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to continue to pay and provide these benefits to all other salaried and hourly employees who are terminated without cause or laid-off in the future.
103. The estimated amounts in respect of the pre-filing and post-filing Employee Entitlements and continuation of benefits as set out above are included in the Wabush CCAA Parties' weekly cash flow forecast to August 14, 2015 discussed in more detail below (as such cash flow forecast may be amended from time to time, the "May 18 Forecast") and communicated herewith as Exhibit R-15.
104. All statutory employer remittances are current.

4.4 Pension Plans

4.4.1 Defined Contribution Schemes

105. The pension plans for salaried employees at the Wabush Mine hired on or after January 1, 2013 are defined contribution schemes. These are the same defined contribution schemes as are maintained for the employees at the Bloom Lake Mine and the Montréal Head Office, which are described in the Motion for Bloom Initial Order (Exhibit R-2).
106. Wabush Mines JV is the administrator of these defined contribution schemes.
107. Contributions under the defined contribution scheme are paid with each payroll. The defined contribution schemes also includes an employer matching provision whereby the employer contributes up to 6% of each employee's eligible wages with each payroll.
108. All employee and employer contributions are paid current and future contribution amounts have been included in the May 18 Forecast.

4.4.2 Defined Benefit Plans

109. The pension plan for salaried employees at the Wabush Mine and the Pointe-Noire Port hired before January 1, 2013 is a defined benefit plan and is called the Contributory Pension Plan for Salaried Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the "Salaried DB Plan").
110. The pension plan for unionized hourly employees at the Wabush Mine and Pointe-Noire Port is also a defined benefit plan and is called the Pension Plan for Bargaining Unit

- 16 -

Employees of Wabush Mines, CMC, Managing Agent, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company (the "Hourly DB Plan" and together with the Salaried DB Plan, the "DB Plans").

111. Wabush Mines JV is the administrator of the DB Plans.
112. Based on a valuation as at January 1, 2014 (the "2014 Valuation"), the wind-up deficiency for the DB Plans was estimated to be a total of $26,522,582, consisting of $10,718,471 for the Salaried DB Plan and $15,804,111 for the Hourly DB Plan.
113. Based on estimates received from the Wabush CCAA Parties' pension consultant, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe the estimated wind-up deficiencies for the DB Plans as at January 1, 2015 to be a total of approximately $41.5 million, consisting of approximately $18.2 million for the Salaried DB Plan and approximately $23.3 million for the Hourly DB Plan.
114. All monthly normal cost and amortization payments in respect of the DB Plans for January through April, 2015 have been paid in full.
115. The monthly normal cost payments for the DB Plans for 2015 based on the 2014 Valuation are approximately $50,494.83 (Hourly DB Plan) and $41,931.25 (Salaried DB Plan) for a total monthly normal cost payment of $92,46.08 (the "Normal Cost Payments"). The Normal Cost Payments are included in the May 18 Forecast.
116. The Wabush CCAA Parties are also paying monthly amortization payments based on the 2014 Valuation of $393,337.00 (Hourly DB Plan) and $273,218.58 (Salaried DB Plan) for a total monthly amortization payment of $666,555.58 (the "Monthly Amortization Payments").
117. In addition to the Monthly Amortization Payments, the Wabush CCAA Parties are also required to make a lump sum "catch-up" amortization payment (the "Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment") for the DB Plans estimated to be approximately $5.5 Million due in July 2015.
118. The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding available to continue to pay the Monthly Amortization Payments or to pay the Yearly Catch-Up Amortization Payment due in July 2015 as the proposed Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments post-filing. As a result, the Monthly Amortization Payments and the Yearly Catch Up Amortization Payment, and any adjustments thereto as noted in paragraph 119 below, are not included in the May 18 Forecast.
119. Updated actuarial valuations as at January 1, 2015 will be completed, which may adjust the amount of the monthly normal cost and amortization payments set out above. However, these updated actuarial valuations are not required to be filed (or available) until June 30, 2015, and therefore no adjustments will be made to the amount of monthly normal cost and amortization payment liabilities until that time.

4.4.3 Other Post-Retirement Benefits

120. The CCAA Parties currently provide other post-retirement employee benefits (“OPEB”), including life insurance and health care, to former hourly and salaried employees of its Canadian subsidiaries hired before January 1, 2013, which vary based on whether retirees were formerly members of a bargaining unit or were non-unionized salaried employees.
121. Approximately 933 retired employees and 16 active employees are currently fully eligible for retirement benefits.
122. As of December 31, 2014, accumulated benefits obligations for post-retirement benefits (“ABO”) totaled approximately $52.1 million.
123. The premiums required to fund the foregoing OPEBs are approximately $182,000 a month.
124. In addition to the foregoing, there is a supplemental retirement arrangement plan (the “SRA”) for certain current and former salaried employees of Wabush Mines JV. The obligations under the SRA are approximately $1.01 million.
125. The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have any funding available to continue to pay any of the foregoing OPEBs, including the SRA obligations, post-filing as the proposed Interim Financing Term Sheet prohibits such payments. As a result, no payments on account of the OPEBs are included in the May 18 Forecast.

4.5 Employee Housing Arrangements

126. CQIM and Wabush Mines JV own a number of houses in the Pointe-Noire Port area and in the Town of Wabush used by employees and former employees for their housing (collectively, the “Employee Houses”). These Employee Houses are subject to a number of arrangements with employees and former employees.
127. Certain employees at Wabush Mine have entered into purchase and sale agreements with Wabush Mines JV to purchase Employee Houses. These arrangements permit the employees to pay for the Employee Houses during their employment with Wabush Mines JV by having the monthly installments deducted from their pay. On termination of employment or upon the expiration of the relevant employee’s recall period under the Collective Bargaining Agreement, the employee is required to either complete the purchase of the Employee House if the Employee House has not already been fully paid for, or sell its interest in the Employee House to Wabush JV in accordance with the terms of the purchase and sale agreement.
128. A number of these Employee Houses have been purchased by employees pursuant to this arrangement and a number of these arrangements are scheduled to come to term post-CCAA filing.

- 18 -

129. There are approximately 8 Employee Houses located in the Pointe-Noire Port area that are used by management employees. Title to these Employee Houses are held by CMC, as agent for the Wabush Mines JV. Only 4 of these 8 Employee Houses are currently occupied and it is expected that this will reduce to only 2 Employee Houses at the end of the school year.
130. Paragraph 33(c) of the Bloom Initial Order provides that the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties could sell or otherwise dispose of Employee Houses without the Court's approval but with the approval of the Monitor. The Wabush CCAA Parties are proposing that such provision be extended in the proposed Draft Wabush Initial Order to all of the Employee Houses owned by the Wabush CCAA Parties.

5. ASSETS

131. The approximate aggregate net book values of property, plant, equipment, cash, restricted cash, receivables, inventory, goodwill and intangibles of the Wabush CCAA Parties as of April 30, 2015 based on unaudited internal financial statements are shown in the chart set out below. As a result of the suspension of all mining operations, significant material impairment charges are pending which will result in a material adjustment to these numbers.
132. Subject to the qualifications above and below, the approximate net book value of the assets broken down by legal entity is provided in the chart communicated herewith as Exhibit R-16).

Nature	Net Book Value (USD)*
Property, plant and equipment	$44,644,160
Cash and Equivalents	$1,384,165
Restricted Cash	$0
Trade and other receivables	$2,336,630
Receivables from associated companies	$7,270,199
Inventory	$13,516,227
Goodwill and intangibles	$0
TOTAL	$69,151,381*

* The foregoing chart includes only select assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties. For example, the chart does not include other assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties such as deferred income taxes, investments in subsidiaries and other assets. In addition, the combined Net Book Value of the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties has not been adjusted to eliminate intercompany balances among the Wabush CCAA Parties.

133. As a result of significant and ongoing losses in November of 2014, the assets of the Wabush Mine were written down by approximately USD $183 million due to the impairment and write-off charges associated with idling the Wabush Mine.
134. The Wabush CCAA Parties are anticipating receiving at some time during the CCAA proceedings, the following tax refunds:
- (a) Federal income tax refund for 2013 with respect to carry back of net operating losses for Wabush Resources in the amount of approximately $3.3 million; and
 - (b) Income tax refund from the Province of Québec for overpayments in 2011 and 2012 and loss carry backs of net operating losses for 2012 and 2013 in the amount of approximately $6.6 million.

6. INDEBTEDNESS

6.1 Overview

135. As described in greater detail in the financial statements of the Wabush CCAA Parties communicated herewith as Exhibit R-17, the Wabush CCAA Parties have estimated aggregate outstanding liabilities of USD$ 593 million as of April 30, 2015 for accounting purposes. This amount reflects adjusted amounts for intercompany indebtedness which have been adjusted to take into account estimated fair value adjustments to the face value of the intercompany amounts set out in paragraph 136 below.

6.2 Intercompany Indebtedness

136. As of April 30, 2015, the face value of the outstanding indebtedness of the Wabush CCAA Parties to non-filing affiliated entities (before the accounting adjustments referenced in paragraph 135 above) is estimated to be approximately USD$ 650 million as summarized in the chart communicated herewith as Exhibit R-18.
137. In addition to the amounts described above, there are also obligations which have been guaranteed and/or covered by the provision of bonds and/or letters of credit by affiliates of the Wabush CCAA Parties which may give rise to additional intercompany claims against the Wabush CCAA Parties if any of those bonds and letters of credit are called upon by the beneficiaries or holders thereof.

6.2.1 CMC Demand Credit Agreement

138. Pursuant to a demand credit agreement dated as of February 23, 2015 (the "Demand Credit Agreement") between CMC, as lender, and Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron, as borrowers on a joint and several basis, Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron are indebted to CMC in the amount of USD $7 million.

139. Pursuant to an equipment security agreement and moveable hypothec dated the same date ("Equipment Security Agreement" and "Moveable Hypothec", respectively), the obligations of Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron to CMC under the Demand Credit Agreement are secured by any and all present and future right, title and interest of Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron in all equipment located in Newfoundland and Labrador (including any equipment set out in Schedule A to the Equipment Security Agreement and Moveable Hypothec), all accessions thereto, books and records and permits, and all proceeds of any of the foregoing, wherever located, all as more particularly defined and described in the Equipment Security Agreement and Moveable Hypothec.
140. Copies of the Demand Credit Agreement, Equipment Security Agreement and Moveable Hypothec are communicated herewith as Exhibits R-19, R-20 and R-21, respectively.

6.3 Equipment Financing

141. Given the idling of the Pointe-Noire Pellets in 2013 and the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine in November 2014, the Wabush CCAA Parties are no longer party to any material equipment financing arrangements.
142. With respect to the remaining miscellaneous equipment financing, the Wabush CCAA Parties are not intending post-filing to pay for any equipment that is subject to a financing arrangement for which they are not using. Similarly, the Wabush CCAA Parties do not intend to pay post-filing for equipment subject to lease arrangements for which they are no longer using.
143. The May 18 Forecast does not provide for payment in respect of these financing and lease arrangements. Therefore, if the relief sought on this Motion is granted, and subject to further Order of the Court, the Wabush CCAA Parties do not intend to make any payments pursuant to these financing or lease arrangements during these CCAA Proceedings.

6.4 Construction Liens

144. As of May 15, 2015, there were 5 legal hypothecs in the aggregate amount of approximately $4,339,284.92 in favor of persons having taken part in the construction or renovation of an immovable, registered against property of each of Wabush Resources and Wabush Iron, respectively, located in Québec (collectively, the "Legal Hypothecs"), as more fully appears from a table summarizing the Legal Hypothecs and a copy of the Legal Hypothecs registered as of May 11, 2015, communicated herewith, en liasse, as Exhibit R-22.

6.5 Trade Creditors

145. As at April 30, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties have a total amount outstanding to trade creditors of approximately USD $8 to 10 million.

6.6 Contracts

146. Due to the Wabush CCAA Parties' current circumstances, including the cessation of mining operations and these CCAA Proceedings, numerous contracts to which the Wabush CCAA Parties are parties have become redundant. Accordingly, if the relief sought on this Motion is granted, it is the intention of the Wabush CCAA Parties to serve notices of rescission and disclaimer of certain contracts pursuant to the CCAA as soon as practicable.
147. The Wabush Mines JV is also party to a "take or pay" contract. This "take or pay" contract provides for charges based on the usage of services related to the transportation of iron ore, with significant minimum monthly payments. As the Wabush Mine is permanently idled, these services are not being used. Therefore, if granted the relief sought on this Motion, and subject to further Order of the Court, Wabush Mines JV does not intend to make any payments pursuant to any such contract during these CCAA Proceedings.
148. Unless the Wabush CCAA Parties are using the goods or services provided under these kinds of contracts, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to disclaim these contracts as soon as practicable if the relief sought by this Motion is granted.

6.7 Sandvik Mining and Construction

149. On or about March 4, 2015, Sandvik Mining and Construction Canada a Division of Sandvik Canada Inc. ("Sandvik") sent a demand letter to CMC, as managing agent of Wabush Mines JV. The letter demanded payment of approximately $1,753,155.13 allegedly owing in relation to a supply, erection and commissioning agreement involving, among other things, the supply by Sandvik of a ship loader to Wabush Mines JV for the Pointe-Noire Port, and provided notice of termination of the Sandvik supply, erection and commissioning agreement, as appears from a copy of the letter from Sandvik dated March 4, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-23.
150. On or about April 9, 2015, Sandvik informed CMC, as managing agent of Wabush Mines, that Sandvik would be liquidating equipment owned by Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources to satisfy amounts allegedly owing to Sandvik and other losses allegedly suffered by Sandvik, the whole as appears from a copy of the letter from Sandvik dated April 9, 2015 communicated herewith as Exhibit R-24.

6.8 Northern Land Company Limited

151. There is approximately $1 million owing by Wabush Iron to Northern Land Company Limited for its share of the capital expenses for the 2014 track replacement program undertaken by Northern Land Company Limited.

6.9 Carol Lake

152. Pursuant to a Maintenance and Operation Agreement dated January 1, 1980 and amended on June 10, 1985 (the "Maintenance Agreement"), Wabush Lake Railway

- 22 -

Company is obliged to pay its share of joint costs in relation to the Northern Land Railway to Carol Lake Company. Since Wabush Lake Railway Company has not been running trains on the Northern Land Railway for some years, its share of the joint costs is capped at 20% pursuant to the Maintenance Agreement or approximately $58,000 a month.

6.10 Twin Falls Power Corporation

153. Wabush Mines JV owes approximately $800,000 to Twin Falls for annual maintenance of transmission lines for 2014 constituting its pro rata share of these expenses.

6.11 Municipal Property Taxes Owing

154. There is presently approximately $2.5 million in taxes owed to the City of Sept-Iles.
155. The Town of Wabush is owed outstanding property taxes relating to certain Employee Houses in the amount of approximately $500,000.

6.12 Environmental Matters

156. On September 23, 2014, the Newfoundland and Labrador Department of Natural Resources accepted the updated Rehabilitation and Closure Plan for the Wabush Mine (the "Wabush Mine Closure Plan"). Environmental bonds have been posted by an affiliate with respect to the Wabush Mine Closure Plan in the amount of $49.7 million.
157. In February 2015, the Newfoundland and Labrador Department of Environment and Conservation (the "DEC") advised that the decommissioning and reclamation work under the Wabush Mine Closure Plan is subject to environmental assessment review pursuant to the Newfoundland and Labrador Environmental Protection Act (the "EPA"), and that the decommissioning and reclamation work set out in the Wabush Mine Closure Plan could not proceed unless and until the Wabush Mine Closure Plan was registered with the DEC and allowed to proceed by the Minister of the Environment and Conservation. The Wabush Mine Closure Plan has not yet been registered for the purposes of the environmental assessment review process pursuant to the EPA. The EPA does not impose a time limit for registration.

6.13 Litigation

6.13.1 Canadian Transportation Agency Proceedings

158. On April 2, 2014, the Port Authority filed an application with the Agency seeking a determination as to whether certain track on the Arnaud Railway is subject to the transfer and discontinuance process under the Canada Transportation Act ("CTA") (the "Railway Application"). This process would require Arnaud, Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources to take certain steps prior to transferring or discontinuing operation of this track. The Agency dismissed the Port Authority's application on October 16, 2014.

- 23 -

159. On December 23, 2014, the Agency advised Arnaud, Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources that, at the request of the Minister of Transport, the Agency had appointed an Inquiry Officer pursuant to the CTA to conduct an inquiry with respect to the same track which was the subject of the Railway Application.
160. The inquiry considered, among other things, whether this track is a "railway" pursuant to the CTA; whether it is subject to CTA certificate of fitness requirements; and whether it should be included in Arnaud, Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources' three-year plans under the CTA.
161. On January 20, 2015, the inquiry officer submitted his report to the Agency and found that certain tracks identified as the Wabush Loop and the CQIM Spur Track were railway lines subject to some provisions of the CTA, that Arnaud was the operator of these tracks, and that these tracks were subject to the CTA certificate of fitness requirements; with the exception that the inquiry officer found that the CQIM Spur Track was a spur, and not considered as a railway line, and thus not subject to the three year plan provisions of the CTA.
162. On January 26, 2015, the Agency adopted the findings of the report of the inquiry officer. Arnaud, Wabush Iron and Wabush Resources petitioned the Federal Court of Appeal for leave to appeal CTA's decision of January 26, 2015, and such leave was granted on April 22, 2015.

6.13.2 On-Going Arbitrations and Other Matters

163. Wabush Mines JV is currently party to several ongoing, confidential arbitration proceedings related to disputes arising in connection with certain material contracts.
164. The approximate aggregate amount of claims against the Wabush CCAA Parties that are the subject matter of these arbitration proceedings is in excess of $50 million.
165. These arbitration proceedings have consumed a significant amount of time and resources of Wabush Mines JV.

6.13.3 Royal Bank of Canada Litigation

166. Royal Bank of Canada commenced an action in Newfoundland and Labrador against CMC, as managing agent of Wabush Mines JV, for damages in the amount of approximately $2,113,324 plus interest of approximately $12,434,946 with respect to the alleged breach of a 1996 equipment lease related to the maintenance of two electric shovels. This litigation remains ongoing.

6.14 CMC Secured Funding

167. As set out in paragraph 138, CMC is owed approximately US$7.0 million under the Demand Credit Agreement.

- 24 -

6.15 Registrations in Québec, Ontario, Newfoundland and Labrador, New Brunswick and Ohio registries

168. For ease of reference, a copy of summaries of the search results in Québec, Ontario, Newfoundland and Labrador, New Brunswick, and Ohio in respect of the CCAA Parties are listed below:
- a) Real estate search report (Québec) on the Wabush CCAA Parties immovable property, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-25;
 - b) RPMRR (Québec) on the Wabush CCAA Parties movable property, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-26;
 - c) Personal Property Security Act (Ontario, Newfoundland and Labrador, New Brunswick and Ohio) search results summary on the Wabush CCAA Parties' movable property, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-27; and
 - d) Public register of real and immovable mining rights on Wabush Iron Co. Limited and Wabush Resources Inc.'s mining rights in Québec, communicated herewith as Exhibit R-28 (no registrations).
169. Searches of the real property and mining claims registries in New Brunswick disclosed no registration. Searches of the real property and mining claims registries in Newfoundland and Labrador disclosed one registration in respect of lis pendens in respect of the litigation instituted by Royal Bank of Canada as described in paragraph 166 of this Motion.
170. Copies of the raw search results in respect of the foregoing will be available at the hearing of this Motion.

7. CASH MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

171. The Wabush CCAA Parties utilize a centralized cash management system for, among other things, the collection of customer receipts and the payment of suppliers, payroll, employee-related benefits and lease financing amounts. The cash management system is managed by CNR with support from CQIM at the Montréal Head Office with respect to payroll, vendor communications and accounts payable.
172. The majority of the Wabush CCAA Parties' bank accounts are held with the Bank of Montreal which provides for certain cash management services which do not provide for any overdraft or any payment risk credit lines.

8. FINANCIAL RESULTS AND LOSSES

173. For the four months ended April 30, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties recorded estimated cumulative net loss of approximately USD $1.17 million before non-cash, accounting adjustments related to the deconsolidation of the Wabush CCAA Parties, as appears from the financial statements of the Wabush CCAA Parties (Exhibit R-17) which financial statements have not been prepared in accordance with generally accepted principles, as more specifically set out in the notes in Exhibit R-17.

9. EVENTS LEADING TO THE COURT FILING

174. A combination of factors have caused liquidity demands for the Wabush CCAA Parties including, among other things:
- a) The depressed global market for steel, particularly in Asia, and the resulting decrease in the price of iron ore. Since 2011, the price of iron ore has fallen from USD $190 per tonne to below USD $67 per tonne;
 - b) The aforementioned depressed global steel market causing the production at the Wabush Mine to become unsustainable, resulting in significant costs and loss of revenues associated with the idling of the Wabush Mine;
 - c) Notices of default have been delivered under significant commercial contracts and demands for payment have been made on the Wabush CCAA Parties;
 - d) Inability to negotiate cost reductions in certain material logistics and other contracts; and
 - e) The Wabush CCAA Parties do not have sufficient resources or the ability to generate sufficient funds to satisfy their other outstanding obligations in the normal course.
175. The Wabush CCAA Parties responded to the liquidity challenges described above by, among other things:
- a) seeking investments, support and other financial contributions from its overseas customers;
 - b) seeking investment, support and other financial contributions from other potential customers and end users of iron ore;
 - c) seeking to reduce costs through re-negotiation of certain material contracts;
 - d) seeking buyer or buyers for the iron ore business or parts thereof;
 - e) seeking financing or other investment contributions from financial institutions and investment and pension funds; and
 - f) entering into negotiations with MFC for the sale of the Wabush Mine.
176. These efforts proved unsuccessful and losses relating to the operations of the Wabush CCAA Parties continued to escalate to unsustainable levels.
177. By November 2014, it became apparent to the CCAA Parties that efforts to sell the Wabush Mine and to find strategic partners for the Bloom Lake Mine would not be successful within a reasonable time frame. Accordingly, a decision was then made to minimize on-going hemorrhaging of capital by transitioning the Wabush Mine to a permanent idle and suspending mining operations at the Bloom Lake Mine and transitioning the Bloom Lake Mine into care and maintenance mode.

- 26 -

178. At this time, given the growing pressures that have been asserted by creditors on the Wabush CCAA Parties, including through pending and costly arbitration and other legal proceedings, the continued financial losses and the significant but unsuccessful efforts to consummate a solution to their financial issues outside of a CCAA filing, the Wabush CCAA Parties have no other alternative but to seek protection from their creditors under the CCAA so that they can continue to pursue restructuring and/or sale options under a court-supervised process for the benefit of all stakeholders.

10. 13 WEEK FORECAST

179. Based on the financial position of the Wabush CCAA Parties, it is the position of the Wabush CCAA Parties that the assumptions set out in the May 18 Forecast (Exhibit R-15) are reasonable.
180. The May 18 Forecast has been prepared by the Wabush CCAA Parties' management in consultation with FTI Consulting Canada Inc., the proposed Monitor for the Wabush CCAA Parties. The Monitor has advised that it will be filing a report on the May 18 Forecast.
181. Based on the May 18 Forecast, the CCAA Parties will require funding under the Interim Facility of approximately USD $1.3 million commencing the week of May 18, 2015 until the Comeback Hearing (as defined below) in order to be able to pay their post-filing obligations in the ordinary course.
182. As described above, the Wabush CCAA Parties are not using equipment which is subject to the various financing arrangements and the May 18 Forecast does not provide for payments in respect of these arrangements. Similarly, the Wabush CCAA Parties are not intending to pay for any lease payments in respect of equipment that they are not using. Therefore, subject to further Order of the Court, the Wabush CCAA Parties do not intend to make any payments pursuant to these financing and lease arrangements during these CCAA Proceedings.
183. As described above, for similar reasons, the Wabush CCAA Parties also do not intend to make any payments with respect to "take or pay" agreements which provide for minimum payments.
184. As described above, the May 18 Forecast does not include provision for amortization payments or OPEBs.
185. Certain costs, such as insurance premiums, are paid by non-filing affiliates on behalf of the Wabush CCAA Parties. To the extent such payments are made after the date of the Wabush Initial Order, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to reimburse the relevant non-filing affiliates for such amounts.

11. NEED FOR CREDITOR PROTECTION

11.1 The Wabush CCAA Parties are Insolvent

186. Notwithstanding significant efforts of management and the Board of Directors of the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Wabush CCAA Parties are currently insolvent.
187. On-going arbitrations and litigation have also been a significant drain on the Wabush CCAA Parties' time and resources.
188. The Wabush CCAA Parties are no longer generating any revenue and no further revenue is anticipated to be generated due to the permanent idling of the Wabush Mine and the idling of Pointe-Noire Pellets. No further funding is available to the Wabush CCAA Parties from any of its affiliates except under the court-approved interim financing which the Wabush CCAA Parties are seeking approval of on this Motion.
189. As of May 18, 2015, the Wabush CCAA Parties have less than approximately $250,000 in available cash and such resources are insufficient to fund their ongoing obligations as they become due or pay their liabilities in the normal course.
190. The affiliates of the Wabush CCAA Parties have informed the Wabush CCAA Parties that no further funding will be provided to the Wabush CCAA Parties other than as may be required to fund these CCAA Proceedings, in which case, it must be in the form of court-approved interim financing.
191. The Wabush CCAA Parties have negotiated the Interim Facility from CMC in order to maintain their liquidity needs for the funding of these CCAA Proceedings and they hereby seek approval of the Interim Facility and the Interim Lender Charge, as more fully described in this Motion.
192. Based on the May 18 Forecast, and if the Interim Facility is approved by the Court, and the Interim Lender Charge is granted the priority sought at the Comeback Hearing, the Wabush CCAA Parties will have sufficient funding and liquidity to cover anticipated post-filing costs and expenses until August 14, 2015.
193. The Wabush CCAA Parties have businesses and assets which may have significant value and protection from creditors is required as the Wabush CCAA Parties address their current financial situation or seek financing or a sale of all or part of their businesses and assets.

12. PROPOSED RESTRUCTURING

194. The Wabush CCAA Parties require the benefit of the relief requested in this Motion, including a stay of proceedings, in order to allow them to explore further restructuring, refinancing and/or sales efforts, engage in further discussions with key stakeholders such as employees, suppliers, governmental authorities, financiers and affected communities under the stability and guidance of a court supervised process, and to generally pursue available options for the benefit of all stakeholders.

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

- 28 -

195. With the protection from their creditors requested herein granted to the Wabush CCAA Parties, the Wabush CCAA Parties will focus their resources on:
- a. carrying out the SISF that has already been approved by this Court;
 - b. continuing care and maintenance efforts at the Wabush Mine to maintain the status quo during these CCAA Proceedings;
 - c. taking other steps to preserve and maintain the value of the Wabush CCAA Parties' assets and properties; and
 - d. such other matters that may arise throughout the process.
196. Given a reasonable period of time to further implement the SISF, the overall value of the Wabush CCAA Parties' businesses and assets will likely be maximized for the benefit of their stakeholders.
197. In the Wabush CCAA Parties' view, the prospects for these restructuring efforts are significantly enhanced if the Wabush CCAA Parties obtain the relief being sought on this Motion by the granting of protection under the CCAA by this Court on the terms of the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8).

13. RELIEF SOUGHT

13.1 General

198. The Wabush CCAA Parties are deeply concerned that unless a stay of proceedings is granted to the Wabush CCAA Parties pursuant to the terms of the CCAA, certain suppliers, creditors and other stakeholders may attempt to take steps to try and improve their positions in comparison to other similarly situated stakeholders. This would jeopardize and potentially deplete the value of the Wabush CCAA Parties' estates to the detriment of all stakeholders and disrupt the ongoing restructuring efforts.
199. The granting of the CCAA stay will preserve the status quo and permit the Wabush CCAA Parties to continue with their restructuring efforts along with the rest of the CCAA Parties. This will also allow for the coordination of these CCAA Proceedings between the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and Wabush CCAA Parties and the SISF and the ability to effect a global restructuring solution for all of the CCAA Parties under a single consolidated proceeding that avoids the potential of any duplication of costs that could occur if separate insolvency proceedings are initiated by or against the Wabush CCAA Parties.
200. It is the Wabush CCAA Parties' view that pursuing options under the CCAA will yield significantly better results for the diverse group of stakeholders than any conceivable liquidation scenario.
201. On this present Motion, the Wabush CCAA Parties seek an initial stay period of 30 days (the "Stay Period"). Before the expiry of the Stay Period, the Wabush CCAA Parties intend to return to this Court for a comeback hearing anticipated to be on or about June 9, 2015, on notice to interested parties, for, among other things, the granting of priority for the court approved charges set out in the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8), an extension of the Stay Period and other matters which may require the Court's attention at that time (the "Comeback Hearing").

13.2 Appointment of the Monitor as Monitor to the Wabush CCAA Parties

202. The Monitor already acting in these CCAA Proceedings in respect of the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties has agreed to act in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties in the event that the relief sought herein is granted.
203. As CQIM is the parent company of Wabush Resources, the Monitor is familiar with its assets, businesses and personnel associated with the Wabush Mines JV.
204. The Monitor has therefore obtained significant information in respect of the businesses, operations and assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties, an understanding of the many issues faced by the Wabush CCAA Parties and relevant to their restructuring efforts and a familiarity with the management and personnel of the Wabush CCAA Parties. The Monitor is therefore best qualified to act as Monitor with respect to the Wabush CCAA Parties and it is appropriate that the Monitor be appointed as such.
205. The Monitor is prepared to act as Monitor of the Wabush CCAA Parties, pursuant to, and subject to, the terms of the Wabush Initial Order and the statutory provisions of the CCAA.
206. The Wabush CCAA Parties have been informed by the Monitor that it is a licensed trustee within the meaning of section 2 of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Canada). The Monitor is not subject to any of the restrictions on who may be appointed monitor as set out in section 11.7(2) of the CCAA.
207. At no time during the preceding two years has the Monitor been:
- a) a director, officer or employee of the Wabush CCAA Parties;
 - b) related to the Wabush CCAA Parties or to any former director or officer of the Wabush CCAA Parties; or
 - c) the Wabush CCAA Parties' auditor, accountant or legal counsel, or a partner or employee of the auditor, accountant or legal counsel of the Wabush CCAA Parties.
208. The Monitor is not a trustee under a trust indenture issued by the Wabush CCAA Parties or any person related to the Wabush CCAA Parties, and is not a holder of a power of attorney granted by the Wabush CCAA Parties or by any person related to the Wabush CCAA Parties. The Monitor is not related to a trustee or holder of a power of attorney noted above.

- 30 -

209. Therefore, the Monitor is qualified to act as Monitor and there is no restriction on the Monitor being appointed Monitor of the Wabush CCAA Parties in these CCAA Proceedings.

13.3 Administration Charge

210. Counsel for the Wabush CCAA Parties, independent counsel for the Wabush CCAA Parties' Directors and Officers (as defined below), the Monitor, the Monitor's counsel and counsel to CMC, as the Interim lender, are essential to the restructuring and/or sale efforts contemplated in the CCAA proceedings.

211. They have each advised that they are prepared to provide or continue to provide professional services to the Wabush CCAA Parties only if they are protected by a charge over the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

212. It is contemplated that the Wabush CCAA Parties will each be invoiced and pay fees and expenses of the beneficiaries of the Wabush Administration Charge on a weekly basis and a court ordered charge is sought as security for the fees and disbursements relating to services rendered up to a maximum amount of $1.75 million with the priority set out in the Draft Wabush Initial Order.

213. The Wabush CCAA Parties seek an Administration Charge (the "Wabush Administration Charge") in the amount of $1.75 million, to have such charge secure the professional fees and expenses payable by the Wabush CCAA Parties, and to have such charge apply to the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

214. Pursuant to the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8), the Wabush Administration Charge would rank ahead of the security granted under the Demand Credit Agreement and behind the security or other encumbrances over the property of the Wabush CCAA Parties in favour of any parties not served with notice of the presentation of this Motion. CMC has consented to the Wabush Administration Charge ranking ahead of the security granted under the Demand Credit Agreement.

215. However, as provided in the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8), it is the intention of the Wabush CCAA Parties to seek priority over all creditors at the Comeback Hearing. Creditors with security interests who are likely to be affected by such priority will be served with notice of that motion.

216. The amount of the Wabush Administration Charge has been determined not on the basis of the total fees payable to these professionals during the CCAA proceedings but on an assessment of what could be an amount outstanding to these professionals at any given time in these CCAA Proceedings.

217. In order to ensure a reasonable allocation of the professional fees and expenses of the CCAA Parties among the CCAA Parties, a protocol will be established which provides for professional fees and expenses to be allocated (a) to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties in respect of matters that relate exclusively to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties, their businesses or their assets, (b) to the Wabush CCAA Parties in respect of matters that relate exclusively to the Wabush CCAA Parties, their businesses or their assets, and (c) initially to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties to be subsequently allocated among the CCAA Parties with the approval of the Court, in respect of matters that relate jointly to the Bloom Lake CCAA Parties and Wabush CCAA Parties, such as any subsequent claims procedure for the CCAA Parties.

13.4 Directors & Officers' Protection

218. The Wabush CCAA Parties are seeking a Directors' Charge (the "Wabush Directors' Charge") in the amount of $2 million, to have such charge also be in favour of the Directors and Officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties, and to have such charge only apply to the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties.
219. Pursuant to the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8), the Wabush Directors Charge would rank behind the Wabush Administration Charge, ahead of the security granted under the Demand Credit Agreement and behind the security or other encumbrances over the property of the Wabush CCAA Parties in favour of any parties not served with notice of the presentation of this Motion. CMC has consented to the Wabush Directors Charge ranking ahead of the security granted under the Demand Credit Agreement.
220. However, it is the intention of the Wabush CCAA Parties to seek to have the full amount of the Wabush Directors' Charge rank in priority to all other Encumbrances against the Wabush CCAA Parties' assets at the Comeback Hearing. Creditors with security interests who are likely to be affected by such priority will be served with notice of that motion for the Comeback Hearing.
221. Restructuring efforts for the Wabush CCAA Parties will be significantly enhanced with continuity on the boards' of directors (collectively, the "Directors") as well as continuity in the make-up of their respective officers (collectively, the "Officers"), given the complexity of the Wabush CCAA Parties' businesses and assets and the historical and specialized expertise and knowledge they possess with respect to the Wabush CCAA Parties' businesses, assets and the mining industry as a whole.
222. CNR maintains primary and excess directors' and officers' liability insurance policies for the directors and officers of its subsidiaries which include the Directors and Officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties (together, the "D&O Insurance").
223. The D&O Insurance contain limits and exclusions that could potentially affect the total amount of insurance available to the Directors and Officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties. For example:
- a) The D&O Insurance has a limit of liability (inclusive of defence costs) of USD $215 million and expires on July 15, 2015. Additionally, USD $45 million of the D&O Insurance limit only applies in narrow circumstances and is only available to covered claims made during the policy period where CNR fails or refuses to indemnify insured Directors & Officers;

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

- 32 -

- b) The aggregate limit of liability applies to all covered claims made during the policy period. All insureds (including the directors and officers of CNR and of CNR subsidiaries which are not Wabush CCAA Parties) share the limits available under the D&O Insurance, which could further reduce amounts available to satisfy claims of the Directors and Officers;
 - c) Certain insureds who are not Wabush CCAA Parties have already provided notice of claims unrelated to these CCAA Proceedings to the D&O Insurance carriers which is impairing the aggregate limits of liability under the relevant policies; and
 - d) Certain claims and certain types of losses are excluded under the D&O Insurance which may mean that not all post-filing claims which could be made against Directors and Officers would be covered. Some principal exclusions include:
 - i) Claims for actual or alleged bodily injury or property damage;
 - ii) Losses that constitute compensation earned by the claimant in the course of employment but unpaid by the insured, including salary, wages, commissions, bonuses or incentive compensation;
 - iii) Losses for any actual or alleged violation of the responsibilities or duties imposed upon fiduciaries by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) or a similar Canadian statute;
 - iv) Losses that constitute fines, penalties or taxes imposed by law;
 - v) Losses that constitute costs associated in testing for, monitoring or cleaning up pollutants;
 - vi) Fines, penalties or taxes imposed by law other than penalties assessed against any insured person pursuant to the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act; and
 - vii) Any amount of Loss attributable to the cost of any non-monetary relief, including costs associated with complying with injunctive relief.
224. A number of the foregoing exclusions may preclude coverage for employee wages, pension contributions and other employment-related claims, taxes and/or penalties. These exclusions in the D&O Insurance could foreclose any recovery for such claims under the D&O Insurance. These claims account for approximately 80% of the estimated post-filing amounts outstanding from time to time that the Directors and Officers would be exposed to.
225. The Directors and Officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties have expressed significant concern with respect to potential personal liability if they continue in their current capacities through this restructuring process. In the Wabush CCAA Parties' view it is important that adequate protection be afforded to the Directors and Officers to provide incentive for them to remain as Directors and Officers, respectively, of the Wabush CCAA Parties.

- 33 -

226. In light of the potential for significant personal liability, all of the Directors and Officers of the Wabush CCAA Parties have advised that they will not continue their service and involvement in the proposed restructuring unless the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8) grants a charge as security for the Wabush CCAA Parties' obligations to the Directors and Officers in the manner and with the priority as described above.
227. The Wabush CCAA Parties have made inquiries through an insurance broker who has advised that no additional directors' and officers' insurance is obtainable by the Wabush CCAA Parties.
228. With the assistance of the Monitor, a calculation has been performed to estimate the potential quantum of post-filing amounts outstanding from time to time for which Directors and Officers may have potential personal liability under various statutes.
229. This amount has been calculated as to approximately $2 million, depending on certain assumptions.
230. The Wabush CCAA Parties thus propose that the Wabush Directors' Charge be granted in the amount of $2 million to the extent such claims are not covered by the D&O Insurance, in order to provide a reasonable level of protection to the Directors and Officers.
231. The Wabush CCAA Parties believe that the amount of the Wabush Directors' Charge is fair and reasonable in the circumstances.

13.5 Terms of Interim Financing and Interim Lender Charge

232. As mentioned above, CMC has advised that it is only willing to fund the Wabush CCAA Parties' participation in these CCAA Proceedings by way of the Interim Facility if (a) the Interim Lender Charge in the amount of up to $15 million, with the priority set out in the Interim Financing Term Sheet, is granted over the assets of the Wabush CCAA Parties, (b) the pricing, including the interest rate, as set out in the Interim Financing Term Sheet is agreed to by the Wabush CCAA Parties and approved by the Court, and (c) the covenants set out in the Interim Financing Term Sheet are agreed to by the Wabush CCAA Parties and approved by the Court.
233. The Wabush CCAA Parties are of the view that the Interim Lender Charge, Interim Facility pricing and covenants set out in the Interim Financing Term Sheet are reasonable and, taking into account the economic and operational status of the Wabush CCAA Parties, significantly superior to market standard for financing of a comparable amount. Accordingly, no other parties were approached about potentially providing interim financing.

234. The Wabush CCAA Parties have no revenue and minimal cash on hand; they accordingly have no liquidity and no ability to fund their participation in the CCAA Proceedings without financing.
235. This Interim Facility is essential to the successful restructuring of the Wabush CCAA Parties in these CCAA Proceedings. Under these circumstances, the Interim Facility, on the terms set out in the Interim Financing Term Sheet, is the most practical, affordable and accessible source for such financing.
236. Pending the Comeback Hearing, the Interim Facility will be in priority to the security granted under the Demand Credit Agreement, but it will be behind the Wabush Administration Charge, the Wabush Directors' Charge and any other secured creditors. It is the intention of the Wabush CCAA Parties to seek a priority charge for the Interim Facility and over all other Encumbrances at the Comeback Hearing. Creditors with security interests who are likely to be affected by such priority will be served with notice of that motion.

13.6 Execution Notwithstanding Appeal

237. In view of the urgency and severity of the circumstances confronting the Wabush CCAA Parties, it is essential that execution of the order requested be granted notwithstanding appeal.

14. CONCLUSIONS

238. The Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8) presented on this Motion is based on the form of standard CCAA Initial Order approved by the Superior Court of Québec, Commercial Division (the "Model Order"). A black-lined version comparing the Model Order to the Draft Wabush Initial Order is communicated as Exhibit R-29. A black-lined version comparing the Bloom Initial Order to the Draft Wabush Initial Order is communicated as Exhibit R-30.
239. For the reasons set forth above, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe that it is both appropriate and necessary that the relief being sought in the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8) be granted for the purposes of maximizing the restructuring efforts of the Wabush CCAA Parties for the benefit of their stakeholders.
240. The Bloom Initial Order provides that all motions in these CCAA Proceedings are to be brought on not less than ten (10) calendar days' notice to all persons on the service list. The Wabush CCAA Parties have not complied with this requirement in connection with this Motion. Given that this Motion is to seek the issuance of an Initial Order, the Wabush CCAA Parties believe that it is critical in order to preserve and maintain the value of their assets not to provide the creditors and other stakeholders of the Wabush CCAA Parties with an opportunity to pursue the exercise of rights or remedies against the Wabush CCAA Parties, their businesses and/or their assets pending the Court's hearing of this Motion.

Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order, May 19, 2015

- 35 -

241. The Wabush CCAA Parties respectfully submit that this motion should be granted in accordance with its conclusions.
242. The present motion is well-founded in fact and in law.

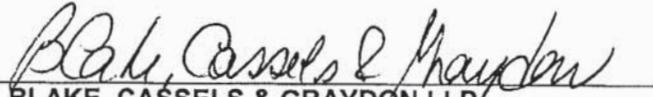

FOR THESE REASONS, MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT TO:

GRANT the present Motion for the Issuance of an Initial Order;

ISSUE an Initial Order in the form of the Draft Wabush Initial Order (Exhibit R-8) communicated in support hereof;

THE WHOLE WITHOUT COSTS, save and except in case of contestation.

By the Court:

[1] The Lieutenant-Governor in Council for Newfoundland and Labrador referred questions regarding the interpretation of provisions of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01, to this Court pursuant to sections 13 and 14 of the Judicature Act, RSNL 1990, c. J-4. Following are the decision and opinion of the Court, including an analysis of submissions made by intervenors regarding the appropriate context within which the questions should be considered.

The Questions

[2] By Orders-in-Council 2017-103 and 2017-137, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council for Newfoundland and Labrador referred the following questions to this Court (the “Questions”):

1. The Supreme Court of Canada has confirmed in Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, that, subject only to the doctrine of paramountcy, provincial laws apply in proceedings under the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act, RSC 1985, c. C-36. What is the scope of section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL 1996, c. P-4.01 deemed trusts in respect of:

- a) unpaid current service costs;
- b) unpaid special payments; and
- c) unpaid wind-up deficits?

2. The Salaried Plan is registered in Newfoundland and Labrador and regulated by the Pension Benefits Act, 1997.

(i) Does the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act, RSC 1985, c. 32 deemed trust also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who worked on the railway (i.e., a federal undertaking)?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 and the Pension Benefits Standards Act? If so, how is the conflict resolved?

b)

(i) Does the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, CQLR, c. R-15.1 also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who reported for work in Quebec?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 and the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act? If so, how is the conflict resolved?

(iii) Do the Quebec Supplemental Pension Plans Act deemed trusts also apply to Quebec Salaried Plan members?

3. Is the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 lien and charge in favour of the pension plan administrator in section 32(4) of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator? If yes, what amounts does this secured claim encompass?

Context for the Questions

[3] In December 2015, the Superintendent of Pensions of Newfoundland and Labrador terminated pension plans covering employees of Wabush Mines, a company operating in Labrador. The employer had discontinued operations and was the subject of proceedings in the Quebec courts under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (the "Quebec Proceedings"). The Monitor in that action sought directions regarding priorities with respect to claims under the Act. A preliminary issue was raised as to whether the Quebec Superior Court "should request the aid" of the Newfoundland and Labrador courts regarding the "scope and priority of the deemed trust and other security" created by the Newfoundland and Labrador Pension Benefits Act, 1997 (decision of the Quebec Court, 500-11-048114-157, January 30, 2017, at paragraph 2). The Court decided to proceed without referring any issues to the courts of this Province. On September 11, 2017, Hamilton J.S.C. issued his decision, concluding, among other things:

[218] ...

f) Nothing in the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997 of Newfoundland and Labrador] limits the assets covered by the deemed trust to assets located in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador;

g) The Court would not recognize or enforce the deemed trust under the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997 of Newfoundland and Labrador] against assets located in the province of Québec.

[219] Finally, with respect to the orders sought by the Representative Employees in their Argumentation Outline, the Court adds that the Plans are governed by the [federal pension legislation] for the railway employees, by the [Québec pension legislation] for the non-railway employees who reported for work in Québec, and by the [Newfoundland and Labrador pension legislation] for the non-railway employees who reported for work in NL.

[220] At the outset, the Court said it would reserve the rights of the parties to ask the Court to revise the conclusions of the present judgment if: (1) the [Newfoundland and Labrador Court of Appeal] decides that the interpretation of the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997] is different from the interpretation that the Court assumed, and (2) that difference is material to the Court's conclusions.

[221] However, based on its analysis and conclusions in the present judgment, the Court can now remove that reserve, because the interpretation of the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997] was not material to the Court's conclusions.

[4] In concluding that the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 was not material, Hamilton J.S.C. explained:

[210] In light of all these circumstances, the Court concludes that it would frustrate the purpose of Parliament if the deemed trust under the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997] operated in the context of a CCAA proceeding. The doctrine of federal paramountcy therefore renders the deemed trust under the [Pension Benefits Act, 1997] inoperable.

[5] In the meantime, in April 2017, proceedings were commenced to inscribe the Reference in which the Lieutenant-Governor in Council referred the Questions to this Court. Several of the parties and intervenors expressed concern that, in answering the Questions, the Court would interfere with the Quebec Proceedings. At the hearing, it became clear that references, if any, to the Wabush Mines' pension plans would be for the sole purpose of providing a context for considering the Questions insofar as an example may be helpful. The responses to the Questions would not determine rights as between the parties to the Quebec Proceedings except to the extent that the Court's interpretation of the legislation may subsequently be applied in those particular circumstances.

[6] While a Reference may have its roots in litigation between parties, in fact, it is designed to provide the Lieutenant-Governor in Council with the Court's opinion regarding issues of concern to the government such as the validity of proposed legislation or the interpretation and effect of legislative language. For example, in Reference Re Sections 32 and 34 of the Workers' Compensation Act (Nfld.) (1987), 67 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 16 (Nfld. C.A.), the judge had expressed the view that two provisions of the legislation were of no force or effect. Since this was obiter dictum, which did not provide grounds for an appeal, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council referred the question of the validity of the legislation to the Court of Appeal. See also: Re Upper Churchill Water Rights Reversion Act, [1984] 1 S.C.R. 297, in which the Lieutenant-Governor in Council referred questions as to the constitutional validity of proposed legislation.

[7] In summary, the response by the Court to the Questions comprises an advisory opinion, with reasons, designed to assist government and persons having an interest with an interpretation of the legislation at issue. As a result of the Reference, the rights of parties to litigation may be affected, but this is an incidental effect that may flow from application of the Court's response to the Questions.

Paramountcy of Federal Legislation

[8] The Reference specifically exempts from consideration the question of whether the relevant provisions of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 are rendered inoperative, based on the doctrine of paramountcy, where the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act applies.

The Legislation

[9] Section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 provides for pension funds to be held in trust:

(1) An employer or a participating employer in a multi-employer plan shall ensure, with respect to a pension plan, that

(a) the money in the pension fund;

(b) an amount equal to the aggregate of

(i) the normal actuarial cost, and

(ii) any special payments prescribed by the regulations, that have accrued to date; and

(c) all

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from the member's remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due under the plan from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund

are kept separate and apart from the employer's own money, and shall be considered to hold the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) to (c) in trust for members, former members, and other persons with an entitlement under the plan.

(2) In the event of a liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of an employer, an amount equal to the amount that under subsection (1) is considered to be held in trust shall be considered to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the employer's own money or from the assets of the estate.

(3) Where a pension plan is terminated in whole or in part, an employer who is required to pay contributions to the pension fund shall hold in trust for the member or former member or other person with an entitlement under the plan an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination.

Section 32(4) provides for a lien and charge on the employer's assets:

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

[10] Section 61 of the Act provides for payment into a pension fund upon termination of the plan:

(1) On termination of a pension plan, the employer shall pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the requirements prescribed by the regulations for solvency, including

(a) an amount equal to the aggregate of

(i) the normal actuarial cost, and

(ii) special payments prescribed by the regulations,

that have accrued to the date of termination; and

(b) all

(i) amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer

that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination.

(2) Where, on the termination, after April 1, 2008, of a pension plan, other than a multi-employer pension plan, the assets in the pension fund are less than the value of the benefits provided under the plan, the employer shall, as prescribed by the regulations, make the payments into the pension fund, in addition to the payments required under subsection (1), that are necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

Question One

[11] What is the scope of the deemed trusts in section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997 (the "Newfoundland legislation") in respect of:

(a) unpaid current service costs;

(b) unpaid special payments; and

(c) unpaid wind-up deficits?

Unpaid Current Service Costs and Unpaid Special Payments

[12] In Sun Indalex Finance, LLC v. United Steelworkers, 2013 SCC 6, [2013] 1 S.C.R. 271, Deschamps J., for the Court on the issue, concluded that, since 1983, the deemed trust set out in the Ontario legislation was intended to include current service costs and special payments. The legislation required an employer, upon terminating a pension plan, to pay to the administrator an amount equal to the current service cost and prescribed special payments that had accrued to the date of termination. (See also the concurring reasons of Cromwell J., at paragraphs 133 and 151.) The Newfoundland legislation has a similar effect.

[13] Section 32(1) requires an employer to ensure that an amount equal to “the normal actuarial cost” and prescribed special payments “that have accrued to date” is kept separate from the employer’s money. That amount is considered to be held in trust for pension beneficiaries. Section 32(3), which applies upon termination of a pension plan, requires an employer to hold in trust “an amount of money equal to employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination”. Read together with subsection (1), this language clearly includes unpaid current service costs and special payments such that those amounts, due to the date of termination, are deemed to be held in trust for pension beneficiaries.

Unpaid Wind-up Deficits

[14] In Sun Indalex, Deschamps J., for the majority on the question of the wind-up deficiency, concluded:

[45] In sum, the relevant provisions, the legislative history and the purpose are all consistent with inclusion of the wind-up deficiency in the protection afforded to members with respect to employer contributions upon the wind up of their pension plan. I therefore find ... that Indalex was deemed to hold in trust the amount necessary to satisfy the wind-up deficiency.

[15] In reaching this conclusion, Deschamps J. explained:

[34] ... The wind-up deemed trust concerns “employer contributions accrued to the date of the wind up but not yet due under the plan or regulations”. Since the employees cease to accumulate entitlements when the plan is wound up, the entitlements that are used to calculate the contributions have all been accumulated before the wind-up date. Thus the liabilities of the employer are complete – have accrued – before the wind up. The distinction between my approach and the one Cromwell J. takes is that he requires that it be possible to perform the calculation before the date of the wind up, whereas I am of the view that the time when the calculation is actually made is not relevant as long as the liabilities are assessed as of the date of the wind up. The date at which the liabilities are reported or the employer's option to spread its contributions as allowed by the regulations does not change the legal nature of the contributions.

(Italics in original; underlining added.)

[16] That conclusion follows from an interpretation of the language of the Ontario legislation which deems “an amount of money equal to employer contributions accrued to the date of the wind up but not yet due under the plan or regulations” to be held in trust for pension beneficiaries (Sun Indalex, at paragraph 26, underlining added). Rejecting a narrow definition of “accrued”, Deschamps J. determined that “a contribution has “accrued” when the liabilities are completely constituted, even if the payment itself will not fall due until a later date” (Sun Indalex, at paragraph 36). That is, under the legislation, liabilities for payments to the pension plan:

[36] ... are completely constituted at the time of the wind up, because no pension entitlements arise after that date. In other words, no new liabilities accrue at the time of or after the wind up. ...

[17] The legislative language addressed in Sun Indalex is somewhat different from that used in the Newfoundland legislation. In contrast to “contributions accrued to the date of the wind up but not yet due under the plan or regulations”, which is used in the Ontario legislation, the Newfoundland legislation refers to actuarial cost and special payments “accrued to the date of termination” together with “all other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of termination” (section 61).

[18] In analyzing the Newfoundland legislation, it is important to apply a purposive interpretation to the relevant provisions, which must be read together. Section 61 addresses the employer's responsibilities on termination of a pension plan. Subsection (1) requires the employer to “pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the requirements prescribed by the regulations for solvency”. Section 11 of the Pension Benefits Act Regulations, NLR 114/96, addresses determination of a solvency deficiency:

In the preparation of an actuarial valuation report to determine the existence of a solvency deficiency, a solvency valuation shall be performed in the following manner:

(a) the solvency liabilities of a pension plan shall be determined on the basis that the plan is terminated or on a basis that is certified by an actuary to be reasonably approximate to that, taking into account any significant increases or decreases in pension benefits to the plan members as a result of the termination; ...

[19] Payments that an employer is required or liable to make under section 61(1) must be made within thirty days of the date of termination of the pension plan (section 25 of the Regulations).

[20] Pursuant to section 61(2) of the Act, upon termination, where “the assets in the pension fund are less than the value of the benefits provided under the plan”, the employer is required to make payments, in addition to those under section 61(1), “that are necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan”. However, section 25.1(1) of the Regulations allows for payment over time:

The amount required to be paid under subsection 61(2) of the Act shall be divided into equal payments that are calculated over a period of not more than 5 years commencing from the date of termination of the pension plan.

[21] The fact that an employer may make payments required under section 61(2) over time does not lead to the conclusion that the amounts are not, in fact, “due to the pension fund” at the date of termination. As explained by Deschamps J. in Sun Indalex, liabilities for payments under the pension plan “are completely constituted at the time of the wind up, because no pension entitlements arise after that date” (paragraph 36). While the language used in the Ontario legislation is slightly different from that used in the Newfoundland legislation, the explanation set out by Deschamps J. would apply equally to both.

[22] That interpretation is consistent with the legislative history of the Newfoundland legislation. Subsection (2) was added to section 61 by amendment in 2008 (SNL 2008, c. 16). The purpose of adding subsection (2) was explained by the Minister when the Bill was considered for second reading (Hansard, April 24, 2008, Vol. XLVI No. 16):

Before I get into the aspects of the bill, one of the most important aspects of a person’s life as they age is their benefit of having a pension that they would have when they retire to get older and enjoy life to the fullest once their work life is over. So, it is very, very important, as the minister responsible for my department, to make sure that we protect the employees in regard to that pension plan, in its fullest, all the way along until their eventual retirement. That is what this amendment does, Mr. Speaker. It ensures the protection of pension plans for workers all over this Province.

There is a need to improve this protection by amending the Pension Benefits Act, and to ensure – and what this amendment does is ensure that funding of deficits in pension plan windups is fully funded; because, if it is not fully funded thus it decreases the benefits to the employee. The benefits that they expected in the front end when they started paying into the pension plan would not be there at the end, once they retire.

If there is a solvency deficit, the pension plan sponsor is now required to fund that deficit over a five year period. That is what this amendment will do, thus certainly ensuring that the employee is certainly protected over the lifetime of the pension and certainly at the end.

[23] In a similar vein, although in the context of the interplay between pension benefits and compensation for wrongful dismissal, in IBM Canada Limited v. Waterman, 2013 SCC 70, [2013] 3 S.C.R. 985, Cromwell J., for the majority, wrote:

[85] Pension benefits have consistently been viewed as an entitlement earned by the employee. As Lord Reid put it in Parry [v. Cleaver], [1970] A.C. 1, at p. 16: “The products of the sums paid into the pension fund are in fact delayed remuneration for [the employee’s] current work. That is why pensions are regarded as earned income.” The pension is therefore a form of retirement savings earned over the years of employment to which the employee acquires specific and enforceable rights. ...

[24] The net effect of section 61 gleaned from the language, history and purpose of the legislation is that, upon termination of a pension plan, the employer must pay all amounts that are due to the pension fund or that are necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

[25] Consistent with this purpose, section 32 of the Act imposes a trust on the monies required to be paid in respect of a pension plan. In the case of termination of a plan, section 32(3) requires the employer to hold in trust for the pension beneficiaries an amount equal to “employer contributions due under the plan to the date of termination”. Those amounts are set out in section 61.

[26] In the result, under section 32, all amounts due under the plan to the date of termination are covered by the deemed trust (sections 32(1)(c)(ii) and 32(3)). The amounts due as of that time are set out in section 61, which includes all amounts necessary to make the plan actuarially sound going forward. No entitlements under the pension plan arise after its termination, but the plan must have sufficient funds so that the value of the benefits provided under the plan may be satisfied. It follows that, upon the termination of a pension plan, any unpaid wind-up deficiency falls within the scope of the deemed trusts under section 32 of the Act.

[27] Accordingly, the answer to Question One is: (a) unpaid current service costs, (b) unpaid special payments, and (c) unpaid wind-up deficits fall within the scope of the deemed trusts under section 32 of the Act.

Question Two

[28] Consistent with the purpose of a Reference, Question Two, while stated in terms of the Wabush Mines situation, will not determine issues as between the parties to litigation (paragraph 7, above). With this in mind, the essential question raised by the Reference is one of jurisdiction, that is, whether the Newfoundland legislation would apply to: (1) employees who work on a federal undertaking such as a railway; and (2) employees who report for work in another province.

[29] We begin with principles discussed in Hogg, Constitutional Law of Canada, fifth edition, supplemented (Toronto, ON: Thomson Reuters Canada, 2017), at 23.2, pages 23-8 and 23-9:

The power to regulate corporate activity is distributed in accordance with the classes of subject listed in the Constitution, especially in ss. 91 and 92. Once a company has been incorporated, its activity will be subject to the legislation of whichever order of government has validly enacted laws in respect of that activity. In ascertaining the appropriate regulatory jurisdiction, as opposed to the appropriate incorporating jurisdiction, the territorial extent of the company's objects is not decisive. The mere fact that a company's activity extends beyond the limits of any one province will not by itself bring the activity within federal regulatory jurisdiction. If the activity wears an aspect within provincial legislative jurisdiction such as “property and civil rights” – and most business activity does – then each province will have the power to regulate that part of the company's activity which occurs within the province's borders. Conversely, if the activity wears an aspect which is within federal jurisdiction, then it will be under federal control even if it is local. Some examples may clarify the point. ... An interprovincial telephone company may be incorporated provincially, but its rates will be subject to federal regulation. A hotel may be owned and operated by a federally-incorporated company, but its labour relations will be subject to provincial regulation. The point is that the jurisdiction of incorporation has the power to confer on a company its legal personality, its organization, and its essential powers; but its business will be regulated by whichever jurisdiction possesses and exercises the power to regulate that kind of business.

Employees Who Work on a Federal Undertaking, in Particular, a Railway

[30] We reiterate that the purpose of a Reference is to interpret legislation, rather than to determine rights as between parties. To apply that principle here it is necessary to re-state the question, which refers specifically to the Wabush Mines situation in which employees worked on a railway. Re-stated, the question is whether the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act, RSC 1985, c. 32 (2nd Supp.) applies to employees of a company, operating in the Province, who work on a railway, and whether that legislation precludes the application of the Newfoundland legislation.

[31] The scope of application of the federal Pension Benefits Standards Act is addressed in section 4, which provides, in relevant parts:

(1) This Act applies in respect of pension plans.

(2) In this Act, “pension plan” means a superannuation or other plan organized and administered to provide pension benefits to employees employed in included employment

...

(4) In this Act, “included employment” means employment, other than excepted employment, on or in connection with the operation of any work, undertaking or business that is within the legislative authority of the Parliament of Canada, including, without restricting the generality of the foregoing,

...

(b) any railway, canal, telegraph or other work or undertaking connecting a province with another province or extending beyond the limits of a province;

...

(h) any work, undertaking or business that, although wholly situated within a province, is before or after its execution declared by the Parliament of Canada to be for the general advantage of Canada or for the advantage of two or more provinces;

...

[32] Where, on the facts of a particular situation, employees fall within the scope of application of section 4, the federal pensions legislation would apply. However, as explained by Hogg in Constitutional Law of Canada, the particular circumstances must be considered. For example, at 22.9, page 22-19:

Legislative jurisdiction over transportation by land depends upon the principles explained in the previous sections of this chapter. Jurisdiction over trains, ... depends primarily on whether they are operated as part of an interprovincial (or international) undertaking, in which case jurisdiction is federal under s. 92(10)(a), or whether they are operated as part of an intraprovincial undertaking, in which case jurisdiction is provincial under s. 92(10). Some intraprovincial undertakings, including many local railways, have been brought under federal jurisdiction by exercise of the declaratory power under s. 92(10)(c).

[33] Another consideration that may apply in particular circumstances relates to the extent to which a company's operations may involve more than one undertaking, and the extent to which the undertakings are operated separately or as part of the core business (Hogg, Constitutional Law of Canada, at 22.7, pages 22-10 to 22-15).

[34] In addition, the extent to which the federal and provincial legislation may operate together, without conflict, may be relevant. The constitutional doctrines of interjurisdictional immunity and pith and substance are discussed in detail in Constitutional Law of Canada, at 15.8, pages 15-28 to 15-38.8. At page 15-38.5, Hogg refers to the decision in Bell Canada v. Quebec, [1988] 1 S.C.R. 749:

In Bell 1988, Beetz J. made an effort to define the boundary between the pith and substance doctrine, on the one hand, and the interjurisdictional immunity doctrine, on the other. ...

According to this formulation, provincial laws may validly extend to federal subjects unless the laws "bear upon those subjects in what makes them specifically of federal jurisdiction". The rule that emerged from this formulation was this: if the provincial law would affect the "basic, minimum and unassailable" core of the federal subject, then the interjurisdictional immunity doctrine stipulated that the provincial law must be restricted in its application (read down) to exclude the federal subject. If, on the other hand, the provincial law did not affect the core of the federal subject, then the pith and substance doctrine stipulated that the provincial law validly applied to the federal subject.

... However, in Canadian Western Bank [v. Alberta], 2007 SCC 22, [2007] 2 S.C.R. 3] the majority narrowed the doctrine by insisting that, if a provincial law merely affected (without having an adverse effect on) the core of a federal subject, then the doctrine did not apply. In that case, the pith and substance doctrine would prevail, enabling the provincial law to apply to the core of the federal subject. Only if the provincial law would “impair” the core of the federal subject, would interjurisdictional immunity apply. ...

[35] Counsel for the intervenor, the representative beneficiaries of the Wabush salaried pension plan, submits that a statutory benefit in provincial legislation that provides a benefit in addition to benefits under the federal legislation would not constitute a conflict engaging the doctrine of interjurisdictional immunity. Accordingly, it is submitted, the additional benefit should be available to the employees.

[36] The proposition that interjurisdictional immunity is not engaged does not lead to the conclusion that pension beneficiaries may gain additional benefits not included in the applicable legislation. The relevant principle in response to counsel’s submission is not which of federal or provincial legislation takes precedence. Where the legislation enacted by both levels of government deals with precisely the same matter, such as in the case of pension legislation, the question of conflict does not arise since either one legislative scheme or the other must apply on the particular facts. That is, it is not open to the pension beneficiaries to choose the provisions from both statutes that would provide the greater benefit. Similarly, it would not be open to the pension beneficiaries to take the benefit of a provision in another statute, that did not otherwise apply, on the assumption that the benefit in question should have been included in the applicable legislation. The essential principle is that, in the circumstances, in respect of a particular class of workers, the employer would be bound to comply with one pension scheme, not with portions of two schemes.

[37] In summary, the extent to which principles and doctrines such as the above may apply in a particular situation will depend on the facts at issue. For purposes of this Reference, it is not appropriate to conduct an analysis of the factual circumstances at play for the purpose of drawing conclusions regarding termination of the Wabush Mines pension plan.

Employees Who Report for Work in Another Province

[38] The generally applicable principle is that “each province will have the power to regulate that part of the company’s activity which occurs within the province’s borders” (Hogg, Constitutional Law of Canada, paragraph 29, above). For this reason, in general, where a company has operations in more than one province, the employment-related laws of the province where the employees work would apply.

[39] As set out above, it is not within the appropriate scope of this Reference to make determinations regarding termination of the Wabush Mines’ pension plan. Whether issues such as the residence of a company’s workers, as opposed to where the work is carried out, or the nature of a company’s business which may involve work being done in another province, may affect the application of the general rule cannot be determined in this Reference. Such issues are essentially factual in nature and do not rely on an interpretation of the legislation that was placed before this Court. Nor were such issues argued in submissions to the Court.

[40] In summary, it is not possible to answer Question Two as stated in the Reference. It is clear from the above principles that many factors may affect the answer to the issues posed. The use of the Wabush Mines scenario as a possible example provides insufficient information on which to test relevant principles. The jurisdictional questions, that is, whether the Newfoundland pension legislation would apply to employees who work on a federal undertaking such as a railway or to employees who report for work in another province, may be determined only by applying the relevant law to all the facts of a particular situation.

Question Three

[41] Is the lien and charge provided for in section 32(4) of the Act a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator? If yes, what amounts does this secured claim encompass?

[42] Section 32(4) of the Act provides:

(4) An administrator of a pension plan has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount required to be held in trust under subsections (1) and (3).

[43] At the hearing, the Court invited counsel to provide further written submissions on this question. In particular, the Court identified the following issues:

1. When does the lien and charge arise, and what triggers its operation?
2. What is the nature of the lien and charge?
3. How do the lien and charge operate in the context of termination of a pension plan?
4. How does the lien in section 32(4) compare to other statutory liens?

[44] The amount which the lien and charge secures is determined by the operation of sections 61 and 32 of the Act, as discussed above. That is, with respect to a pension plan that is terminated, the amount to which the lien and charge would apply is the total of the accrued normal actuarial costs and special payments and all other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer that have not been remitted at the date of termination, together with any other payments necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

[45] In determining the nature of the lien and charge, the legislation must be interpreted in a manner consistent with its purpose. As set out above, that purpose is to protect the benefits accrued to employees under a pension plan, recognizing that such benefits “have consistently been viewed as an entitlement earned by the employee” (paragraphs 22 and 23, above).

[46] Additional interpretive assistance may be gleaned from other legislative schemes that impose a lien and charge on assets. To that end, in his supplementary factum, the Attorney General of Newfoundland refers by example to taxing statutes as well as workers’ compensation and mechanics’ lien legislation. We agree with his explanation:

24. Depending on the statute, a lien may attach at different times, in different ways, and have different priorities, yet the ultimate effect is essentially the same. Each statute serves to create a legislative scheme in which a lien is created to offer additional protection to a beneficiary, a service provider, or even the Crown.

[47] In the case of pensions, consistent with the purpose of the legislation, the lien and charge is a fixed charge which is engaged upon creation of the deemed trust under section 32. There is nothing in the language of the legislation that would make it only a floating charge, as was submitted in argument. Accordingly, the pension administrator has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount the employer is required to hold in trust but does not in fact hold.

[48] Whenever a deemed trust arises pursuant to subsections (1) or (3) of section 32, the lien and charge attach to the assets held by the employer regardless of their nature or location, in amounts that would satisfy the trust obligations as they exist from time to time. The effect is to provide additional protection for pension beneficiaries. That is, the lien and charge against the employer's assets would operate to give effect to the deemed trusts should the trusts fail due to a lack of funds.

[49] To impose a fixed lien and charge in this way is not inconsistent with appropriate business practice. The employer has an incentive to operate a solvent pension plan, maintaining the trust funds required to protect what has been earned by the employees. Further, the employer would not be encumbered from dealing with business assets since, where necessary, an estoppel certificate of compliance or, considering the nature and significance of the asset relative to any outstanding trust obligations, a waiver could be obtained from the pension administrator, which could be relied upon by any affected third party.

[50] Finally, the effect of section 32(4) of the Act in relation to the operation of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act is not addressed because that question was not included in the Reference. In any event, such a question, and particularly the question of priorities under that Act, would require an analysis based on a specific factual scenario such as arises in litigation between parties, a matter outside the scope of the Reference. Accordingly, it is not necessary to deal with the submissions by counsel for the intervenor, the representative beneficiaries of the Wabush salaried pension plan, as to the reasons why the decision in Harbert Distressed Investment Fund, L.P. v. General Chemical Canada, 2007 ONCA 600, which held that an administrative lien and charge was ineffective in a bankruptcy situation, should not apply because this case involves different statutory definitional language under the Companies' Creditors Arrangements Act.

[51] Accordingly, the answer to Question Three is: The lien and charge under section 32(4) of the Act create a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator. The lien and charge would be engaged upon the creation of a deemed trust under section 32 and would attach to the assets held by the employer regardless of their location. The pension administrator has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount the employer is required to hold in trust under section 32 from time to time, as set out in section 61. In particular with respect to a pension plan that is terminated, the amount to which the lien and charge would apply is the total of the accrued normal actuarial costs and special payments and all other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer that have not been remitted at the date of termination, together with any other payments necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

SUMMARY

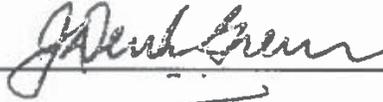

[52] The answers to the Questions posed in the Reference are:

(1) Question One: Unpaid current service costs, unpaid special payments, and unpaid wind-up deficits fall within the scope of the deemed trusts under section 32 of the Act.

(2) Question Two: It is not possible to answer Question Two as stated in the Reference. It is clear from the principles discussed above that many factors may affect the answer to the issues posed. The use of the Wabush Mines scenario as a possible example provides insufficient information on which to test relevant principles. The jurisdictional questions, that is, whether the Newfoundland pension legislation would apply to employees who work on a federal undertaking such as a railway or to employees who report for work in another province, may be determined only by applying the relevant law to all the facts of a particular situation.

(3) Question Three: The lien and charge under section 32(4) of the Act create a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator. The lien and charge would be engaged upon the creation of a deemed trust under section 32 and would attach to the assets held by the employer regardless of their location. The pension administrator has a lien and charge on the assets of the employer in an amount equal to the amount the employer is required to hold in trust under section 32 from time to time, as set out in section 61. In particular with respect to a pension plan that is terminated, the amount to which the lien and charge would apply is the total of the accrued normal actuarial costs and special payments and all other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer that have not been remitted at the date of termination, together with any other payments necessary to fund the benefits provided under the plan.

By the Court:

[1] Having heard the submissions of counsel, we are satisfied that the questions set out in the reference put by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council in Order-in-Council 2017-103, should be considered at the hearing in the language stipulated in the Order-in-Council. Whilst we are mindful of the importance of promoting judicial efficiency, we do not consider ourselves to be in a position today to determine the extent to which, if at all, we should decline to answer one or more of the questions posed or to interpret their scope.

[2] That said, we are cognizant of the concerns of some of the participants that the questions may invite the Court to opine in such a way as to impact the decisions of the Quebec CCAA Court that will determine the rights of the parties. Generally speaking, we subscribe to the view that questions posed on a reference should be treated as raising hypothetical questions and not directed at determining parties' rights.

[3] As recognized in case law, a reference is an advisory opinion provided by the Court at the request of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. The CCAA Court in determining the matter before it may or may not advert to or apply the opinion provided by this Court. That said, the context of a reference is important. Accordingly, hypotheticals are useful to provide a context within which the questions can be considered. The record on the reference, therefore, should be limited to providing that context.

[4] The parties may, of course, make submissions as to whether the Court should decline to answer a question or part thereof, or narrow the scope of a question as part of the submissions made for purposes of the reference hearing.

AND THAT the grounds of the proposed Intervention are:

1. THAT the Intervenor acts as court-appointed monitor to Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties") in the context of proceedings instituted pursuant to the terms of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C., c. C-36, as amended (the "CCAA") before the Quebec Superior Court for the district of Montreal ("CCAA Court") in the court record bearing number

Monitor's Notice of Intervention, May 15, 2017

500-11-048114-157 (the "CCAA Proceedings").

2. THAT the Reference is not limited exclusively to matters of statutory interpretation of Section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, but is rather inextricably related to the business and property of the Wabush CCAA Parties and to the matters currently pending before the CCAA Court in the CCAA Proceedings.
3. THAT insofar as the Reference purports to deal with concrete issues in connection with the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Wabush CCAA Proceedings, this Court should as a matter of comity and courtesy suspend the Reference as the CCAA Court has already specifically declined to have those same questions transferred for adjudication in this Province in a decision rendered on January 30, 2017. While the CCAA Court did acknowledge the possibility of a Reference being undertaken, at paragraph 52 of its decision, it was noted that the Court spoke only of the interpretation of the Pension Benefits Act, simpliciter, being addressed, not the fact-specific questions being posed by the Reference as they relate to Wabush CCAA Parties or to the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.
4. THAT the Reference as it currently exists constitutes an improper collateral attack on the order of January 30, 2017 rendered by the CCAA Court.
5. THAT the Reference is overly broad in scope because it ought to be limited to seeking an advisory opinion on the interpretation of the Pension Benefits Act and it ought not extend to a determination of rights of parties before the CCAA Court in relation to the Wabush CCAA Parties.
6. Furthermore, as currently drafted, the Reference directly impinges on a stay order granted by the CCAA Court in relation to the Wabush CCAA Parties.

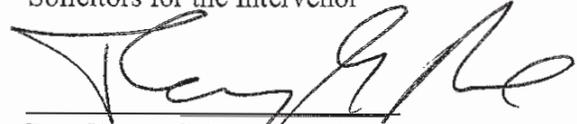

AND THAT the Intervenor intends to apply for relief in respect of the foregoing issues in advance of the status hearing on June 9, 2017 on the following grounds:

1. Time is of the essence in clarifying the timing and the content of the Reference, as the May 5th Order requires Notices to be published twice in newspapers prior to May 26.
2. If the arguments of the Intervenor prevail, the Notices will be rendered moot and new Notices will be required.
3. In their current form, the Notices may cause confusion or mislead certain parties and stakeholders to believe that certain issues in relation to the Wabush CCAA Parties and the Wabush CCAA Proceedings will be subject to adjudication both before the CCAA Court and this Court, raising the possibility of conflicting rulings even though only the ruling of the CCAA Court would be binding upon the Wabush CCAA Parties and their creditors.

APPLICATION TO THE COURT WITH SUPPORTING AFFIDAVIT

This is notice that the Applicant, FTI Consulting Canada Inc., in its capacity as court-appointed monitor of the Wabush CCAA Parties (as defined below), applies for an order granting the following relief:

1. That, pursuant to Rule 31(2) of the Civil Appeal Rules, the application and order dated 5 May 2017 (the "May 5th Order") in the within matter be reheard by a panel of this Honourable Court;
2. That Paragraph 5 of the May 5th Order be stayed until full argument can be heard with respect to the Applicant's position with respect to the timing and scope of the Reference.

Monitor's Application for Stay of the Ex Parte Order and Rehearing, May 15, 2017

Subject matter of the application:

1. The Applicant, FTI Consulting Canada Inc., is a body corporate incorporated under the laws of Canada and acts as court-appointed monitor ("Monitor") to Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited (collectively, the "Wabush CCAA Parties"). It is referred to in paragraph 2 of the May 5th Order as the "Monitor of the Quebec Proceeding". A copy of the May 5th Order is attached as Schedule "A" to this application.
2. The "Quebec Proceeding" refers to proceedings instituted pursuant to the terms of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C., c. C-36, as amended (the "CCAA") before the Quebec Superior Court for the district of Montreal ("CCAA Court") in the court record bearing number 500-11-048114-157 (the "CCAA Proceedings").
3. On September 20, 2016, the Monitor filed a Motion for Directions with respect to pension claims, as amended on April 13, 2017 (the "Motion for Directions") with respect (a) to the priority of pensions claims filed by the plan administrator of two pension plans, the whole pursuant to the order issued by the CCAA Court on November 5, 2015, as amended on November 16, 2015, which approved and established a procedure for the filing of creditors' claims against, among others, the Wabush CCAA Parties and their directors and officers, as well as (b) the applicability and scope of deemed trusts, if any, under the Pensions Benefits Standards Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. 32 (2nd Supp.) (the "PBSA") and the Newfoundland & Labrador Pensions Benefits Act, S.N.L. 1996, c. P-4.01 (the "PBA") as well as the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, R.L.R.Q., c. R-15.1 (the "SPPA"). A copy of the Motion for Directions is attached as Schedule "B" to this application.
4. On January 30, 2017, Justice Hamilton of the CCAA Court rendered a written decision (the "January 30 Decision") with respect to the request of some parties within the CCAA Proceedings to have certain questions respecting the scope of the PBA and its effect on the CCAA Proceedings referred instead to the Court in Newfoundland and Labrador prior to the hearing on the Motion for Directions. A copy of this decision is attached as Schedule "C" to this application.
5. The questions sought to be addressed in the Reference can be found at paragraph 25 of the January 30 Decision, and are as follows:
 1. The Supreme Court of Canada has confirmed in Indalex that provincial laws apply in CCAA proceedings, subject only to the doctrine of paramountcy. Assuming there is no issue of paramountcy, what is the scope of section 32 in the NPBA [NLPBA] deemed trusts in respect of:
 - a) unpaid current service costs;
 - b) unpaid special payments; and,

Monitor's Application for Stay of the Ex Parte Order and Rehearing, May 15, 2017

- c) unpaid wind-up liability.
2. The Salaried Plan is registered in Newfoundland and regulated by the NPBA.
 - a) (i) Does the PBSA deemed trust also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who worked on the railway (i.e., a federal undertaking)?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and PBSA if so, how is the conflict resolved?
 - b) (i) Does the SPPA also apply to those members of the Salaried Plan who reported for work in Québec?

(ii) If yes, is there a conflict with the NPBA and SPPA and if so, how is the conflict resolved?

(iii) Do the Quebec SPPA deemed trusts also apply to Québec Salaried Plan members?
 3. Is the NPBA lien and charge in favour of the pension plan administrator in section 32(4) of the NPBA a valid secured claim in favour of the plan administrator? If yes, what amounts does this secured claim encompass?
 6. The CCAA Court rejected the argument that these questions ought to be decided by Courts in Newfoundland and Labrador. These questions are identical to the ones forming the subject matter of the within Reference.
 7. One of the parties requesting that certain questions be referred to the Courts in Newfoundland and Labrador in the CCAA Proceedings was Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland and Labrador.
 8. No appeal was taken of the January 30 Decision.
 9. Subsequent to the January 30 Decision in the CCAA Proceedings, but prior to the ex parte application leading to the May 5th Order, counsel for the Applicant made multiple attempts to enter into discussions with counsel for Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland and Labrador to express concerns with the potential overlap between the intended Reference and the CCAA Proceedings, particularly in respect of those questions posed within the Reference that are not limited to abstract interpretation of section 32 PBA.
 10. The Applicant has concerns respecting the content of the Reference questions, which it desires to raise before this Honourable Court prior to the status hearing scheduled for June 9, 2017 and prior to the publication of notices (provided for at paragraph 5 of the May 5th Order, in the form of Appendix B thereto, hereinafter the “Reference Notice”) in relation to the Reference.

Monitor's Application for Stay of the Ex Parte Order and Rehearing, May 15, 2017

11. Of paramount importance at this time is paragraph 5 of the May 5th Order, which provides for publication of the Reference Notice twice before May 26, 2017. The Applicant is particularly concerned that the Reference Notice as it currently exists is likely to cause confusion amongst parties and stakeholders, and further cause the Reference process to run afoul of the current stay of proceedings against the Wabush CCAA Parties or disrupt the conduct of the hearing on the Motion for Directions before the CCAA Court.
12. The stay of proceedings in place in favour of the Wabush CCAA Parties in the CCAA Proceedings stands until June 30, 2017 and can be the subject of further extensions. The scope of the stay is broad enough to encompass the Reference proceeding, as appears from paragraph 7 of the initial order issued in the CCAA Proceedings in respect of the Wabush CCAA Parties, dated May 20, 2015 (as subsequently, amended, rectified or restated from time to time):

ORDERS that, until and including June 19, 2015, or such later date as the Court may order (the "Stay Period"), no proceeding or enforcement process in any Court or tribunal (each, a "Proceeding") shall be commenced or continued against or in respect of the CCAA Parties, or affecting the Business operations and activities of the CCAA Parties (the "Business") or the Property, including as provided hereinbelow except with the leave of this Court. Any and all proceedings currently under way against any or in respect of the CCAA Parties or affecting the Business or the Property are hereby stayed and suspended pending further order of this Court, the whole subject to subsection 11.1 CCAA.

13. As to the whole of the Reference, the Applicant is concerned, even if the Reference is only consultative in nature and not binding or adjudicative of the issues between the parties (including more importantly the issues raised by the Motion for Directions pending in the CCAA Proceedings), that a duplicative and parallel process on inextricably related issues may give rise to an actual or perceived jurisdictional conflict, which may unduly undermine the legitimacy of the decisions of the CCAA Court.
14. Based on well-established precedents concerning the nature and scope of reference proceedings, the Applicant is of the view that the Reference should be limited to the matters relating exclusively to the interpretation of Section 32 of the PBA and that all other matters relating to the Wabush CCAA Parties or the CCAA Proceedings should be dealt with exclusively by the CCAA Court.
15. The Applicant is acutely aware that issues with respect to the scope of the Reference are the sorts of issues which this Honourable Court likely envisaged as being discussed at the upcoming status hearing, but submits that the timing of the public Reference Notices requires that some of these issues be addressed prior to that date.

Monitor's Application for Stay of the Ex Parte Order and Rehearing, May 15, 2017

16. The balance of convenience favours delaying the sending of the Reference Notices until the scope of the Reference has been clarified. Clarification will enable the Reference hearing to be more streamlined, as the number of parties interested in an abstract question of Newfoundland law may likely be fewer than the number of parties who will wish to be heard on questions triggering jurisdictional questions across provinces, proceedings, and legislative levels.
17. If parties who might not be interested in a narrower Reference are forced to engage counsel and appear now to deal with a broader range of issues, then those parties will have expended time and resources, and engaged the resources of this Honourable Court, unnecessarily.
18. The Applicant therefore requests that the ex parte application giving rise to the May 5th Order be reheard as an inter partes matter before a panel of this Honourable Court. The Applicant also requests costs of this application as against Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland and Labrador.

The affidavit that is necessary to support or provide the foundation for the application is attached.

The application is set to be heard on the 23rd day of May, 2017, at 10:00 a.m. or at such earlier date as may be set by this Court.

AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF AN APPLICATION

I, Nigel Meakin, Senior Managing Director at FTI Consulting Canada Inc., of Toronto, Ontario, swear (affirm) that the following facts are true:

1. For ease of reference, the following capitalized terms used in this affidavit shall have the following meaning:
 - a) CCAA means Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, R.S.C., c. C-36, as amended;
 - b) CCAA Court means Quebec Superior Court for the district of Montreal, sitting in commercial division;
 - c) Wabush CCAA Parties means collectively Wabush Iron Co. Limited, Wabush Resources Inc., Wabush Mines, Arnaud Railway Company and Wabush Lake Railway Company Limited;
 - d) Wabush CCAA Proceedings means the proceedings instituted before the CCAA Court pursuant to the CCAA in relation to the Wabush CCAA Parties in the court record bearing number 500-11-048114-157, which are presided and supervised by the Honourable Stephen W. Hamilton, J.C.S.;
 - e) Wabush Initial Order means order issued on May 20, 2015 by the CCAA Court (as subsequently amended, rectified and/or restated) pursuant to the CCAA;
 - f) Claims Procedure Order means order issued on November 5, 2015 CCAA Court (as amended on November 16, 2015) which approved and established a procedure for the filing of creditor's claims against, inter alia, the Wabush CCAA Parties and their directors and officers; and
 - g) Monitor means FTI Consulting Canada Inc., acting as court-appointed monitor in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.
2. On September 20, 2016, the Monitor filed a Motion for Directions with respect to pension claims, as amended on April 13, 2017 (the "Motion for Directions") with respect to the priority of pensions claims filed by the plan administrator of certain pension plans pursuant to the Claims Procedure Order, and the applicability and scope of deemed trusts, if any, under the Pensions Benefits Standards Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. 32 (2nd Supp.) and the Newfoundland & Labrador Pensions Benefits Act, S.N.L. 1996, c. P-4.01 as well as the Québec Supplemental Pension Plans Act, R.L.R.Q., c. R-15.1.

Affidavit of Nigel Meakin in Support of Monitor's Application, May 15, 2017

3. On January 30, 2017, the CCAA Court issued its decision (the "January 30th Order") with respect to various jurisdictional issues and other preliminary objections raised with respect to the Motion for Directions by several parties, including Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions. Copy of the January 30th Order is attached as Exhibit NM-1 to this Affidavit and is described more fully herein below.
4. On May 9, 2017, counsel to the Monitor sent a letter to Rolf Pritchard, Director Civil Division for the Office of the Attorney General of Newfoundland and Labrador (the "May 9 Letter"), copy of which is attached as Exhibit NM-2 to this Affidavit, including the Motion for Directions, a list of relevant orders with respect to the Wabush CCAA Parties and the January 30th Order (Schedules A, B, and C).
5. The May 9 Letter (Exhibit NM-2), which describes the January 30th Order (Exhibit NM-1), reads in part as follows:

The May 5th Order and the three (3) questions to be submitted to the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal by way of the Reference (the Reference Questions), as currently drafted, appear to be inextricably related to the pending proceedings before the CCAA Court in the above-captioned matter, presided and supervised by the Honourable Justice Stephen W. Hamilton, J.S.C. more specifically as they concern the Wabush CCAA Parties (the Wabush CCAA Proceedings). As such, there exists in our view a significant risk that the Reference will be in part duplicative in light of the ongoing Wabush CCAA Proceedings, thereby potentially leading certain interested parties to mistakenly believe that issues relating to the Wabush CCAA Parties are open for adjudication before both the CCAA Court and the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal. We are concerned that the Reference could amount to a collateral attack of orders previously made by the CCAA Court.

[...] We have reached out on numerous occasions to you and your colleagues (Philip Osborne and Raylene Stokes) to share our views as to the importance of limiting the scope of the proposed Reference Questions to matters of statutory interpretation in abstracto as they relate to Section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, S.N.L. 1996, c. P-4.01 (PBA), without overreaching and veering into the adjudication of the rights of parties already engaged in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings. We have specifically asked to be consulted with respect to the wording of the notices to be sent in connection with the Reference so as to avoid confusion amongst stakeholders and ensure that the Reference process does not run afoul of the current stay of proceedings against the Wabush CCAA Parties or disrupt the conduct of the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.

[...] The CCAA Court issued on January 30th, 2017, its decision (the January 30th Order) with respect to various jurisdictional issues and other preliminary objections raised with respect to the Motion for Directions by several parties, including Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions. We attach for your convenience copy of the January 30 Order as Schedule C. The position of the parties in relation to said jurisdictional issues is summarized at paragraphs 23 to 28 of the January 30th Order. In declining to refer any of the issues to the courts with jurisdiction in Newfoundland & Labrador, including specifically the questions as formulated by the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees (at paragraph 25) – which have since been adopted verbatim as the Reference Questions – the CCAA Court relied on well-established precedents that favour a single forum to hear all disputes relating to an insolvent debtor (at paragraphs 29 to 33) and properly exercised its discretion not to seek the assistance of another court on the basis of legal, factual and practical considerations (at paragraphs 39 to 89), including the position of the United Steel Workers representing the unionized pensioners of the Wabush CCAA Parties, which supported the jurisdiction of the CCAA Court and objected to the referral of certain issues before the courts with jurisdiction in Newfoundland & Labrador (at paragraph 80), as well as the fact that a plurality of non-unionized pensioners are residents in the Province of Quebec (at paragraph 77).

The January 30th Order was not appealed from, and all interested parties, including Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, have since agreed to debate the merits of the Motion for Directions before the CCAA Court on June 26th and 27th, 2017.

As for the Reference Questions, we have already expressed concerns about the formulation of questions 1 and 3 and the extent to which the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal will be asked to determine the scope and dollar value of the deemed trusts, liens and charges, that may arise pursuant to Section 32 PBA, as this provision applies to the Pension Plans at stake in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings and more specifically the Motion for Directions. Further, the preamble to question 1 appears unduly argumentative and, in our view, obfuscates the interplay between Section 32 PBA and the applicable provisions of the CCAA and the terms of the orders issued to date in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.

The foregoing was noted by Mr. Justice Hamilton in the January 30th Order (at paragraph 66), wherein he also pointed out that such a question, inasmuch as the Wabush CCAA Parties are concerned, may well be moot:

Finally, as is typical in these cases, there is a close interplay between the NLPBA and the CCAA. The first question proposed by the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees is: "Assuming there is no issue of paramountcy, what is the scope of section 32 in the NLPBA deemed trusts". The scope of the NLPBA is not relevant if the NLPBA does not apply because of a conflict with the CCAA and federal paramountcy. In that sense, there may not even be a need to deal with the interpretation of the NLPBA.

As previously reported, we also seriously question the appropriateness of seeking the opinion of the courts of another forum than Québec with respect to question 2(b).

[...] We are of the view that the Reference Questions should be limited to the matters relating exclusively to the interpretation of Section 32 PBA and that all other matters relating to the Wabush CCAA Parties or the Wabush CCAA Proceedings should be dealt with exclusively by the CCAA Court.

6. Copy of the reply to the May 9 Letter, by way of email message dated May 11, 2017 and follow-up email from the Monitor's counsel dated May 12, 2017 is attached as Exhibit NM-3 to this Affidavit.

I make this affidavit in support of the application of FTI Consulting Canada Inc.

statutory interpretation in abstracto as they relate to Section 32 of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, S.N.L. 1996, c. P-4.01 (PBA), without overreaching and veering into the adjudication of the rights of parties already engaged in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings. We have specifically asked to be consulted with respect to the wording of the notices to be sent in connection with the Reference so as to avoid confusion amongst stakeholders and ensure that the Reference process does not run afoul of the current stay of proceedings against the Wabush CCAA Parties or disrupt the conduct of the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.

In this respect, we directed you to paragraph 7 of the Wabush Initial Order, which reads as follows:

ORDERS that, until and including June 19, 2015*, or such later date as the Court may order the (the "Stay Period"), no proceeding or enforcement process in any Court or tribunal (each, a "Proceeding") shall be commenced or continued against or in respect of the CCAA Parties, or affecting the Business operations and activities of the CCAA Parties (the "Business") or the Property, including as provided hereinbelow except with the leave of this Court. Any and all proceedings currently under way against any or in respect of the CCAA Parties or affecting the Business or the Property are hereby stayed and suspended pending further order of this Court, the whole subject to subsection 11.1 CCAA.

*The current Stay Period has been extended and is set to expire on June 30, 2017, subject to further order of the CCAA Court.

The ability of the Monitor to seek directions and the CCAA Court's jurisdiction to hear the Motion for Directions are based on paragraph 68 of the Claims Procedure Order, paragraph 65 of the Wabush Initial Order as well as Sections 9(1) and 11 CCAA, which read as follows:

9.(1) Any application under this Act may be made to the court that has jurisdiction in the province within which the head office or chief place of business of the company in Canada is situated, or, if the company has no place of business in Canada, in any province within which any assets of the company are situated.

11. Despite anything in the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Winding-up and Restructuring Act, if an application is made under this Act in respect of a debtor company, the court, on the application of any person interested in the matter, may, subject to the restrictions set out in this Act, on notice to any other person or without notice as it may see fit, make any order that it considers appropriate in the circumstances.

The CCAA Court issued on January 30th, 2017, its decision (the January 30th Order) with respect to various jurisdictional issues and other preliminary objections raised with respect to the Motion for Directions by several parties, including Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions. We attach for your convenience copy of the January 30 Order as Schedule C. The position of the parties in relation to said jurisdictional issues is summarized at paragraphs 23 to 28 of the January 30th Order. In declining to refer any of the issues to the courts with jurisdiction in Newfoundland & Labrador, including specifically the questions as formulated by the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees (at paragraph 25) – which have since been adopted verbatim as the Reference Questions – the CCAA Court relied on well-established precedents that favour a single forum to hear all disputes relating to an insolvent debtor (at paragraphs 29 to 33) and properly exercised its discretion not to seek the assistance of another court on the basis of legal, factual and practical considerations (at paragraphs 39 to 89), including the position of the United Steel Workers representing the unionized pensioners of the Wabush CCAA Parties, which supported the jurisdiction of the CCAA Court and objected to the referral of certain issues before the courts with jurisdiction in Newfoundland & Labrador (at paragraph 80), as well as the fact that a plurality of non-unionized pensioners are residents in the Province of Quebec (at paragraph 77).

The January 30th Order was not appealed from, and all interested parties, including Her Majesty in Right of Newfoundland, as represented by the Superintendent of Pensions, have since agreed to debate the merits of the Motion for Directions before the CCAA Court on June 26th and 27th, 2017.

As for the Reference Questions, we have already expressed concerns about the formulation of questions 1 and 3 and the extent to which the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal will be asked to determine the scope and dollar value of the deemed trusts, liens and charges, that may arise pursuant to Section 32 PBA, as this provision applies to the Pension Plans at stake in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings and more specifically the Motion for Directions. Further, the preamble to question 1 appears unduly argumentative and, in our view, obfuscates the interplay between Section 32 PBA and the applicable provisions of the CCAA and the terms of the orders issued to date in the Wabush CCAA Proceedings.

The foregoing was noted by Mr. Justice Hamilton in the January 30th Order (at paragraph 66), wherein he also pointed out that such a question, inasmuch as the Wabush CCAA Parties are concerned, may well be moot:

Finally, as is typical in these cases, there is a close interplay between the NLPBA and the CCAA. The first question proposed by the representatives of the salaried employees and retirees is: "Assuming there is no issue of paramountcy, what is the scope of section 32 in the NLPBA deemed trusts". The scope of the NLPBA is not relevant if the NLPBA does not apply because of a conflict with the CCAA and federal paramountcy. In that sense, there may not even be a need to deal with the interpretation of the NLPBA.

As previously reported, we also seriously question the appropriateness of seeking the opinion of the courts of another forum than Québec with respect to question 2(b).

Before the issuance of the May 5th Order, we had specifically asked that you consider the possibility of coordinating the Reference with the ongoing Wabush CCAA Proceedings, and had asked to discuss the formulation of the Reference Questions and the wording of the notices, the whole in order to avoid any actual or perceived duplication, inconsistency or contradiction in the parallel processes, to no avail to date. We note that a status hearing is set to take place on June 9, 2017 before the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal, but are of the view that it will be too late at that point to properly address some of the concerns outlined above.

It is our view that the Monitor and its undersigned attorneys should have been consulted in connection with the May 5th Order and that same should not have been granted on an ex parte basis. We formally reiterate the invitation to discuss the foregoing with you at your earliest convenience, while we continue to contemplate the possibility to raise these issues directly before the CCAA Court and/or the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal.

We are of the view that the Reference Questions should be limited to the matters relating exclusively to the interpretation of Section 32 PBA and that all other matters relating to the Wabush CCAA Parties or the Wabush CCAA Proceedings should be dealt with exclusively by the CCAA Court.

We would greatly appreciate a reply with respect to the foregoing by the end of the week.

Dear confrère:

We already expressed our concerns about the scope of the reference questions and of the notices prior and since the May 5 Order.

In our May 9 letter, we explained why these issues needed to be addressed prior to the June 9 status hearing. Given the terms of the May 5 Order, we expect that your client will not proceed with the publication of notices over the week-end, as we intend to file early next a notice of appearance, and a notice of intervention to be heard on an expedited basis before the Newfoundland & Labrador Court of Appeal before May 26, 2017.

Best regards,

Objet : RE: In the matter of the Plan of Compromise or Arrangement of: Cliffs Québec Iron Mining ULC (500-11-048114-157)

Dear Mr. Rigaud,

Thank you for your correspondence of May 9, 2017 setting out your concerns and positions with respect to the Order we provided to you on May 8, 2017.

As you are aware the Reference Questions were formulated and referred to the Court of Appeal by the Lieutenant Governor in Council by Orders in Council 2017-103 and 2017-137. While we remain open to having further discussions with you, we note that the Reference Questions have already been formally inscribed by the Court of Appeal.

As we have indicated to you in our earlier teleconferences, we previously raised your concerns regarding your interpretation of the Stay Order and the formulation of Reference Questions with the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeal. With the greatest respect, we do not share your opinion; however, as we have previously noted, you may raise any issues you have, including your objection to the Order being granted ex parte, at the June 9, 2017 status hearing.

You have indicated that there are orders before the CCAA Court, which in your view could have an impact on or be relevant to the Reference Questions. As noted in the Order, you are at liberty to adduce evidence on the Reference by the filing of materials, subject to further direction and order of the Court of Appeal.

Kindest Regards,

Rolf Pritchard QC/Philip Osborne

Under the authority of section 13 of the Judicature Act, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council hereby refers the following to the Newfoundland and Labrador Court of Appeal:

In Arrangement relatif à Bloom Lake, 2017 QCCS 284 (CanLII), the Quebec Superior Court stated at paragraph 89: "If the Government of Newfoundland and Labrador wishes to obtain a judgment from the courts of the province on the interpretation of the Pension Benefits Act, 1997, SNL1996 cP-4.01, it can refer a matter to the Court of Appeal of Newfoundland and Labrador". Application of provincial property law

(2) Subject to subsections (4), (7) and (8), pension benefits, pension benefit credits and any other benefits under a pension plan are, on divorce, annulment, separation or breakdown of common-law partnership, subject to the applicable provincial property law.

Non-application of this Act

(3) A pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit under a pension plan that is subject to provincial property law pursuant to this section is not subject to the provisions of this Act relating to the valuation or distribution of pension benefits, pension benefit credits or other benefits under a pension plan, as the case may be.

Power to assign to spouse, etc.

(4) A member or former member of a pension plan may assign all or part of their pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit under the plan to their spouse, former spouse, common-law partner or former common-law partner, effective as of divorce, annulment, separation, or breakdown of the common-law partnership, as the case may be. The assignee is, in respect of the assigned portion of the pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit, deemed for the purposes of this Act, except section 21,

- (a) to have been a member of that pension plan; and
- (b) to have ceased to be a member of that pension plan as of the effective date of the assignment.

However, a subsequent spouse or common-law partner of the assignee is not entitled to any pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit under the pension plan in respect of that assigned portion.

Duty of administrator

(5) On divorce, annulment, separation or breakdown of a common-law partnership, if a court order or an agreement between the parties provides for the distribution of property between a member or former member and their spouse, former spouse or former common-law partner, the administrator shall determine and administer any pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit of a pension plan of the member or former member in the prescribed manner and in accordance with the court order or agreement on receipt of

Non-application de la présente loi

(3) Une prestation de pension ou autre et les droits à pension que prévoit un régime de pension et qui sont assujettis au droit provincial des biens conformément au présent article ne sont pas assujettis aux dispositions, relatives à leur évaluation et à leur répartition, prévues par la présente loi.

Pouvoir de cession au conjoint

(4) Le participant ou l'ancien participant peut céder à son époux ou conjoint de fait ou à son ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait tout ou partie de ses prestations de pension ou autres ou de ses droits à pension que prévoit le régime de pension, cette cession prenant effet lors du divorce, de l'annulation du mariage, de la séparation ou de l'échec de l'union de fait, selon le cas. Dans le cas d'une telle cession et pour l'application de la présente loi, sauf de l'article 21, et relativement à la partie des prestations ou droits cédés :

- a) le cessionnaire est réputé avoir participé au régime;
- b) la participation du cessionnaire est réputée avoir pris fin à compter du jour où la cession prend effet.

L'époux ou conjoint de fait que le cessionnaire peut avoir à l'avenir n'a toutefois droit à aucune prestation de pension ou autres ni à aucun droit à pension prévus au régime relativement à la partie ainsi cédée.

Fonctions de l'administrateur

(5) Lors du divorce, de l'annulation du mariage, de la séparation ou de l'échec de l'union de fait, si l'ordonnance d'un tribunal ou une entente entre les parties prévoit la répartition de biens entre un participant ou un ancien participant et son époux, ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait, l'administrateur, sur réception des documents ci-après, évalue et gère les prestations de pension ou autres ou les droits à pension du participant ou de l'ancien participant conformément aux modalités réglementaires et à l'ordonnance ou à l'entente en cause :

case may be, be distributed or administered in accordance with the court order or the agreement; and

(b) a copy of the court order or agreement.

However, in the case of a court order, the administrator shall not administer the pension benefit, pension benefit credit or other benefit in accordance with the court order until all appeals from that order have been finally determined or the time for appealing has expired.

Notice

(6) On receipt of a request referred to in subsection (5), the administrator shall notify the non-requesting spouse, former spouse or former common-law partner of the request and shall provide that person with a copy of the court order or agreement submitted in support of the request, but this requirement does not apply in respect of a request or an agreement received by the administrator in a form or manner that indicates that it was jointly submitted.

Splitting of joint and survivor pension benefit

(7) A pension plan may provide that, where, pursuant to this section, all or part of a pension benefit of a member or former member is required to be distributed to that person's spouse, former spouse or former common-law partner under a court order or agreement, a joint and survivor pension benefit may be adjusted so that it becomes payable as two separate pensions, one to the member or former member and the other to that person's spouse, former spouse or former common-law partner, if the aggregate of the actuarial present values of the two pensions is not less than the actuarial present value of the joint and survivor pension benefit.

Adjustment of joint and survivor pension benefit

(7.1) A pension plan may provide that, if no part of the pension benefit of a member or former member is required to be distributed to that person's spouse, former spouse or former common-law partner under a court order or agreement referred to in subsection (5), a joint and survivor pension benefit may be adjusted so that it becomes payable in the normal form of the pension benefit as defined in subsection 22(1).

Limitation

(8) The aggregate of the following amounts shall not be greater than the actuarial present value of the pension benefit or other benefit, as the case may be, that would have been payable to the member or former member had the divorce, annulment, separation or breakdown not occurred:

b) une copie de l'ordonnance ou de l'entente.

L'administrateur ne peut toutefois appliquer à sa gestion les modalités d'une ordonnance avant que celle-ci ne soit définitive ou que les délais d'appel n'aient expiré.

Avis

(6) Sur réception de la demande visée au paragraphe (5), l'administrateur en informe l'autre époux ou l'autre ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait et lui transmet une copie de l'ordonnance ou de l'entente à l'appui de la demande, sauf si la forme de la demande ou de l'entente indique que les parties l'ont présentée de concert.

Partage d'une pension réversible

(7) Un régime de pension peut prévoir que, dans le cas où la totalité ou une partie de la prestation de pension d'un participant actuel ou ancien doit être attribuée à son époux ou à son ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait, au titre d'une ordonnance d'un tribunal ou d'une entente, une prestation réversible peut être révisée de façon à être servie en deux prestations distinctes, l'une au participant actuel ou ancien, l'autre à son époux ou à son ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait, à la condition que la somme de la valeur actuarielle du moment de l'une et de l'autre ne soit pas inférieure à la valeur actuarielle du moment de la prestation réversible.

Révision de la prestation réversible

(7.1) Le régime de pension peut prévoir que, si les prestations de pension du participant ou de l'ancien participant n'ont pas à être attribuées à son époux, ex-époux ou ancien conjoint de fait au titre de l'ordonnance d'un tribunal ou d'une entente visées au paragraphe (5), la prestation réversible peut être révisée de façon à être servie comme une prestation normale au sens du paragraphe 22(1).

Restriction

(8) La somme des montants ci-après ne doit pas être supérieure à la valeur actualisée de la prestation de pension ou autre qui aurait été servie au participant ou à l'ancien participant, sans le divorce, l'annulation du mariage, la séparation ou l'échec de l'union de fait :

a) la valeur actualisée de la prestation de pension ou autre servie au participant ou à l'ancien participant;

c) le surintendant est d'avis que le régime n'est pas conforme aux critères et normes de solvabilité réglementaires, relativement à la capitalisation prévue au paragraphe 9(1).

Declaration by Superintendent

(2.1) The Superintendent may also declare the whole of a pension plan terminated if there is a cessation of crediting of benefits to the plan members.

Date of termination

(3) In a declaration made under subsection (2) or (2.1), the Superintendent shall declare a pension plan or part of a pension plan, as the case may be, to be terminated as of the date that the Superintendent considers appropriate in the circumstances.

Adoption of new plan

(4) If employer contributions to a negotiated contribution plan are suspended or cease as a result of the adoption of a new defined benefit plan, the original plan is deemed not to have been terminated, and the pension benefits and other benefits provided under the original plan are deemed to be benefits provided under the new plan in respect of any period of membership before the adoption of the new plan, whether or not the assets and liabilities of the original plan have been consolidated with those of the new plan.

Partial termination

(4.1) Only the Superintendent may declare part of a pension plan terminated.

Termination by administrator or employer

(4.2) Subject to subsections (1), (2) and (2.1), the whole of a pension plan is terminated only if the administrator or employer notifies the Superintendent, in writing or in the form and manner, if any, that the Superintendent directs, of their decision to terminate the pension plan and the date of the termination.

Adoption d'un nouveau régime

(4) Dans le cas de l'arrêt ou de la suspension des cotisations patronales à un régime à cotisations négociées à la suite de l'adoption d'un nouveau régime à prestations déterminées, le régime initial est réputé ne pas avoir fait l'objet d'une cessation et les prestations de pension ou autres prévues par celui-ci sont réputées être les prestations prévues par le nouveau régime relativement à toute période de participation antérieure à l'adoption du nouveau régime, indépendamment du fait qu'il y a eu ou non fusion de l'actif et du passif des deux régimes.

Cessation partielle

(4.1) Seul le surintendant peut déclarer la cessation partielle du régime de pension.

Cessation totale à l'initiative de l'administrateur ou de l'employeur

(4.2) Sous réserve des paragraphes (1), (2) et (2.1), il n'y a cessation totale du régime de pension que si l'administrateur ou l'employeur avise le surintendant de sa décision d'y mettre fin et de la date de la cessation. L'avis est donné par écrit ou en la forme et de la manière que peut fixer le surintendant.

Payments by employer to meet solvency requirements

(6) If the whole of a pension plan is terminated, the employer shall, without delay, pay into the pension fund all amounts that would otherwise have been required to be paid to meet the prescribed tests and standards for solvency referred to in subsection 9(1) and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the employer shall pay into the pension fund

(a) an amount equal to the normal cost that has accrued to the date of the termination;

(b) the amounts of any prescribed special payments that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(c) the amounts of payments that are required to be made under a workout agreement that are due on termination or would otherwise have become due between the date of the termination and the end of the plan year in which the pension plan is terminated;

(d) all of the following amounts that have not been remitted to the pension fund at the date of the termination:

(i) the amounts deducted by the employer from members' remuneration, and

(ii) other amounts due to the pension fund from the employer; and

(e) the amounts of all of the payments that are required to be made under subsection 9.14(2).

Payment by employer of pension benefits

(6.1) If the whole of a pension plan that is not a negotiated contribution plan is terminated, the employer shall pay into the pension fund, in accordance with the regulations, the amount — calculated periodically in accordance with the regulations — that is required to ensure that any obligation of the plan with respect to pension benefits, as they are determined on the date of the termination, is satisfied.

Application of subsection 8(1)

(6.2) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of the amount that the employer is required to pay into the pension fund under subsection (6.1). However, it applies in respect of any payments that are due and that have not been paid into the pension fund in accordance with the regulations made for the purposes of subsection (6.1).

Paiements par l'employeur

(6) S'il y a une cessation totale d'un régime de pension, l'employeur est tenu de verser sans délai au fonds de pension toutes les sommes qu'il aurait fallu par ailleurs payer pour satisfaire aux critères et normes de solvabilité visés au paragraphe 9(1) et notamment :

a) une somme correspondant aux coûts normaux accumulés à la date de la cessation;

b) une somme correspondant aux paiements spéciaux prévus par règlement qui sont exigibles à la cessation ou qui seraient devenus exigibles, en l'absence de cessation, entre la date de celle-ci et la fin de l'exercice du régime où elle survient;

c) une somme correspondant aux paiements prévus par l'accord de sauvetage qui sont exigibles à la cessation ou qui seraient devenus exigibles, en l'absence de cessation, entre la date de celle-ci et la fin de l'exercice du régime où elle survient;

d) les sommes ci-après qui n'ont pas été versées au fonds de pension à la date de la cessation :

(i) les sommes déduites par l'employeur de la rémunération des participants,

(ii) les autres sommes que l'employeur doit au fonds;

e) une somme correspondant aux paiements exigibles en vertu du paragraphe 9.14(2).

Obligation de l'employeur

(6.1) S'il y a une cessation totale d'un régime de pension autre qu'un régime à cotisations négociées, l'employeur est tenu de verser au fonds de pension, conformément aux règlements, la somme, calculée périodiquement conformément aux règlements, qui est nécessaire pour que soient acquittées toutes les obligations du régime à l'égard des droits à pension déterminés à la date de la cessation.

Application du paragraphe 8(1)

(6.2) Le paragraphe 8(1) ne s'applique pas à l'égard de la somme que l'employeur est tenu de verser en application du paragraphe (6.1). Il s'applique toutefois à l'égard de tout paiement dû qui n'a pas été versé au fonds conformément aux règlements d'application du paragraphe (6.1).

Overpayment

(6.3) If, on the winding-up of the pension plan, there remains in the pension fund an amount that is more than the amount required to permit the plan to satisfy all obligations with respect to pension benefits as they are determined on the date of termination, the portion of the remaining amount that is, according to the regulations, attributable to the payments made under subsection (6.1) does not constitute a surplus and, subject to subsection (7), is to revert to the benefit of the employer.

Winding-up or bankruptcy

(6.4) On the winding-up of the pension plan or the liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy of the employer, the amount required to permit the plan to satisfy any obligations with respect to pension benefits as they are determined on the date of termination is payable immediately.

Application of subsection 8(1)

(6.5) Subsection 8(1) does not apply in respect of the amount that the employer is required to pay into the pension fund under subsection (6.4). However, it applies in respect of any payments that have accrued before the date of the winding-up, liquidation, assignment or bankruptcy and that have not been remitted to the fund in accordance with the regulations made for the purposes of subsection (6.1).

Assets of the pension plan

(7) On the termination or winding-up of the whole of a pension plan, no part of the assets of the plan shall revert to the benefit of the employer until the Superintendent's consent has been obtained and provision has been made for the payment to members and former members and their spouses, common-law partners, designated beneficiaries, estates or successions of all accrued or payable benefits in respect of membership up to the date of the termination or winding-up.

(8) On the termination of the whole of a pension plan, all assets of the plan that are to be used for the purpose of providing pension benefits or other benefits continue to be subject to this Act.

Actuarial termination report

(9) On the termination of the whole or part of a pension plan, the administrator of the plan shall file with the Superintendent, in the form and manner, if any, that the Superintendent directs, a termination report prepared by a person having the prescribed qualifications, setting out the nature of the pension benefits and other benefits to

Paiement en trop

(6.3) À la liquidation du régime de pension, s'il reste dans le fonds de pension un solde qui excède la somme nécessaire pour permettre au régime de s'acquitter de toutes ses obligations à l'égard des droits à pension déterminés à la date de la cessation, la partie du solde qui est, selon les règlements, attribuable aux paiements effectués par l'employeur sous le régime du paragraphe (6.1) ne constitue pas un excédent et, sous réserve du paragraphe (7), ce dernier a droit de la recouvrer.

Liquidation ou faillite

(6.4) En cas de liquidation du régime de pension ou de liquidation, de cession de biens ou de faillite de l'employeur, est immédiatement exigible la somme nécessaire pour permettre au régime de s'acquitter de toutes ses obligations à l'égard des droits à pension déterminés à la date de la cessation.

Application du paragraphe 8(1)

(6.5) Le paragraphe 8(1) ne s'applique pas à l'égard de la somme que l'employeur est tenu de verser en application du paragraphe (6.4). Il s'applique toutefois à l'égard de tout paiement accumulé avant la liquidation, la cession de biens ou la faillite, selon le cas, qui n'a pas été versé au fonds conformément aux règlements d'application du paragraphe (6.1).

Actifs du régime

(7) Lors de la cessation ou liquidation totale d'un régime de pension, l'employeur n'a droit à aucun recouvrement d'actifs du régime avant que le consentement du surintendant n'ait été obtenu et que des mesures n'aient été prises pour le service des prestations accumulées ou payables aux participants ou anciens participants, à leur époux ou conjoint de fait, à leur bénéficiaire désigné ou à leur succession, relativement à la participation au régime jusqu'à la date de la cessation ou de la liquidation, selon le cas.

Effet de la cessation sur les actifs

(8) Lors de la cessation totale d'un régime de pension, tous les actifs de celui-ci à utiliser pour le service des prestations de pension ou autres demeurent assujettis à la présente loi.

Rapport de cessation

(9) Lors de la cessation totale ou partielle d'un régime de pension, l'administrateur dépose auprès du surintendant, en la forme et de la manière que peut fixer ce dernier, un rapport de cessation, établi par une personne ayant les qualifications prévues par règlement, exposant la nature des prestations de pension ou autres à servir au titre du

The report must also give the amount referred to in subsection (6.1) — calculated as at the date of termination — and contain any prescribed information.

Assets not to be applied until termination report approved

(10) Assets of the pension plan may not be applied toward the provision of any benefits until the Superintendent has approved the termination report. The administrator of the plan may nevertheless pay pension benefits, as they fall due, to the person entitled.

Superintendent may direct winding-up

(11) If the whole of a pension plan has been terminated and the Superintendent is of the opinion that no action or insufficient action has been taken to wind up the plan, the Superintendent may direct the administrator to distribute the assets of the plan in accordance with the regulations made under paragraph 39(1)(j), and may direct that any expenses incurred in connection with that distribution be paid out of the pension fund of the plan, and the administrator shall comply with any such direction without delay.

(13.1) Subject to subsection (13.2), an employer, other than a participating employer under a multi-employer pension plan, may reduce the amount of any solvency special payment by the face value of a letter of credit that has been provided to a trustee or transferred to a trust under section 9.11 of the Act.

(13.2) An employer may not act under section 9.11 of the Act if the face value of all letters of credit provided to a trustee or transferred to a trust exceeds, or would exceed, 15% of the solvency liabilities of the plan as determined at the valuation date.

(13.3) For the purposes of section 9.16 of the Act, a payment that is required to be made under subsection 9(1.1) of the Act may be reduced if

- (a) the payment is a solvency special payment;
- (b) the Crown corporation meets the requirements of section 9.2;
- (c) the aggregate amount of all reductions does not exceed or would not exceed 15% of the solvency liabilities of the plan as determined at the valuation date.

(13.1) Sous réserve du paragraphe (13.2), l'employeur qui n'est pas un employeur participant à un régime inter-entreprises peut réduire un paiement spécial de solvabilité de la valeur nominale de toute lettre de crédit transférée à une fiducie ou confiée à un fiduciaire au titre de l'article 9.11 de la Loi.

(13.2) L'employeur ne peut se prévaloir de l'article 9.11 de la Loi si la valeur nominale de toutes les lettres de crédit transférées à une fiducie ou confiées à un fiduciaire excède — ou excéderait en raison de ce fait — 15 % du passif de solvabilité établi à la date d'évaluation.

(13.3) Pour l'application de l'article 9.16 de la Loi, les sommes à verser au fonds de pension en application du paragraphe 9(1.1) de la Loi peuvent être réduites si les conditions ci-après sont remplies :

- a) ces sommes correspondent à des paiements spéciaux de solvabilité;
- b) la société d'État remplit les conditions prévues à l'article 9.2;
- c) le total des sommes réduites n'excède pas — ou n'excéderait pas en raison de ce fait — 15 % du passif de solvabilité établi à la date d'évaluation.

(13.4) Le total des sommes réduites en vertu de l'article 9.16 de la Loi peut être rajusté, au cours d'un exercice, par soustraction de la différence entre les montants suivants :

- a) le paiement spécial de solvabilité qui serait à verser pour l'exercice qui suit la date d'évaluation si aucune réduction n'avait été faite en vertu de l'article 9.16 de la Loi;
- b) le paiement spécial de solvabilité qui serait à verser pour l'exercice qui suit la date d'évaluation si, à la date d'évaluation, l'actif de solvabilité avait été augmenté du total des sommes réduites en vertu de l'article 9.16 de la Loi.

(13.5) Le total des sommes réduites en vertu de l'article 9.16 de la Loi peut être rajusté à zéro si, selon le plus récent rapport actuariel :

- a) le ratio de solvabilité du régime n'est pas inférieur à 1,05;

DORS/2011-85, art. 6.

Optional Requirements for Funding Schedule

10.98 A funding schedule may provide that if

(a) the funding schedule includes the funding of an unfunded liability or solvency deficiency and the unfunded liability or solvency deficiency is liquidated at a rate greater than the sum of payments set out in the funding schedule by the making of additional payments, the amount of a payment set out in a funding schedule for a subsequent year may be reduced if the outstanding balance of the unfunded liability that is being liquidated by the remaining payments set out in the funding schedule or the solvency deficiency that is being liquidated by those payments will at no time be greater than it would have been had the payments that were required to be made under the funding schedule in relation to the unfunded liability or solvency deficiency, whichever is applicable, been made;

(b) the funding schedule includes the funding of an unfunded liability and the aggregate of the present value of payments set out in the funding schedule and of going concern special payments, established in respect of a period after the valuation date, exceeds the going concern deficit, that excess may be applied to reduce the going concern payments that will become due at the latest dates in the approved funding schedule in such a way that the present value of those payments is reduced by the amount of reduction applied to the outstanding balance of the unfunded liability; and

(c) there is a solvency excess as described in subsection 10.991(2), the payments established to liquidate a solvency deficiency that will become due at the latest dates in the approved funding schedule may be eliminated or reduced in such a way that the present value of the remaining payments set out in the funding schedule to liquidate the solvency deficiency is reduced by the solvency excess.

SOR/2011-85, s. 6.

Exigences facultatives prévues au calendrier de capitalisation

10.98 Le calendrier de capitalisation peut prévoir ce qui suit :

a) si le calendrier de capitalisation tient compte de la capitalisation d'un passif non capitalisé ou d'un déficit de solvabilité et que le passif non capitalisé ou le déficit de solvabilité est liquidé au moyen du versement de paiements additionnels à un taux supérieur au montant des paiements qui figurent dans le calendrier de capitalisation, le montant de tout paiement qui figure dans le calendrier de capitalisation pour une année subséquente pourrait être réduit si le solde impayé du passif non capitalisé qui est liquidé par les paiements restants dans le calendrier de capitalisation ou du déficit de solvabilité qui est liquidé par les mêmes paiements n'est, à aucun moment, plus élevé qu'il ne l'aurait été si les paiements exigés selon le calendrier de capitalisation par rapport au passif non capitalisé ou au déficit de solvabilité, le cas échéant, avaient été versés;

b) si le calendrier de capitalisation tient compte de la capitalisation d'un passif non capitalisé et que le total de la valeur actualisée des paiements qui y figurent et des paiements spéciaux de continuité, établi à l'égard de toute période suivant la date d'évaluation, est supérieur au déficit de continuité, l'excédent peut être utilisé pour réduire les paiements de continuité qui seront à verser aux dates les plus éloignées du calendrier de capitalisation approuvé, de sorte que la valeur actualisée de ces paiements soit réduite de la somme qui a été réduite du solde du passif non capitalisé;

c) si l'excédent de solvabilité visé au paragraphe 10.991(2) survient, les paiements établis pour liquider le déficit de solvabilité qui seront à verser aux dates les plus éloignées du calendrier de capitalisation approuvé peuvent être éliminés ou réduits de sorte que la valeur actualisée du solde des paiements qui figurent dans le calendrier pour liquider le déficit de solvabilité est réduit de l'excédent de solvabilité.
